(i) were included in computing the debtor's income or, but for the expression "other than a prescribed amount" in paragraph 12(1)(x), would have been so included,

(ii) were deducted in computing, for the purposes of this Act, any balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts, or

(iii) were deducted in computing the capital cost or cost amount to the debtor of any property of the debtor,

(b) an amount paid by the debtor in satisfaction of the entire principal amount of the obligation would be included in the amount determined under paragraph 28(1)(e) or section 30 in respect of the debtor,

(c) section 78 applies to the obligation, or

(d) the principal amount of the obligation would, if this Act were read without reference to sections 79 and 80 and the obligation were settled without any amount being paid in satisfaction of its principal amount, be included in computing the debtor's income because of the settlement of the obligation;

Related Provisions: 79(3)F(b)(iv) — Proceeds of disposition for debtor; 80(1)"forgiven amount"B(j) — Debt forgiveness rules do not apply to principal amount of excluded obligation; 80(2)(a) — Debt forgiveness rules do not apply to obligation settled as consideration for share described in para. (c).

"excluded property" means property of a non-resident debtor that is treaty-protected property or that is not taxable Canadian property;

Related Provisions: 111(9) — Losses ignored while taxpayer is non-resident.

History: The definition "excluded property" in subsec. 80(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 21, applicable to 1998 et seq. The definition formerly read:

> "excluded property" at any time means property of a non-resident debtor that would not be taxable Canadian property of the debtor if it were disposed of at that time by the debtor;

"excluded security" issued by a corporation to a person as consideration for the settlement of a debt means

(a) a distress preferred share issued by the corporation to the person, or

(b) a share issued by the corporation to the person under the terms of the debt, where the debt was a bond, debenture or note listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada and the terms for the conversion to the share were not established or substantially modified after the later of February 22, 1994 and the time that the bond, debenture or note was issued;

Regulations: 3200 (prescribed stock exchange; not yet amended to apply for purposes of 80(1)).

"forgiven amount" at any time in respect of a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is the amount determined by the formula

A is the lesser of the amount for which the obligation was issued and the principal amount of the obligation, and

B is the total of

(a) the amount, if any, paid at that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the obligation,

(b) the amount, if any, included under paragraph 6(1)(a) or subsection 15(1) in computing the income of any person because of the settlement of the obligation at that time,

(c) the amount, if any, deducted at that time under paragraph 18(9.3)(f) in computing the forgiven amount in respect of the obligation,

(d) the capital gain, if any, of the debtor resulting from the application of subsection 39(3) to the purchase at that time of the obligation by the debtor,

(e) such portion of the principal amount of the obligation as relates to an amount renounced under subsection 66(10), (10.1), (10.2) or (10.3) by the debtor,

(f) any portion of the principal amount of the obligation that is included in the amount determined for A, B, C or D in subsection 79(3) in respect of the debtor for the taxation year of the debtor that includes that time or for a preceding taxation year,

(g) the total of all amounts each of which is a forgiven amount at a previous time that the obligation was deemed by subsection 80.01(8) or (9) to have been settled,

(h) such portion of the principal amount of the obligation as can reasonably be considered to have been included under section 80.4 in computing the debtor's income for a taxation year that includes that time or for a preceding taxation year,

(i) where the debtor is a bankrupt at that time, the principal amount of the obligation,

(j) such portion of the principal amount of the obligation as represents the principal amount of an excluded obligation,

(k) where the debtor is a partnership and the obligation was, since the later of the creation of the partnership or the issue of the obligation, always payable to a member of the partnership actively engaged, on a regular, continuous and substantial basis, in those activities of the partnership that are other than the financing of the partnership business, the principal amount of the obligation, and

(l) the amount, if any, given at or before that time by the debtor to another person as consideration for the assumption by the other person of the obligation;

"relevant loss balance" at a particular time for a commercial obligation and in respect of a debtor's non-capital loss, farm loss, restricted farm loss or net capital loss, as the case may be, for a particular taxation year means the amount of such loss that would be deductible in computing the debtor's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada, as the case may be, for the taxation year that includes that time if

(a) the debtor had sufficient incomes from all sources and sufficient taxable capital gains,

(b) subsections (3) and (4) did not apply to reduce such loss at or after that time, and

(c) paragraph 111(4)(a) and subsection 111(5) did not apply to the debtor, except that, where the debtor is a corporation the control of which was acquired at a previous time by a person or group of persons and the particular year ended before the previous time, the relevant loss balance at the particular time for the obligation and in respect of such loss for the particular year shall be deemed to be nil unless

(d) the obligation was issued by the debtor before, and not in contemplation of, the acquisition of control, or

(e) all or substantially all of the proceeds from the issue of the obligation were used to satisfy the principal amount of another obligation to which paragraph (d) or this paragraph would apply if the other obligation were still outstanding;

"successor pool" at any time for a commercial obligation and in respect of an amount determined in relation to a debtor means such portion of that amount as would be deductible under subsection 66.7(2), (3), (4) or (5), as the case may be, in computing the debtor's income for the taxation year that includes that time, if

(a) the debtor had sufficient incomes from all sources,

(b) subsection (8) did not apply to reduce the amount so determined at that time,

(c) the year ended immediately after that time, and

(d) paragraphs 66.7(4)(a) and (5)(a) were read without reference to the expressions "30% of" and "10% of", respectively, except that the successor pool at that time for the obligation shall be deemed to be nil unless

(e) the obligation was issued by the debtor before, and not in contemplation of, the event described in paragraph (8)(a) that gives rise to the deductibility under subsection 66.7(2), (3), (4) or (5), as the case may be, of all or part of that amount in computing the debtor's income, or

(f) all or substantially all of the proceeds from the issue of the obligation were used to satisfy the principal amount of another obligation to which paragraph (e) or this paragraph would apply if the other obligation were still outstanding;

Related Provisions: 80(15)(c)(iv)(B) — Application of para. (f) of definition where obligation issued by partnership; 80.04(4)(h)(ii) — Application of para. (f) of definition on agreement to transfer forgiven amount; 256(8) — Deemed acquisition of shares.

"unrecognized loss" at a particular time, in respect of an obligation issued by a debtor, from the disposition of a property means the amount that would, but for subparagraph 40(2)(g)(ii), be a capital loss from the disposition by the debtor at or before the particular time of a debt or other right to receive an amount, except that where the debtor is a corporation the control of which was acquired before the particular time and after the time of the disposition by a person or group of persons, the unrecognized loss at the particular time in respect of the obligation is deemed to be nil unless

(a) the obligation was issued by the debtor before, and not in contemplation of, the acquisition of control, or

(b) all or substantially all of the proceeds from the issue of the obligation were used to satisfy the principal amount of another obligation to which paragraph (a) or this paragraph would apply if the other obligation were still outstanding.

History: The opening words of the definition "unrecognized loss" in subsec. 80(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 111(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The opening words formerly read:

> "unrecognized loss" at a particular time, in respect of an obligation issued by a debtor, from the disposition of a property means the amount that would, but for subparagraph 40(2)(g)(ii), be a capital loss from the disposition at or before the particular time of a debt or other right to receive an amount, except that where the debtor is a corporation the control of which was acquired before the particular time and after the time of the disposition by a person or group of persons, the unrecognized loss at the particular time in respect of the obligation shall be deemed to be nil unless

(2) Application of debt forgiveness rules — For the purposes of this section,

(a) [when obligation settled] — an obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time where the obligation is settled or extinguished at that time (otherwise than by way of a bequest or inheritance or as consideration for the issue of a share described in paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded security" in subsection (1));

Related Provisions: 6(15) — Forgiveness of debt owing by employee — taxable benefit; 15(1.2) — Forgiveness of debt owing by shareholder — taxable benefit; 80.01(2)(a) — Application to s. 80.01; 80.01(3)–(9) — Deemed settlement of debts; 80.02(2)(c) — Meaning of "settled" for distress preferred share; 80.02(7)(a) — Deemed settlement where share ceases to be distress preferred share; 80.03(7)(b)(i) — Deemed settlement where amount designated; 80.04(3) — Application to s. 80.04; 80.04(4)(e) — Deemed settlement on agreement to transfer forgiven amount.

(b) [interest deemed to be obligation] — an amount of interest payable by a debtor in respect of an obligation issued by the debtor shall be deemed to be an obligation issued by the debtor that

(i) has a principal amount, and

(ii) was issued by the debtor for an amount, equal to the portion of the amount of such interest that was deductible or would, but for subsection 18(2) or (3.1) or section 21, have been deductible in computing the debtor's income for a taxation year;

Related Provisions: 6(15.1)(d), 15(1.21)(d) — 80(2)(b) ignored for employee and shareholder benefit purposes; 80.01(2)(a) — Application to s. 80.01; 80.04(3) — Application to s. 80.04.

(c) [ordering of rules] — subsections (3) to (5) and (7) to (13) apply in numerical order to the forgiven amount in respect of a commercial obligation;

Related Provisions: 80(15) — Deduction by member of partnership; 80.04(4)(b) — Transfer of forgiven amount to related person after maximum designations; 248(27)(b), (c) — Partial settlement of debt deemed to be proportional to entire amount.

(d) [applicable fraction] — the applicable fraction of the unapplied portion of a forgiven amount at any time in respect of an obligation issued by a debtor is

(i) in respect of a loss for a taxation year that ends after 1989, 3/4,

(ii) in respect of a loss for a taxation year that ended before 1988, 1/2, and

(iii) in respect of a loss for any other taxation year, the fraction required to be used under section 38 for that year;

(e) [where applicable fraction reduces loss] — where an applicable fraction (as determined under paragraph (d)) of the unapplied portion of a forgiven amount is applied under subsection (4) to reduce at any time a loss for a taxation year, the portion of the forgiven amount so applied shall, except for the purpose of reducing the loss, be deemed to be the quotient obtained when the amount of the reduction is divided by the applicable fraction;

(f) [cumulative eligible capital] — where 3/4 of the unapplied portion of a forgiven amount is applied under subsection (7) to reduce cumulative eligible capital, except for the purpose of reducing the cumulative eligible capital, the portion of the forgiven amount so applied shall be deemed to be 4/3 of the amount of the reduction;

(g) [amount paid in satisfaction of debt] — where a corporation issues a share (other than an excluded security) to a person as consideration for the settlement of a debt issued by the corporation and payable to the person, the amount paid in satisfaction of the debt because of the issue of the share is deemed to be equal to the fair market value of the share at the time it was issued;

Related Provisions: 51(1) — Conversion of convertible debt into shares.

(g.1) [amount paid in satisfaction of debt] — where a debt issued by a corporation and payable to a person is settled at any time, the amount, if any, that can reasonably be considered to be the increase, as a consequence of the settlement of the debt, in the fair market value of shares of the capital stock of the corporation owned by the person (other than any shares acquired by the person as consideration for the settlement of the debt) is deemed to be an amount paid at that time in satisfaction of the debt;

(h) [debt replaced with debt] — where any part of the consideration given by a debtor to another person for the settlement at any time of a particular commercial debt obligation issued by the debtor and payable to the other person consists of a new commercial debt obligation issued by the debtor to the other person

(i) an amount equal to the principal amount of the new obligation shall be deemed to be paid by the debtor at that time, because of the issue of the new obligation, in satisfaction of the principal amount of the particular obligation, and

(ii) the new obligation shall be deemed to have been issued for an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the principal amount of the new obligation

exceeds

(B) the amount, if any, by which the principal amount of the new obligation exceeds the amount for which the particular obligation was issued;

Related Provisions: 40(2)(e.2) — Limitation on capital loss; 80(2)(l) — Where debt replaced with debt to third party; 248(1)"principal amount" — Principal amount excludes amounts payable on account of interest.

I.T. Technical News: No. 15 (tax consequences of the adoption of the "euro" currency).

(i) [multiple debts settled] — where 2 or more commercial obligations issued by a debtor are settled at the same time, those obligations shall be treated as if they were settled at different times in the order designated by the debtor in a prescribed form filed with the debtor's return of income under this Part for the debtor's taxation year that includes that time or, if the debtor does not so designate any such order, in the order designated by the Minister;

Related Provisions: 220(3.21)(a) — Late filing, amendment or revocation of designation.

Forms: T2153: Designations under para. 80(2)(i) for forgiven debts.

(j) ["related" and "controlled"] — for the purpose of determining, at any time, whether 2 persons are related to each other or whether any person is controlled by any other person, it shall be assumed that

(i) each partnership and each trust is a corporation having a capital stock of a single class of voting shares divided into 100 issued shares,

(ii) each member of a partnership and each beneficiary under a trust owned at that time the number of issued shares of that class that is equal to the proportion of 100 that

(A) the fair market value at that time of the member's interest in the partnership or the beneficiary's interest in the trust, as the case may be

is of

(B) the fair market value at that time of all members' interests in the partnership or all beneficiaries' interests in the trust, as the case may be, and

(iii) where a beneficiary's share of the income or capital of a trust depends on the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, any discretionary power, the fair market value at any time of the beneficiary's interest in the trust is equal to

(A) where the beneficiary is not entitled to receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust before the death after that time of one or more other beneficiaries under the trust, nil, and

(B) in any other case, the total fair market value at that time of all beneficiaries' interests under the trust;

(k) [foreign currency obligation] — where an obligation is denominated in a currency (other than Canadian currency), the forgiven amount at any time in respect of the obligation shall be determined with reference to the relative value of that currency and Canadian currency at the time the obligation was issued;

Related Provisions: 79(7) — Parallel rule re proceeds of disposition where property surrendered to creditor; 80.01(11) — Debt parking and statute-barred debt rules ignored where currency fluctuates.

(l) [debt replaced with debt to third party] — where an amount is paid in satisfaction of the principal amount of a particular commercial obligation issued by a debtor and, as a consequence of the payment, the debtor is legally obliged to pay that amount to another person, the obligation to pay that amount to the other person shall be deemed to be a commercial obligation that was issued by the debtor at the same time and in the same circumstances as the particular obligation;

Related Provisions: 80(2)(h) — Where debt replaced with new debt; 80.01(2)(a) — Application to s. 80.01.

(m) [amount reducible only to zero] — for greater certainty, the amount that can be applied under this section to reduce another amount may not exceed that other amount;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formulas cannot calculate to less than zero.

(n) [where debt owed by partnership] — except for the purposes of this paragraph, where

(i) a commercial debt obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time,

(ii) the debtor is at that time a member of a partnership, and

(iii) the obligation was, under the agreement governing the obligation, treated immediately before that time as a debt owed by the partnership, the obligation shall be considered to have been issued by the partnership and not by the debtor;

Related Provisions: 80(2)(o) — Override rule where debtor jointly liable with others; 80(15) — Commercial debt obligation issued by partnership; 80.01(2)(a) — Application to s. 80.01; 80.04(3) — Application to s. 80.04.

(o) [where joint liability for debt] — notwithstanding paragraph (n), where a commercial debt obligation for which a particular person is jointly liable with one or more other persons is settled at any time in respect of the particular person but not in respect of all of the other persons, the portion of the obligation that can reasonably be considered to be the particular person's share of the obligation shall be considered to have been issued by the particular person and settled at that time and not at any subsequent time;

(p) [death of debtor] — a commercial debt obligation issued by an individual that is outstanding at the time of the individual's death and settled at a subsequent time shall, if the estate of the individual was liable for the obligation immediately before the subsequent time, be deemed to have been issued by the estate at the same time and in the same circumstances as the obligation was issued by the individual; and Related Provisions: 80(2)(q) — Where debt settled within 6 months of death.

(q) [death of debtor] — where a commercial debt obligation issued by an individual would, but for this paragraph, be settled at any time in the period ending 6 months after the death of an individual (or within such longer period as is acceptable to the Minister and the estate of the individual) and the estate of the individual was liable immediately before that time for the obligation

(i) the obligation shall be deemed to have been settled at the beginning of the day on which the individual died and not at that time,

(ii) any amount paid at that time by the estate in satisfaction of the principal amount of the obligation shall be deemed to have been paid at the beginning of the day on which the individual died,

(iii) any amount given by the estate at or before that time to another person as consideration for assumption by the other person of the obligation shall be deemed to have been given at the beginning of the day on which the individual died, and

(iv) paragraph (b) shall not apply in respect of the settlement to interest that accrues within that period, except that this paragraph does not apply in circumstances in which any amount is because of the settlement included under paragraph 6(1)(a) or subsection 15(1) in computing the income of any person or in which section 79 applies in respect of the obligation.

Related Provisions: 6(15.1)(d), 15(1.21)(d) — 80(2)(q) ignored for employee and shareholder benefit purposes; 80(2)(p) — Where debt not settled within 6 months of death.

History: Para. 80(2)(g) amended and para. (g.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 111(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. Para. (g) formerly read:

(g) the amount paid in satisfaction of a debt issued by a corporation and payable to a person shall

(i) where any part of the consideration given to the person for the settlement of the debt consists of a share (other than an excluded security) issued by the corporation to the person, be deemed to be equal to the total of

(A) the fair market value of the share at the time it was issued, and

(B) the amount, if any, that can reasonably be considered to be the increase, as a consequence of the settlement of the debt, in the fair market value of other shares of the capital stock of the corporation owned by the person, and

(ii) in any other case, be deemed to include the amount described in clause (i)(B);

(3) Reductions of non-capital losses — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time, the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation shall be applied to reduce at that time, in the following order,

(a) the debtor's non-capital loss for each taxation year that ended before that time to the extent that the amount so applied

(i) does not exceed the amount (in subsection (4) referred to as the debtor's "ordinary non-capital loss at that time for the year") that would be the relevant loss balance at that time for the obligation and in respect of the debtor's non-capital loss for the year if the description of E in the definition "non-capital loss" in subsection 111(8) were read without reference to the expression "the taxpayer's allowable business investment loss for the year", and

(ii) does not, because of this subsection, reduce the debtor's non-capital loss for a preceding taxation year;

(b) the debtor's farm loss for each taxation year that ended before that time, to the extent that the amount so applied

(i) does not exceed the amount that is the relevant loss balance at that time for the obligation and in respect of the debtor's farm loss for the year, and

(ii) does not, because of this subsection, reduce the debtor's farm loss for a preceding taxation year; and

(c) the debtor's restricted farm loss for each taxation year that ended before that time, to the extent that the amount so applied

(i) does not exceed the amount that is the relevant loss balance at that time for the obligation and in respect of the debtor's restricted farm loss for the year, and

(ii) does not, because of this subsection, reduce the debtor's restricted farm loss for a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 31(1.1)(b) — Reduction in restricted farm loss; 80(2)(c) — Order of application of rules; 80(2)(m) — Reduction cannot exceed the amount of losses; 80(4)(a) — Reduction of allowable business investment loss carryforward; 111(8)"farm loss"C — Reduction in farm loss; 111(8)"non-capital loss"D.2 — Reduction in non-capital loss.

(4) Reductions of capital losses — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time, the applicable fraction of the remaining unapplied portion of a forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation shall be applied to reduce at that time, in the following order,

(a) the debtor's non-capital loss for each taxation year that ended before that time to the extent that the amount so applied

(i) does not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(A) the relevant loss balance at that time for the obligation and in respect of the debtor's non-capital loss for the year

exceeds

(B) the debtor's ordinary non-capital loss (within the meaning assigned by subparagraph (3)(a)(i)) at that time for the year, and

(ii) does not, because of this subsection, reduce the debtor's non-capital loss for a preceding taxation year; and

(b) the debtor's net capital loss for each taxation year that ended before that time, to the extent that the amount so applied

(i) does not exceed the relevant loss balance at that time for the obligation and in respect of the debtor's net capital loss for the year, and

(ii) does not, because of this subsection, reduce the debtor's net capital loss for a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 80(2)(c) — Order of application of rules; 80(2)(e) — Determination of applicable fraction; 80(2)(m) — Reduction cannot exceed the amount of losses; 111(8)"net capital loss"D — Reduction in net capital loss; 111(8)"non-capital loss"D.2 — Reduction in non-capital loss.

(5) Reductions with respect to depreciable property — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time, the remaining unapplied portion of the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation shall be applied, in such manner as is designated by the debtor in a prescribed form filed with the debtor's return of income under this Part for the taxation year that includes that time, to reduce immediately after that time the following amounts:

(a) the capital cost to the debtor of a depreciable property that is owned by the debtor immediately after that time; and

(b) the undepreciated capital cost to the debtor of depreciable property of a prescribed class immediately after that time.

Related Provisions: 13(7.1)(g) — Reduction in capital cost of depreciable property; 13(21)"undepreciated capital cost"E.1 — Reduction in undepreciated capital cost; 80(2)(c) — Order of application of rules; 80(2)(m) — Reduction cannot exceed the capital cost or u.c.c.; 80(6) — Restriction with respect to depreciable property; 80(13)D(a) — Income inclusion of remaining balance; 80(16) — Designation by CCRA where debtor fails to designate; 80.04(4)(b) — Transfer of forgiven amount after maximum designations; 96(3) — Designation by members of partnership; 220(3.21)(a) — Late filing, amendment or revocation of designation.

Forms: T2153: Designations under para. 80(2)(i) for forgiven debts; T2154: Application of designated forgiven debt under sec. 80.

(6) Restriction with respect to depreciable property — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time,

(a) an amount may be applied under subsection (5) to reduce, immediately after that time, the capital cost to the debtor of a depreciable property of a prescribed class only to the extent that

(i) the undepreciated capital cost to the debtor of depreciable property of that class at that time

exceeds

(ii) the total of all other reductions immediately after that time to that undepreciated capital cost; and

(b) an amount may be applied under subsection (5) to reduce, immediately after that time, the capital cost to the debtor of a depreciable property (other than a depreciable property of a prescribed class) only to the extent that

(i) the capital cost to the debtor of the property at that time

exceeds

(ii) the amount that was allowed to the debtor before that time under Part XVII of the Income Tax Regulations in respect of the property.

Regulations: 1105 (prescribed classes of depreciable property).

(7) Reductions of cumulative eligible capital — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time, ¾ of the remaining unapplied portion of the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation shall be applied (to the extent designated in a prescribed form filed with the debtor's return of income under this Part for the taxation year that includes that time) to reduce immediately after that time the cumulative eligible capital of the debtor in respect of each business of the debtor (or, where the debtor is at that time non-resident, in respect of each business carried on in Canada by the debtor).

Related Provisions: 14(5)"cumulative eligible capital"F:P.1 — Reduction in cumulative eligible capital; 80(2)(c) — Order of application of rules; 80(2)(f) — Rule where cumulative eligible capital reduced; 80(2)(m) — Reduction cannot exceed the amount of cumulative eligible capital; 80(13)D(a) — Income inclusion of remaining balance; 80(16) — Designation by CCRA where debtor fails to designate; 80.04(4)(b) — Transfer of forgiven amount after maximum designations; 220(3.21)(a) — Late filing, amendment or revocation of designation; 253 — Extended meaning of carrying on business in Canada.

Forms: T2153: Designations under para. 80(2)(i) for forgiven debts; T2154: Application of designated forgiven debt under sec. 80.

(8) Reductions of resource expenditures — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time, the remaining unapplied portion of the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation shall be applied (to the extent designated in a prescribed form filed with the debtor's return of income under this Part for the taxation year that includes that time) to reduce immediately after that time the following amounts:

(a) where the debtor is a corporation resident in Canada throughout that year, each particular amount that would be determined in respect of the debtor under paragraph 66.7(2)(a), (3)(a), (4)(a) or (5)(a) if paragraphs 66.7(4)(a) and (5)(a) were read without reference to the expressions "30% of" and "10% of", respectively, as a consequence of the acquisition of control of the debtor by a person or group of persons, the debtor ceasing to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income or the acquisition of properties by the debtor by way of an amalgamation or merger, where the amount so applied does not exceed the successor pool immediately after that time for the obligation and in respect of the particular amount;

(b) the cumulative Canadian exploration expense (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66.1(6)) of the debtor;

(c) the cumulative Canadian development expense (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66.2(5)) of the debtor;

(d) the cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66.4(5)) of the debtor; and

(e) the total determined under paragraph 66(4)(a) in respect of the debtor, where

(i) the debtor is resident in Canada throughout that year, and

(ii) the amount so applied does not exceed such portion of the total of the debtor's foreign exploration and development expenses (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66(15)) as were incurred by the debtor before that time and would be deductible under subsection 66(4) in computing the debtor's income for that year if the debtor had sufficient income described in subparagraph 66(4)(b)(ii) and if that year ended at that time.

Related Provisions: 66(4)(a)(iii) — Reduction in claim for foreign exploration and development expenses; 66.1(6)"cumulative Canadian exploration expense"J.1 — Reduction in CCEE; 66.2(5)"cumulative Canadian development expense"M.1 — Reduction in CCDE; 66.4(5)"cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense"I.1 — Reduction in CCOGPE; 66.7(2)(a)(ii), 66.7(3)(a)(ii), 66.7(4)(a)(iv), 66.7(5)(a)(iii) — Reductions in successor pools; 80(2)(c) — Order of application of rules; 80(2)(m) — Reduction cannot exceed the resource expenditures reduced; 80(13)D(a) — Income inclusion of remaining balance; 80(16) — Designation by CCRA where debtor fails to designate; 80.04(4)(b) — Transfer of forgiven amount after maximum designations; 139.1(18) — Holding corporation deemed not to acquire control of insurer on demutualization; 220(3.21)(a) — Late filing, amendment or revocation of designation; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired.

Forms: T2153: Designations under para. 80(2)(i) for forgiven debts; T2154: Application of designated forgiven debt under sec. 80.

(9) Reductions of adjusted cost bases of capital properties — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time and amounts have been designated under subsections (5), (7) and (8) to the maximum extent permitted in respect of the settlement, subject to subsection (18)

(a) the remaining unapplied portion of the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation shall be applied (to the extent designated in a prescribed form filed with the debtor's return of income under this Part for the taxation year that includes that time) to reduce immediately after that time the adjusted cost bases to the debtor of capital properties (other than shares of the capital stock of corporations of which the debtor is a specified shareholder at that time, debts issued by corporations of which the debtor is a specified shareholder at that time, interests in partnerships that are related to the debtor at that time, depreciable property that is not of a prescribed class, personal-use properties and excluded properties) that are owned by the debtor immediately after that time;

(b) an amount may be applied under this subsection to reduce, immediately after that time, the capital cost to the debtor of a depreciable property of a prescribed class only to the extent that

(i) the capital cost immediately after that time to the debtor of the property (determined without reference to the settlement of the obligation at that time)

exceeds

(ii) its capital cost immediately after that time to the debtor for the purposes of paragraphs 8(1)(j) and (p), sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a) (determined without reference to the settlement of the obligation at that time); and

(c) for the purposes of paragraphs 8(1)(j) and (p), sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a), no amount shall be considered to have been applied under this subsection.

(11) Reduction of adjusted cost bases of certain shares, debts and partnership interests — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time in a taxation year and amounts have been designated by the debtor under subsections (5), (7), (8), (9) and (10) to the maximum extent permitted in respect of the settlement, subject to subsection (18) the remaining unapplied portion of that forgiven amount shall be applied (to the extent that it is designated in a prescribed form filed with the debtor's return of income under this Part for the year) to reduce immediately after that time the adjusted cost bases to the debtor of

(a) shares and debts that are capital properties (other than excluded properties and properties the adjusted cost bases of which are reduced at that time under subsection (9) or (10)) of the debtor immediately after that time; and

(b) interests in partnerships that are related to the debtor at that time that are capital properties (other than excluded properties) of the debtor immediately after that time.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(g.1) — Reduction in ACB; 80(2)(c) — Order of application of rules; 80(2)(m) — Reduction cannot exceed the adjusted cost base; 80(13)B(a) — Income inclusion where reductions in ACB are excessive; 80(16) — Designation by CCRA where debtor fails to designate; 80(18) — Limitation on designation by partnership; 80.03 — Gains on subsequent dispositions; 96(3) — Designation by members of partnership; 220(3.21)(a) — Late filing, amendment or revocation of designation.

Forms: T2153: Designations under para. 80(2)(i) for forgiven debts; T2154: Application of designated forgiven debt under sec. 80.

(12) Capital gain where current year capital loss — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor (other than a partnership) is settled at any time in a taxation year and amounts have been designated by the debtor under subsections (5), (7), (8) and (9) to the maximum extent permitted in respect of the settlement,

(a) the debtor shall be deemed to have a capital gain for the year from the disposition of capital property (or, where the debtor is non-resident at the end of the year, taxable Canadian property), equal to the lesser of

(i) the remaining unapplied portion of the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the total of

(A) all of the debtor's capital losses for the year from the dispositions of properties (other than listed personal properties and excluded properties), and

(B) 4/3 of the amount that would, because of subsection 88(1.2), be deductible under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing the debtor's taxable income for the year, if the debtor had sufficient income and taxable capital gains for the year,

exceeds the total of

(C) all of the debtor's capital gains for the year from the dispositions of such properties (determined without reference to this subsection), and

(D) all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by this subsection to be a capital gain of the debtor for the year as a consequence of the application of this subsection to other commercial obligations settled before that time; and

(b) the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation shall be considered to have been applied under this subsection to the extent of the amount deemed by this subsection to be a capital gain of the debtor for the year as a consequence of the application of this subsection to the settlement of the obligation at that time.

Related Provisions: 80(2)(c) — Order of application of rules.

(13) Income inclusion — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time in a taxation year, there shall be added, in computing the debtor's income for the year from the source in connection with which the obligation was issued, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the remaining unapplied portion of the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the obligation,

B is the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts designated under subsection (11) by the debtor in respect of the settlement of the obligation at that time, and

(b) the residual balance at that time in respect of the settlement of the obligation,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount specified in an agreement filed under section 80.04 in respect of the settlement of the obligation at that time,

(a) where the debtor has designated amounts under subsections (5), (7), (8), (9) and (10) to the maximum extent permitted in respect of the settlement, the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an unrecognized loss at that time, in respect of the obligation, from the disposition of a property

exceeds

(ii) 4/3 of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which the amount determined before that time under this subsection in respect of a settlement of an obligation issued by the debtor has been reduced because of an amount determined under this paragraph, and

(b) in any other case, nil, and

(a) where the debtor is a partnership, 1, and

(b) in any other case, 0.75.

(14) Residual balance — For the purpose of subsection (13), the residual balance at any time in a taxation year in respect of the settlement of a particular commercial obligation issued by a debtor is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the gross tax attributes of directed persons at that time in respect of the debtor

exceeds the total of

(b) the value of A in subsection (13) in respect of the settlement of the particular obligation at that time,

(c) all amounts each of which is

(i) the amount, if any, by which the value of A in subsection (13) in respect of a settlement before that time and in the year of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor exceeds the value of C in that subsection in respect of the settlement,

(ii) the value of A in subsection (13) in respect of a settlement of a commercial obligation that is deemed by paragraph 80.04(4)(e) to have been issued by a directed person in respect of the debtor because of the filing of an agreement under section 80.04 in respect of a settlement before that time and in the year of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor, or

(iii) the amount specified in an agreement (other than an agreement with a directed person in respect of the debtor) filed under section 80.04 in respect of the settlement before that time and in the year of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor, and

(d) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a settlement at a particular time before that time and in the year of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor equal to the least of

(i) the total of all amounts designated under subsection (11) in respect of the settlement,

(ii) the residual balance of the debtor at the particular time, and

(iii) the amount, if any, by which the sum of the values of A and B in subsection (13) in respect of the settlement exceeds the value of C in that subsection in respect of the settlement.

Related Provisions: 80(14.1) — Meaning of "gross tax attributes".

History: Subsec. 80(14) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 111(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The subsec. formerly read:

(14) For the purpose of subsection (13), the residual balance at any time in a taxation year in respect of the settlement of a particular commercial obligation issued by a debtor is the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) all amounts each of which is an amount that would be applied under any of subsections (3) to (10) and (12) in respect of the settlements of separate commercial obligations issued by directed persons at that time in respect of the debtor if

(i) those obligations were issued at that time by those directed persons and were settled immediately after that time,

(ii) an amount equal to the forgiven amount at that time in respect of the particular obligation were the forgiven amount immediately after that time in respect of each of those obligations,

(iii) amounts were designated under subsections (5), (7), (8), (9) and (10) by those directed persons to the maximum extent permitted in respect of the settlement of each of those obligations, and

(iv) no amounts were designated under subsection (11) by any of those directed persons in respect of the settlement of any of those obligations, and

(b) where the debtor is a partnership, all amounts each of which is 1/4 of an amount deducted because of paragraph (c) or (d) in computing the residual balance at that time in respect of the settlement of the particular obligation,

(c) all amounts each of which is 4/3 of the amount that would be included under subsection (13) in computing the debtor's income for the year in respect of the settlement at or before that time of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor if the amounts determined for B and D in subsection (13) were nil,

(d) all amounts each of which is 4/3 of an amount that would, if the amount determined for D in subsection (13) were nil, be included under subsection (13) in computing the income of any of those directed persons in respect of the settlement of an obligation that is deemed by paragraph 80.04(4)(e) to have been issued by the directed person because of the filing of an agreement under section 80.04 in respect of the settlement at or before that time and in the year of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor,

(e) all amounts each of which is an amount specified in an agreement (other than an agreement with any of those directed persons) filed under section 80.04 in respect of the settlement at or before that time and in the year of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor, and

(f) all amounts each of which is the lesser of

(i) the total of all amounts designated under subsection (11) in respect of the settlement before that time and in the year of another commercial obligation issued by the debtor, and

(ii) the residual balance of the debtor at that previous time.

(14.1) Gross tax attributes — The gross tax attributes of directed persons at any time in respect of a debtor means the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would be applied under any of subsections (3) to (10) and (12) in respect of a settlement of a separate commercial obligation (in this subsection referred to as a "notional obligation") issued by directed persons at that time in respect of the debtor if the following assumptions were made:

(a) a notional obligation was issued immediately before that time by each of those directed persons and was settled at that time;

(b) the forgiven amount at that time in respect of each of those notional obligations was equal to the total of all amounts each of which is a forgiven amount at or before that time and in the year in respect of a commercial obligation issued by the debtor;

(c) amounts were designated under subsections (5), (7), (8), (9) and (10) by each of those directed persons to the maximum extent permitted in respect of the settlement of each of those notional obligations; and

(d) no amounts were designated under subsection (11) by any of those directed persons in respect of the settlement of any of the notional obligations.

History: Subsec. 80(14.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 111(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

(15) Members of partnerships — Where a commercial debt obligation issued by a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "partnership obligation") is settled at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in a taxation year of a member of the partnership,

(a) the member may deduct, in computing the member's income for the year, such amount as the member claims not exceeding the relevant limit in respect of the partnership obligation;

(b) for the purpose of paragraph (a), the relevant limit in respect of the partnership obligation is the amount that would be included in computing the member's income for the year as a consequence of the application of subsection (13) and section 96 to the settlement of the partnership obligation if the partnership had designated amounts under subsections (5), (7), (8), (9) and (10) to the maximum extent permitted in respect of each obligation settled in that fiscal period and if income arising from the application of subsection (13) were from a source of income separate from any other sources of partnership income; and

(c) for the purposes of this section and section 80.04,

(i) the member shall be deemed to have issued a commercial debt obligation that was settled at the end of that fiscal period,

(ii) the amount deducted under paragraph (a) in respect of the partnership obligation in computing the member's income shall be treated as if it were the forgiven amount at the end of that fiscal period in respect of the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i),

(iii) subject to subparagraph (iv), the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i) shall be deemed to have been issued at the same time at which, and in the same circumstances in which, the partnership obligation was issued,

(iv) where the member is a corporation the control of which was acquired at a particular time that is before the end of that fiscal period and before the corporation became a member of the partnership and the partnership obligation was issued before the particular time,

(A) subject to the application of this subparagraph to an acquisition of control of the corporation after the particular time and before the end of that fiscal period, the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i) shall be deemed to have been issued by the member after the particular time, and

(B) paragraph (e) of the definition "relevant loss balance" in subsection (1), paragraph (f) of the definition "successor pool" in that subsection and paragraph (b) of the definition "unrecognized loss" in that subsection do not apply in respect of that acquisition of control, and

(v) the source in connection with which the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i) was issued shall be deemed to be the source in connection with which the partnership obligation was issued.

Related Provisions: 4(1) — Income from a source; 20(1)(uu) — Deduction for amount allowed under para. 80(15)(a); 61.2:A(b) — Effect of para. 80(15)(a) on reserve for individuals; 61.2:A(b), 61.3(1)(a)(ii), 61.3(2)(a)(ii), 61.4(a)A(ii) — Reserve in respect of debt forgiven; 80(1) — "Person" includes a partnership; 80(2)(n) — Commercial debt obligation issued by partner — deemed issued by partnership; 80(13)E(a) — Income inclusion where debtor is partnership; 80(14)(b) — Residual balance where debtor is partnership; 80(18) — Limitation on designation by partnership; 96(3) — Designation by members of partnership; 139.1(18) — Holding corporation deemed not to acquire control of insurer on demutualization; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired; 256(8) — Deemed acquisition of shares.

(16) Designations by Minister — Where a commercial obligation issued by a debtor is settled at any time in a taxation year and, as a consequence of the settlement an amount would, but for this subsection, be deducted under section 61.2 or 61.3 in computing the debtor's income for the year and the debtor has not designated amounts under subsections (5) to (11) to the maximum extent possible in respect of the settlement,

(a) the Minister may designate amounts under subsections (5) to (11) to the extent that the debtor would have been permitted to designate those amounts; and

(b) the amounts designated by the Minister shall, except for the purpose of this subsection, be deemed to have been designated by the debtor as required by subsections (5) to (11).

(17) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 80(17) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 111(5), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The subsec. formerly read:

(17) Income inclusion where residual balance a positive amount — Where a commercial obligation issued by a corporation is settled at any time in a taxation year and, as a consequence of the settlement an amount is deducted under section 61.3 in computing the corporation's income for the year, unless the corporation has commenced to wind up on or before the day that is 12 months after the end of the year there shall be added in computing the corporation's income for the year from the source in connection with which the obligation was issued 50% of the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts designated under subsection (11) by the corporation in respect of the settlement of the obligation at that time, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) the residual balance (within the meaning assigned by subsection (14)) of the corporation at that time in respect of the settlement of the obligation, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the amount deducted under section 61.3 in computing the corporation's income for the year exceeds the amount, if any, deducted because of paragraph 37(1)(f.1) in determining the balance determined under subsection 37(1) in respect of the corporation after the year because of an amount deducted under section 61.3 in computing the corporation's income for the year exceeds the total of all amounts included because of this subsection in computing the corporation's income for the year in respect of a settlement before that time of a commercial obligation issued by the corporation.

(18) Partnership designations — Where a commercial obligation issued by a partnership is settled at any time after December 20, 1994, the amount designated under subsection (9), (10) or (11) in respect of the settlement by the partnership to reduce the adjusted cost base of a capital property acquired shall not exceed the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base at that time to the partnership of the property exceeds the fair market value at that time of the property.

History [s. 80]: S. 80 substituted by 1995, c. 21, s. 27, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994, except that

(a) the amended section does not, other than for the purposes of subsections 6(15) and (15.1) and 15(1.2) and (1.21) and section 79, apply to any obligation settled or extinguished

(i) before February 22, 1994,

(ii) after February 21, 1994

(A) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date, or

(B) under the terms of any amendment to such an agreement, where that amendment was entered into in writing before July 12, 1994 and the amount of the settlement or extinguishment was not substantially greater than the settlement or extinguishment provided under the terms of the agreement,

(iii) before 1996 pursuant to a restructuring of debt in connection with a proceeding commenced in a court in Canada before February 22, 1994,

(iv) before 1996 in connection with a proposal (or notice of intention to make a proposal) that was filed under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, or similar legislation of a country other than Canada, before February 22, 1994, or

(v) before 1996 in connection with a written offer that was made by, or communicated to, the holder of the obligation before February 22, 1994;

(b) in its application with respect to interest accruing before July 14, 1990, the words "was deductible" in paragraph 80(2)(b), shall be read as "was deducted"; and

(c) a form referred to in section 80 shall be deemed to have been filed on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister of National Revenue before 1996.

Subsec. 80(4) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 58, applicable to interest in respect of debts or other obligations settled or extinguished after May 9, 1985, except that, in its application to interest accruing before July 14, 1990, the subsec. shall be read as follows:

(4) For the purposes of subsections (1) and (3), an amount of interest in respect of a debt or other obligation of a taxpayer shall be deemed to be a debt or other obligation issued by the taxpayer that

(a) has a principal amount, and

(b) was issued by the taxpayer for an amount, equal to the portion of the amount of the interest that was deducted, or would, but for subsection 18(2) or (3.1) or section 21, be deductible, in computing the taxpayer's income under this Part for a taxation year.

Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Principal for interest payable — For the purposes of subsections (1) and (3), an amount of interest payable by a taxpayer on a debt or other obligation shall be deemed to have a principal amount equal to the portion thereof that was deducted, or would, but for subsection 18(2) or (3.1) or section 21, have been deductible, in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year under this Part.

Para. 80(1)(f) substituted by 1987, c. 46, s. 27, applicable to 1983 et seq. Para. (f) formerly read:

(f) the excess is otherwise required to be included in computing his income for the year or to be deducted in computing the capital cost to him of any depreciable property or the adjusted cost base to him of any capital property,

Para. 80(1)(d) substituted, paras. 80(1)(g) and (h) added by 1985, c. 45, subsecs. 37(1), (2), applicable with respect to debts and obligations settled or extinguished after May 9, 1985. Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) the debt or obligation was such that, if interest had been paid by the taxpayer in respect of it, no deduction would have been permitted by this Part in respect of that interest in computing the taxpayer's income,

Subpara. 80(1)(a)(i.1) added by 1984, c. 1, s. 35, applicable to 1983 et seq.

S. 80 renumbered as subsec. 80(1) by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 43(1), applicable after November 12, 1981.

Para. 80(1)(f) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, s. 21, applicable to 1972 et seq.

Subsec. 80(2) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 43(2), applicable to amalgamations occurring after November 12, 1981.

Subsec. 80(3) substituted by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 37(3), applicable with respect to debts and other obligations settled or extinguished after 1983 except that an election under subsec. 80(3) in respect of the settlement or extinguishment of a debt or other obligation of a parent to pay an amount to a subsidiary may be filed in prescribed form at any time on or before the day that is the later of

(a) the day on or before which it would be required by subsec. 80(3) to be filed, and

(b) December 31, 1986.

Subsec. (3) formerly read:

(3) Deemed settlement on winding-up — Where there has been a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) applies and a debt or other obligation of the subsidiary to pay an amount to the parent is settled or extinguished on the winding-up without any payment by the subsidiary or by the payment of an amount less than both the principal amount of the debt or obligation and the amount that would have been the parent's cost amount of the debt or obligation immediately before the winding-up if the definition "cost amount" in section 248 were read without reference to paragraph (e) thereof, the debt or obligation shall be deemed to have been settled or extinguished on the winding-up by a payment made by the subsidiary and received by the parent of an amount equal to the amount that would have been the parent's cost amount of the debt or obligation immediately before the winding-up if the definition "cost amount" in section 248 were read without reference to paragraph (e) thereof, if the parent so elects in prescribed form on or before the day the parent is required to file a return of income pursuant to section 150 for the taxation year in which the debt or obligation was settled or extinguished.

Subsec. 80(3) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 43(2), applicable by 1984, c. 1, s. 110 (deemed in force on March 30, 1983), to windings-up occurring after November 12, 1981, except that an election under subsec. 80(3) may be made at any time before 1984.

Subsec. 80(4) added by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 37(4), applicable with respect to debts and obligations settled or extinguished after May 9, 1985.

80.01 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"commercial debt obligation" has the meaning assigned by subsection 80(1);

"commercial obligation" has the meaning assigned by subsection 80(1);

"debtor" has the meaning assigned by subsection 80(1);

"distress preferred share" has the meaning assigned by subsection 80(1);

"forgiven amount" has the meaning assigned by subsection 80(1) except that, where an amount would be included in computing a person's income under paragraph 6(1)(a) or subsection 15(1) as a consequence of the settlement of an obligation if the obligation were settled without any payment being made in satisfaction of its principal amount, "forgiven amount" in respect of that obligation has the meaning assigned by subsection 6(15.1) or 15(1.21), as the case may be;

"person" has the meaning assigned by subsection 80(1);

"specified cost" at any time to a person of an obligation means,

(a) where the obligation is capital property of the person at that time, the adjusted cost base at that time to the person of the obligation, and

(b) in any other case, the cost amount to the person of the obligation.

(2) Application — For the purposes of this section,

(a) paragraphs 80(2)(a), (b), (j), (l) and (n) apply; and

(b) a person has a significant interest in a corporation at any time if the person owned at that time

(i) shares of the capital stock of the corporation that would give the person 25% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation, or

(ii) shares of the capital stock of the corporation having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation and, for the purposes of this paragraph, a person shall be deemed to own at any time each share of the capital stock of a corporation that is owned, otherwise than because of this paragraph, at that time by another person with whom the person does not deal at arm's length.

(3) Deemed settlement on amalgamation — Where a commercial obligation or another obligation (in this subsection referred to as the "indebtedness") of a debtor that is a corporation to pay an amount to another corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "creditor") is settled on an amalgamation of the debtor and the creditor, the indebtedness shall be deemed to have been settled immediately before the time that is immediately before the amalgamation by a payment made by the debtor and received by the creditor of an amount equal to the amount that would have been the creditor's cost amount of the indebtedness at that time if

(a) the definition "cost amount" in subsection 248(1) were read without reference to paragraph (e) of that definition; and

(b) that cost amount included amounts added in computing the creditor's income in respect of the portion of the indebtedness representing unpaid interest, to the extent those amounts have not been deducted in computing the creditor's income as bad debts in respect of that unpaid interest.

Related Provisions: 80(3)–(13) — Treatment of obligation deemed to have been settled.

(4) Deemed settlement on winding-up — Where there is a winding-up of a subsidiary to which the rules in subsection 88(1) apply and

(a) a debt or other obligation (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's obligation") of the subsidiary to pay an amount to the parent, or

(b) a debt or other obligation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent's obligation") of the parent to pay an amount to the subsidiary is, as a consequence of the winding-up, settled at a particular time without any payment of an amount or by the payment of an amount that is less than the principal amount of the subsidiary's obligation or the parent's obligation, as the case may be,

(c) where that payment is less than the amount that would have been the cost amount to the parent or subsidiary of the subsidiary's obligation or the parent's obligation immediately before the particular time if the definition "cost amount" in subsection 248(1) were read without reference to paragraph (e) of that definition and the parent so elects in a prescribed form on or before the day on or before which the parent is required to file a return of income pursuant to section 150 for the taxation year that includes the particular time, the amount paid at that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the subsidiary's obligation or the parent's obligation shall be deemed to be equal to the amount that would be the cost amount to the parent or the subsidiary, as the case may be, of the subsidiary's obligation or the parent's obligation immediately before the particular time if

(i) the definition "cost amount" in subsection 248(1) were read without reference to paragraph (e) of that definition, and

(ii) that cost amount included amounts added in computing the parent's income or the subsidiary's income in respect of the portion of the indebtedness representing unpaid interest, to the extent that the parent or the subsidiary has not deducted any amounts as bad debts in respect of that unpaid interest, and

(d) for the purposes of applying section 80 to the subsidiary's obligation, where property is distributed at any time in circumstances to which paragraph 88(1)(a) or (b) applies and the subsidiary's obligation is settled as a consequence of the distribution, the subsidiary's obligation shall be deemed to have been settled immediately before the time that is immediately before the time of the distribution and not at any later time.

Related Provisions: 50(1)(b)(ii) — Deemed disposition of debt or shares on winding-up; 80(3)–(13) — Treatment of obligation deemed to have been settled; 80.01(5) — Where distress preferred share issued; 220(3.2), Reg. 600(b) — Late filing or revocation of election under 80.01(4)(c).

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-66: Non-arm's length transfer of debt followed by a winding-up and a sale of shares.

Forms: T2027: Election to deem amount of settlement of a debt or obligation.

(5) Deemed settlement on winding-up — Where there is a winding-up of a subsidiary to which the rules in subsection 88(1) apply and, as a consequence of the winding-up, a distress preferred share issued by the subsidiary and owned by the parent (or a distress preferred share issued by the parent and owned by the subsidiary) is settled at any time without any payment of an amount or by the payment of an amount that is less than the principal amount of the share,

(a) where the payment was less than the adjusted cost base of the share to the parent or the subsidiary, as the case may be, immediately before that time, for the purposes of applying the provisions of this Act to the issuer of the share, the amount paid at that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the share shall be deemed to be equal to its adjusted cost base to the parent or to the subsidiary, as the case may be; and

(b) for the purposes of applying section 80 to the share, where property is distributed at any time in circumstances to which paragraph 88(1)(a) or (b) applies and the share is settled as a consequence of the distribution, the share shall be deemed to have been settled immediately before the time that is immediately before the time of the distribution and not at any later time.

Related Provisions: 50(1)(b)(ii) — Deemed disposition of debt or shares on winding-up; 80(3)–(13) — Treatment of obligation deemed to have been settled; 80.02(2)(c) — Meaning of "settled" for distress preferred shares; 88(1)(b) — Determination of proceeds of disposition to parent.

(6) Specified obligation in relation to debt parking — For the purpose of subsection (7), an obligation issued by a debtor is, at a particular time, a specified obligation of the debtor where

(a) at any previous time (other than a time before the last time, if any, the obligation became a parked obligation before the particular time),

(i) a person who owned the obligation

(A) dealt at arm's length with the debtor, and

(B) where the debtor is a corporation, did not have a significant interest in the debtor, or

(ii) the obligation was acquired by the holder of the obligation from another person who was, at the time of that acquisition, not related to the holder or related to the holder only because of paragraph 251(5)(b); or

(b) the obligation is deemed by subsection 50(1) to be reacquired at the particular time.

Related Provisions: 80(2)(j), 80.01(2)(a) — Special rules for determining the meaning of "related" and "arm's length"; 80.01(7) — Meaning of "parked obligation".

(7) Parked obligation — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (6), (8) and (10),

(a) an obligation issued by a debtor is a "parked obligation" at any time where at that time

(i) the obligation is a specified obligation of the debtor, and

(ii) the holder of the obligation

(A) does not deal at arm's length with the debtor, or

(B) where the debtor is a corporation and the holder acquired the obligation after July 12, 1994 (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before July 12, 1994), has a significant interest in the debtor; and

(b) an obligation that is, at any time, acquired or reacquired in circumstances to which subparagraph (6)(a)(ii) or paragraph (6)(b) applies shall, if the obligation is a parked obligation immediately after that time, be deemed to have become a parked obligation at that time.

Related Provisions: 80(2)(j), 80.01(2)(a) — Special rules for determining the meaning of "related" and thence "arm's length"; 80.01(6) — Meaning of "specified obligation".

(8) Deemed settlement after debt parking — Where at any particular time after February 21, 1994 a commercial debt obligation that was issued by a debtor becomes a parked obligation (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before February 22, 1994) and the specified cost at the particular time to the holder of the obligation is less than 80% of the principal amount of the obligation, for the purpose of applying the provisions of this Act to the debtor

(a) the obligation shall be deemed to have been settled at the particular time; and

(b) the forgiven amount at the particular time in respect of the obligation shall be determined as if the debtor had paid an amount at the particular time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the obligation equal to that specified cost.

Related Provisions: 40(2)(e.1), (e.2), (g)(ii) — Stop-loss rules on disposition of debt; 50(1)(a) — Deemed disposition of bad debt; 79(3)F(b)(i), (iii) — Where property surrendered to creditor; 80(1)"forgiven amount"B(g) — Debt forgiveness rules do not apply if parked obligation subsequently forgiven; 80(3)–(13) — Treatment of obligation deemed to have been settled; 80.01(7) — Meaning of "parked obligation"; 80.01(10) — Subsequent payments; 80.01(11) — Foreign currency fluctuation to be ignored.

(9) Statute-barred debt — Where at any particular time after February 21, 1994 a commercial debt obligation issued by a debtor that is payable to a person (other than a person with whom the debtor is related at the particular time) becomes unenforceable in a court of competent jurisdiction because of a statutory limitation period and the obligation would, but for this subsection, not have been settled or extinguished at the particular time, for the purpose of applying the provisions of this Act to the debtor, the obligation shall be deemed to have been settled at the particular time.

Related Provisions: 80(1)"forgiven amount"B(g) — Debt forgiveness rules do not apply; 80(2)(j), 80.01(2)(a) — Special rules for determining the meaning of "related"; 80(3)–(13) — Treatment of obligation deemed to have been settled; 80.01(10) — Subsequent payments; 80.01(11) — Foreign currency fluctuation to be ignored.

(10) Subsequent payments in satisfaction of debt — Where a commercial debt obligation issued by a debtor is first deemed by subsection (8) or (9) to have been settled at a particular time, at a subsequent time a payment is made by the debtor of an amount in satisfaction of the principal amount of the obligation and it cannot reasonably be considered that one of the reasons the obligation became a parked obligation or became unenforceable, as the case may be, before the subsequent time was to have this subsection apply to the payment, in computing the debtor's income for the taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "subsequent year") that includes the subsequent time from the source in connection with which the obligation was issued, there may be deducted the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of the payment,

B is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the principal amount of the obligation

exceeds the total of

(b) all amounts each of which is a forgiven amount at any time

(i) in the period that began at the particular time and ended immediately before the subsequent time, and

(ii) at which a particular portion of the obligation is deemed by subsection (8) or (9) to be settled in respect of the particular portion, and

(c) all amounts paid in satisfaction of the principal amount of the obligation in the period that began at the particular time and ended immediately before the subsequent time, and

C is the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) all amounts deducted under section 61.3 in computing the debtor's income for the subsequent year or a preceding taxation year,

(b) all amounts added because of subsection 80(13) in computing the debtor's income for the subsequent year or a preceding taxation year in respect of a settlement under subsection (8) or (9) in a period during which the debtor was exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income, and

(c) all amounts added because of subsection 80(13) in computing the debtor's income for the subsequent year or a preceding taxation year in respect of a settlement under subsection (8) or (9) in a period during which the debtor was non-resident (other than any of those amounts added in computing the debtor's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada)

(d) the amount, if any, deducted because of paragraph 37(1)(f.1) in determining the balance determined under subsection 37(1) in respect of the debtor immediately after the subsequent year, and

(e) all amounts by which the amount deductible under this subsection in respect of a payment made by the debtor before the subsequent time in computing the debtor's income for the subsequent year or a preceding year has been reduced because of this description.

Related Provisions: 3, 4(1) — Income from a source; 20(1)(uu) — Deduction for amount allowed under subsec. 80.01(10); 80.01(7) — Meaning of "parked obligation"; 87(2)(l.21) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(11) Foreign currency gains and losses — Where an obligation issued by a debtor is denominated in a currency (other than the Canadian currency) and the obligation is deemed by subsection (8) or (9) to have been settled, those subsections do not apply for the purpose of determining any gain or loss of the debtor on the settlement that is attributable to a fluctuation in the value of the currency relative to the value of Canadian currency.

Related Provisions: 39(2) — Gain or loss on fluctuation of foreign currency; 79(7) — Currency fluctuation where property surrendered to creditor; 80(2)(k) — Determination of forgiven amount where obligation denominated in foreign currency.

History [s. 80.01]: S. 80.01 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 27, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994, except that it does not,

other than for the purposes of subsections 6(15) and (15.1) and 15(1.2) and (1.21) and section 79, apply to any obligation settled or extinguished

(i) before February 22, 1994,

(ii) after February 21, 1994

(A) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date, or

(B) under the terms of any amendment to such an agreement, where that amendment was entered into in writing before July 12, 1994 and the amount of the settlement or extinguishment was not substantially greater than the settlement or extinguishment provided under the terms of the agreement,

(iii) before 1996 pursuant to a restructuring of debt in connection with a proceeding commenced in a court in Canada before February 22, 1994,

(iv) before 1996 in connection with a proposal (or notice of intention to make a proposal) that was filed under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, or similar legislation of a country other than Canada, before February 22, 1994, or

(v) before 1996 in connection with a written offer that was made by, or communicated to, the holder of the obligation before February 22, 1994.

80.02 (1) Definitions — In this section, "commercial debt obligation", "commercial obligation", "distress preferred share" and "person" have the meanings assigned by subsection 80(1).

(2) General rules for distress preferred shares — For the purpose of applying the provisions of this Act to an issuer of a distress preferred share,

(a) the principal amount, at any time, of the share shall be deemed to be the amount (determined at that time) for which the share was issued;

(b) the amount for which the share was issued shall, at any time, be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the total of

(i) the amount for which the share was issued, determined without reference to this paragraph, and

(ii) all amounts by which the paid-up capital in respect of the share increased after the share was issued and before that time

exceeds

(iii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid before that time on a reduction of the paid-up capital in respect of the share, except to the extent that the amount is deemed by section 84 to have been paid as a dividend;

(c) the share shall be deemed to be settled at such time as it is redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the issuer; and

(d) a payment in satisfaction of the principal amount of the share is any payment made on a reduction of the paid-up capital in respect of the share to the extent that the payment would be proceeds of disposition of the share within the meaning that would be assigned by the definition "proceeds of disposition" in section 54 if that definition were read without reference to paragraph (j).

Related Provisions: 80.02(3)(b), 80.02(5)(b) — Deemed amounts for purposes of subpara. 80.02(2)(b)(i).

(3) Substitution of distress preferred share for debt — Where any part of the consideration given by a corporation to another person for the settlement or extinguishment at any time of a commercial debt obligation that was issued by the corporation and owned immediately before that time by the other person consists of a distress preferred share issued by the corporation to the other person,

(a) for the purposes of section 80, the amount paid at that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the obligation because of the issue of that share shall be deemed to be equal to the lesser of

(i) the principal amount of the obligation, and

(ii) the amount by which the paid-up capital in respect of the class of shares that include that share increases because of the issue of that share; and

(b) for the purpose of subparagraph (2)(b)(i), the amount for which the share was issued shall be deemed to be equal to the amount deemed by paragraph (a) to have been paid at that time.

Related Provisions: 80.02(2) — General rules.

(4) Substitution of commercial debt obligation for distress preferred share — Where any part of the consideration given by a corporation to another person for the settlement at any time of a distress preferred share that was issued by the corporation and owned immediately before that time by the other person consists of a commercial debt obligation issued by the corporation to the other person, for the purposes of section 80

(a) the amount paid at that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the share because of the issue of that obligation shall be deemed to be equal to the principal amount of the obligation; and

(b) the amount for which the obligation was issued shall be deemed to be equal to its principal amount.

Related Provisions: 80.02(2) — General rules.

(5) Substitution of distress preferred share for other distress preferred share — Where any part of the consideration given by a corporation to another person for the settlement at any time of a particular distress preferred share that was issued by the corporation and owned immediately before that time by the other person consists of another distress preferred share issued by the corporation to the other person, for the purposes of section 80

(a) the amount paid at that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the particular share because of the issue of the other share shall be deemed to be equal to the amount by which the paid-up capital in respect of the class of shares that includes the other share increases because of the issue of the other share; and

(b) for the purpose of subparagraph (2)(b)(i), the amount for which the other share was issued shall be deemed to be equal to the amount deemed by paragraph (a) to have been paid at that time.

Related Provisions: 80.02(2) — General rules.

(6) Substitution of non-commercial obligation for distress preferred share — Where any part of the consideration given by a corporation to another person for the settlement at any time of a distress preferred share that was issued by the corporation and owned immediately before that time by the other person consists of another share (other than a distress preferred share) or an obligation (other than a commercial obligation) issued by the corporation to the other person, for the purposes of section 80, the amount paid at that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the distress preferred share because of the issue of the other share or obligation shall be deemed to be equal to the fair market value of the other share or obligation, as the case may be, at that time.

Related Provisions: 80.02(2) — General rules.

(7) Deemed settlement on expiry of term — Where at any time a distress preferred share becomes a share that is not a distress preferred share, for the purposes of section 80

(a) the share shall be deemed to have been settled immediately before that time; and

(b) a payment equal to the fair market value of the share at that time shall be deemed to have been made immediately before that time in satisfaction of the principal amount of the share.

Related Provisions: 80(1)"distress preferred share", 248(1)"term preferred share"(e) — Maximum term of distress preferred share is 5 years.

History [s. 80.02]: S. 80.02 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 27, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994, except that it does not, other than for the purposes of subsections 6(15) and (15.1) and 15(1.2) and (1.21) and section 79, apply to any obligation settled or extinguished

(i) before February 22, 1994,

(ii) after February 21, 1994

(A) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date, or

(B) under the terms of any amendment to such an agreement, where that amendment was entered into in writing before July 12, 1994 and the amount of the settlement or extinguishment was not substantially greater than the settlement or extinguishment provided under the terms of the agreement,

(iii) before 1996 pursuant to a restructuring of debt in connection with a proceeding commenced in a court in Canada before February 22, 1994,

(iv) before 1996 in connection with a proposal (or notice of intention to make a proposal) that was filed under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, or similar legislation of a country other than Canada, before February 22, 1994, or

(v) before 1996 in connection with a written offer that was made by, or communicated to, the holder of the obligation before February 22, 1994;

(2) Deferred recognition of debtor's gain on settlement of debt — Where at any time in a taxation year a person (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor") surrenders a particular capital property (other than a distress preferred share) that is a share, a capital interest in a trust or an interest in a partnership, the person shall be deemed to have a capital gain from the disposition at that time of another capital property (or, where the particular property is a taxable Canadian property, another taxable Canadian property) equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing the adjusted cost base to the transferor of the particular property immediately before that time

exceeds the total of

(b) the amount that would be the transferor's capital gain for the year from the disposition of the particular property if this Act were read without reference to subsection 100(2), and

(c) where, at the end of the year, the transferor is resident in Canada or is a non-resident person who carries on business in Canada through a fixed place of business, the amount designated under subsection (7) by the transferor in respect of the disposition, at that time or immediately after that time, of the particular property.

Related Provisions: 80.03(3) — Meaning of "surrender"; 253 — Extended meaning of carrying on business in Canada.

(3) Surrender of capital property — For the purpose of subsection (2), a person shall be considered to have surrendered a property at any time only where

(a) in the case of a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation,

(i) the person is a corporation that disposed of the share at that time and the proceeds of disposition of the share are determined under paragraph 88(1)(b), or

(ii) the person is a corporation that owned the share at that time and, immediately after that time, amalgamates or merges with the particular corporation;

(b) in the case of a capital interest in a trust, the person disposed of the interest at that time and the proceeds of disposition are determined under paragraph 107(2)(c); and

(c) in the case of an interest in a partnership, the person disposed of the interest at that time and the proceeds of disposition are determined under paragraph 98(3)(a) or (5)(a).

(4)–(6) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 80.03(1) accidentally deleted, instead of amended to repeal "taxable dividend", by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 112(1), with the version in square brackets above to have been applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The subsec. formerly read:

(1) In this section,

(a) "commercial debt obligation", "commercial obligation", "distress preferred share", "forgiven amount" and "person" have the meanings assigned by subsection 80(1); and

(b) "taxable dividend" does not include any capital gains dividends (within the meaning assigned by subsection 131(1)).

History: Subsecs. 80.03(4) to (6) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 112(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The subsecs. formerly read:

(4) Dispositions by corporations — Where at any time in a taxation year a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "vendor") disposes of a particular capital property that is a share, an interest in a partnership or a capital interest in a trust, otherwise than by way of a disposition to which subsection (2) or 53(6) applies, a disposition to another corporation in circumstances to which subsection 53(5) applies, or a disposition the proceeds from which are determined under subsection 47(1), section 86 or any of the provisions (other than subsection 97(2)) referred to in subsection 53(4), the vendor shall be deemed to have a capital gain from the disposition at that time of another capital property (or where the particular property is a taxable Canadian property, another taxable Canadian property) equal to the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(a) all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing the adjusted cost base to the vendor of the particular property immediately before that time, and

(b) where the particular property

(i) is a share, the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) a taxable dividend on the share that was received in the specified period relating to the disposition of the share, to the extent that the dividend is deductible in computing taxable income of a holder of the share or a beneficiary under a trust that held the share, or

(B) a capital dividend on the share that was received in the specified period relating to the disposition of the share,

(ii) is an interest in a partnership, the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) the share of a taxable dividend relating to the interest that was received after July 12, 1994 and in a fiscal period of the partnership that ended in the specified period relating to the disposition of the interest, to the extent that such share is deductible in computing taxable income of a person holding the interest in the partnership or a beneficiary under a trust that held the interest in the partnership, or

(B) the share of a capital dividend relating to the interest that was received after July 12, 1994 and in a fiscal period of the partnership that ended in the specified period relating to the disposition of the interest, or

(iii) is a capital interest in a trust, the total of all amounts each of which is such portion of a taxable dividend that was received by the trust in the specified period relating to the disposition of the capital interest and that was deemed by subsection 104(19) to have been received in respect of the capital interest, to the extent that such portion was deductible in computing taxable income of a person holding the capital interest

(c) the amount that would be the vendor's capital gain for the year from the disposition of the particular property if this Act were read without reference to subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) and subsection 100(2), and

(d) where the vendor is resident in Canada at the end of the year or is a non-resident person who carries on business in Canada through a fixed place of business at the end of the year, the amount designated under subsection (7) by the vendor in respect of the disposition of the particular property.

(5) Specified period — For the purpose of subsection (4), the specified period relating to a disposition at a particular time of a property by a person is the period

(a) that began at or on the later of July 12, 1994 and the last time before the particular time that the person acquired the property, and

(b) that ended at the particular time.

(6) When property acquired — For the purposes of this subsection and subsection (5), where, as a consequence of the disposition at a particular time of a property to a person, an amount is deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing the adjusted cost base of the property after the particular time, the person shall be deemed not to have acquired the property at the particular time and to have acquired the property at the time it was last acquired before the particular time.

(7) Alternative treatment — Where at any time in a taxation year a person disposes of a property, for the purposes of subsection (2) and section 80

(a) the person may designate an amount in a prescribed form filed with the person's return of income under this Part for the year; and

(b) where an amount is designated by the person under paragraph (a) in respect of the disposition,

(i) the person shall be deemed to have issued a commercial debt obligation at that time that is settled immediately after that time,

(ii) the lesser of the amount so designated and the amount that would, but for this subsection, be a capital gain determined in respect of the disposition because of subsection (2) shall be treated as if it were the forgiven amount at the time of the settlement in respect of the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i),

(iii) the source in connection with which the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i) was issued shall be deemed to be the business, if any, carried on by the person at the end of the year, and

(iv) where the person does not carry on a business at the end of the year, the person shall be deemed to carry on an active business at the end of the year and the source in connection with which the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i) was issued shall be deemed to be the business deemed by this subparagraph to be carried on.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(h.1) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 220(3.21)(a) — Late filing, amendment or revocation of designation.

History: The opening words of subsec. 80.03(7) and subpara. 80.03(7)(b)(ii) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 112(3) and (4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The opening words and subpara. formerly read:

(7) Where at any time in a taxation year a person disposes of a property, for the purposes of subsections (2) and (4) and section 80

(ii) the lesser of the amount so designated and the amount that would, but for this subsection, be a capital gain determined in respect of the disposition because of subsection (2) or (4) shall be treated as if it were the forgiven amount at the time of the settlement in respect of the obligation referred to in subparagraph (i),

Forms: T2155: Alternative treatment of capital gains under sec. 80.03 that arise from a forgiven debt.

(8) Lifetime capital gains exemption — Where, as a consequence of the disposition at any time by an individual of a property that is a qualified farm property of the individual or a qualified small business corporation share of the individual (within the meanings assigned by subsection 110.6(1)), the individual is deemed by subsection (2) to have a capital gain at that time from the disposition of another property, for the purposes of sections 3, 74.3 and 111, as they apply for the purpose of section 110.6, the other property shall be deemed to be a qualified farm property of the individual or a qualified small business corporation share of the individual, as the case may be.

History [s. 80.03]: S. 80.03 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 27, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994, except that

(a) it does not, other than for the purposes of subsections 6(15) and (15.1) and 15(1.2) and (1.21) and section 79, apply to any obligation settled or extinguished

(i) before February 22, 1994,

(ii) after February 21, 1994

(A) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date, or

(B) under the terms of any amendment to such an agreement, where that amendment was entered into in writing before July 12, 1994 and the amount of the settlement or extinguishment was not substantially greater than the settlement or extinguishment provided under the terms of the agreement,

(iii) before 1996 pursuant to a restructuring of debt in connection with a proceeding commenced in a court in Canada before February 22, 1994,

(iv) before 1996 in connection with a proposal (or notice of intention to make a proposal) that was filed under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, or similar legislation of a country other than Canada, before February 22, 1994, or

(v) before 1996 in connection with a written offer that was made by, or communicated to, the holder of the obligation before February 22, 1994; and

(b) a form referred to in subsection 80.03(7) shall be deemed to have been filed on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister of National Revenue before 1996.

80.04 (1) Definitions — In this section, "commercial debt obligation", "commercial obligation", "debtor", "directed person", "eligible Canadian partnership", "forgiven amount" and "person" have the meanings assigned by subsection 80(1).

(2) Eligible transferee — For the purpose of this section, an "eligible transferee" of a debtor at any time is a directed person at that time in respect of the debtor or a taxable Canadian corporation or eligible Canadian partnership related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) at that time to the debtor.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(h.1) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(3) Application — Paragraphs 80(2)(a), (b), (j), (l) and (n) apply for the purpose of this section.

(4) Agreement respecting transfer of forgiven amount — Where

(a) a particular commercial obligation (other than an obligation deemed by paragraph (e) to have been issued) issued by a debtor is settled at a particular time,

(b) amounts have been designated by the debtor under subsections 80(5) to (10) to the maximum extent permitted in respect of the settlement of the particular obligation at the particular time,

(c) the debtor and an eligible transferee of the debtor at the particular time file under this section an agreement between them in respect of that settlement, and

(d) an amount is specified in that agreement

the following rules apply:

(e) except for the purposes of subsection 80(11), the transferee shall be deemed to have issued a commercial debt obligation that was settled at the particular time,

(f) the specified amount shall be deemed to be the forgiven amount at the particular time in respect of the obligation referred to in paragraph (e),

(g) subject to paragraph (h), the obligation referred to in paragraph (e) shall be deemed to have been issued at the same time (in paragraph (h) referred to as the "time of issue") at which, and in the same circumstances in which, the particular obligation was issued,

(h) where the transferee is a corporation the control of which was acquired by a person or group of persons after the time of issue and the transferee and the debtor were not related to each other immediately before that acquisition of control,

(i) the obligation referred to in paragraph (e) shall be deemed to have been issued after that acquisition of control, and

(ii) paragraph (e) of the definition "relevant loss balance" in subsection 80(1), paragraph (f) of the definition "successor pool" in that subsection and paragraph (b) of the definition "unrecognized loss" in that subsection do not apply in respect of that acquisition of control,

(i) the source in connection with which the obligation referred to in paragraph (e) was issued shall be deemed to be the source in connection with which the particular obligation was issued, and

(j) for the purposes of sections 61.3 and 61.4, the amount included under subsection 80(13) in computing the income of the eligible transferee in respect of the settlement of the obligation referred to in paragraph (e) or deducted under paragraph 80(15)(a) in respect of such income shall be deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 80(13)C — Amount specified in agreement reduces income inclusion; 80(14)(c) — Calculation of residual balance for income inclusion; 80(15)(c) — Where commercial debt obligation issued by partnership; 80.04(5) — Where consideration given for entering into agreement; 80.04(6) — How and when agreement to be filed with CCRA; 87(2)(h.1) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 139.1(18) — Holding corporation deemed not to acquire control of insurer on demutualization; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired; 256(8) — Deemed acquisition of shares.

(5) Consideration for agreement — For the purposes of this Part, where property is acquired at any time by an eligible transferee as consideration for entering into an agreement with a debtor that is filed under this section

(a) where the property was owned by the debtor immediately before that time,

(i) the debtor shall be deemed to have disposed of the property at that time for proceeds equal to the fair market value of the property at that time, and

(ii) no amount may be deducted in computing the debtor's income as a consequence of the transfer of the property, except any amount arising as a consequence of the application of subparagraph (i);

(b) the cost at which the property was acquired by the eligible transferee at that time shall be deemed to be equal to the fair market value of the property at that time; and

(c) the eligible transferee shall not be required to add an amount in computing income solely because of the acquisition at that time of the property.

(d) [Repealed]

Related Provisions: 80.04(5.1) — No benefit conferred on debtor as a consequence of the agreement; 191.3(1.1) — Similar rule for purposes of Part VI.1 tax.

History: Para. 80.04(5)(d) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 113(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The para. formerly read:

> (d) no benefit shall be considered to have been conferred on the debtor as a consequence of the debtor entering into an agreement filed under this section.

(5.1) No benefit conferred — For the purposes of this Part, where a debtor and an eligible transferee enter into an agreement that is filed under this section, no benefit shall be considered to have been conferred on the debtor as a consequence of the agreement.

History: Subsec. 80.04(5.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 113(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

(6) Manner of filing agreement — Subject to subsection (7), a particular agreement between a debtor and an eligible transferee in respect of an obligation issued by the debtor that was settled at any time shall be deemed not to have been filed under this section

(a) where it is not filed with the Minister in a prescribed form

(i) on or before the later of

(A) the day on or before which the debtor's return of income under this Part is required to be filed for the taxation year or fiscal period, as the case may be, that includes that time (or would be required to be filed if tax under this Part were payable by the debtor for the year), and

(B) the day on or before which the transferee's return of income under this Part is required to be filed for the taxation year or fiscal period, as the case may be, that includes that time, or

(ii) within the period within which the debtor or the transferee may serve a notice of objection to an assessment of tax payable under this Part for a taxation year or fiscal period, as the case may be, described in clause (i)(A) or (B), as the case may be;

(b) where it is not accompanied by,

(i) where the debtor is a corporation and its directors are legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of their resolution authorizing the agreement to be made,

(ii) where the debtor is a corporation and its directors are not legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of the document by which the person legally entitled to administer its affairs authorized the agreement to be made,

(iii) where the transferee is a corporation and its directors are legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of their resolution authorizing the agreement to be made, and

(iv) where the transferee is a corporation and its directors are not legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of the document by which the person legally entitled to administer its affairs authorized the agreement to be made; or

(c) if an agreement amending the particular agreement has been filed in accordance with this section, except where subsection (8) applies to the particular agreement.

Related Provisions: 80.04(7) — Deemed due dates for partnership to file return and service notice of objection; 96(3) — Agreement of members of partnership; 150(1) — Due date for return; 165(1) — Deadline for serving notice of objection.

Forms: T2156: Agreement to transfer forgiven debt under s. 80.04.

(7) Filing by partnership — For the purpose of subsection (6), where an obligation is settled at any time in a fiscal period of a partnership, it shall be assumed that

(a) the partnership is required to file a return of income under this Part for the fiscal period on or before the latest day on or before which any member of the partnership during the fiscal period is required to file a return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which that fiscal period ends (or would be required to file such a return of income if tax under this Part were payable by the member for that year); and

(b) the partnership may serve a notice of objection described in subparagraph (6)(a)(ii) within each period within which any member of the partnership during the fiscal period may serve a notice of objection to tax payable under this Part for a taxation year in which that fiscal period ends.

(8) Related corporations — Where at any time a corporation becomes related to another corporation and it can reasonably be considered that the main purpose of the corporation becoming related to the other corporation is to enable the corporations to file an agreement under this section, the amount specified in the agreement shall be deemed to be nil for the purpose of the description of C in subsection 80(13).

(9) Assessment of taxpayers in respect of agreement — The Minister shall, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), assess or reassess the tax, interest and penalties payable under this Act by any taxpayer in order to take into account an agreement filed under this section.

(10) Liability of debtor — Without affecting the liability of any person under any other provision of this Act, where a debtor and an eligible transferee file an agreement between them under this section in respect of an obligation issued by the debtor that was settled at any time, the debtor is, to the extent of 30% of the amount specified in the agreement, liable to pay

(a) where the transferee is a corporation, all taxes payable under this Act by it for taxation years that end in the period that begins at that time and ends 4 calendar years after that time;

(b) where the transferee is a partnership, the total of all amounts each of which is the tax payable under this Act by a person for a taxation year

(i) that begins or ends in that period, and

(ii) that includes the end of a fiscal period of the partnership during which the person was a member of the partnership; and

(c) interest and penalties in respect of such taxes.

History: Para. 80.04(10)(a) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 113(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The para. formerly read:

> (a) where the transferee is a corporation, all taxes payable under this Act by it for taxation years that end in the period that begins at that time and ends 10 calendar years after that time;

(11) Joint liability — Where taxes, interest and penalties are payable under this Act by a person for a taxation year and those taxes, interest and penalties are payable by a debtor because of subsection (10), the debtor and the person are jointly and severally liable to pay those amounts.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(h.1) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(12) Assessments in respect of liability — Where a debtor and an eligible transferee file an agreement between them under this section in respect of an obligation issued by the debtor that was settled at a particular time,

(a) where the debtor is an individual or a corporation, the Minister may at any subsequent time assess the debtor in respect of taxes, interest and penalties for which the debtor is liable because of subsection (10); and

(b) where the debtor is a partnership, the Minister may at any subsequent time assess any person who has been a member of the partnership in respect of taxes, interest and penalties for which the partnership is liable because of subsection (10), to the extent that those amounts relate to taxation years of the transferee (or, where the transferee is another partnership, members of the other partnership) that end at or after

(i) where the person was not a member of the partnership at the particular time, the first subsequent time the person becomes a member of the partnership, and

(ii) in any other case, the particular time.

Related Provisions: 80.04(13) — Provisions applicable to assessment; 80.04(14) — Where partnership is a member of a partnership; 87(2)(h.1) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(13) Application of Division I — The provisions of Division I apply to an assessment under subsection (12) as though it had been made under section 152.

(14) Partnership members — For the purposes of paragraphs (10)(b) and (12)(b) and this subsection, where at any time a member of a particular partnership is another partnership, each member of the other partnership shall be deemed to be a member of the particular partnership at that time.

History [s. 80.04]: S. 80.04 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 27, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994, except that

(a) it does not, other than for the purposes of subsections 6(15) and (15.1) and 15(1.2) and (1.21) and section 79, apply to any obligation settled or extinguished

(i) before February 22, 1994,

(ii) after February 21, 1994

(A) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date, or

(B) under the terms of any amendment to such an agreement, where that amendment was entered into in writing before July 12, 1994 and the amount of the settlement or extinguishment was not substantially greater than the settlement or extinguishment provided under the terms of the agreement,

(iii) before 1996 pursuant to a restructuring of debt in connection with a proceeding commenced in a court in Canada before February 22, 1994,

(iv) before 1996 in connection with a proposal (or notice of intention to make a proposal) that was filed under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, or similar legislation of a country other than Canada, before February 22, 1994, or

(v) before 1996 in connection with a written offer that was made by, or communicated to, the holder of the obligation before February 22, 1994; and

(b) a form referred to in subsection 80.04(6) shall be deemed to have been filed on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister of National Revenue before 1996.

80.1 (1) Expropriation assets acquired as compensation for or as consideration for sale of foreign property taken by or sold to foreign issuer — Where in a taxation year ending coincidentally with or after December 31, 1971 a taxpayer resident in Canada has acquired any bonds, debentures, mortgages, notes or similar obligations (in this section referred to as "expropriation assets") issued by the government of a country other than Canada or issued by a person resident in a country other than Canada and guaranteed by the government of that country,

(a) as compensation for

(i) shares owned by the taxpayer of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that carried on business in that country, or

(ii) all or substantially all of the property used by the taxpayer in carrying on business in that country,

(which shares or property, as the case may be, are referred to in this section as "foreign property"), taken, after June 18, 1971, from the taxpayer by the issuer under the authority of a law of that country, or

(b) as consideration for the sale of foreign property sold, after June 18, 1971, by the taxpayer to the issuer, if

(i) the sale was, by a law of that country, expressly required to be made, or

(ii) the sale was made after notice or other manifestation of an intention to take the foreign property, if the taxpayer has so elected, in prescribed form and within prescribed time, in respect of all of the expropriation assets so acquired by the taxpayer, the following rule applies, namely, an amount in respect of each such expropriation asset, equal to

(c) the principal amount of the asset, or

(d) where the taxpayer has designated in the taxpayer's election an amount in respect of the asset that is less than the principal amount thereof, the amount so designated,

shall be deemed to be

(e) the cost to the taxpayer of the asset, and

(f) for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the foreign property so taken or sold, the amount received by the taxpayer by virtue of the taxpayer's acquisition of the asset, except that in no case may the taxpayer designate an amount in respect of any expropriation asset so that the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the foreign property so taken or sold (computed having regard to the provisions of paragraph (f)) are less than the cost amount to the taxpayer of the foreign property immediately before it was so taken or sold.

(2) Election re interest received or to be received on expropriation assets acquired by taxpayer — Where a taxpayer has elected in prescribed form and within prescribed time in respect of all amounts (each of which is referred to in this subsection as an "interest amount") received or to be received by the taxpayer as or on account of interest on all expropriation assets acquired by the taxpayer as compensation for, or as consideration for the sale of, foreign property taken by or sold to any particular issuer as described in subsection (1), the following rules apply in respect of each such asset so acquired by the taxpayer:

(a) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year from the asset, there may be deducted, in respect of each interest amount received by the taxpayer in the year on the asset, the lesser of the interest amount and the total of

(i) the amount required by paragraph (b) to be added, by virtue of the receipt by the taxpayer of the interest amount, in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the asset, and

(ii) the greater of

(A) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the asset immediately before the interest amount was so received by the taxpayer, and

(B) the adjusted principal amount to the taxpayer of the asset immediately before the interest amount was so received by the taxpayer, and there shall be included, in respect of each amount (in this paragraph referred to as a "capital amount") received by the taxpayer in the year as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of,

(iii) any proceeds of disposition of the asset, or

(iv) the principal amount of the asset,

the amount, if any, by which the capital amount exceeds the greater of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the asset immediately before the capital amount was received by the taxpayer and its adjusted principal amount to the taxpayer at that time;

(b) in computing, at any particular time, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the asset, there shall be added, in respect of each interest amount received by the taxpayer on the asset before the particular time, an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) any income or profits tax paid by the taxpayer to the government of a country other than Canada in respect of the interest amount, and

(ii) that proportion of the tax referred to in subparagraph (i) that the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the asset immediately before the interest amount was received by the taxpayer is of the amount, if any, by which the interest amount exceeds the tax referred to in that subparagraph, and there shall be deducted

(iii) each interest amount received by the taxpayer on the asset before the particular time, and

(iv) each amount received by the taxpayer before the particular time on account of the principal amount of the asset;

(c) the receipt by the taxpayer of an amount described in subparagraph (b)(iv) in respect of the asset shall be deemed not to be a partial disposition thereof; and

(d) for the purposes of section 126, notwithstanding the definition "non-business-income tax" in subsection 126(7), the "non-business-income tax" paid by a taxpayer does not include any tax, or any portion thereof, the amount of which is required by paragraph (b) to be added in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the asset.

(3) Where interest amount and capital amount received at same time — For the purposes of subsection (2), where an interest amount on an expropriation asset and a capital amount with respect to that asset are received by a taxpayer at the same time, the interest amount shall be deemed to have been received by the taxpayer immediately before the capital amount.

(4) Assets acquired from foreign affiliate of taxpayer as dividend in kind or as benefit to shareholder — Where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada would, on the assumption that the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada and its only foreign affiliates were corporations that were foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, be entitled to make an election under subsection (1) in respect of assets acquired by it that would, on that assumption, be expropriation assets of the foreign affiliate, and all or any of those assets are subsequently acquired by the taxpayer from the foreign affiliate as a dividend payable in kind, or as a benefit received from the foreign affiliate that would otherwise be required by subsection 15(1) to be included in computing the income of the taxpayer, if the taxpayer has so elected, in prescribed form and within prescribed time, in respect of all of the assets so acquired by the taxpayer from the foreign affiliate, the following rules apply in respect of each such asset so acquired by the taxpayer:

(a) an amount equal to

(i) the principal amount of the asset, or

(ii) where the taxpayer has designated in the taxpayer's election an amount in respect of the asset that is less than the principal amount thereof, the amount so designated,

shall be deemed to be,

(iii) notwithstanding subsection 52(2), the cost to the taxpayer of the asset, and

(iv) the amount of the dividend or benefit, as the case may be, received by the taxpayer by virtue of the acquisition by the taxpayer of the asset;

(b) where the asset was so acquired as such a benefit and the taxpayer has designated in the election a class of shares as described in this paragraph in respect of the asset, the amount of the benefit shall be deemed

(i) to have been received by the taxpayer as a dividend from the foreign affiliate in respect of such class of shares of the capital stock thereof as the taxpayer has designated in the election, and

(ii) not to be an amount required by subsection 15(1) to be included in computing the taxpayer's income;

(c) in computing the taxable income of the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the taxpayer acquired the asset, there may be deducted from the taxpayer's income for the year the amount, if any, by which the amount received by the taxpayer as a dividend by virtue of the acquisition by the taxpayer of the asset exceeds the total of amounts deductible in respect of the dividend under sections 91 and 113 in computing the taxpayer's income or taxable income, as the case may be, for the year;

(d) there shall be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of each share of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate that is a share of a class in respect of which an amount was received by the taxpayer as a dividend by virtue of the acquisition by the taxpayer of the asset, the quotient obtained by dividing the amount, if any, deducted by the taxpayer under paragraph (c) in respect of the dividend by the number of shares of that class owned by the taxpayer immediately before that amount was received by the taxpayer as a dividend;

(e) any capital loss of the taxpayer from the disposition, after that time when the asset was so acquired by the taxpayer, of a share of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate shall be deemed to be nil; and

(f) where the taxpayer has so elected in prescribed form and within prescribed time, subsection (2) applies as if the asset were an expropriation asset acquired by the taxpayer as compensation for foreign property taken by a particular issuer as described in subsection (1).

Related Provisions: 53(2)(b) — Reduction in ACB; 220(3.2), Reg. 600(b) — Late filing or revocation of election.

(5) Assets acquired from foreign affiliate of taxpayer as consideration for settlement, etc., of debt — Where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada would, on the assumption that the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada and its only foreign affiliates were corporations that were foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, be entitled to make an election under subsection (1) in respect of assets acquired by it that would, on that assumption, be expropriation assets of the foreign affiliate, and all or any of those assets are subsequently acquired by the taxpayer from the foreign affiliate as consideration for the settlement or extinguishment of a capital property of the taxpayer that was a debt payable by the foreign affiliate to the taxpayer or any other obligation of the foreign affiliate to pay an amount to the taxpayer (which debt or other obligation is referred to in this subsection as the "obligation"), if the taxpayer has so elected, in prescribed form and within prescribed time, in respect of all of the assets so acquired by the taxpayer from the foreign affiliate, the following rules apply in respect of each such asset so acquired by the taxpayer,

(a) paragraph (4)(a) applies in respect of the asset as if subparagraph (4)(a)(iv) were read as follows:

"(iv) the taxpayer's proceeds of the disposition of the obligation settled or extinguished by virtue of the acquisition by the taxpayer of the asset;";

(b) where the taxpayer has designated in the taxpayer's election a class of shares as described in this paragraph in respect of the asset,

(i) the amount, if any, by which the cost to the taxpayer of the asset (computed having regard to paragraph (a) and paragraph (4)(a)) exceeds the amount of the obligation settled or extinguished by virtue of the acquisition by the taxpayer of the asset shall be deemed to have been received by the taxpayer as a dividend from the foreign affiliate in respect of such class of shares of the capital stock thereof as the taxpayer has designated in the election, and

(ii) the taxpayer's gain, if any, from the disposition of the obligation shall be deemed to be nil;

(c) the taxpayer's loss, if any, from the disposition of the obligation shall be deemed to be nil; and

(d) paragraphs (4)(c) to (f) apply in respect of the asset.

Regulations: 4500 (prescribed time).

Forms: T2079: Elections re expropriation assets.

(6) Assets acquired from foreign affiliate of taxpayer on winding-up, etc. — Where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada would, on the assumption that the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada and its only foreign affiliates were corporations that were foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, be entitled to make an election under subsection (1) in respect of assets acquired by it that would, on that assumption, be expropriation assets of the foreign affiliate, and all or any of those assets are subsequently acquired by the taxpayer from the foreign affiliate,

(a) on the winding-up, discontinuance or reorganization of the business of the foreign affiliate, or

(b) as consideration for the redemption, cancellation or acquisition by the foreign affiliate of shares of its capital stock, if the taxpayer has so elected, in prescribed form and within prescribed time,

(c) in respect of all of the assets so acquired by the taxpayer from the foreign affiliate, subsection (1) applies in respect of each such asset, or

(d) in respect of all amounts received or to be received by the taxpayer as or on account of interest on all of the assets so acquired by the taxpayer from the foreign affiliate, subsection (2) applies in respect of each such asset, as if the assets were expropriation assets acquired by the taxpayer as consideration for the sale of foreign property that consisted of shares of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate owned by the taxpayer immediately before the assets were so acquired and that was sold to a particular issuer as described in subsection (1).

Regulations: 4500 (prescribed time).

Forms: T2079: Elections re expropriation assets.

(7) Definition of "adjusted principal amount" — In this section, "adjusted principal amount" to a taxpayer of an expropriation asset at any particular time means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of the principal amount of the asset and, in respect of each interest amount received by the taxpayer on the asset before the particular time, the lesser of the tax referred to in subparagraph (2)(b)(i) in respect of that interest amount and the proportion determined under subparagraph (2)(b)(ii) in respect thereof,

(b) the total of each amount received by the taxpayer before the particular time as an interest amount on the asset and each amount received by the taxpayer before the particular time as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, the principal amount of the asset.

(8) Currency in which adjusted principal amount to be computed or expressed — For the purposes of this section, the adjusted principal amount, at any particular time, of an expropriation asset or of any asset assumed for the purposes of this section to be an expropriation asset shall be computed in the currency in which the principal amount of the asset is, under the terms thereof, payable, except that for greater certainty, for the purposes of paragraph (2)(a), the adjusted principal amount at any particular time of such an asset is its adjusted principal amount at that time computed as provided in this subsection but expressed in Canadian currency.

(9) Election in respect of two or more expropriation assets acquired by taxpayer — For the purposes of subdivision c and subsection (2), and in applying subsections (7) and (8) for those purposes, where two or more expropriation assets that were

(a) issued by the government of a country other than Canada, or at the same time, or as compensation for, or consideration for the sale of, the same foreign property, have been acquired by a taxpayer and the taxpayer has so elected, in prescribed form and within prescribed time, in respect of all of the expropriation assets that were so issued or guaranteed by the government of that country and acquired by the taxpayer before the making of the election, all of those expropriation assets shall be considered to be a single expropriation asset that was issued or guaranteed by the government of that country and acquired by the taxpayer.

80.2 Reimbursement by taxpayer [resource royalties] — Where

(a) a taxpayer, under the terms of a contract, pays to another person an amount (in this subsection[9] referred to as the "specified payment") that may reasonably be considered to have been received by the other person as a reimbursement, contribution or allowance in respect of an amount (referred to in paragraph (b) as the "particular amount") paid or payable by the other person,

(b) the particular amount is included in the income of the other person or is denied as a deduction in computing the income of the other person by reason of paragraph 12(1)(o) or 18(1)(m), as the case may be, and

(c) the taxpayer was resident in Canada or carrying on business in Canada at the time the specified payment was made by the taxpayer, the following rules apply for the purposes of this Act, other than this section:

(d) the taxpayer shall be deemed neither to have made nor to have become obligated to make the specified payment to the other person but to have paid an amount described in paragraph 18(1)(m) equal to the amount of the specified payment, and

(e) the other person shall be deemed neither to have received nor to have become entitled to receive the specified payment from the taxpayer.

80.3 (1) [Income deferrals — livestock —] Definitions — In this section,

"breeding animals" means

(a) horses that are over 12 months of age and are kept for breeding in the commercial production of pregnant mares' urine, and

(b) deer, elk and other similar grazing ungulates, bovine cattle, bison, goats and sheep that are over 12 months of age and are kept for breeding;

History: Para. (b) of the definition "breeding animals" in subsec. 80.3(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 31, to add "deer, elk and other similar grazing ungulates", applicable to fiscal periods and taxation years ending after 1990.

"breeding herd" of a taxpayer at any time means the number determined by the formula

where

A is the total number of the taxpayer's breeding animals held in the course of carrying on a farming business at that time,

B is the total number of the taxpayer's breeding animals held in the business at that time that are female bovine cattle that have not given birth to calves, and

C is the lesser of the number determined as the value of B and one-half the total number of the taxpayer's breeding animals held in the business at that time that are female bovine cattle that have given birth to calves.

(2) Income deferral from the destruction of livestock — Where a particular amount in respect of the forced destruction of livestock under statutory authority in a taxation year of a taxpayer is included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year from a farming business, there may be deducted in computing that income such amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the particular amount.

Related Provisions: 28(1)(g) — Deduction for farmer using cash method; 80.3(3) — Inclusion of deferred amount; 80.3(6) — Where subsecs. (2) and (4) not to apply.

(3) Inclusion of deferred amount — The amount deducted under subsection (2) in computing the income of a taxpayer from a farming business for a taxation year shall be deemed to be income of the taxpayer from the business for the taxpayer's immediately following taxation year.

Related Provisions: 28(1)(d) — Amount under 80.3(3) to be added to income of farmer using cash method; 87(2)(tt) — Amalgamations — deferral of amounts received; 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up — rules applicable.

(4) Income deferral for sales in prescribed drought region — Where in a taxation year a taxpayer carries on a farming business in a region that is a prescribed drought region at any time in the year and the taxpayer's breeding herd at the end of the year in respect of the business does not exceed 85% of the taxpayer's breeding herd at the beginning of the year in respect of the business, there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income from the business for the year such amount as the taxpayer claims, not exceeding the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the amount by which

(a) the total of all amounts included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year from the business in respect of the sale of breeding animals in the year

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 20(1)(n) in computing the taxpayer's income from the business for the year in respect of an amount referred to in paragraph (a) of this description;

B is the total of all amounts deducted in computing the taxpayer's income from the business for the year in respect of the acquisition of breeding animals; and

(a) 30% where the taxpayer's breeding herd at the end of the year in respect of the business exceeds 70% of the taxpayer's breeding herd at the beginning of the year in respect of the business, and

(b) 90% where the taxpayer's breeding herd at the end of the year in respect of the business does not exceed 70% of the taxpayer's breeding herd at the beginning of the year in respect of the business.

Related Provisions: 28(1)(g) — Deduction for farmer using cash method; 80.3(5) — Inclusion of deferred amount; 80.3(6) — Where subsecs. (2) and (4) not to apply; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Regulations: 7305 (prescribed drought region).

(5) Inclusion of deferred amount — The amount deducted under subsection (4) in computing the income of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year from a farming business carried on in a prescribed drought region may, to the extent that the taxpayer so elects, be included in computing the taxpayer's income from the business for a taxation year ending after the particular taxation year, and shall, except to the extent that the amount has been included under this subsection in computing the taxpayer's income from the business for a preceding taxation year after the particular year, be deemed to be income of the taxpayer from the business for the taxation year of the taxpayer that is the earliest of

(a) the first taxation year beginning after the end of the period or series of continuous periods, as the case may be, for which the region is a prescribed drought region,

(b) the first taxation year, following the particular taxation year, at the end of which the taxpayer is

(i) non-resident, and

(ii) not carrying on business through a fixed place of business in Canada, and

(c) the taxation year in which the taxpayer dies.

Related Provisions: 28(1)(d) — Inclusion in farming or fishing income when using cash method.

History: Subsec. 80.3(5) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 59(1), applicable to fiscal periods and taxation years ending after 1987. Subsec. 80.3(5) formerly read:

(5) Inclusion of deferred amount — The amount deducted under subsection (4) in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year from a farming business carried on in a prescribed drought region shall be deemed to be income of the taxpayer from the business for the taxpayer's first taxation year commencing after the end of the period or series of continuous periods, as the case may be, for which the region was a prescribed drought region or, where the taxpayer has died before the beginning of that first taxation year, for the taxation year in which the taxpayer died, except to the extent that the amount has been included in computing the taxpayer's income from the business for a preceding taxation year.

Regulations: 7305 (prescribed drought regions for each year).

(6) Where subsecs. (2) and (4) do not apply — Subsections (2) and (4) do not apply to a taxpayer in respect of a farming business for a taxation year

(a) in which the taxpayer died; or

(b) where at the end of the year the taxpayer is non-resident and not carrying on the business through a fixed place of business in Canada.

History: Para. 80.3(6)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 59(2), applicable to fiscal periods and taxation years ending after 1987. Para. 80.3(6)(b) formerly read:

(b) where the taxpayer is not resident in Canada at the end of the year and at any time in the year did not carry on the business in Canada.

Pre-RSC History [s. 80.3]: S. 80.3 substituted by 1990, c. 39, s. 17, applicable to fiscal periods and taxation years ending after 1987. S. 80.3 formerly read:

80.3 (1) Income deferral from destruction of livestock — Where an amount that would otherwise be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year from the business of farming is an amount received or receivable (depending upon the method followed by the taxpayer in computing his income from that business for that year) by the taxpayer in respect of the forced destruction of livestock under statutory authority, that amount shall, except where the taxpayer has reported the amount as income in his return of income for the particular taxation year, be deemed to be income of the taxpayer from that business for his taxation year immediately following the particular taxation year.

(2) Where ss. (1) not to apply — Subsection (1) does not apply to an amount received or receivable, as the case may be, by a taxpayer in a taxation year in which he died or ceased to be a resident of Canada or in any subsequent taxation year.

S. 80.3 added by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 30, applicable to 1976 et seq.

History: Subsec. 80.4(1.1) added by 1999, c. 22, s. 22, applicable to loans received and debts incurred after February 23, 1998 except that, in its application to a loan received or a debt incurred after February 23, 1998 in respect of an eligible relocation of an individual in connection with which the individual begins employment at the new work location before October 1998, subsec. (1.1) does not apply to taxation years that end before 2001.

(2) Idem — Where a person (other than a corporation resident in Canada) or a partnership (other than a partnership each member of which is a corporation resident in Canada) was

(a) a shareholder of a corporation,

(b) connected with a shareholder of a corporation, or

(c) a member of a partnership, or a beneficiary of a trust, that was a shareholder of a corporation, and by virtue of such shareholding that person or partnership received a loan from, or otherwise incurred a debt to, that corporation, any other corporation related thereto or a partnership of which that corporation or any corporation related thereto was a member, the person or partnership shall be deemed to have received a benefit in a taxation year equal to the amount, if any, by which

(d) all interest on all such loans and debts computed at the prescribed rate on each such loan and debt for the period in the year during which it was outstanding

exceeds

(e) the amount of interest for the year paid on all such loans and debts not later than 30 days after the later of the end of the year and December 31, 1982.

(3) Where subsecs. (1) and (2) do not apply — Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply in respect of any loan or debt, or any part thereof,

(a) on which the rate of interest was equal to or greater than the rate that would, having regard to all the circumstances (including the terms and conditions of the loan or debt), have been agreed on, at the time the loan was received or the debt was incurred, between parties dealing with each other at arm's length if

(i) none of the parties received the loan or incurred the debt by virtue of an office or employment or by virtue of the shareholding of a person or partnership, and

(ii) the ordinary business of the creditor included the lending of money, except where an amount is paid or payable in any taxation year to the creditor in respect of interest on the loan or debt by a party other than the debtor; or

(b) that was included in computing the income of a person or partnership under this Part.

(5) Idem — Where an individual has, before November 13, 1981,

(a) received a housing loan, or

(b) made arrangements in writing in respect of a home purchase loan that would, if the loan were made before 1982, have been a housing loan, for the purpose of computing the amount of interest referred to in paragraph (1)(a) on the loan, the amount of the loan may be reduced

(c) for the 1982 taxation year, by the amount, if any, by which $40,000 exceeds the total of

(i) all amounts claimed as a reduction under this subsection for the year by the individual's spouse with whom the individual resided in the year, and

(ii) all amounts claimed as a reduction under this subsection for the year by the individual on all other loans, and

(d) for the 1983 taxation year, by the amount, if any, by which $20,000 exceeds the total of

(i) all amounts claimed as a reduction under this subsection for the year by the individual's spouse with whom the individual resided in the year, and

(ii) all amounts claimed as a reduction under this subsection for the year by the individual on all other loans.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-421R2: Benefits to individuals, corporations and shareholders from loans or debt.

(7) Definitions — In this section,

"home purchase loan" means that portion of any loan received or debt otherwise incurred by an individual in the circumstances described in subsection (1) that is used to acquire, or to repay a loan or debt that was received or incurred to acquire, a dwelling, or a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation acquired for the sole purpose of acquiring the right to inhabit a dwelling owned by the corporation, where the dwelling is for the habitation of

(a) the individual by virtue of whose office or employment the loan is received or the debt is incurred,

(b) a specified shareholder of the corporation by virtue of whose services the loan is received or the debt is incurred, or

(c) a person related to a person described in paragraph (a) or (b), or that is used to repay a home purchase loan;

History: That portion of "home purchase loan" preceding para. (a) in subsec. 80.4(7) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 60, applicable to 1985 et seq. That portion formerly read:

"home purchase loan" means that portion of any loan received or debt otherwise incurred by an individual in the circumstances described in subsection (1) that is used to acquire, or to repay a loan or debt that had been received or incurred to acquire, a dwelling for the habitation of

Para. 80.4(7)(a) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 25(3), to delete from subpara. (ii) "(within the meaning assigned by paragraph 125(9)(c))" located after "a specified shareholder" and to add after subpara. (iii) "or that is used to repay a home purchase loan; and", applicable to taxation years ending after 1981, except that subpara. (ii), as it read immediately prior to the coming into force of c. 45, shall continue to apply to the 1984 and prior taxation years.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-421R2: Benefits to individuals, corporations and shareholders from loans or debt.

"prescribed rate" of interest means

(a) 6% per annum before 1978,

(b) 8% per annum for 1978, and

(c) for any year, or part thereof, after 1978, such rate of interest as is prescribed therefor except that, for the purpose of computing the benefit under subsection (1) in a taxation year on a home purchase loan received after November 12, 1981 and before 1982, the prescribed rate of interest at the time the loan was received shall be deemed to be 16% per annum.

Regulations: 4301(c) (prescribed rate of interest for para. (c)).

(8) Persons connected with a shareholder — For the purposes of subsection (2), a person is connected with a shareholder of a corporation if that person does not deal at arm's length with the shareholder and if that person is a person other than

(a) a foreign affiliate of the corporation; or

(b) a foreign affiliate of a person resident in Canada with which the corporation does not deal at arm's length.

Pre-RSC History [s. 80.4]: S. 80.4 substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 44(1), applicable by 1984, c. 1, s. 111 (deemed to be in force on March 30, 1983), to taxation years ending after 1981 except that

(a) where the taxation year ended in 1982, subsections 80.4(1) and (2) of the said Act, as enacted by c. 140, shall not apply to the part of that taxation year that is before 1982; and

(b) subsection 80.4(2) of the said Act, as enacted by c. 140, shall not apply before July 1, 1983 in respect of any loan received or debt incurred before December 8, 1982 by a corporation that is not resident in Canada and that was not dealing at arm's length with the creditor corporation.

And (by 1980-81-82-83, subsec. 44(3)), in applying s. 80.4 for the 1980 and 1981 taxation years,

(a) para. 80.4(1)(d) shall be deemed to have read as follows:

"(d) the amount, if any, by which interest in respect of the taxation year on all loans each of which is described in paragraph (a), (a.1) or (b) (other than housing loans and excluded loans) received by him, computed at a prescribed rate per annum, exceeds the interest in respect of the taxation year paid by him before the end of the immediately following taxation year on all such loans,";

(b) subpara. 80.4(2)(a)(i) shall be deemed to have read as follows:

"(i) the portion of any loan described in paragraph (1)(a) or (a.1) made to an officer or employee of a corporation or to an individual who becomes an officer or employee of a corporation to enable or assist him to purchase fully paid shares of the capital stock of the corporation or of a corporation related thereto to be held by him for his own benefit,"; and

(c) para. 80.4(2)(b) shall be deemed to have read as follows:

"(b) "housing loan" means the portion of any loan made to

(i) an officer or employee or to his spouse, or

(ii) an individual who becomes an officer or employee or to his spouse, where such loan is made within ninety days preceding the day he becomes an officer or employee, by virtue of his office or employment, to enable or assist him or his spouse to acquire a dwelling for his habitation if the acquisition of that dwelling was made in the course of a change in his residence and he was (or would have been had he moved from a location in Canada after 1971 and incurred moving expenses) entitled to a deduction under section 62;"

S. 80.4 formerly read:

80.4 (1) Loans to officers, employees and shareholders — Where an individual

(a) is an officer or employee or is related to an officer or employee and has received a loan by virtue of his office or employment or the office or employment of a person to whom he is related,

(a.1) becomes an officer or employee, or is related to another person who becomes an officer or employee, and, within the ninety days preceding the day he or that other person becomes an officer or employee, has received a loan by virtue of his office or employment or the office or employment of that other person, or

(b) is a shareholder of a particular corporation or is related to a shareholder of a particular corporation and has received a loan (other than an excluded loan) from the particular corporation, from a corporation related to the particular corporation or from a partnership of which the particular corporation or a corporation related to the particular corporation is a member,

he shall be deemed to have received a benefit in a taxation year equal to the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of

(c) the amount, if any, by which interest in respect of the taxation year on all housing loans received by him, computed at a prescribed rate per annum, exceeds the aggregate of

(i) interest in respect of the taxation year paid by him before the end of the immediately following taxation year on all such loans, and

(ii) the product obtained when the prescribed rate per annum is multiplied by

(A) in the case of an individual whose spouse with whom he resided in the taxation year had a housing loan, an amount (in this subsection referred to as his "agreed amount") equal to such portion of $50,000 as has, by agreement between the individual and his spouse, been allocated to him and that, when added to the agreed amount of his spouse, does not exceed $50,000, and

(B) in any other case, $50,000, and

(d) the amount, if any, by which interest in respect of the taxation year on all loans described in paragraphs (a) and (b) (other than housing loans and excluded loans) received by him, computed at a prescribed rate per annum, exceeds the interest in respect of the taxation year paid by him before the end of the immediately following taxation year on all such loans,

exceeds

(e) in the case of the individual referred to in clause (c)(ii)(A), that proportion of $500 that his agreed amount is of $50,000, and

(f) in any other case, $500.

(1.1) Exception — Subsection (1) does not apply in any taxation year with respect to a loan referred to in paragraph (1)(a) or (a.1), unless the interest for the year that was paid thereon before the end of the immediately following taxation year is less than the interest that would have been payable thereon for the year if interest thereon were charged at the rate of interest specified for the year in which the loan was made or the year in which the terms or conditions relating to the loan were last modified, whichever year is later.

(2) Definitions — For the purposes of this section,

(a) "excluded loan" — "excluded loan" means

(i) the portion of any loan described in paragraph (1)(a) made to an officer or employee of a corporation to enable or assist him to purchase fully paid shares of the capital stock of the corporation or of a corporation related to it to be held by him for his own benefit,

(ii) the portion of any loan included in computing the income of the individual to whom it was made, and

(iii) a loan made by an individual (other than a trust) to an individual with whom he was not dealing at arm's length;

(b) "housing loan" — "housing loan" means the portion of any loan made to an officer or employee or to his spouse, by virtue of his office or employment, to enable or assist him or his spouse to acquire a dwelling for his habitation if the acquisition of that dwelling was made in the course of a change in his residence and he was (or would have been had he moved from a location in Canada after 1971 and incurred moving expenses) entitled to a deduction under section 62;

(c) "rate of interest specified for the year" — "rate of interest specified for the year" in respect of a loan means

(i) 6% per annum for any year before 1978,

(ii) 8% per annum for 1978, and

(iii) for any year after 1978, the rate of interest prescribed therefor for the purposes of subsection (1).

Subdivision g — Amounts Not Included in Computing Income

81. (1) Amounts not included in income — There shall not be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year,

(a) statutory exemptions — an amount that is declared to be exempt from income tax by any other enactment of Parliament, other than an amount received or receivable by an individual that is exempt by virtue of a provision contained in a tax convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada;

Proposed Amendment — First Nations taxation

In the 1997 budget, the federal government indicated its willingness to put into effect taxation arrangements with interested First Nations. Since that time, Parliament has passed legislation that allows the Cowichan Tribes and the Westbank First Nation to levy taxes on tobacco products sold on their respective reserves. In the case of the Westbank First Nation, a tax collection agreement has been concluded under which Revenue Canada will collect Westbank's tax.

The federal government has also been working, this past year, with the self-governing First Nations in the Yukon to facilitate the exercise of taxation powers provided in their self-government agreements. The discussions have focused on the co-ordination of the First Nations tax system with that of Canada through the use of tax collection agreements. The successful conclusion of these first tax collection agreements will open a new and important revenue source for these communities. The first such agreements will address the co-ordination of our respective personal income tax systems. The government has also identified co-ordination of corporate income taxes and sales taxes as subjects for discussion in the next year.

Building on the work of the last year, the federal government is once again expressing its willingness to continue discussions and to put into effect taxation arrangements with the First Nations that indicate an interest in exercising taxation powers.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, February 16, 1999: First Nations taxation

In the 1997 and 1998 budgets, the federal government indicated its willingness to put into effect taxation arrangements with interested First Nations. Since that time, Parliament has passed legislation that enables the Cowichan Tribes, the Westbank First Nation and the Kamloops Indian Band to levy a tax on sales of certain products on their reserves. In addition, personal income tax collection and sharing agreements with the seven self-governing Yukon First Nations came into effect on January 1, 1999. The federal government is once again expressing its willingness to discuss and to put into effect arrangements in respect of direct taxation with interested First Nations.

In the 1997, 1998 and 1999 budgets, the Government indicated its willingness to put into effect taxation arrangements with interested First Nations. Since that time, Parliament has passed legislation that enables the Cowichan Tribes, the Westbank First Nation, the Kamloops Indian Band and the Sliammon First Nation to levy a tax on sales of certain products on their reserves. In addition, personal income tax collection and sharing agreements with the seven self-governing Yukon First Nations came into effect on January 1, 1999. The Government is once again expressing its willingness to discuss and to put into effect arrangements in respect of direct taxation with interested First Nations.

(1.1) Interpretation — In paragraph (1)(s), "incremental payout" and "incremental resource royalty" have the same meanings as in the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act.

Subsec. 81(1.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 104, subsec. 31(2), applicable to 1982 et seq.

(2) M.L.A.'s expense allowance — Where an elected member of a provincial legislative assembly has, under an Act of the provincial legislature, been paid an allowance in a taxation year for expenses incident to the discharge of the member's duties in that capacity, the allowance shall not be included in computing the member's income for the year unless it exceeds ½ of the maximum fixed amount provided by law as payable to the member by way of salary, indemnity and other remuneration as a member in respect of attendance at a session of the legislature, in which event there shall be included in computing the member's income for the year only the amount by which the allowance exceeds ½ of that maximum fixed amount.

Related Provisions: 6(1)(b) — Allowances taxable, and exclusions.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-266: Taxation of members of provincial legislative assemblies.

(3) Municipal officers' expense allowance — Where a person who is

(a) an elected officer of an incorporated municipality,

(b) an officer of a municipal utilities board, commission or corporation or any other similar body, the incumbent of whose office as such an officer is elected by popular vote, or

(c) a member of a public or separate school board or similar body governing a school district, has been paid by the municipal corporation or the body of which the person was such an officer or member (in this subsection referred to as the person's "employer") an amount as an allowance in a taxation year for expenses incident to the discharge of the person's duties as such an officer or member, the allowance shall not be included in computing the person's income for the year unless it exceeds ½ of the amount that was paid to the person in the year by the person's employer as salary or other remuneration as such an officer or member, in which event there shall be included in computing the person's income for the year only the amount by which the allowance exceeds ½ of the amount so paid to the person by way of salary or remuneration.

Related Provisions: 6(1)(b) — Allowances taxable, and exclusions.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 81(3) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 44(4), applicable to 1974 et seq. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

(3) Where

(a) an elected officer of an incorporated municipality, or

(b) an officer of a school board or school district, a municipal utilities board, commission or corporation or any other similar

has been paid by the municipal corporation or the body of which he was such an officer (in this subsection referred to as his "employer") an amount as an allowance in a taxation year for expenses incident to the discharge of his duties as such an officer, the allowance shall not be included in computing his income for the year unless it exceeds ½ of the amount that was paid to him in the year by his employer as salary or other remuneration as such an officer, in which event there shall be included in computing his income for the year only the amount by which the allowance exceeds ½ of the amount so paid to him by way of salary or remuneration.

(3.1) Travel expenses — An amount received by an individual in respect of the individual's part-time employment by an employer with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length as an allowance for, or reimbursement of, travel expenses incurred during a period throughout which the individual had other employment or was carrying on a business shall not be included in computing the individual's income to the extent that it is paid by the employer and does not exceed a reasonable amount on account of travel expenses (other than expenses incurred in the performance of the duties of the individual's part-time employment) incurred by the individual in respect of that part-time employment, if the duties of the part-time employment are performed at a location not less than 80 kilometres from both the individual's ordinary place of residence and principal place of employment or business.

(3.1) Travel expenses — There shall not be included in computing an individual's income for a taxation year an amount (not in excess of a reasonable amount) received by the individual from an employer with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length as an allowance for, or reimbursement of, travel expenses incurred by the individual in the year in respect of the individual's part-time employment in the year with the employer (other than expenses incurred in the performance of the duties of the individual's part-time employment) if

(a) throughout the period in which the expenses were incurred,

(i) the individual had other employment or was carrying on a business, or

(ii) where the employer is a designated educational institution (as defined in subsection 118.6(1)), the duties of the individual's part-time employment were the provision in Canada of a service to the employer in the individual's capacity as a professor or teacher; and

(b) the duties of the individual's part-time employment were performed at a location not less than 80 kilometres from,

(i) where subparagraph (a)(i) applies, both the individual's ordinary place of residence and the place of the other employment or business referred to in that subparagraph, and

(ii) where subparagraph (a)(ii) applies, the individual's ordinary place of residence.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 36, will amend subsec. 81(3.1) to read as above, applicable to 1995 et seq. and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of an individual's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before 2000 shall be made that is necessary to take into account the application of subsec. 81(3.1).

Technical Notes: Section 81 of the Act lists various amounts which are not included in computing a taxpayer's income.

Subsection 81(3.1) of the Act excludes from income certain amounts received by a part-time employee in respect of travel expenses. In order to benefit from the exemption, the part-time employee is required to carry on a business or to have another employment. Since one of the purposes of this exemption is to facilitate the recruiting of part-time teachers by universities and other educational institutions located outside the major metropolitan areas, the amendment waives this particular requirement for individuals who are employed as professors or teachers by designated educational institutions. The term "designated educational institution", which is also used for the purposes of the tuition fee and education tax credits, is defined in subsection 118.6(1).

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 81(3.1) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140 subsec. 46(4), applicable with respect to travelling expenses incurred after 1981, to substitute "80 kilometres" for "50 miles".

Subsec. 81(3.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 43(2), applicable in respect of amounts received after 1979.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-522R: Vehicle, travel and sales expenses of employees.

(4) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 81(4) repealed by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 43(3), applicable after December 11, 1979. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Property subsequently substituted — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(g.1), (g.2) and (g.3), where a person who did own or hold property has disposed of it and acquired other property in substitution therefor and subsequently, by one or more further transactions, has effected one or more further substitutions, the property acquired by any such transaction shall be deemed to have been substituted for the property originally owned or held.

Subsec. 81(4) added by 1973-74, c.14, subsec. 23(3), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Proposed Addition — 81(4)

(4) Payments for volunteer services — Where

(a) an individual was employed or otherwise engaged in a taxation year by a government, municipality or public authority (in this subsection referred to as "the employer") and received in the year from the employer one or more amounts for the performance, as a volunteer, of the individual's duties as

(i) an ambulance technician,

(ii) a firefighter, or

(iii) a person who assists in the search or rescue of individuals or in other emergency situations, and

(b) if the Minister so demands, the employer has certified in writing that

(i) the individual was in the year a person described in paragraph (a), and

(ii) the individual was at no time in the year employed or otherwise engaged by the employer, otherwise than as a volunteer, in connection with the performance of any of the duties referred to in paragraph (a) or of similar duties, there shall not be included in computing the individual's income derived from the performance of those duties the lesser of $1,000 and the total of those amounts.

Related Provisions: 63(3)"earned income"(b) — Exempted amount included in earned income for child-care expense deduction.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 36, will add subsec. 81(4), applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes: New subsection 81(4) of the Act provides for an exemption equivalent to the deduction available under paragraph 8(1)(a), which is being repealed. The exemption applies to the first $1,000 of amounts received by an individual from a government, municipality or public authority for the performance, as a volunteer, of the individual's duties as an ambulance technician, a firefighter or a person who assists in the search or rescue of individuals or in other emergency situations. The exemption is granted under the same conditions as was the deduction under paragraph 8(1)(a).

CCRA news release, February 22, 2000: Tax Tips: What is changing for emergency volunteers this year?

In 1999, you may have received an allowance from a government, municipality or other public authority as an emergency worker for performing as a volunteer ambulance technician, fire fighter, in search and rescue, or in some other emergency capacity.

If you received an allowance, the T4 slip issued by such an authority will generally show only the taxable part of the allowance. This is the part that is more than $1,000. However, it is important to remember that if you were employed by the same authority for work other than as a volunteer, for the same or similar duties, the whole allowance will be taxable.

(5) Election — Where a taxpayer or a person described in paragraph (1)(g.1) has acquired capital property under the circumstances described in that paragraph, the taxpayer or the person may, in the return of income of the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the taxpayer attains the age of 21 years, elect to treat any such capital property held by the taxpayer or person as having been disposed of on the day immediately preceding the day on which the taxpayer attained the age of 21 years for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property on that day and the person or taxpayer making the election shall be deemed to have reacquired that property immediately thereafter at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Subdivision h — Corporations Resident in Canada and Their Shareholders

82. (1) Taxable dividends received — In computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, there shall be included

(a) the total of

(i) all amounts each of which is a taxable dividend received by the taxpayer in the year as part of a dividend rental arrangement of the taxpayer from a corporation resident in Canada or a taxable dividend received by the taxpayer in the year from a corporation resident in Canada that is not a taxable Canadian corporation,

(i.1) where the taxpayer is a trust, all amounts each of which is all or part of a taxable dividend (other than a taxable dividend described in subparagraph (i)) that was received by the trust in the year on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation and that can reasonably be considered as having been included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust who was non-resident at the end of the year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts received by the taxpayer in the year from corporations resident in Canada as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, taxable dividends, other than an amount included in computing the income of the taxpayer because of subparagraph (i) or (i.1)

exceeds

(B) where the taxpayer is an individual, the total of all amounts paid by the taxpayer in the year that are deemed by subsection 260(5) to have been received by another person as taxable dividends,

plus

(b) where the taxpayer is an individual, other than a trust that is a registered charity, 1/4 of the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(ii) in respect of the taxpayer for the year.

History: Subpara. 82(1)(a)(i.1) added and cl. 82(1)(a)(ii)(A) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 114(1) and (2), applicable to taxation years that end after April 26, 1995. Cl. 82(1)(a)(ii)(A) formerly read:

(A) the total of all amounts received by the taxpayer in the year from corporations resident in Canada as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, taxable dividends, other than an amount included in computing the income of the taxpayer by reason of subparagraph (i),

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 82(1) substituted by 1990, c. 39, s. 18, applicable to 1989 et seq. except that no amount shall be included in the aggregate determined under cl. 82(1)(a)(ii)(B) in respect of an amount paid before June 1989. (See also subsec. 82(1.1).) Subsec. (1) formerly read:

82. (1) In computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, there shall be included

(a) all amounts received by him in the year from corporations resident in Canada as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, taxable dividends,

plus

(b) where the taxpayer is an individual, other than a trust that is a registered charity, 1/4 of the aggregate of all amounts described in paragraph (a) received by him in the year from taxable Canadian corporations.

Para. 82(1)(b) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 54(1), to substitute "1/4" for "1/3", applicable with respect to taxable dividends received in taxation years ending after 1987.

All that portion of subsec. 82(1) following para. (a) amended by 1986, c. 55, s. 22, to substitute "⅓" for "½", applicable to taxable dividends received after 1986.

Para. 82(1)(b) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, s. 36, applicable in respect of taxable dividends received after 1977, to substitute "½" for "⅓".

Para. 82(1)(b) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 31.1, applicable to 1977 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

> (b) where the taxpayer is an individual, other than a trust referred to in paragraph 149(1)(h), ⅓ of the aggregate of all amounts described in paragraph (a) received by him in the year from taxable Canadian corporations.

Para. 82(1)(b) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 45, applicable to 1972 et seq.

(1.1) Limitations as to subpara. (1)(a)(i) — An amount shall be included in the amounts described in subparagraph (1)(a)(i) in respect of a taxable dividend received at any time as part of a dividend rental arrangement only where that dividend was received on a share acquired before that time and after April, 1989.

Origin of subsec. 82(1.1): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the application rule for subsec. 82(1) in 1990, c. 39, subsec. 18(2)).

(2) Certain dividends [deemed] received by taxpayer — Where by reason of subsection 56(4) or (4.1) or sections 74.1 to 75 of this Act or section 74 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, there is included in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year a dividend received by another person, for the purposes of this Act, the dividend shall be deemed to have been received by the taxpayer.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 82(2) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 54(2), applicable to dividends received after June 18, 1987. Subsec. (2) formerly read:

> (2) Certain dividends deemed received by taxpayer — Where, by virtue of subsection 56(4) or sections 74 to 75, there is included in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year a dividend received by some other person, for the purposes of this section and sections 112 and 121, the dividend shall be deemed to have been received by the taxpayer.

Subsec. 82(2) amended by 1986, c. 6, s. 41, applicable after May 21, 1985, to substitute "sections 74 to 75" for "section 74 or 75".

(3) Dividends received by spouse — Where the amount that would, but for this subsection, be deductible under subsection 118(1) by reason of paragraph 118(1)(a) in computing a taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for a taxation year is less than the amount that would be so deductible if no amount were required by subsection (1) to be included in computing the income for the year of the taxpayer's spouse and the taxpayer so elects in the taxpayer's return of income for the year under this Part, all amounts described in paragraph (1)(a) received in the year from taxable Canadian corporations by the taxpayer's spouse shall be deemed to have been so received by the taxpayer and not by the spouse.

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1) "common-law partner".

Related Provisions: 220(3.2) — Late filing of election or revocation; 252(4) — Extended meaning of "spouse"; Reg. 600(b) — Late filing of election or revocation.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 82(3) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 54(3), applicable to 1988 et seq. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

> (3) Where the amount that would, but for this subsection, be deductible under paragraph 109(1)(a) from a taxpayer's income for a taxation year is less than the amount that would be deductible under that paragraph from his income for the year if no amount were required by subsection (1) to be included in computing his spouse's income for the year and the taxpayer so elects in his return of income for the year under this Part, all amounts described in paragraph (1)(a) received in the year from taxable Canadian corporations by the taxpayer's spouse shall be deemed to have been so received by the taxpayer and not by his spouse.

83. (1) Qualifying dividends — Where a qualifying dividend has been paid by a public corporation to shareholders of a series of tax-deferred preferred shares of a class of the capital stock of the corporation that were outstanding on March 31, 1977, the following rules apply:

(a) no part of the qualifying dividend shall be included in computing the income of any shareholder of the corporation by virtue of this subdivision; and

(b) in computing the adjusted cost base to any shareholder of the corporation of any tax-deferred preferred share of the corporation owned by the shareholder, there shall be deducted in respect of the qualifying dividend an amount as provided by subparagraph 53(2)(a)(i).

Related Provisions: 83(3) — Late filed elections; 83(6) — "Qualifying dividend" defined; 89(3) — Simultaneous dividends; 184 — Tax on excessive elections.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 83(1) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 37(1), applicable in respect of dividends payable after 1978, except that with respect to dividends that became payable after March 31, 1977 and before 1979 subsec. (1) shall be read as follows:

> 83. (1) Dividend out of tax-paid undistributed surplus or 1971 capital surplus — Where at any particular time after 1971 and before 1979, a particular dividend becomes payable by a Canadian corporation to shareholders of a particular class of shares of its capital stock, if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed manner and prescribed form and at or before the particular time or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier than the particular time, the following rules apply:
> (a) the dividend shall be deemed to be payable out of the corporation's tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand to the extent of such amount as the corporation may claim not exceeding the lesser of the amount of the dividend and the corporation's tax-

paid undistributed surplus on hand immediately before the particular time;

(b) the dividend shall be deemed to be payable out of the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand to the extent of the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the dividend exceeds the portion of the dividend deemed by paragraph (a) to be payable out of the corporation's tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand, and

(ii) the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand immediately before the particular time;

(c) no part of the dividend shall be included in computing the income of any shareholder of the corporation by virtue of this subdivision, except to the extent that the dividend was received by a non-resident-owned investment corporation and was deemed by paragraph (c.1) to be a taxable dividend;

(c.1) where the corporation is a corporation other than a non-resident-owned investment corporation and, immediately before the particular time, it had 1971 undistributed income on hand or had, after March 31, 1977 and before the particular time, received a dividend from another corporation related to it that

(i) was payable out of the other corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand, and

(ii) would, had the corporation not been resident in Canada, have been deemed to be a taxable dividend by virtue of this paragraph, such portion of the particular dividend deemed to be payable out of the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand as was received by a person who was a non-resident or a non-resident-owned investment corporation and who, either alone or together with other non-residents or non-resident-owned investment corporations related to him, controls directly or indirectly the corporation, shall, to the extent that such portion exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(iii) the amount, if any, by which the corporation's paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares of its capital stock as determined on March 31, 1977 exceeds the amount determined on that date in respect of that class of that class of shares under clause 89(1)(c)(ii)(A) of this Act as it read on that date

(iv) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the portion of a dividend in respect of the particular class of shares deemed to be payable out of the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand after March 31, 1977 and before the particular time that was received by a person who was a non-resident or a non-resident-owned investment corporation and who, either alone or together with other non-residents or non-resident-owned investment corporations related to him, controlled directly or indirectly the corporation at the time the dividend was paid

be deemed to be a taxable dividend for the purposes of subparagraph 53(2)(a)(i), section 133 and subsection 212(2) but not for the purposes of subparagraph 89(1)(l)(xviii); and

(d) in computing the adjusted cost base to any shareholder of the corporation of any share of the particular class of the capital stock of the corporation owned by him, there shall be deducted in respect of the dividend an amount as provided by subparagraph 53(2)(a)(i).

Subsec. (1) formerly read:

83. (1) Dividend out of tax-paid undistributed surplus or 1971 capital surplus — Where at any particular time after 1971 a dividend becomes payable by a Canadian corporation to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock, if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed manner and prescribed form and at or before the particular time or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier than the particular time, the following rules apply:

(a) the dividend shall be deemed to be payable out of the corporation's tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand to the extent of the lesser of the amount of the dividend and the corporation's tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand immediately before the particular time;

(b) the dividend shall be deemed to be payable out of the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand to the extent of the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the dividend exceeds the aggregate of the corporation's 1971 undistributed income on hand immediately before the particular time and the portion of the dividend deemed by paragraph (a) to be payable out of the corporation's tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand, and

(ii) the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand immediately before the particular time;

(c) no part of the dividend shall be included in computing the income of any shareholder of the corporation by virtue of this subdivision; and

(d) in computing the adjusted cost base to any shareholder of the corporation of any share of the capital stock of the corporation owned by him, there shall be deducted in respect of the dividend an amount as provided by subparagraph 53(2)(a)(i).

All that portion of subsec. 83(1) preceding para. (c) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 24(1), applicable with respect to any dividend that became payable after 1971.

Regulations: 2107 (tax-deferred preferred series).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-67R3: Taxable dividends from corporations resident in Canada; IT-379R: Employees profit sharing plans — allocations to beneficiaries; IT-465R: Non-resident beneficiaries of trusts.

(2) Capital dividend — Where at any particular time after 1971 a dividend becomes payable by a private corporation to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock and the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed manner and prescribed form and at or before the particular time or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier than the particular time, the following rules apply:

(a) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital dividend to the extent of the corporation's capital dividend account immediately before the particular time; and

(b) no part of the dividend shall be included in computing the income of any shareholder of the corporation.

History [subsec. 83(2.1)]: Subsec. 83(2.1) added by 1988, c. 55, s. 55, applicable with respect to dividends paid after 4 p.m. EDST, September 25, 1987.

Pre-RSC History [former subsec. 83(2.1)]: Former subsec. 83(2.1) repealed by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 42(1), applicable with respect to dividends paid after May 23, 1985. Subsec. (2.1) formerly read:

(2.1) Idem — Where at any particular time after June 28, 1982 a dividend becomes payable by a private corporation to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock and the corporation elects, in prescribed form and manner, before the later of

(a) June 30, 1983, and

(b) the particular time or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier than the particular time in respect of the full amount of the dividend, the following rules apply:

(c) the dividend shall be deemed to be a life insurance capital dividend to the extent of the corporation's life insurance capital dividend account immediately before the particular time; and

(d) no part of the dividend shall be included in computing the income of any shareholder of the corporation.

Subsec. 83(2.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec, 47(1), applicable with respect to dividends paid after June 28, 1982.

(2.2) Where subsec. (2.1) does not apply — Subsection (2.1) does not apply in respect of a particular dividend, in respect of which an election is made under subsection (2), paid on a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation to an individual where it is reasonable to consider that all or substantially all of the capital dividend account of the particular corporation immediately before the particular dividend became payable consisted of amounts other than any amount

(a) added to that capital dividend account under paragraph (b) of the definition "capital dividend account" in subsection 89(1) in respect of a dividend received on a share of the capital stock of another corporation, which share (or another share for which the share was substituted) was acquired by the particular corporation in a transaction or as part of a series of transactions one of the main purposes of which was that the particular corporation receive the dividend, but not in respect of a dividend where it is reasonable to consider that the purpose of paying the dividend was to distribute an amount that was received by the other corporation and included in computing the other corporation's capital dividend account by reason of paragraph (d) of that definition;

(b) added to that capital dividend account under paragraph 87(2)(z.1) as a result of an amalgamation or winding-up or a series of transactions including the amalgamation or winding-up that would not have been so added had the amalgamation or winding-up occurred or the series of transactions been commenced after 4:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, September 25, 1987;

(c) added to that capital dividend account at a time when the particular corporation was controlled, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatever, by one or more non-resident persons; or

(d) in respect of a capital gain from a disposition of a property by the particular corporation or another corporation that may reasonably be considered as having accrued while the property (or another property for which it was substituted) was a property of a corporation that was controlled, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatever, by one or more non-resident persons.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property; 248(10) — Series of transactions; 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-66R6: Capital dividends.

(2.3) Idem — Subsection (2.1) does not apply in respect of a dividend, in respect of which an election is made under subsection (2), paid on a share of the capital stock of a corporation where it is reasonable to consider that the purpose of paying the dividend was to distribute an amount that was received by the corporation and included in computing its capital dividend account by reason of paragraph (d) of the definition "capital dividend account" in subsection 89(1).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-66R6: Capital dividends.

(2.4) Idem — Subsection (2.1) does not apply in respect of a particular dividend, in respect of which an election is made under subsection (2), paid on a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation to a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "related corporation") related (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the particular corporation where it is reasonable to consider that all or substantially all of the capital dividend account of the particular corporation immediately before the particular dividend became payable consisted of amounts other than any amount

(a) added to that capital dividend account under paragraph (b) of the definition "capital dividend account" in subsection 89(1) in respect of a dividend received on a share of the capital stock of another corporation if it is reasonable to consider that any portion of the capital dividend account of that other corporation immediately before that dividend became payable consisted of amounts added to that account under paragraph 87(2)(z.1) or paragraph (b) of that definition as a result of a transaction or a series of transactions that would not have been so added had the transaction occurred or the series of transactions been commenced after 4:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, September 25, 1987;

(b) that represented the capital dividend account of a corporation before it became related to the related corporation;

(c) added to the capital dividend account of the particular corporation at a time when that corporation was controlled, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatever, by one or more non-resident persons;

(d) in respect of a capital gain from a disposition of a property by the particular corporation or another corporation that may reasonably be considered as having accrued while the property (or another property for which it was substituted) was a property of a corporation that was controlled, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatever, by one or more non-resident persons; or

(e) in respect of a capital gain from a disposition of a property (or another property for which it was substituted) that may reasonably be considered as having accrued while the property or the other property was a property of a person that was not related to the related corporation.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property; 248(10) — Series of transactions; 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact.

Pre-RSC History [subsecs. 83(2.1)–(2.4)]: Subsecs. 83(2.1) to (2.4) added by 1988, c. 55, s. 55, applicable with respect to dividends paid after 4 p.m. EDST, September 25, 1987.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-66R6: Capital dividends.

(3) Late filed elections — Where at any particular time after 1974 a dividend has become payable by a corporation to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock, and subsection (1) or (2) would have applied to the dividend except that the election referred to therein was not made on or before the day on or before which the election was required by that subsection to be made, the election shall be deemed to have been made at the particular time or on the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid, whichever is the earlier, if

(a) the election is made in prescribed manner and prescribed form;

(b) an estimate of the penalty in respect of that election is paid by the corporation when that election is made; and

(c) the directors or other person or persons legally entitled to administer the affairs of the corporation have, before the time the election is made, authorized the election to be made.

Related Provisions: 83(3.1) — Request for late filed election; 83(4) — Penalty for late filed election; 83(5) — Unpaid balance of penalty.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 83(3) preceding para. (a) amended by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 42(2), applicable with respect to dividends paid after May 23, 1985, to substitute "subsection (1) or (2)" for "subsection (1), (2) or (2.1)".

All that portion of subsec. 83(3) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 47(2), applicable after June 28, 1982, to add reference to "subsec. (2.1)".

Subsec. 83(3) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 32, applicable in respect of dividends that became payable after December 31, 1974.

Subsec. 83(3) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 46, applicable in respect of dividends that became payable after 1974.

Regulations: 2101(e) (prescribed manner, prescribed form).

Forms: T2054: Election for a capital dividend.

(3.1) Request for election — The Minister may at any time, by written request served personally or by registered mail, request that an election referred to in subsection (3) be made by a taxpayer, and where the taxpayer on whom such a request is served does not comply therewith within 90 days of service thereof on the taxpayer, subsection (3) does not apply to such an election made by the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 244(5), (6) — Proof of service; 248(7) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 83(3.1) added by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 32, applicable in respect of dividends that became payable after December 31, 1974.

(4) Penalty for late filed election — For the purposes of this section, the penalty in respect of an election referred to in paragraph (3)(a) is an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) 1% per annum of the amount of the dividend referred to in the election for each month or part of a month during the period commencing with the time that the dividend became payable, or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier, and ending with the day on which that election was made, and

(b) the product obtained when $500 is multiplied by the proportion that the number of months or parts of months during the period referred to in paragraph (a) bears to 12.

Related Provisions: 83(5) — Unpaid balance of penalty.

Pre-RSC History: Paras. 83(4)(a), (b) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 32, applicable in respect of dividends that became payable after December 31, 1974.

Subsec. 83(4) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 46, applicable in respect of dividends that became payable after 1974.

(5) Unpaid balance of penalty — The Minister shall, with all due dispatch, examine each election referred to in paragraph (3)(a), assess the penalty payable and send a notice of assessment to the corporation and the corporation shall pay, forthwith to the Receiver General, the amount, if any, by which the penalty so assessed exceeds the total of all amounts previously paid on account of that penalty.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 83(5) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 46, applicable in respect of dividends that become payable after 1974.

(6) Definition of "qualifying dividend" — For the purposes of subsection (1), "qualifying dividend" means a dividend on shares of a series of a class of the capital stock of a public corporation that is prescribed to be a tax-deferred preferred series that became payable by the corporation after 1978 and not later than

(a) where the terms as at March 31, 1977 of the shares of that series entitled the holder of any such share to exchange it after a particular date for a share or shares of another series or class of preferred shares of the capital stock of the corporation, that particular date,

(b) where the terms as at March 31, 1977 of the shares of that series required the corporation to offer to purchase at a time not later than a particular date all of the shares of that series from all of the holders of those shares, that particular date, and

(c) in any other case, October 1, 1991, whichever is applicable in respect of that series of shares, except that a dividend on shares of such a series that would otherwise be a qualifying dividend shall be deemed not to be a qualifying dividend if

(d) at the time that the dividend became payable, the terms of the shares of that series differ from the terms as at March 31, 1977 of the shares of that series, or

(e) after March 31, 1977 the corporation issued additional shares of that series.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 83(6) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 37(3), applicable in respect of dividends payable after 1978.

Regulations: 2107 (tax-deferred preferred series).

(7) Amalgamation where there are tax-deferred preferred shares — For the purposes of this section, where, after March 31, 1977, there has been an amalgamation within the meaning of section 87 and one or more of the predecessor corporations had a series of shares outstanding on March 31, 1977 that was prescribed to be a tax-deferred preferred series, the following rules apply:

(a) the series of shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation that was prescribed to be a tax-deferred preferred series shall be deemed to have been continued in existence in the form of the new shares; and

(b) the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each such predecessor corporation.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 83(7) added by 1977-78, c. 32, s. 17, applicable in respect of dividends payable after 1978.

Regulations: 2107 (tax-deferred preferred series).

84. (1) Deemed dividend — Where a corporation resident in Canada has at any time after 1971 increased the paid-up capital in respect of the shares of any particular class of its capital stock, otherwise than by

(a) payment of a stock dividend,

(b) a transaction by which

(i) the value of its assets less its liabilities has been increased, or

(ii) its liabilities less the value of its assets have been decreased, by an amount not less than the amount of the increase in the paid-up capital in respect of the shares of the particular class,

(c) a transaction by which the paid-up capital in respect of the shares of all other classes of its capital stock has been reduced by an amount not less than the amount of the increase in the paid-up capital in respect of the shares of the particular class,

(c.1) where the corporation is an insurance corporation, any action by which it converts contributed surplus related to its insurance business into paid-up capital in respect of the shares of its capital stock,

(c.2) where the corporation is a bank, any action by which it converts any of its contributed surplus that arose on the issuance of shares of its capital stock into paid-up capital in respect of shares of its capital stock, or

(c.3) where the corporation is neither an insurance corporation nor a bank, any action by which it converts into paid-up capital in respect of a class of shares of its capital stock any of its contributed surplus that arose after March 31, 1977

(i) on the issuance of shares of that class or shares of another class for which the shares of that class were substituted (other than an issuance to which section 51, 66.3, 84.1, 85, 85.1, 86 or 87, subsection 192(4.1) or 194(4.1) or section 212.1 applied),

(ii) on the acquisition of property by the corporation from a person who at the time of the acquisition held any of the issued shares of that class or shares of another class for which shares of that class were substituted for no consideration or for consideration that did not include shares of the capital stock of the corporation, or

(iii) as a result of any action by which the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares or in respect of shares of another class for which shares of that class were substituted was reduced by the corporation, to the extent of the reduction in paid-up capital that resulted from the action, the corporation shall be deemed to have paid at that time a dividend on the issued shares of the particular class equal to the amount, if any, by which the amount of the increase in the paid-up capital exceeds the total of

(d) the amount, if any, of the increase referred to in subparagraph (b)(i) or the decrease referred to in subparagraph (b)(ii), as the case may be,

(e) the amount, if any, of the reduction referred to in paragraph (c), and

(f) the amount, if any, of the increase in the paid-up capital that resulted from a conversion referred to in paragraph (c.1), (c.2) or (c.3), and a dividend shall be deemed to have been received at that time by each person who held any of the issued shares of the particular class immediately after that time equal to that proportion of the dividend so deemed to have been paid by the corporation that the number of the shares of the particular class held by the person immediately after that time is of the number of the issued shares of that class outstanding immediately after that time.

(iii) on the reduction by the corporation of the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares or in respect of shares of another class for which shares of that class were substituted,

Para. (c.3) formerly read:

of a class of shares of its capital stock any of its contributed surplus that arose after March 31, 1977

(i) on the issuance of shares of that class or shares of another class for which the shares of that class were substituted (other than an issuance to which section 51, 66.3, 84.1, 85, 85.1, 86 or 87, subsection 192(4.1) or 194(4.1) or section 212.1 applied),

(ii) on the acquisition of property by the corporation from a person who at the time of the acquisition held any of the issued shares of that class or shares of another class for which shares of that class were substituted for no consideration or for consideration that did not include shares of the capital stock of the corporation, or

(iii) on the reduction by the corporation of the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares or in respect of shares of another class for which shares of that class were substituted,

Para. 84(1)(c.3) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 62(1), applicable to actions occurring after July 13, 1990. Para. (c.3) formerly read:

(c.3) where the corporation is a corporation other than an insurance corporation or a bank, any action by which it converts any of its contributed surplus that arose on the issuance, after March 31, 1977, of shares of a class of its capital stock (other than an issuance to which section 51, 66.3, 84.1, 85, 85.1, 86 or 87, subsection 192(4.1) or 194(4.1) or section 212.1 applied) into paid-up capital in respect of shares of that class of its capital stock,

(a), as enacted by subsec. 38(1), shall, with respect to transactions or events occurring after March 31, 1977 and before 1978, be read as follows:

(3) Redemption, etc. — Where at any time after March 31, 1977 a corporation resident in Canada has redeemed, acquired or cancelled in any manner whatever (otherwise than by way of a transaction described in subsection (2) or a transaction in respect of which the corporation is required to pay tax under section 182) any of the shares of any class of its capital stock,

Subsec. (3) formerly read:

(3) Where at any time after 1971 a corporation resident in Canada has redeemed, acquired or cancelled in any manner whatever (otherwise than by way of a transaction described in subsection (2)) any of the shares of any class of its capital stock, the corporation shall be deemed to have paid at that time a dividend on a class of shares comprising the shares so redeemed, acquired or cancelled, equal to,

(a) in the case of any such shares in respect of the redemption or acquisition of which the corporation is required to pay tax under section 182, the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of those shares immediately before that time exceeds the paid-up capital limit of the corporation immediately before that time, and

(b) in the case of any other such shares, the amount, if any, by which the amount paid by the corporation on the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, as the case may be, of those shares exceeds the lesser of

(i) the paid-up capital in respect of those shares immediately before that time, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital limit of the corporation immediately before that time exceeds the amount that was its paid-up capital in respect of the shares referred to in paragraph (a) so redeemed, acquired or cancelled at that time, and a dividend shall be deemed to have been received at that time by each person who held any of those shares at that time equal to the aggregate of

(c) that proportion of the excess referred to in paragraph (a) that the number of those shares held by him immediately before that time and described in that paragraph is of the total number of those shares described in that paragraph, and

(d) that proportion of the excess referred to in paragraph (b) that the number of those shares held by him immediately before that time and not described in paragraph (a) is of the total number of those shares not described in that paragraph.

(4) Reduction of paid-up capital — Where at any time after March 31, 1977 a corporation resident in Canada has reduced the paid-up capital in respect of any class of shares of its capital stock otherwise than by way of a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of any shares of that class or a transaction described in subsection (2) or (4.1),

(a) the corporation shall be deemed to have paid at that time a dividend on shares of that class equal to the amount, if any, by which the amount paid by it on the reduction of the paid-up capital, exceeds the amount by which the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares of the corporation has been so reduced; and

(b) a dividend shall be deemed to have been received at that time by each person who held any of the issued shares at that time equal to that proportion of the amount of the excess referred to in paragraph (a) that the number of the shares of that class held by the person immediately before that time is of the number of the issued shares of that class outstanding immediately before that time.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 84(4) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 18(1), applicable in respect of amounts paid after April 10, 1978, to add "or (4.1)".

All that portion of subsec. 84(4) preceding para. (b) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 38(1), applicable with respect to transactions occurring after March 31, 1977. That portion formerly read:

(4) Where at any time after 1971 a corporation resident in Canada has reduced the paid-up capital in respect of any shares of any class of its capital stock otherwise than by way of a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of those shares or a transaction described in subsection (2),

(a) the corporation shall be deemed to have paid at that time a dividend on shares of that class equal to the amount, if any, by which the amount paid by it on the reduction of the paid-up capital exceeds the paid-up capital limit of the corporation immediately before that time, and

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-67R3: Taxable dividends from corporations resident in Canada; IT-243R4: Dividend refund to private corporations; IT-450R: Share for share exchange.

(4.1) Deemed dividend on reduction of paid-up capital — Where at any time after April 10, 1978, a public corporation has reduced the paid-up capital in respect of any class of shares of its capital stock otherwise than by way of a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of any shares of that class or a transaction described in subsection (2) or section 86, any amount paid by it on the reduction of the paid-up capital shall be deemed to have been paid by the corporation and received by the person to whom it was paid, as a dividend.

Proposed Amendment — 84(4.1)

Letter from Department of Finance, July 2, 1998:

Dear [xxx]

This is in reply to your letter of June 30, 1998 to Davine Roach of the Department regarding the application of subsection 84(4.1) of the Income Tax Act to your client.

As you know, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 84(4.1) of the Income Tax Act be amended. The amendment would provide that subsection 84(4.1) apply only in respect of a reduction in the paid-up capital of a class of shares to the extent that a previous increase in the paid-up capital of that class resulted in a dividend in respect of which the taxpayer elected to treat the dividend as having been paid out of the taxpayer's 1971 CSOH.

It would be recommended that such an amendment be effective for paid-up capital reductions occurring after 1996. If the recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

Letter from Department of Finance, May 12, 1999:

Dear [xxx]

This is in reply to your letter of April 23, 1999 regarding subsection 84(4.1) of the Income Tax Act as it applies to your client, [xxx].

Based on our understanding of the facts described in your letter, [xxx] has been refocusing its business activity in an effort to improve profitability. To this end, [xxx] has been disposing of businesses that are inconsistent with its aviation services business. The last disposition was scheduled to close by the end of [xxx]. As a result of these dispositions, [xxx] has capital in excess of its future business requirements. Consequently, [xxx] may want to reduce the stated capital of its common shares with a payment of cash to its shareholders in an amount equal to the reduction. The amount of any such reduction has not been determined.

As you know, we believe that subsection 84(2) of the Income Tax Act may apply to this proposed reduction in stated capital. While the Department of National Revenue would determine the applicability of subsection 84(2) in the circumstances, it is our understanding that the Department has ruled in circumstances where they have been satisfied that the conditions set out in subsection 84(2) have been met. Given that subsection 84(2) of the Income Tax Act would appear to render the appropriate tax results on the proposed reduction of stated capital, your concerns about subsection 84(4.1) of the Income Tax Act may not be warranted.

However, as you are aware, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 84(4.1) of the Income Tax Act be amended so that it applies only in respect of certain reductions of the paid-up capital of a class of shares of a corporation. Based on our understanding of the facts associated with [xxx]'s proposed reduction of the stated capital of its common shares, we do not regard the distribution as a substitution for an ordinary-course dividend and therefore are prepared to recommend that such a reduction be excluded from the application of subsection 84(4.1). If the recommendation were acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in the next technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

Related Provisions: 53(2)(a) — Reduction in ACB; 84(4) — Reduction of paid-up capital; 89(3) — Simultaneous dividends; 128.1(3) — Addition to PUC of corporation that previously became resident in Canada; 131(4) — S. 84 does not apply to mutual fund corporation.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 84(4.1) added by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 18(2), applicable in respect of amounts paid after April 10, 1978.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-243R4: Dividend refund to private corporations; IT-450R: Share for share exchange.

(4.2) Deemed dividend on term preferred share — Where, at any time after November 16, 1978, the paid-up capital in respect of a term preferred share owned by a shareholder that is

(a) a specified financial institution, or

(b) a partnership or trust of which a specified financial institution or a person related to such an institution was a member or a beneficiary, was reduced otherwise than by way of a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share or of a transaction described in subsection (2) or (4.1), the amount received by the shareholder on the reduction of the paid-up capital in respect of the share shall be deemed to be a dividend received by the shareholder at that time unless the share was not acquired in the ordinary course of the business carried on by the shareholder.

Related Provisions: 89(3) — Simultaneous dividends; 131(4) — S. 84 does not apply to mutual fund corporation; 248(13) — Interests in trusts or partnerships.

(4.3) Deemed dividend on guaranteed share — Where at any time after 1987 the paid-up capital in respect of a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation owned

(a) by a shareholder that is another corporation to which subsection 112(2.2) or (2.4) would, if the particular corporation were a taxable Canadian corporation, apply to deny the deduction under subsection 112(1) or (2) or 138(6) of a dividend received on the share, or

(b) by a partnership or trust of which such other corporation is a member or beneficiary, as the case may be,

was reduced otherwise than by way of a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share or of a transaction described in subsection (2) or (4.1), the amount received by the shareholder on the reduction of the paid-up capital in respect of the share shall be deemed to be a dividend received by the shareholder at that time.

Related Provisions: 89(3) — Simultaneous dividends; 131(4) — S. 84 does not apply to mutual fund corporation; 248(13) — Interests in trusts or partnerships.

Pre-RSC History: Subsecs. 84(4.2), (4.3) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 56(2), applicable with respect to reductions of paid-up capital occurring after 1987.

(5) Amount distributed or paid where a share — Where

(a) the amount of property distributed by a corporation or otherwise appropriated to or for the benefit of its shareholders as described in paragraph (2)(a), or

(b) the amount paid by a corporation as described in paragraph (3)(a) or (4)(a),

includes a share of the capital stock of the corporation, for the purposes of subsections (2) to (4) the following rules apply:

(c) in computing the amount referred to in paragraph (a) at any time, the share shall be valued at an amount equal to its paid-up capital at that time, and

(d) in computing the amount referred to in paragraph (b) at any time, the share shall be valued at an amount equal to the amount by which the paid-up capital in respect of the class of shares to which it belongs has increased by virtue of its issue.

Related Provisions: 51(3), 86(2.1) — Computation of paid-up capital after share exchange.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 84(5) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 38(2), applicable to transactions occurring after 1976 except that in its application to transactions occurring before April 1, 1977, the reference in para. 84(5)(b) to para (3)(a) shall be read as a reference to para. (3)(b). Subsec. (5) formerly read:

(5) Where

(a) the amount of the property distributed or appropriated by a corporation as described in paragraph (2)(a), or

(b) the amount paid by a corporation as described in paragraph (3)(b) or (4)(a),

includes a share of the capital stock of the corporation, for the purposes of subsections (2) to (4) the following rules apply:

(c) in computing that amount at any time, the share shall be valued at an amount equal to the paid-up capital in respect of the share at that time; and

(d) the value of the share shall be included in computing the paid-up capital limit of the corporation immediately before that time.

(6) Where subsec. (2) or (3) does not apply — Subsection (2) or (3), as the case may be, is not applicable

(a) in respect of any transaction or event, to the extent that subsection (1) is applicable in respect of that transaction or event; and

(b) in respect of any purchase by a corporation of any of its shares in the open market, if the corporation acquired those shares in the manner in which shares would normally be purchased by any member of the public in the open market.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 84(6)(a) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 56(3), to substitute "to the extent that" for "if", applicable to transactions and events occurring after April 1988.

(7) When dividend payable — A dividend that is deemed by this subsection or section 84.1, 128.1 or 212.1 to have been paid at a particular time is deemed, for the purposes of this subdivision and sections 131 and 133, to have become payable at that time.

Related Provisions: 15(1) — Appropriation of property to a shareholder.

History: Subsec. 84(7) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 23, applicable after February 23, 1998. It formerly read:

(7) A dividend that is deemed by this section or section 84.1 or 212.1 to have been paid at a particular time shall be deemed, for the purposes of this subdivision and sections 131 and 133, to have become payable at that time.

Subsec. 84(7) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 62(3), applicable with respect to dividends paid after 1988. Subsec. (7) formerly read:

(7) A dividend that is deemed by this section or by section 212.1 to have been paid at a particular time shall be deemed, for the purposes of this subdivision, to have become payable at that time.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 84(7) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 38(3), applicable with respect to transactions occurring after March 31, 1977. Subsec. (7) formerly read:

(7) A dividend that is deemed by this section or section 84.1 to have been paid at a particular time shall be deemed, for the purposes of this subdivision, to have become payable at that time.

Subsec. 84(7) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 47, applicable to dividends deemed to have been paid after November 18, 1974, to add reference to s. 84.1.

(8) Where subsec. (3) does not apply — Subsection (3) does not apply to deem a dividend to have been received by a shareholder of a public corporation where the shareholder is an individual resident in Canada who deals at arm's length with the corporation and the shares redeemed, acquired or cancelled are prescribed shares of the capital stock of the corporation.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 84(8) substituted by 1986, c. 6, s. 43, applicable to transactions and events occurring after May 23, 1985. Subsec. (8) formerly read:

(8) Application — Subsections (1) to (4) do not apply to deem a dividend to have been received by a shareholder of a public corporation unless, at the time the dividend was paid, the shareholder was

(a) a non-resident person;

(b) a person resident in Canada who did not deal at arm's length with the corporation;

(c) a private corporation;

(d) a corporation that was not a private corporation and the dividend was received in the course of a series of transactions or events to which subsection 55(2) would, but for paragraph 55(3)(b), apply; or

(e) a corporation that would not, in respect of the dividend, be entitled to a deduction under section 112 or subsection 138(6) in computing its taxable income, and, where the shareholder was a person described in paragraph (b), the dividend was paid in respect of a security other than an indexed security.

All that portion of subsec. 84(8) following para. (e) or added by 1984, c. 1, s. 37, applicable with respect to dividends paid after September 30, 1983.

Subsec. 84(8) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, s. 48(1), applicable with respect to dividends paid after November 12, 1981.

Regulations: 6206 (prescribed shares — Class I shares of Reed Stenhouse).

(9) Shares disposed of on redemptions, etc. — For greater certainty it is declared that where a shareholder of a corporation has disposed of a share of the capital stock of the corporation as a result of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share by the corporation, the shareholder shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to have disposed of the share to the corporation.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 84(9) added by 1985, c. 45, s. 40.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-243R4: Dividend refund to private corporations; IT-444R: Corporations — involuntary dissolutions; IT-484R2: Business investment losses.

(10) Reduction of contributed surplus — For the purpose of paragraph (1)(c.3), there shall be deducted in determining at any time a corporation's contributed surplus that arose after March 31, 1977 in any manner described in that paragraph the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which the amount of a dividend paid by the corporation at or before that time and after March 31, 1977 and when it was a public corporation exceeded its retained earnings immediately before the payment of the dividend, and

(b) the amount of its contributed surplus immediately before the payment of the dividend referred to in paragraph (a) that arose after March 31, 1977.

Related Provisions: 84(11) — Computation of contributed surplus; 87(2)(y) — Amalgamations — contributed surplus.

History: Subsec. 84(10) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 62(4), applicable to the determination after July 13, 1990 of the contributed surplus of a corporation.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-463R2: Paid-up capital.

(11) Computation of contributed surplus — For the purpose of subparagraph (1)(c.3)(ii), where the property acquired by the corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "acquiring corporation") consists of shares (in this subsection referred to as the "subject shares") of any class of the capital stock of another corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as the "subject corporation") and, immediately after the acquisition of the subject shares, the subject corporation would be connected (within the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 186(4) if the references in that subsection to

"payer corporation" and "particular corporation" were read as "subject corporation" and "acquiring corporation", respectively) with the acquiring corporation, the contributed surplus of the acquiring corporation that arose on the acquisition of the subject shares shall be deemed to be the lesser of

(a) the amount added to the contributed surplus of the acquiring corporation on the acquisition of the subject shares, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of the subject shares at the time of the acquisition exceeded the fair market value of any consideration given by the acquiring corporation for the subject shares.

Related Provisions: 84(10) — Reduction of contributed surplus.

History: Subsec. 84(11) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 35(2), applicable to actions occurring after December 20, 1992.

84.1 (1) Non-arm's length sale of shares — Where after May 22, 1985 a taxpayer resident in Canada (other than a corporation) disposes of shares that are capital property of the taxpayer (in this section referred to as the "subject shares") of any class of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada (in this section referred to as the "subject corporation") to another corporation (in this section referred to as the "purchaser corporation") with which the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length and, immediately after the disposition, the subject corporation would be connected (within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(4) if the references therein to "payer corporation" and to "particular corporation" were read as "subject corporation" and "purchaser corporation" respectively) with the purchaser corporation,

(a) where shares (in this section referred to as the "new shares") of the purchaser corporation have been issued as consideration for the subject shares, in computing the paid-up capital, at any particular time after the issue of the new shares, in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation, there shall be deducted an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the increase, if any, determined without reference to this section as it applies to the acquisition of the subject shares, in the paid-up capital in respect of all shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation as a result of the issue of the new shares,

B is the amount, if any, by which the greater of

(i) the paid-up capital, immediately before the disposition, in respect of the subject shares, and

exceeds the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of any consideration (other than the new shares) received by the taxpayer from the purchaser corporation for the subject shares, and

C is the increase, if any, determined without reference to this section as it applies to the acquisition of the subject shares, in the paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares as a result of the issue of the new shares; and

(b) for the purposes of this Act, a dividend shall be deemed to be paid to the taxpayer by the purchaser corporation and received by the taxpayer from the purchaser corporation at the time of the disposition in an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the increase, if any, determined without reference to this section as it applies to the acquisition of the subject shares, in the paid-up capital in respect of all shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation as a result of the issue of the new shares,

D is the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of any consideration (other than the new shares) received by the taxpayer from the purchaser corporation for the subject shares,

E is the greater of

(i) the paid-up capital, immediately before the disposition, in respect of the subject shares, and

(ii) subject to paragraphs (2)(a) and (a.1), the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the subject shares, and

F is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required to be deducted by the purchaser corporation under paragraph (a) in computing the paid-up capital in respect of any class of shares of its capital stock by virtue of the acquisition of the subject shares.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(a)(iii), 53(2)(p) — Reductions in adjusted cost base; 54"proceeds of disposition"(k) — Exclusion of deemed dividend from proceeds; 84(7) — When dividend payable; 84.1(2) — Non-arm's length sale of shares; 85(2.1) — Alternative reduction in paid-up capital of new shares; 89(1) — Definitions; 212.1 — Similar rule for non-residents; 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: That portion of para. 84.1(1)(b) preceding the formula amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 63(1), to add "and received by the taxpayer from the purchaser corporation", applicable to dispositions occurring after May 22, 1985.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 84.1(1) substituted by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 44(1), applicable in respect of dispositions made after May 22, 1985. Subsec. (1) formerly read:

84.1 (1) Where, at any particular time in a taxation year and after April 10, 1978, a taxpayer resident in Canada (other than a corporation) disposes of shares that are capital property of the taxpayer (in this section referred to as the "subject shares") of any class of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada (in this section referred to as the "subject corporation") to another corporation (in this section referred to as the "purchaser corporation"), with which the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length and, immediately after the disposition, the subject corporation is connected (within the meaning of subsection 186(4) on the assumption that the references therein to "payer corporation" and to "particular corporation" were read as "subject corporation" and "purchaser corporation" respectively) with the purchaser corporation,

(a) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the subject shares immediately before the disposition, and

(ii) the fair market value of any consideration (other than any debt owing by, or share of the capital stock of, the purchaser corporation) received by the taxpayer for the subject shares from the purchaser corporation,

exceeds

(iii) the paid-up capital in respect of the subject shares immediately before the disposition shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the taxation year from the disposition of a capital property; and

(b) in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer at any time after the particular time of any property received by the taxpayer as consideration for the subject shares that was any particular debt owing by the purchaser corporation or any particular share of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation, there shall be deducted from the adjusted cost base of that property to the taxpayer otherwise determined, an amount equal to that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) the adjusted cost base referred to in subparagraph (a)(i), and

(ii) the aggregate of the fair market value referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii), the principal amounts of all such particular debts and the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of all the shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation is increased by virtue of the issue of all such particular shares,

exceeds

(iii) the greater of the fair market value referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) and the paid-up capital referred to in subparagraph (a)(iii), that the cost to the taxpayer of the particular debt or share, as the case may be, is of the aggregate of the costs to him of all such particular debts and particular shares so received as consideration for the subject shares.

Subpara. 84.1(1)(b)(ii) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, s. 49(1), applicable with respect to dispositions occurring after November 12, 1981. Subpara. (b)(ii) formerly read:

(ii) the aggregate of the fair market value referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) and the principal amounts of all such particular debts and the paid-up capital in respect of all such particular shares,

All that portion of subsec. 84.1(1) preceding para. (a) substituted, by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 19(1), applicable in respect of dispositions after April 10, 1978. That portion formerly read:

84.1 (1) Where, at any particular time in a taxation year and after March 31, 1977, a taxpayer resident in Canada (other than a corporation) disposes of shares that are capital property of the taxpayer (in this section referred to as the "subject shares") of any class of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada (in this section referred to as the "subject corporation") to another corporation (in this section referred to as the "purchaser corporation"), that, immediately after the disposition, does not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer, and immediately after the disposition the purchaser corporation controls (within the meaning of subsection 186(2)) the subject corporation,

Subsec. 84.1(1) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, s. 39, applicable in respect of dispositions after March 31, 1977. Subsec. (1) formerly read:

84.1 (1) Deemed dividend on repayment of debt — Where, at any time before a particular time and after November 18, 1974, a corporation incurred any debt as consideration for the purchase of shares of the capital stock of a second corporation and,

(a) at any time before the debt was incurred, any particular person, or the group of persons to whom the debt was owed at the time it was incurred,

(i) controlled the second corporation, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, or

(ii) beneficially owned shares of the capital stock of the second corporation representing more than 50% of its paid-up capital, and

(b) at any time before the particular time, the particular person or group of persons referred to in paragraph (a)

(i) controlled the corporation, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever,

(ii) beneficially owned shares of the capital stock of the corporation representing more than 50% of its paid-up capital, or

(iii) held an amount of debt payable by the corporation that exceeded the paid-up capital of the corporation, at a time when shares of the capital stock of the corporation representing more than 50% of its paid-up capital were beneficially owned by

(A) that particular person,

(B) that group of persons,

(C) persons related to the particular person or any member of the group of persons, or

(D) any combination of persons referred to in clause (A), (B) or (C),

the following rules apply:

(c) where the corporation has, at the particular time, made any payment on account of that debt, or any other debt substituted for that debt,

(i) a dividend shall be deemed to have been paid by the corporation at the particular time equal to the lesser of

(A) the amount of that payment, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the aggregate of the payment referred to in clause (A) and all payments made before the particular time on account of that debt, or any other debt substituted therefor,

exceeds

(II) the debt limit of the corporation in respect of that debt,

(ii) a dividend shall be deemed to have been received at the particular time, by each person who received any portion of that payment, equal to that proportion of the dividend so deemed to have been paid by the corporation at that time that the portion of that payment received by that person is of the amount of that payment, and

(iii) section 83 (except paragraph 83(1)(d)) shall be applicable to the dividend referred to in subparagraph (i) as though the persons referred to in subparagraph (ii) were shareholders of a class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, and

(d) where any portion of that debt, or any debt substituted for that debt, is converted into shares of the capital stock of the corporation, an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the portion of that debt, or any debt substituted for that debt, that was so converted, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount of the debt owed by the corporation at the time it was incurred,

exceeds

(B) debt limit of the corporation in respect of that debt shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraph 89(1)(d)(iv.1) at any time after the time of the conversion.

(2) Idem — For the purposes of this section,

(a) where a share disposed of by a taxpayer was acquired by a taxpayer before 1972, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the share at any time shall be deemed to be the total of

(i) the amount that would be its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer if the Income Tax Application Rules were read without reference to subsections 26(3) and (7) of that Act, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the taxpayer after 1971 and before that time as a dividend on the share and in respect of which the corporation that paid the dividend has made an election under subsection 83(1);

(a.1) where a share disposed of by a taxpayer was acquired by the taxpayer after 1971 from a person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, was a share substituted for such a share or was a share substituted for a share owned by the taxpayer at the end of 1971, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the share at any time shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer, otherwise determined, exceeds the total of

(i) where the share or a share for which the share was substituted was owned at the end of 1971 by the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer did not deal at arm's length, the amount in respect of that share equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value of the share or the share for which it was substituted, as the case may be, on valuation day (within the meaning assigned by section 24 of the Income Tax Application Rules)

exceeds the total of

(B) the actual cost (within the meaning assigned by subsection 26(13) of that Act) of the share or the share for which it was substituted, as the case may be, on January 1, 1972, to the taxpayer or the person with whom the taxpayer did not deal at arm's length, and

(C) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the taxpayer or the person with whom the taxpayer did not deal at arm's length after 1971 and before that time as a dividend on the share or the share for which it was substituted and in respect of which the corporation that paid the dividend has made an election under subsection 83(1), and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined after 1984 under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(i) in respect of a previous disposition of the share or a share for which the share was substituted (or such lesser amount as is established by the taxpayer to be the amount in respect of which a deduction under section 110.6 was claimed) by the taxpayer or an individual with whom the taxpayer did not deal at arm's length;

(b) in respect of any disposition described in subsection (1) by a taxpayer of shares of the capital stock of a subject corporation to a purchaser corporation, the taxpayer shall, for greater certainty, be deemed not to deal at arm's length with the purchaser corporation if the taxpayer

(i) was, immediately before the disposition, one of a group of fewer than 6 persons that controlled the subject corporation, and

(ii) was, immediately after the disposition, one of a group of fewer than 6 persons that controlled the purchaser corporation, each member of which was a member of the group referred to in subparagraph (i); and

(c) [Repealed]

(d) a trust and a beneficiary of the trust or a person related to a beneficiary of the trust shall be deemed not to deal with each other at arm's length.

(e) [Repealed]

(a.2) for the purposes of paragraph (a.1), where a corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "issuing corporation") issues previously unissued shares of a class of its capital stock (in this paragraph referred to as the "new shares") to a taxpayer, the taxpayer and the issuing corporation shall be deemed not to have been dealing with each other at arm's length at the time the new shares were acquired by the taxpayer;

. . . . .

(c) for the purposes of determining whether or not a taxpayer referred to in paragraph (b) was a member of a group of fewer than 6 persons that controlled a corporation at any time, any shares of the capital stock of that corporation owned at that time by

(i) the taxpayer's child (within the meaning assigned by subsection 70(10)), who is under 18 years of age, or the taxpayer's spouse,

(ii) a trust of which the taxpayer, a person described in subparagraph (i) or a corporation described in subparagraph (iii), is a beneficiary, or

(iii) a corporation controlled by the taxpayer, by a person described in subparagraph (i), by a trust described in subparagraph (ii) or by any combination thereof shall be deemed to be owned at that time by the taxpayer and not by the person who actually owned the shares at that time;

(e) for the purpose of paragraph (b),

(i) a group of persons in respect of a corporation means any 2 or more persons each of whom owns shares of the capital stock of the corporation,

(ii) a corporation that is controlled by one or more members of a particular group of persons in respect of that corporation shall be considered to be controlled by that group of persons, and

(iii) a corporation may be controlled by a person or a particular group of persons notwithstanding that the corporation is also controlled or deemed to be controlled by another person or group of persons.

(2.01) Rules for para. 84.1(2)(a.1) — For the purpose of paragraph (2)(a.1),

> (a) where at any time a corporation issues a share of its capital stock to a taxpayer, the taxpayer and the corporation are deemed not to be dealing with each other at arm's length at that time;
> (b) where a taxpayer is deemed by paragraph 110.6(19)(a) to have reacquired a share, the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the share at the beginning of February 23, 1994 from a person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length; and
> (c) where a share owned by a particular person, or a share substituted for that share, has by one or more transactions or events between persons not dealing at arm's length become vested in another person, the particular person and the other person are deemed at all times not to be dealing at arm's length with each other whether or not the particular person and the other person coexisted.

History: Subsec. 84.1(2.01) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 115(4), applicable to 1994 et seq., except that para. 84.1(2.01)(c) is applicable in respect of the determination of the adjusted cost base of a share after June 20, 1996.

(2.1) Idem — For the purposes of subparagraph (2)(a.1)(ii), where the taxpayer or an individual with whom the taxpayer did not deal at arm's length (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor") disposes of a share in a taxation year and claims an amount under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) in computing the gain for the year from the disposition, the amount in respect of which a deduction under section 110.6 was claimed in respect of the transferor's gain from the disposition shall be deemed to be equal to the lesser of

> (ii) all amounts deducted under section 110.6 in computing the taxable income of the transferor for the year in respect of taxable capital gains from dispositions of property to which this subsection does not apply were deducted before determining the maximum amount that could have been deducted under section 110.6 in respect of the taxable capital gain from the disposition, > and, for the purposes of subparagraph (ii), 3/4 of the total of all amounts determined under this subsection for the year in respect of other property disposed of before the disposition of the share shall be deemed to have been deducted under section 110.6 in computing the taxable income of the transferor for the year in respect of the taxable capital gain from the disposition of property to which this subsection does not apply, and, for the purposes of this subsection, where more than one share to which this subsection applies is disposed of in the year, each such share shall be deemed to have been separately disposed of in the order designated by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year.

History: Subsec. 84.1(2.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 62(4), applicable to dispositions occurring after July 13, 1990.

(2.2) Rules for para. 84.1(2)(b) — For the purpose of paragraph (2)(b),

(a) in determining whether or not a taxpayer referred to in that paragraph was a member of a group of fewer than 6 persons that controlled a corporation at any time, any shares of the capital stock of that corporation owned at that time by

(i) the taxpayer's child (as defined in subsection 70(10)), who is under 18 years of age, or the taxpayer's spouse,

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

(ii) a trust of which the taxpayer, a person described in subparagraph (i) or a corporation described in subparagraph (iii), is a beneficiary, or

(iii) a corporation controlled by the taxpayer, by a person described in subparagraph (i) or (ii) or by any combination of those persons or trusts are deemed to be owned at that time by the taxpayer and not by the person who actually owned the shares at that time;

(b) a group of persons in respect of a corporation means any 2 or more persons each of whom owns shares of the capital stock of the corporation;

(c) a corporation that is controlled by one or more members of a particular group of persons in respect of that corporation is considered to be controlled by that group of persons; and

(d) a corporation may be controlled by a person or a particular group of persons even though the corporation is also controlled or deemed to be controlled by another person or group of persons.

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Extended meaning of "controlled".

History: Subsec. 84.1(2.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 115(5), in force on June 18, 1998.

(3) Addition to paid-up capital — In computing the paid-up capital at any time after May 22, 1985 in respect of any class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of the class paid after May 22, 1985 and before that time by the corporation

exceeds

(ii) the total of such dividends that would be determined under subparagraph (i) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (1)(a), and

(b) the total of all amounts required by paragraph (1)(a) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares after May 22, 1985 and before that time.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 84.1(3) substituted by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 44(3), applicable in respect of dispositions made after May 22, 1985. Subsec. 84.1(3) formerly read:

(3) Where ss. (1) not to apply — Notwithstanding subsection (1), this section does not apply in respect of any share of the capital stock of a subject corporation that would otherwise be a subject share referred to in that subsection in respect of a taxpayer referred to therein, if the share was acquired by the taxpayer referred to therein after 1971 and it was owned after 1971 and before the taxpayer acquired it by a person with whom the taxpayer was dealing at arm's length.

84.2 (1) Computation of paid-up capital in respect of particular class of shares — In computing the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation at any particular time after March 31, 1977,

(a) there shall be deducted that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of all of the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation on April 1, 1977, determined without reference to this section, exceeds the greater of

(i) the amount that the paid-up capital limit of the corporation would have been on March 31, 1977 if paragraph 89(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read at that date, were read without reference to clause 89(1)(d)(iv.1)(F) of that Act and without reference to all subparagraphs of paragraph 89(1)(d) of that Act except subparagraphs 89(1)(d)(iv.1) and (vii) of that Act, and that the paid-up capital on April 1, 1977, determined without reference to this section, in respect of the particular class of shares is of the paid-up capital on April 1, 1977, determined without reference to this section, in respect of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the corporation; and

(b) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3) or (4) to be a dividend on shares of the particular class paid by the corporation after March 31, 1977 and before the particular time

exceeds

(B) the total that would be determined under clause (A) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the amount required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital of shares of the particular class.

(2) Debt deficiency — In computing, after March 31, 1977, the adjusted cost base to an individual of a debt that was owing to the individual by a corporation on March 31, 1977, there shall be deducted the amount of any dividend that would have been deemed to have been received by the individual on that day if the corporation had paid the debt in full on that day.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(p) — Deduction from ACB; 84.2(3) — Where debt converted to shares.

(3) Idem — Where, after March 31, 1977 and before 1979, any debt referred to in subsection (2) owing by a corporation and held by an individual on March 31, 1977 and continuously after that date until conversion, is converted into shares of a particular class of the capital stock of the corporation,

(a) subsection (2) shall not apply in respect of the debt; and

(b) in computing the paid-up capital in respect of the shares of the particular class at any particular time after the conversion,

(i) there shall be deducted the amount by which the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the debt would, but for paragraph (a), have been reduced by virtue of subsection (2), and

(ii) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all amounts deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of the particular class paid by the corporation after the conversion and before the particular time,

exceeds

(II) the total that would be determined under subclause (I) if this Act were read without reference to subparagraph (i), and

(B) the amount required by subparagraph (i) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital of shares of the particular class.

Pre-RSC History: Subcl. 84.2(3)(b)(ii)(A)(I) substituted by 1977-78, c. 32, s. 20, applicable after April 10, 1978, to add reference to subsec. 84(4.1).

84.2 Special rules relating to shares issued or debt incurred before November 19, 1974 — Where a corporation has, at any particular time before July 1976, notified the Minister in writing that it wishes

(a) to have subparagraph 89(1)(d)(iv.1) apply to all shares, if any, issued by it before November 19, 1974, and the following rules apply:

(b) to have section 84.1 apply to all debt, if any, incurred by it before November 19, 1974,

(c) subsection 89(6) shall not apply for the purposes of computing the paid-up capital deficiency of the corporation at any time after the particular time,

(d) section 84.1 shall be read without reference to "and after November 18, 1974",

(e) the amount of any dividend that the corporation would, by virtue of paragraph 84.1(1)(c), be deemed to have paid in respect of payments, before the particular time, of or on account of any debt incurred by the corporation prior to November 19, 1974, or any debt substituted for that debt, shall be deemed to be nil,

(f) subparagraph 84.1(2)(b)(iii) shall be read as "the paid-up capital limit of the second corporation at the time the debt was incurred or on November 18, 1974, where that day is later",

(g) subparagraph 84.1(2)(b)(iv) shall be read as "the paid-up capital, at the time the debt was incurred, of the shares of the second corporation so purchased (on the assumption that paragraph 89(1)(c) applied at that time)", and

(h) no direction shall be made under subsection 247(1) in respect of any amount received, after the particular time, by a taxpayer in respect of

(i) any disposition of or reduction in the paid-up capital of shares referred to in paragraph (a), or

(ii) any payment on account of debt referred to in paragraph (b) or any debt substituted therefor.

85. (1) Transfer of property to corporation by shareholders [rollover] — Where a taxpayer has, in a taxation year, disposed of any of the taxpayer's property that was eligible property to a taxable Canadian corporation for consideration that includes shares of the capital stock of the corporation, if the taxpayer and the corporation have jointly elected in prescribed form and in accordance with subsection (6), the following rules apply:

(a) the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property shall be deemed to be the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the property and the corporation's cost of the property;

(b) subject to paragraph (c), where the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property is less than the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of the consideration therefor (other than any shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the taxpayer, the amount so agreed on shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed on by them, be deemed to be an amount equal to that fair market value;

(c) where the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property is greater than the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of the property so disposed of, the amount so agreed on shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed on, be deemed to be an amount equal to that fair market value;

(c.1) where the property was inventory, capital property (other than depreciable property of a prescribed class), a NISA Fund No. 2 or a property that is eligible property because of paragraph (1.1)(g) or (g.1), and the amount that the taxpayer and corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property is less than the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition, and

(ii) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at the time of the disposition, the amount so agreed on shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed on by them, be deemed to be an amount equal to the lesser of the amounts described in subparagraphs (i) and (ii);

(c.2) subject to paragraphs (b) and (c) and notwithstanding paragraph (c.1), where the taxpayer carries on a farming business the income from which is computed in accordance with the cash method and the property was inventory owned in connection with that business immediately before the particular time the property was disposed of to the corporation,

(i) the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation agreed on in their election in respect of inventory purchased by the taxpayer shall be deemed to be equal to the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount that would be included because of paragraph 28(1)(c) in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxpayer's last taxation year beginning before the particular time if that year had ended immediately before the particular time,

B is the value (determined in accordance with subsection 28(1.2)) to the taxpayer immediately before the particular time of the purchased inventory in respect of which the election is made,

C is the value (determined in accordance with subsection 28(1.2)) of all of the inventory purchased by the taxpayer that was owned by the taxpayer in connection with that business immediately before the particular time, and

D is such additional amount as the taxpayer and the corporation designate in respect of the property,

(ii) for the purpose of subparagraph 28(1)(a)(i), the disposition of the property and the receipt of proceeds of disposition therefor shall be deemed to have occurred at the particular time and in the course of carrying on the business, and

(iii) where the property is owned by the corporation in connection with a farming business and the income from that business is computed in accordance with the cash method, for the purposes of section 28,

(A) an amount equal to the cost to the corporation of the property shall be deemed to have been paid by the corporation, and

(B) the corporation shall be deemed to have purchased the property for an amount equal to that cost, at the particular time and in the course of carrying on that business;

(d) where the property was eligible capital property in respect of a business of the taxpayer and the amount that, but for this paragraph, would be the proceeds of disposition of the property is less than the least of

(i) 4/3 of the taxpayer's cumulative eligible capital in respect of the business immediately before the disposition,

(ii) the cost to the taxpayer of the property, and

(iii) the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition,

the amount agreed on by the taxpayer and the corporation in their election in respect of the property shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed on by them, be deemed to be the least of the amounts described in subparagraphs (i) to (iii);

(d.1) for the purpose of determining after the time of the disposition the amount to be included under paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the corporation's income, there shall be added to the amount otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the taxpayer's business immediately before the time of the disposition,

B is the fair market value immediately before that time of the eligible capital property disposed of to the corporation by the taxpayer,

C is the fair market value immediately before that time of all eligible capital property of the taxpayer in respect of the business,

D is the amount, if any, that would be included under subsection 14(1) in computing the taxpayer's income as a result of the disposition if

(i) the amounts determined for C and D in subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) were zero, and

(ii) paragraph 14(1)(b) were read as follows:

"(b) in any other case, the excess shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income from that business for that year.", and

E is the amount, if any, that would be included under subsection 14(1) in computing the taxpayer's income as a result of the disposition if the amount determined for D in subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) were zero;

(e) where the property was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the taxpayer and the amount that, but for this paragraph, would be the proceeds of disposition thereof is less than the least of

(i) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of all property of that class immediately before the disposition,

(ii) the cost to the taxpayer of the property, and

(iii) the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition,

the amount agreed on by the taxpayer and the corporation in their election in respect of the property shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed on by them, be deemed to be the least of the amounts described in subparagraphs (i) to (iii);

(e.1) where two or more properties, each of which is a property described in paragraph (d) or each of which is a property described in paragraph (e), are disposed of at the same time, paragraph (d) or (e), as the case may be, applies as if each property so disposed of had been separately disposed of in the order designated by the taxpayer before the time referred to in subsection (6) for the filing of an election in respect of those properties or, if the taxpayer does not so designate any such order, in the order designated by the Minister;

(e.2) where the fair market value of the property immediately before the disposition exceeds the greater of

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of the consideration received by the taxpayer for the property disposed of by the taxpayer, and

(ii) the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property, determined without reference to this paragraph,

and it is reasonable to regard any part of the excess as a benefit that the taxpayer desired to have conferred on a person related to the taxpayer (other than a corporation that was a wholly owned corporation of the taxpayer immediately after the disposition), the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation agreed on in their election in respect of the property shall, regardless of the amount actually so agreed on by them, be deemed (except for the purposes of paragraphs (g) and (h)) to be an amount equal to the total of the amount referred to in subparagraph (ii) and that part of the excess;

(e.3) where, under any of paragraphs (c.1), (d) and (e), the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property (in this paragraph referred to as "the elected amount") would be deemed to be an amount that is greater or less than the amount that would be deemed, subject to paragraph (c), to be the elected amount under paragraph (b), the elected amount shall be deemed to be the greater of

(i) the amount deemed by paragraph (c.1), (d) or (e), as the case may be, to be the elected amount, and

(ii) the amount deemed by paragraph (b) to be the elected amount;

(e.4) where

(i) the property is depreciable property of a prescribed class of the taxpayer and is a passenger vehicle the cost to the taxpayer of which was more than $20,000 or such other amount as may be prescribed, and

(ii) the taxpayer and the corporation do not deal at arm's length, the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of the class immediately before the disposition, except that, for the purposes of subsection 6(2), the cost to the corporation of the vehicle shall be deemed to be an amount equal to its fair market value immediately before the disposition;

(f) the cost to the taxpayer of any particular property (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the particular property at the time of the disposition, and

(ii) that proportion of the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of the property disposed of by the taxpayer to the corporation that

(A) the amount determined under subparagraph (i)

is of

(B) the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of all properties (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition;

(g) the cost to the taxpayer of any preferred shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be the lesser of the fair market value of those shares immediately after the disposition and that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of the disposition exceed the fair market value of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the taxpayer for the disposition, that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of those preferred shares of that class,

is of

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all preferred shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition;

Proposed Addition — 85(1.1)(g)(ii.1)

(ii.1) a property held by the taxpayer if subsection 94.2(3) applies to the taxpayer in respect of the property, or

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, s. 7, will add subpara. 85(1.1)(g)(ii.1), applicable after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 85(1.1) of the Act describes the types of property (which are referred to as "eligible property") that may be transferred to a corporation under subsection 85(1). Eligible property includes certain capital property described in the subsection, as well as additional property.

Subsection 85(1.1) is amended so that eligible property for a taxpayer, in all cases, excludes property in respect of which new subsection 94.2(3) applies to the taxpayer. New subsection 94.2(3) sets out the conditions for the application of the mark-to-market taxation regime under subsection 94.2(4) for participating interests in foreign investment entities.

This amendment applies after 2000.

(h) the cost to the taxpayer of any common shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of the disposition exceed the total of the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the taxpayer for the disposition and the cost to the taxpayer of all preferred shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition, that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of those common shares of that class,

is of

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all common shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition; and

(i) where the property so disposed of is taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer, all of the shares of the capital stock of the Canadian corporation received by the taxpayer as consideration for the property shall be deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer.

History: The opening words of para. 85(1)(c.1) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 53(1), applicable to dispositions occurring after February 22, 1994. The opening words of para. (c.1) formerly read:

(c.1) where the property of the taxpayer was inventory, capital property (other than depreciable property of a prescribed class), a NISA Fund No. 2 or a property (other than capital property or an inventory) of the taxpayer that is a security or debt obligation used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on the business of insurance or lending money, and the amount that the taxpayer and corporation have agreed on in their election in respect of the property is less than the lesser of Para. 85(1)(d.1) amended by 1995, c. 3, s. 22, applicable to dispositions of property in respect of a business that occur in a fiscal period of the business that ends after February 22, 1994 otherwise than because of an election under subsec. 25(1). Para. (d.1) formerly read:

(d.1) for the purpose of determining after the time of the disposition the amount to be included under paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the corporation's income, there shall be added to the amount otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the taxpayer's business immediately before the time of the disposition,

B is the fair market value immediately before that time of the eligible capital property disposed of to the corporation by the taxpayer,

C is the fair market value immediately before that time of all eligible capital property of the taxpayer in respect of the business,

D is the amount, if any, that would be included under subsection 14(1) in computing the taxpayer's income as a result of the disposition if paragraph 14(1)(b) were read as follows:

"(b) in any other case, the excess shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income from that business for that year.",

E is the amount, if any, that would be deemed under subsection 14(1) to be a taxable capital gain of the taxpayer as a result of the disposition if clause 14(1)(a)(v)(B) were read as follows:

"(B) zero"

F is the amount, if any, included under subsection 14(1) in computing the taxpayer's income as a result of the disposition, and

G is the amount, if any, deemed under subsection 14(1) to be a taxable capital gain of the taxpayer as a result of the disposition;

Para. 85(1)(d.1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 36(1), applicable to the disposition of property to a corporation occurring after the beginning of its first taxation year that begins after June 1988. That para. formerly read:

(d.1) for the purpose of determining after the time of the disposition the amount to be included under paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the corporation's income, there shall be added to the amount otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the taxpayer's business immediately before the time of the disposition,

B is the fair market value immediately before that time of the eligible capital property disposed of to the corporation by the taxpayer, and

That portion of para. 85(1)(c.1) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 35(1), to substitute "where the property of the taxpayer" for "where the property" and to add reference to "a NISA Fund No. 2", applicable to dispositions occurring after 1990.

Para. 85(1)(d.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 35(2), applicable to the disposition of property to a corporation occurring after the beginning of its first taxation year beginning after June 1988.

Para. 85(1)(c.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 64(1), applicable to dispositions occurring after July 13, 1990.

That portion of para. 85(1)(e.2) following subpara. (ii) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 64(2), to add "(other than the corporation, where all of its issued shares, except directors' qualifying shares, are owned by the taxpayer immediately before the disposition)," applicable to dispositions occurring after June 1988.

Pre-RSC History: That portion of subsec. 85(1) preceding para. (a) and that portion of para. 85(1)(c.1) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsecs. 58(1), (2), applicable to dispositions of property occurring after 1986. Those portions formerly read:

85. (1) Transfer of property to corporation by shareholders — Where a taxpayer has after May 6, 1974 disposed of any of his property that was a capital property (other than real property, an interest therein or an option in respect thereof, owned by a non-resident person), a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property, an eligible capital property or an inventory (other than real property) to a taxable Canadian corporation for consideration that includes shares of the capital stock of the corporation, if the taxpayer and the corporation have jointly so elected in prescribed form and within the time referred to in subsection (6), the following rules apply:

(c.1) where the property was inventory or capital property (other than depreciable property of a prescribed class) of the taxpayer and the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed upon in their election in respect of the property is less than the lesser of

Subpara. 85(1)(d)(i) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 58(3), to substitute "4/3 of" for "2 times", applicable

(a) in the case of a corporation, with respect to dispositions by it of property occurring after the commencement of its first taxation year commencing after June 1988; and

(b) in any other case, with respect to dispositions of property in respect of a business occurring after the commencement of the first fiscal period commencing after 1987 of the business.

Para. 85(1)(e.2) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 58(4), applicable with respect to dispositions occurring after June 1988. Para. 85(1)(e.2) formerly read:

(e.2) where the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition exceeds the greater of

(i) the fair market value at the time of the disposition of the consideration received by the taxpayer for the property disposed of by him, and

(ii) the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed upon in their election in respect of the property, determined without reference to this paragraph, and it is reasonable to regard any portion of such excess as a gift made by the taxpayer to or for the benefit of any other shareholder of the corporation, the amount that the taxpayer and the corporation have agreed upon in their election in respect of the property shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed upon by them, be deemed (except for the purposes of paragraphs (g) and (h)) to be an amount equal to the aggregate of

(iii) the amount referred to in subparagraph (ii), and

(iv) the portion of such excess that may reasonably be regarded as a gift made by the taxpayer to or for the benefit of any other shareholder of the corporation;

Para. 85(1)(e.4) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 58(5), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods commencing after June 17, 1987 that end after 1987.

All that portion of subsec. 85(1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 41(1), applicable to 1984 et seq., to substitute "non-resident person), a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property," for "non-resident), a property referred to in subsection 59(2),".

All that portion of subsec. 85(1) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 45(1), applicable with respect to dispositions of property occurring after December 11, 1979 except that in its application to dispositions occurring before August 29, 1980, subsection 85(1) shall be read without reference therein to the expression "an interest therein". That portion formerly read:

85. (1) Where a taxpayer has, after May 6, 1974, disposed of any property that was a capital property (other than real property or an option in respect thereof owned by a non-resident), an eligible capital property, an inventory other than real property or a property referred to in subsection 59(2) of the taxpayer to a Canadian corporation for consideration including shares of the capital stock of the corporation, if the taxpayer and the corporation have jointly so elected in prescribed form and within the time referred to in subsection (6), the following rules apply:

All that portion of para. 85(1)(e.3) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 40(1), applicable to dispositions of property after May 6, 1974

All that portion of subsec. 85(1) preceding para. (a), paras. 85(1)(d), (e), (i) substituted, subsecs. 85(1)(c.1), (e.1)–(e.3) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsecs. 48(1)–(3), applicable to dispositions of property after May 6, 1974. That portion and paras. 85(1)(d), (e), (i) formerly read:

85. (1) Transfer of property to corporation by controlling shareholder — Where a taxpayer has, after 1971, disposed of any property that was a capital property or eligible capital property of the taxpayer or a property referred to in subsection 59(2) of the taxpayer to a Canadian corporation, and immediately after the disposition owned not less than 80% of the issued shares of each class of the capital stock of the corporation, if the taxpayer and the corporation have jointly so elected in prescribed form and within prescribed time the following rules apply:

(d) where the property was eligible capital property in respect of a business of the taxpayer and the amount that, but for this paragraph, would be the proceeds of disposition thereof is less than the least of

(i) 2 times the taxpayer's cumulative eligible capital in respect of the business immediately before the disposition,

(ii) the cost to the taxpayer of the property, and

(iii) the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition,

the amount agreed upon by the taxpayer and the corporation in their election in respect of the property shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed upon by them, and notwithstanding paragraphs (b) and (c), be deemed to be the least of the amounts described in subparagraphs (i) to (iii);

(e) where the property was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the taxpayer and the amount that, but for this paragraph, would be the proceeds of disposition thereof is less than the least of

(i) the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of all property of that class immediately before the disposition,

(ii) the cost to the taxpayer of the property, and

(iii) the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition,

the amount agreed upon by the taxpayer and the corporation in their election in respect of the property shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed upon by them, and notwithstanding paragraphs (b) and (c), be deemed to be the least of the amounts described in subparagraphs (i) to (iii);

. . . . .

(i) for greater certainty, where the application of this subsection results in a capital loss of the taxpayer from the disposition of any property, subsection (4) is applicable.

All that portion of subsec. 85(1) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 25(1), applicable with respect to dispositions made after 1971.

(f) an inventory (other than real property);

Para. 85(1.1)(i) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 35(4), applicable to dispositions occurring after 1990.

Para. 85(1.1)(h) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 64(3), applicable to

(a) dispositions occurring after 1989, and

(b) dispositions occurring after 1984 where the taxpayer is a resident of a country with which Canada has a tax treaty and a provision of that treaty that was prescribed for the purposes of section 115.1 of the Act was effective at the time the disposition occurred.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 85(1.1) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 58(6), applicable to dispositions of property occurring after 1986.

Pre-RSC History [former subsec. 85(1.1)]: Former subsec. 85(1.1) repealed by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 26(1), applicable with respect to dispositions of property made after February 15, 1984. Subsec. 85(1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Exception to subsection (1) — Subsection (1) does not apply with respect to any disposition by a taxpayer of any of his property referred to in subsection 59(2) if the corporation to which the property was disposed of has carried on any business before the disposition.

Subsec. 85(1.1) added by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 25(2), applicable with respect to dispositions made after 1971.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-291R2: Transfer of property to a corporation under subsection 85(1).

(1.2) Application of subsec. (1) — Subsection (1) does not apply to a disposition by a taxpayer to a corporation of a property referred to in paragraph (1.1)(h) unless

(a) immediately after the disposition, the corporation is controlled by the taxpayer, a person or persons related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the taxpayer or the taxpayer and a person or persons so related to the taxpayer;

(b) the disposition is part of a transaction or series of transactions in which all or substantially all of the property used in the business referred to in paragraph (1.1)(h) is disposed of by the taxpayer to the corporation; and

(c) the disposition is not part of a series of transactions that result in control of the corporation being acquired by a person or group of persons after the time that is immediately after the disposition.

Related Provisions: 139.1(18) — Holding corporation deemed not to acquire control of insurer on demutualization; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired.

History: Subsec. 85(1.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 64(4), applicable to

(a) dispositions occurring after 1989, and

(b) dispositions occurring after 1984 where the taxpayer is a resident of a country with which Canada has a tax treaty and a provision of that treaty that was prescribed for the purposes of section 115.1 of the said Act was effective at the time the disposition occurred,

(1.3) Meaning of "wholly owned corporation" — For the purposes of this subsection and paragraph (1)(e.2), "wholly owned corporation" of a taxpayer means a corporation all the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of which (except directors' qualifying shares) belong to

(a) the taxpayer;

(b) a corporation that is a wholly owned corporation of the taxpayer; or

(c) any combination of persons described in paragraph (a) or (b).

History: Subsec. 85(1.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 64(4), applicable to dispositions occurring after June 1988.

(1.4) Definitions — For the purpose of subsection (1.1), "financial institution", "mark-to-market property" and "specified debt obligation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 142.2(1).

History: Subsec. 85(1.4) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 53(4), applicable to dispositions occurring after February 22, 1994.

(2) Transfer of property to corporation from partnership — Where

(a) a partnership has disposed, to a taxable Canadian corporation for consideration that includes shares of the corporation's capital stock, of any partnership property that was

(i) a capital property (other than real property, or an interest in or an option in respect of real property, where the partnership was not a Canadian partnership at the time of the disposition),

(ii) a property described in any of paragraphs (1.1)(c) to (f), or

(iii) a property that would be described in paragraph (1.1)(g) or (g.1) if the references in those paragraphs to "taxpayer" were read as "partnership", and

(b) the corporation and all the members of the partnership have jointly so elected, in prescribed form and within the time referred to in subsection (6), paragraphs (1)(a) to (i) are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of the disposition as if the partnership were a taxpayer resident in Canada who had disposed of the property to the corporation.

Related Provisions: 13(21.2)(d) — No election allowed on certain transfers of depreciable property where u.c.c. exceeds fair market value; 40(3.3), (3.4) — Limitation on loss where share acquired by affiliated person; 51(4) — Application of 85(2) to exchange of convertible property; 54.2 — Certain shares deemed to be capital property; 69(11) — Where corporation later sells transferred property and shelters gain; 85(3) — Where partnership wound up; 85(5) — Rules on transfers of depreciable property; 85(6) — Time for election; 86(3) — Section 86 does not apply where 85(2) applies; 139.1(4)(c) — No election allowed re ownership rights on demutualization of insurer; 248(4) — Interest in real property; Canada-U.S. tax treaty, Art. XIII:8 — Deferral of tax for U.S. resident transferor.

History: The portion of subsec. 85(2) before para. (b) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 116(1), applicable to dispositions that occur after June 20, 1996. That portion formerly read:

(2) Where, after May 6, 1974,

(a) a partnership has disposed of any partnership property that was a capital property (other than real property, or an interest in or an option in respect of real property, owned by a partnership that was not a Canadian partnership at the time of the disposition), a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property, an eligible capital property, an inventory (other than real property) or a property (other than a capital property or an inventory) that is a security or debt obligation used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on the business of insurance or lending money to a taxable Canadian corporation for consideration that includes shares of the capital stock of the corporation, and

Pre-RSC History: Para. 85(2)(a) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 58(7), applicable to dispositions of property occurring after 1986. Para. 85(2)(a) formerly read:

(a) a partnership has disposed of any partnership property that was a capital property (other than real property, an interest therein or an option in respect thereof, owned by a partnership that was not a Canadian partnership at the time of the disposition), a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property, an eligible capital property or an inventory (other than real property) to a taxable Canadian corporation for consideration that includes shares of the capital stock of the corporation, and

Para. 85(2)(a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 41(2), applicable to taxation years commencing after 1984, to substitute "a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property," for "a property referred to in subsection 59(2)".

That portion of subsec. 85(2) following para. (b) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 26(2), applicable with respect to dispositions of property made after February 15, 1984. That portion of subsec. 85(2) formerly read as follows:

paragraphs (1)(a) to (i) and subsection (1.1) are applicable in respect of the disposition mutatis mutandis as if the partnership were a taxpayer resident in Canada who had disposed of the property to the corporation.

Para. 85(2)(a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 45(2), applicable with respect to dispositions of property occurring after December 11, 1979 except that in its application to dispositions occurring before August 29, 1980, paragraph 85(2)(a) shall be read without reference therein to the expression "an interest therein". Para. 85(2)(a) formerly read:

(a) a partnership has disposed of any partnership property that was a capital property (other than real property or an interest therein owned by a partnership that was not a Canadian partnership at the time of the disposition), an eligible capital property, an inventory other than real property or a property referred to in subsection 59(2) of the partnership to a Canadian corporation for consideration, including shares of the capital stock of the corporation, and

Subsecs. 85(2) substituted, 85(2.1) repealed by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 48(4), applicable to dispositions of property after May 6, 1974. Subsecs. 85(2), (2.1) formerly read:

(2) Where, after 1971,

(a) any partnership property that was a capital property or eligible capital property of a partnership or a property referred to in subsection 59(2) of a partnership has been disposed of to a Canadian corporation,

(b) immediately after the disposition, not less than 80% of the issued shares of each class of the capital stock of the corporation was partnership property, and

(c) the corporation and all the members of the partnership have so elected in respect of the disposition, in prescribed form and within prescribed time, paragraphs (1)(a) to (i) are applicable in respect of the disposition mutatis mutandis as if the partnership were a taxpayer resident in Canada who had disposed of the property to the corporation.

(2.1) Subsection (2) does not apply with respect to any disposition by a partnership of any partnership property referred to in subsection 59(2) if the corporation to which the property was disposed of has carried on any business before the disposition.

Para. 85(2)(a) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 25(3), applicable with respect to dispositions made after 1971.

Former subsec. 85(2.1) added by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 25(4), applicable with respect to dispositions made after 1971.

(2.1) Computing paid-up capital — Where subsection (1) or (2) applies to a disposition of property (other than a disposition of property to which section 84.1 or 212.1 applies) to a corporation by a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer"),

(a) in computing the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation at the time of, and at any time after, the issue of shares of the capital stock of the corporation in consideration for the disposition of the property, there shall be deducted an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the increase, if any, determined without reference to this section as it applies to the disposition of the property, in the paid-up capital in respect of all the shares of the capital stock of the corporation as a result of the acquisition by the corporation of the property,

B is the amount, if any, by which the corporation's cost of the property, immediately after the acquisition, determined under subsection (1) or (2), as the case may be, exceeds the fair market value, immediately after the acquisition, of any consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation) received by the taxpayer from the corporation for the property, and

C is the increase, if any, determined without reference to this section as it applies to the disposition of the property, in the paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares as a result of the acquisition by the corporation of the property; and

(b) in computing the paid-up capital, at any time after November 21, 1985, in respect of any class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid after November 21, 1985 and before that time by the corporation

exceeds

(B) the total of such dividends that would be determined under clause (A) if the Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the total of all amounts required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares after November 21, 1985 and before that time.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: All that portion of subsec. 85(2.1) preceding the formula in para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 36(2), applicable to dispositions occurring after November 21, 1985 and, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments and determinations in respect of any taxation year may be made as are consequential on the application of the provision, as amended, to dispositions occurring before 1993. That portion of the subsec. formerly read:

(2.1) Computation of paid-up capital — Where subsection (1) or (2) has been applicable in respect of a disposition to a corporation, after November 21, 1985, of property (other than a disposition of property in respect of which section 84.1 or 212.1 applies) by a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer"), the following rules apply:

(a) in computing the paid-up capital, at any time after the disposition of the property, in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, there shall be deducted an amount determined by the formula

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 85(2.1) added by 1986, c. 6, s. 45, applicable for the purpose of computing paid-up capital of shares after November 21, 1985. (For history of former subsec. 85(2.1) see history under subsec. 85(2).)

(3) Where partnership wound up — Where,

(a) in respect of any disposition of partnership property of a partnership to a corporation, subsection (2) applies,

(b) the affairs of the partnership were wound up within 60 days after the disposition, and

(c) immediately before the winding-up there was no partnership property other than money or property received from the corporation as consideration for the disposition,

the following rules apply:

(d) the cost to any member of the partnership of any property (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the member as consideration for the disposition of the member's partnership interest on the winding-up shall be deemed to be the fair market value of the property at the time of the winding-up,

(e) the cost to any member of the partnership of any preferred shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the member as consideration for the disposition of the member's partnership interest on the winding-up shall be deemed to be

(i) where any common shares of the capital stock of the corporation were also receivable by the member as consideration for the disposition of the interest, the lesser of

(A) the fair market value, immediately after the winding-up, of the preferred shares of that class so receivable by the member, and

(B) that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to the member of the member's partnership interest immediately before the winding-up exceeds the total of the fair market value, at the time of the winding-up, of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the member for the disposition of the interest, that

(I) the fair market value, immediately after the winding-up, of the preferred shares of that class so receivable by the member,

is of

(II) the fair market value, immediately after the winding-up, of all preferred shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the member as consideration for the disposition, and

(ii) in any other case, the amount determined under clause (i)(B),

(f) the cost to any member of the partnership of any common shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the member as consideration for the disposition of the member's partnership interest on the winding-up shall be deemed to be that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to the member of the member's partnership interest immediately before the winding-up exceeds the total of the fair market value, at the time of the winding-up, of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by the member for the disposition of the interest and the cost to the member of all preferred shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the member as consideration for the disposition of the interest, that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the winding-up, of the common shares of that class so receivable by the member,

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the winding-up, of all common shares of the capital stock of the corporation so receivable by the member as consideration for the disposition,

(g) the proceeds of disposition of the partnership interest of any member of the partnership shall be deemed to be the cost to the member of all shares and property receivable or received by the member as consideration for the disposition of the interest plus the amount of any money received by the member as consideration for the disposition, and

(h) where the partnership has distributed partnership property referred to in paragraph (c) to a member of the partnership, the partnership shall be deemed to have disposed of that property for proceeds equal to the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before its distribution.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 85(3)(h) added by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 25(5), applicable with respect to distributions of partnership property received as consideration for dispositions made after 1971.

History: Subsec. 85(4) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 116(3), applicable, subject to s. 247 of 1998, c. 19 (grandfathering rule reproduced after s. 260), to dispositions of property that occur after April 26, 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Loss from disposition to controlled corporation — Where a taxpayer or a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer") disposes of any capital property (other than depreciable property of a prescribed class) of the taxpayer or eligible capital property in respect of a business of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer would, but for this subsection, be permitted a deduction under paragraph 24(1)(a), to a corporation that immediately after the disposition is controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by the taxpayer, by the spouse of the taxpayer or by a person or group of persons by whom the taxpayer is controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever,

(a) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act,

(i) the capital loss therefrom, and

(ii) any deduction under paragraph 24(1)(a) in respect of the business in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year in which the taxpayer ceased to carry on the business shall be deemed to be nil; and

(b) except where the property so disposed of was, immediately after the disposition, an obligation that was payable to the corporation by another corporation that is related to the corporation or by a corporation or a partnership that would be related to the corporation if paragraph 80(2)(j) applied for the purpose of this paragraph, in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of all shares of any particular class of the capital stock of the corporation owned by the taxpayer immediately after the disposition, there shall be added that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the cost amount to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition of the property so disposed of,

exceeds the total of

(ii) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the property or, where the property is an eligible capital property, 4/3 of the taxpayer's eligible capital amount resulting from the disposition of the property, and

(ii.1) where the property disposed of by the taxpayer is a share of the capital stock of a corporation, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that, but for paragraphs (a) and 40(2)(e), would be deducted

(A) under subsection 93(2) or 112(3) or (3.2) in computing a loss of the taxpayer from the disposition, or

(B) where the taxpayer is a partnership, by a corporation that is a member of the partnership under subsection 112(3.1) in computing its share of the loss of the partnership from the disposition, that

(iii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of that class so owned by the taxpayer,

is of

(iv) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of the capital stock of the corporation so owned by the taxpayer.

Subpara. 85(4)(b)(ii) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 116(2), applicable

(a) in the case of a corporation, to dispositions by it of property that occur after the beginning of its first taxation year that begins after June 1988; and

(b) in any other case, to dispositions of property in respect of a business that occur after the beginning of the first fiscal period, that begins after 1987, of the business.

The subpara. formerly read:

Pre-RSC History: That portion of para. 85(4)(b) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 58(8), to substitute "⅔ of" for "twice", applicable

(a) in the case of a corporation, with respect to dispositions by it of property occurring after the commencement of its first taxation year commencing after June, 1988; and

(b) in any other case, with respect to dispositions of property in respect of a business occurring after the commencement of the first fiscal period commencing after 1987 of the business.

Subsec. 85(4) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 48(5), applicable to dispositions of property after May 6, 1974. Subsec. 85(4) formerly read:

(4) Where capital loss from disposition of property to controlled corporation — Where a taxpayer has, after 1971, disposed of any capital property of the taxpayer to a corporation that, immediately after the disposition, was controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by the taxpayer or by a person or group of persons by whom the taxpayer was controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, and, but for this subsection, the taxpayer would have had a capital loss therefrom, the following rules apply:

(a) his capital loss therefrom otherwise determined shall be deemed to be nil;

(b) where, immediately after the disposition, the taxpayer owned any common shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation, in computing the adjusted cost base to him of all common shares of that class owned by him immediately after the disposition there shall be added that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to him, immediately before the disposition, of the property so disposed of exceeds his proceeds of the disposition, that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all common shares of that class so owned by him,

(c) where, immediately after the disposition, the taxpayer owned no common shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation, in computing the adjusted cost base to him of all preferred shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation owned by him at that time, there shall be added that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to him, immediately before the disposition, of the property so disposed of exceeds his proceeds of the disposition, that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all preferred shares of that class so owned by him,

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all preferred shares of the capital stock of the corporation owned by him immediately after the disposition.

(5) Rules on transfers of depreciable property — Where subsection (1) or (2) has applied to a disposition at any time of depreciable property to a person (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") and the capital cost to the transferor of the property exceeds the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a),

(a) the capital cost to the transferee of the property is deemed to be the amount that was its capital cost to the transferor; and

(b) the excess is deemed to have been deducted by the transferee under paragraph 20(1)(a) in respect of the property in computing income for taxation years that ended before that time.

Related Provisions: 13(7)(e) — Similar rule on non-arm's length transfer of depreciable property; 132.2(1)(d) — Parallel rule on mutual fund reorganization.

History: Subsec. 85(5) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 116(4), applicable, subject to s. 247 of 1998, c. 19 (grandfathering rule reproduced after s. 260), to dispositions of property that occur after April 26, 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(5) Where subsection (1), (2) or (5.1) has applied in respect of a disposition of depreciable property to a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") and the capital cost to the transferor of the property exceeds the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a),

(a) the capital cost of the property to the transferee shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost of the property to the transferor; and

(b) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the transferee in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the transferee of the property.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 85(5) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 50(1), applicable with respect to dispositions occurring after November 12, 1981 other than dispositions occurring after that date pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date. That portion of subsec. 85(5) formerly read:

(5) Rules where depreciable property transferred to controlled corporation — Where subsection (1) or (2) has been applicable in respect of any disposition of any depreciable property to a corporation (in this subsection referred to as "the transferee") and the capital cost to the transferor of the property exceeds the transferor's proceeds of the disposition, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

Related Provisions: 13(7)(e) — Limitation on capital cost on non-arm's length transfer; 69(5)(d) — No application where property appropriated by shareholder on winding-up; 88(1)(d.1) — Winding-up; 252(4) — Extended meaning of "spouse"; 256(5.1) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact.

History: Subsec. 85(5.1) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 116(5), applicable, subject to s. 247 of 1998, c. 19 (grandfathering rule reproduced after s. 260), to dispositions of property that occur after April 26, 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(5.1) Idem — Where a person or a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer") has disposed of any depreciable property of a prescribed class of the taxpayer to a transferee that was

(a) a corporation that, immediately after the disposition, was controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by the taxpayer, by the spouse of the taxpayer or by a person, group of persons or partnership by whom or which the taxpayer was controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever,

(b) a person, spouse of a person, member of a group of persons or partnership who or that immediately after the disposition controlled the taxpayer, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, or

(c) a partnership and, immediately after the disposition, the taxpayer's interest in the partnership as a member thereof is as described in paragraph 97(3.1)(a) or (b), and the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition is less than both the cost to the taxpayer of the property and the amount (in this subsection referred to as the "proportionate amount") that is the proportion of the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of all property of that class immediately before the disposition that the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition is of the fair market value of all property of that class at the time of disposition, the following rules apply:

(d) subsections (1) and (2) and section 97 are not applicable with respect to the disposition,

(e) the lesser of the cost to the taxpayer of the property and the proportionate amount in respect of the property shall be deemed to be the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition and the transferee's cost of the property,

(f) where two or more depreciable properties of a prescribed class of the taxpayer are disposed of at the same time, paragraph (e) applies as if each property so disposed of had been separately disposed of in the order designated by the taxpayer or, if the taxpayer does not so designate any such order, in the order designated by the Minister, and

(g) the cost to the taxpayer of any particular property received by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the particular property at the time of the disposition, and

(ii) that proportion of the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of the property disposed of by the taxpayer that

(A) the amount determined under subparagraph (i) is of

(B) the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of all properties received by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 85(5.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 50(2), applicable with respect to dispositions occurring after November 12, 1981 other than dispositions occurring after that date pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date.

Information Circulars: 76-19R3: Transfer of property to a corporation under section 85.

(7.1) Special cases — Where, in the opinion of the Minister, the circumstances of a case are such that it would be just and equitable

(a) to permit an election under subsection (1) or (2) to be made after the day that is 3 years after the day on or before which the election was required by subsection (6) to be made, or

(b) to permit an election made under subsection (1) or (2) to be amended, the election or amended election shall be deemed to have been made on the day on or before which the election was so required to be made if

(c) the election or amended election is made in prescribed form, and

(d) an estimate of the penalty in respect of the election or amended election is paid by the taxpayer or partnership, as the case may be, when the election or amended election is made,

and where this subsection applies to the amendment of an election, that election shall be deemed not to have been effective.

Related Provisions: 85(8), (9) — Penalty for late-filed election.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 85(7.1) added by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 26(3), applicable after February 15, 1984.

(8) Penalty for late filed election — For the purposes of this section, the penalty in respect of an election or an amended election referred to in paragraph (7)(a) or (7.1)(c) is an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) 1/4 of 1% of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the property in respect of which that election or amended election was made, at the time the property was disposed of,

exceeds

(ii) the amount agreed on in the election or amended election by the taxpayer or partnership, as the case may be, and the corporation,

for each month or part of a month during the period commencing with the day on or before which the election is required by subsection (6) to be made and ending on the day the election or amended election is made, and

(b) an amount, not exceeding $8,000, equal to the product obtained by multiplying $100 by the number of months each of which is a month all or part of which is during the period referred to in paragraph (a).

Related Provisions: 220(3.1) — Waiver of penalty by CCRA.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 85(8) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 26(3), to add a reference to para. (7.1)(c), to add "or amended election" following references to an election and to amend para. (b), applicable after February 15, 1984. Para. 85(8)(b) formerly read:

(b) $4,000.

Para. 85(8)(b) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 40(3), to substitute "$4,000" for "$25,000", applicable with respect to elections made after 1977.

(9) Unpaid balance of penalty — The Minister shall, with all due dispatch, examine each election and amended election referred to in paragraph (7)(a) or (7.1)(c), assess the penalty payable and send a notice of assessment to the taxpayer or partnership, as the case may be, and the taxpayer or partnership, as the case may be, shall pay forthwith to the Receiver General the amount, if any, by which the penalty so assessed exceeds the total of all amounts previously paid on account of that penalty.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 85(9) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 26(3), to add reference to para. (7.1)(c) and to add "and amended election", applicable after February 15, 1984.

85.1 (1) Share for share exchange — Where shares of any particular class of the capital stock of a Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "purchaser") are issued to a taxpayer (in this section referred to as the "vendor") by the purchaser in exchange for a capital property of the vendor that is shares of any particular class of the capital stock (in this section referred to as the "exchanged shares") of another corporation that is a taxable Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "acquired corporation"), subject to subsection (2),

(a) except where the vendor has, in the vendor's return of income for the taxation year in which the exchange occurred, included in computing the vendor's income for that year any portion of the gain or loss, otherwise determined, from the disposition of the exchanged shares, the vendor shall be deemed

(i) to have disposed of the exchanged shares for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the vendor of those shares immediately before the exchange, and

(ii) to have acquired the shares of the purchaser at a cost to the vendor equal to the adjusted cost base to the vendor of the exchanged shares immediately before the exchange, and where the exchanged shares were taxable Canadian property of the vendor, the shares of the purchaser so acquired by the vendor shall be deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the vendor; and

(b) the cost to the purchaser of each exchanged share, at any time up to and including the time the purchaser disposed of the share, shall be deemed to be the lesser of

(i) its fair market value immediately before the exchange, and

(ii) its paid-up capital immediately before the exchange.

History: That portion of subsec. 85.1(1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 36, applicable to exchanges of shares occurring after December 20, 1991. That portion formerly read:

85.1 (1) Share for share exchange — Where shares of any particular class of the capital stock of a Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "purchaser") have, after May 6, 1974, been issued to a taxpayer (in this section referred to as the "vendor") by the purchaser in exchange for capital property of the vendor that is shares of any particular class of the capital stock (in this section referred to as the "exchanged shares") of another corporation (in this section referred to as the "acquired corporation"), subject to subsection (2), the following rules apply:

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 85.1(1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 28(1), to substitute "been issued to a taxpayer (in this section referred to as the "vendor") by the purchaser" for "been acquired by a taxpayer (in this section referred to as the "vendor") from the purchaser", applicable with respect to shares exchanged after June 5, 1987, other than shares exchanged after that date pursuant to

(a) an agreement in writing to do so entered into on or before that date; or

(b) the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, proxy statement, preliminary proxy statement or registration statement filed before June 6, 1987 with a public authority in a country or a political subdivision of that country in accordance with the securities legislation of that country or subdivision and, where required by law, accepted for filing by such public authority.

Para. 85.1(1)(b) substituted by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 28(2), applicable with respect to shares exchanged after February 17, 1987, other than shares exchanged after that date pursuant to

(a) an agreement in writing to do so entered into on or before that date; or

(b) the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, proxy statement, preliminary proxy statement or registration statement filed before February 18, 1987 with a public authority in a country or a political subdivision of that country in accordance with the securities legislation of that country or subdivision and, where required by law, accepted for filing by such public authority.

Para. 85.1(1)(b) formerly read:

(b) the cost to the purchaser of each exchanged share, at any particular time up to and including the time he disposed of such share, shall be deemed to be

(i) its fair market value immediately before the exchange if, at the particular time or at any earlier time after the exchange, the purchaser owned shares of the capital stock of the acquired corporation

(A) to which are attached not less than 10% of all the votes that could then be cast for any and all purposes by holders of all shares of the capital stock of the acquired corporation, and

(B) that represent not less than 10% of the fair market value of all issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the acquired corporation, and

(ii) in any other case, nil.

(2) Where subsec. (1) does not apply — Subsection (1) does not apply where

(a) the vendor and purchaser were, immediately before the exchange, not dealing with each other at arm's length (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) that is a right of the purchaser to acquire the exchanged shares);

(b) the vendor or persons with whom the vendor did not deal at arm's length, or the vendor together with persons with whom the vendor did not deal at arm's length,

(i) controlled the purchaser, or

(ii) beneficially owned shares of the capital stock of the purchaser having a fair market value of more than 50% of the fair market value of all of the outstanding shares of the capital stock of the purchaser, immediately after the exchange;

(c) the vendor and the purchaser have filed an election under subsection 85(1) or (2) with respect to the exchanged shares; or

(d) consideration other than shares of the particular class of the capital stock of the purchaser was received by the vendor for the exchanged shares, notwithstanding that the vendor may have disposed of shares of the capital stock of the acquired corporation (other than the exchanged shares) to the purchaser for consideration other than shares of one class of the capital stock of the purchaser.

Proposed Addition — 85.1(2)(e)

(e) the vendor

(i) is a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada at the end of the taxation year of the vendor in which the exchange occurred, and

(ii) has included any portion of the gain or loss, otherwise determined, from the disposition of the exchanged shares in computing its foreign accrual property income for the taxation year of the vendor in which the exchange occurred.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 37(1), will add para. 85.1(2)(e), applicable to exchanges that occur after 1995.

Technical Notes: Subsection 85.1(2) of the Act is amended to add new paragraph (e), consequential on the introduction of new subsection 85.1(5). New paragraph 85.1(2)(e) provides that subsection 85.1(1) will not apply to allow a tax-deferred rollover in respect of a Canadian share-for-share exchange where a vendor is a foreign affiliate and the vendor includes any portion of the gain or loss realized from the exchange in computing its foreign accrual property income for the year.

(2.1) Computation of paid-up capital — Where, at any time, a purchaser has issued shares of its capital stock as a result of an exchange to which subsection (1) applied, in computing the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of shares of its capital stock at any particular time after that time

(a) there shall be deducted that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the increase, if any, as a result of the issue, in the paid-up capital in respect of all the shares of the capital stock of the purchaser, computed without reference to this subsection as it applies to the issue,

exceeds

(ii) the paid-up capital in respect of all of the exchanged shares received as a result of the exchange

that

(iii) the increase, if any, as a result of the issue, in the paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares, computed without reference to this subsection as it applies to the issue,

is of

(iv) the amount, if any, determined in subparagraph (i) in respect of the issue; and

(b) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the purchaser before the particular time

exceeds

(B) the total that would be determined under clause (A) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the total of all amounts required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in respect of that particular class of shares before the particular time.

(3) Disposition of shares of foreign affiliate — Where a taxpayer has disposed of capital property that was shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer to any corporation that was, immediately following the disposition, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "acquiring affiliate") for consideration including shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate,

(a) the cost to the taxpayer of any property (other than shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate) receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition;

(b) the cost to the taxpayer of any shares of any class of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the total of the adjusted cost bases to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the shares disposed of exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration receivable for the disposition (other than shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate) that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of those shares of the acquiring affiliate of that class

is of

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate receivable by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition;

(c) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the shares shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the cost to the taxpayer of all shares and other property receivable by the taxpayer from the acquiring affiliate as consideration for the disposition; and

(d) the cost to the acquiring affiliate of the shares acquired from the taxpayer shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition referred to in paragraph (c).

Related Provisions: 53(1)(c) — Addition to ACB of share; 85.1(4) — Exception.

(4) Exception — Subsection (3) is not applicable in respect of a disposition at any time by a taxpayer of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate, all or substantially all of the property of which at that time was excluded property (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1)), to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer where the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events for the purpose of disposing of the share to a person who, immediately after the series of transactions or events, was a person (other than a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer) with whom the taxpayer was dealing at arm's length.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 85.1(4) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, s. 51, applicable with respect to dispositions occurring after November 12, 1981.

Proposed Addition — 85.1(5), (6)

(5) Foreign share for foreign share exchange — Subject to subsections (3) and (6) and 95(2), where a corporation resident in a country other than Canada (in this section referred to as the "foreign purchaser") issues shares of its capital stock (in this section referred to as the "issued foreign shares") to a vendor in exchange for shares of the capital stock of another corporation resident in a country other than Canada (in this section referred to as the "exchanged foreign shares") that were immediately before the exchange capital property of the vendor, except where the vendor has, in the vendor's return of income for the taxation year in which the exchange occurred, included in computing the vendor's income for that year any portion of the gain or loss, otherwise determined, from the disposition of the exchanged foreign shares, the vendor is deemed

(a) to have disposed of the exchanged foreign shares for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the vendor of those shares immediately before the exchange, and

(b) to have acquired the issued foreign shares at a cost to the vendor equal to the adjusted cost base to the vendor of the exchanged foreign shares immediately before the exchange, and where the exchanged foreign shares were taxable Canadian property of the vendor, the issued foreign shares so acquired by the vendor are deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the vendor.

Related Provisions: 85.1(6) — Where rollover does not apply.

(6) Where subsec. (5) does not apply — Subsection (5) does not apply where

(a) the vendor and foreign purchaser were, immediately before the exchange, not dealing with each other at arm's length (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) that is a right of the foreign purchaser to acquire the exchanged foreign shares);

(b) immediately after the exchange the vendor, persons with whom the vendor did not deal at arm's length or the vendor together with persons with whom the vendor did not deal at arm's length,

(i) controlled the foreign purchaser, or

(ii) beneficially owned shares of the capital stock of the foreign purchaser having a fair market value of more than 50% of the fair market value of all of the outstanding shares of the capital stock of the foreign purchaser; or

(c) consideration other than issued foreign shares was received by the vendor for the exchanged foreign shares, notwithstanding that the vendor may have disposed of shares of the capital stock of the other corporation referred to in subsection (5) (other than the exchanged foreign shares) to the foreign purchaser for consideration other than shares of the capital stock of the foreign purchaser;

(d) the vendor

(i) is a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada at the end of the taxation year of the vendor in which the exchange occurred, and

year of the vendor in which the exchange occurred; or

(e) the vendor is a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada at the end of the taxation year of the vendor in which the exchange occurred and the exchanged foreign shares are excluded property (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1)) of the vendor.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 37(2), will add subsecs. 85.1(5) and (6), applicable to exchanges that occur after 1995.

Technical Notes: Section 85.1 of the Act permits a tax-deferred rollover for shareholders who exchange shares of a taxable Canadian corporation for shares of a Canadian purchaser corporation in the course of an arm's length sale of the acquired corporation's shares. Subsection 85.1(1) provides, amongst other things, that the shareholder's tax cost of the old shares becomes the tax cost of the new shares with the result that any capital gain is deferred. If, however, the shareholder recognizes, in the shareholder's tax return for the year in which the exchange occurred, any portion of the gain or loss realized on the share exchange, subsection 85.1(1) provides that the rollover will not apply to the shares. Subsection 85.1(2) of the Act sets out other circumstances where the rollover will not be available. These include circumstances where the purchaser corporation and the shareholder are not dealing at arm's length immediately before the exchange or where the shareholder controls the purchaser immediately after the exchange.

New subsection 85.1(5) of the Act provides a similar tax-deferred rollover for shareholders who exchange shares of a foreign corporation for shares of another foreign corporation to that provided in subsection 85.1(1) in respect of exchanges of shares of Canadian corporations. The application of subsection 85.1(5) is subject to the rollover for foreign shares contained in subsection 85.1(3) and 95(2) of the Act.

New subsection 85.1(6) of the Act describes the circumstances where new subsection 85.1(5) will not apply to a foreign share-for-share exchange. The rules in subsection 85.1(6) are similar to those in subsection 85.1(2), except that paragraph 85.1(6)(e) provides that subsection 85.1(5) will not apply where the vendor is a foreign affiliate and the exchanged foreign shares are excluded property (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1) of the Act) of the vendor. In other words, excluded property is not eligible for the foreign share-for-foreign share rollover in new subsection 85.1(5).

New subsections 85.1(2), (5) and (6) apply to foreign share-for-share exchanges that occur after 1995. Taxpayers may request a reassessment of their 1996, 1997 and 1998 taxation years in cases where they have disposed of shares in the relevant year in circumstances in which subsections 85.1(5) and (6) of the Act may apply to the disposition. These requests should be made in writing to the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency Tax Centre which serves the area in which the taxpayer lives.

Revenue Canada Question and Answers, April 28, 1999: Tax Rollover for Canadian Shareholders of Foreign Corporations

Background

On April 15, 1999, Finance Minister Paul Martin announced proposed changes to the "rollover" provisions of the Income Tax Act dealing with the disposition of shares of foreign corporations. (Press Release number 99-035)

Under the current rollover provisions in sections 85.1 and 87 of the Income Tax Act, a taxpayer who disposes of shares of one taxable Canadian corporation and receives shares of another, on a "share-for-share" exchange or with a merger of such corporations, may defer the recognition of any gain or loss arising on the disposition. The gain or loss will ultimately be recognized when the shares received on the exchange are sold in a taxable transaction.

The proposed changes will extend this tax-deferral treatment to taxpayers who dispose of shares of one foreign corporation for shares of another on share-for-share exchange or with the merger of foreign corporations. The foreign corporations would not have to be residents of the same foreign jurisdiction. These changes would apply to share exchanges that occur after 1997. They would also apply to share exchanges that occurred after 1995 and before 1998 where the taxpayer elects by notifying the Department in writing.

A taxpayer would also be able to elect, for the year in which the exchange occurs, not to have these proposed tax-deferral changes apply in respect of the disposition. In this case, any gain or loss realized by the taxpayer on the exchange of the shares of the foreign corporation would be included in computing the taxpayer's income for tax purposes in the year of the exchange.

Questions and Answers

Q1. Can I take advantage of these proposed changes when I file my 1998 income tax return?

A1. Yes. This proposal takes effect immediately. Unless you want to include the gain or loss in your income for 1998, the rollover provisions of subsection 85.1(1) apply automatically to the exchange and no election is required to be filed. In this transaction, you are deemed to have disposed of the original shares at their adjusted cost base and to have acquired the new shares at a cost equal to the adjusted cost base of the original shares immediately before the exchange.

Q2. I want to elect to include the capital gain or loss in 1998. What do I do?

A2. If you have yet to file your 1998 return and you wish to include the gain or loss for 1998, you must elect to do so by reporting the details of the transaction on your 1998 Schedule 3.

Q3. I have already filed my 1998 income tax return and I included the capital gain from such a transaction. Can I have my return corrected to recognize this change?

A3. Yes. You can elect to exclude the capital gain from this transaction by requesting a reassessment of your 1998 income tax return to delete this capital gain. This election must be made in writing and you should refer to the Press Release. Be sure to provide your name, Social Insurance Number and the tax year involved.

Q4. What other information is required to elect to include or exclude a capital gain from such a transaction?

A4. To assist us in identifying the reported gain, please provide the details of the transaction including the following:

- the name of the corporation;
- the number of shares disposed of;
- the adjusted cost base of these shares;
- the proceeds of disposition; and,
- the capital gain reported.

Q5. I included the capital gain from this transaction on my 1998 income tax return but I have no tax owing for 1998. Do I need to do anything further?

A5. If you have already filed your 1998 income tax return, there is no need to supply any additional information to leave the capital gain on your 1998 return.

Q6. I included the capital gain from such a transaction on my 1996 and/or 1997 return(s). How can I request that these returns be corrected to recognize this modification?

A6. You can elect to exclude the capital gain from these transactions by requesting a reassessment of your 1996 and/or 1997 income tax return(s) to delete such a capital gain. This election must be made in writing and you should refer to the Press Release. In addition, you should supply the information listed in Question 4. This election must be forwarded to the tax centre which serves the area where you live.

Q7. I included the capital gain from such a transaction on my 1996 or 1997 return and I would prefer it to remain there. Is there anything I need to do?

A7. No. The requirement to elect to include such income applies to 1998 returns yet to be filed and to subsequent tax years. Therefore, you are not required to complete any particular forms or letters requesting the inclusion of such an income.

Department of Finance news release, April 15, 1999: Tax Rollover for Canadian Shareholders of Foreign Corporations

Finance Minister Paul Martin today proposed changes to the "rollover" and "replacement property" provisions of the Income Tax Act dealing with the disposition of shares of a foreign corporation.

Under the current rollover provisions in sections 85.1 and 87 of the Income Tax Act, a taxpayer who disposes of shares of one taxable Canadian corporation and receives shares of another, on a "share-for-share" exchange or a merger of such corporations, may defer the recognition of any gain or loss arising on the disposition. The gain or loss will ultimately be recognized when the shares received on the exchange are sold in a taxable transaction.

The announcement today would extend this tax-deferral treatment to taxpayers who dispose of shares of one foreign corporation for shares of another on a share-for-share exchange [85.1(5), (6) — ed.] or foreign merger [87(8), (8.1) — ed.]. The foreign corporations would not have to be residents of the same foreign jurisdiction. These changes would apply to share exchanges that occur after 1997. They would also apply to share exchanges that occurred after 1995 and before 1998 where the taxpayer elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing.

A taxpayer would also be able to elect, for the year in which a share exchange occurs, not to have these proposed tax-deferral changes apply in respect of the disposition. In this case, any gain or loss realized by the taxpayer on the exchange of the shares of the foreign corporation would be included in computing the taxpayer's income for tax purposes in the year of the exchange.

[For the change affecting the replacement property rules, see under 44(1), which will no longer apply to shares — ed.]

86. (1) Exchange of shares by a shareholder in course of reorganization of capital — Where, at a particular time after May 6, 1974, in the course of a reorganization of the capital of a corporation, a taxpayer has disposed of capital property that was all the shares of any particular class of the capital stock of the corporation that were owned by the taxpayer at the particular time (in this section referred to as the "old shares"), and property is receivable from the corporation therefor that includes other shares of the capital stock of the corporation (in this section referred to as the "new shares"), the following rules apply:

(a) the cost to the taxpayer of any property (other than new shares) receivable by the taxpayer for the old shares shall be deemed to be its fair market value at the time of the disposition;

(b) the cost to the taxpayer of any new shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the taxpayer for the old shares shall be deemed to be that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the total of the adjusted cost bases to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the old shares exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration receivable for the old shares (other than new shares) that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of those new shares of that class,

is of

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all new shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by the taxpayer for the old shares; and

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of the old shares for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost to the taxpayer of all new shares and other property receivable by the taxpayer for the old shares.

(2) Idem — Notwithstanding paragraphs (1)(b) and (c), where a taxpayer has disposed of old shares in circumstances described in subsection (1) and the fair market value of the old shares immediately before the disposition exceeds the total of

(a) the cost to the taxpayer of the property (other than new shares) receivable by the taxpayer for the old shares as determined under paragraph (1)(a), and

(b) the fair market value of the new shares, immediately after the disposition, and it is reasonable to regard any portion of the excess (in this subsection referred to as the "gift portion") as a benefit that the taxpayer desired to have conferred on a person related to the taxpayer, the following rules apply:

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of the old shares for proceeds of disposition equal to the lesser of

(i) the total of the cost to the taxpayer of the property as determined under paragraph (1)(a) and the gift portion

and

(2.1) Computation of paid-up capital — Where subsection (1) applies to a disposition of shares of the capital stock of a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "exchange"), in computing the paid-up capital in respect of a particular class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation at any particular time that is the time of, or any time after, the exchange,

(a) there shall be deducted the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the increase, if any, as a result of the exchange, in the paid-up capital in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, computed without reference to this subsection as it applies to the exchange,

B is the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of the old shares exceeds the fair market value of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation) given by the corporation for the old shares on the exchange, and

C is the increase, if any, as a result of the exchange, in the paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares, computed without reference to this subsection as it applies to the exchange; and

(b) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the corporation before the particular time

exceeds

(B) the total that would be determined under clause (A) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the total of all amounts required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in respect of that particular class of shares before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(4) Computation of adjusted cost base — Where a taxpayer has disposed of old shares in circumstances described in subsection (1),

(a) there shall be deducted after the disposition in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of each new share the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the old shares immediately before the disposition

exceeds

(ii) the amount that would be the taxpayer's capital gain for the taxation year that includes the time of the disposition from the disposition of the old shares if paragraph 40(1)(a) were read without reference to subparagraph (iii) of that paragraph,

B is the fair market value of the new share at the time it was acquired by the taxpayer in consideration for the disposition of the old shares, and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of a new share at the time it was acquired by the taxpayer in consideration for the disposition of the old shares; and

(b) the amount determined under paragraph (a) in respect of the acquisition shall be added in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the new share after the disposition.

86. (1) Disposition of shares by a shareholder in course of reorganization of capital — Where in the course of a reorganization of the capital of a corporation, a taxpayer has, after 1971, disposed of, and the corporation has acquired, category A shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation, the following rules apply:

(a) the cost to the taxpayer of any property (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by him as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be its fair market value at the time of the disposition;

(b) the cost to the taxpayer of any category B shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by him as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be,

(i) where category A shares were also receivable by him as consideration for the disposition, the lesser of

(A) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of those category B shares of that class, and

(B) that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to him, immediately before the disposition, of the category A shares so disposed of exceeds the fair market value of the consideration for the disposition (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by him from the corporation, that

(I) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of those category B shares of that class,

is of

(II) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all category B shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by him as consideration for the disposition, and

(ii) in any other case, the amount determined under clause (i)(B);

(c) the cost to the taxpayer of any category A shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by him as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to him, immediately before the disposition, of the category A shares so disposed of exceeds the aggregate of the fair market value of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation or a right to receive any such shares) received by him from the corporation as consideration for the disposition and the cost to him of all category B shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by him as consideration for the disposition, that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of the category A shares of that class receivable by him as consideration for the disposition,

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all category A shares of the capital stock of the corporation receivable by him as consideration for the disposition; and

(d) his proceeds of the disposition of the shares shall be deemed to be the cost to him of all shares and other property receivable or received by him as consideration for the disposition of the shares plus the amount of any money received by him on the disposition.

(2) Definitions — For the purposes of this section,

(a) "category A share" means a common share where the taxpayer has disposed of a common share in the course of a reorganization, and means a preferred share where the taxpayer has disposed of a preferred share in the course of a reorganization; and

(b) "category B share" means a preferred share where a category A share means a common share, and means a common share where a category A share means a preferred share.

(3) Application — This section is not applicable in any case where any of subsections 85(1) to (3) is applicable.

87. (1) Amalgamations — In this section, an amalgamation means a merger of two or more corporations each of which was, immediately before the merger, a taxable Canadian corporation (each of which corporations is referred to in this section as a "predecessor corporation") to form one corporate entity (in this section referred to as the "new corporation") in such a manner that

(a) all of the property (except amounts receivable from any predecessor corporation or shares of the capital stock of any predecessor corporation) of the predecessor corporations immediately before the merger becomes property of the new corporation by virtue of the merger,

(b) all of the liabilities (except amounts payable to any predecessor corporation) of the predecessor corporations immediately before the merger become liabilities of the new corporation by virtue of the merger, and

(c) all of the shareholders (except any predecessor corporation), who owned shares of the capital stock of any predecessor corporation immediately before the merger, receive shares of the capital stock of the new corporation because of the merger,

otherwise than as a result of the acquisition of property of one corporation by another corporation, pursuant to the purchase of that property by the other corporation or as a result of the distribution of that property to the other corporation on the winding-up of the corporation.

(1.1) Shares deemed to have been received by virtue of merger — For the purposes of paragraph (1)(c) and the Income Tax Application Rules, where there is a merger of

(a) a corporation and one or more of its subsidiary wholly-owned corporations, or

(b) two or more corporations each of which is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the same corporation, any shares of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation owned by a shareholder (except any predecessor corporation) immediately before the merger that were not cancelled on the merger shall be deemed to be shares of the capital stock of the new corporation received by the shareholder by virtue of the merger as consideration for the disposition of the shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporations.

Related Provisions: 87(1.4) — Subsidiary wholly-owned corporation. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(1.1) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 42(1), applicable with respect to mergers occurring after December 14, 1975.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(1.2) New corporation continuation of a predecessor — Where there has been an amalgamation of corporations described in paragraph (1.1)(a) or of 2 or more corporations each of which is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the same person, the new corporation shall, for the purposes of section 29 of the Income Tax Application Rules, subsection 59(3.3) and sections 66, 66.1, 66.2, 66.4 and 66.7, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation, except that this subsection shall not affect the determination of any predecessor corporation's fiscal period, taxable income or tax payable.

Related Provisions: 87(1.4) — Subsidiary wholly-owned corporation. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Subsec. 87(1.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 39(1), applicable to amalgamations occurring after December 21, 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(1.2) New corporation continuation of predecessor — Where there has been an amalgamation of corporations described in paragraph (1.1)(a) or (b), the new corporation shall, for the purposes of section 29 of the Income Tax Application Rules, subsection 59(3.3) and sections 66, 66.1, 66.2, 66.4 and 66.7, be deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of each predecessor corporation, except that this subsection shall in no respect affect the determination of any predecessor corporation's fiscal period, taxable income or tax payable.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(1.2) amended by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 29(1), to add reference to section 66.7, applicable to taxation years ending after February 17, 1987 with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1982, and with respect to amalgamations occurring after December 14, 1975 and before 1983 where an election has been made under subsection 87(1.2) as that subsection read at that time.

Subsec. 87(1.2) substituted by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 42(1), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1982. Subsec. 87(1.2) formerly read:

(1.2) Parent corporation's resource expenses on amalgamation — Where there has been an amalgamation of a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent corporation") and one or more other corporations, each of which was a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the parent corporation, and the new corporation has elected under this subsection in its return of income under this Part for its first taxation year ending after October 28, 1980, the following rules apply for that year and all subsequent taxation years of the new corporation:

(a) with respect to exploration or development expenses, Canadian exploration and development expenses, foreign exploration and development expenses, cumulative Canadian exploration expense, cumulative Canadian development expense and cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense of

(i) the parent corporation, or

(ii) a predecessor of the parent corporation where the parent corporation is a successor corporation or a second successor corporation of the predecessor for the purposes of subsection 29(25) or (29) of the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 or subsection 66(6), (7), (8) or (9), 66.1(4) or (5), 66.2(3) or (4) or 66.4(3) or (4),

the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the parent corporation, except that an election under this subsection shall in no respect affect the determination of the fiscal period of, the taxable income of, or the tax payable by, the parent corporation; and

(b) for the purposes of subsections 29(25) and (29) of the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 and subsections 66(6), (7), (8) and (9), 66.1(4) and (5), 66.2(3) and (4) and 66.4(3) and (4), the new corporation shall be deemed not to be a successor corporation with respect to the expenses described in paragraph (a) of the parent corporation.

Subpara. 87(1.2)(a)(ii) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 38(1), to substitute "predecessor" for "predecessor corporation", applicable with respect to acquisitions of property by a successor corporation from a predecessor after April 19, 1983.

Para. 87(1.2)(a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, s. 52, applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after December 14, 1975.

Subsec. 87(1.2) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 47(1), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after December 14, 1975.

Regulations: 1214 (resource and processing allowances — purposes for which amalgamated corporation deemed to be continuation of predecessors).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-125R4: Dispositions of resource properties. See also list at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(1.3) repealed by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 42(1), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1982. Subsec. 87(1.3) formerly read:

(1.3) Shareholder corporation — Where there has been an amalgamation of a shareholder corporation (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 66(15)(i)) and one or more other corporations each of which is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the shareholder corporation, for the purposes of sections 66, 66.1, 66.2 and 66.4, the new corporation shall be deemed to be a shareholder corporation and to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the shareholder corporation.

Subsec. 87(1.3) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(1), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after December 14, 1975.

Subsec. 87(1.3) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 47(1), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after December 14, 1975.

(1.4) Definition of "subsidiary wholly-owned corporation" — Notwithstanding subsection 248(1), for the purposes of this subsection and subsections (1.1), (1.2) and (2.11), "subsidiary wholly-owned corporation" of a person (in this subsection referred to as the "parent") means a corporation all the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of which belong to

(a) the parent;

(b) a corporation that is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the parent; or

(c) any combination of persons each of which is a person described in paragraph (a) or (b).

Related Provisions: See Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Subsec. 87(1.4) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 39(2), applicable to amalgamations occurring after December 21, 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(1.4) Definition of "subsidiary wholly-owned corporation" — Notwithstanding subsection 248(1), for the purposes of this subsection and subsections (1.1), (1.2) and (2.11), "subsidiary wholly-owned corporation" of a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent corporation") means a corporation all the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of which belong to

(a) the parent corporation;

(b) a corporation that is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the parent corporation; or

(c) any combination of corporations each of which is a corporation described in paragraph (a) or (b).

That portion of subsec. 87(1.4) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(2), to add reference to subsection (2.11), applicable to amalgamations occurring after 1989.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(1.4) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 42(2), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1982, to substitute "subsections (1.1) and (1.2)" for "subsections (1.1), (1.2) and (1.3)".

Subsec. 87(1.4) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(2), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after December 14, 1975.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(1.5) Definitions — For the purpose of this section, "financial institution", "mark-to-market property" and "specified debt obligation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 142.2(1).

History: Subsec. 87(1.5) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 54(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(2) Rules applicable — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after 1971 the following rules apply:

(a) taxation year — for the purposes of this Act, the corporate entity formed as a result of the amalgamation shall be deemed to be a new corporation the first taxation year of which shall be deemed to have commenced at the time of the amalgamation, and a taxation year of a predecessor corporation that would otherwise have ended after the amalgamation shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the amalgamation;

Selected Cases [para. 87(2)(a)]: Pan Ocean Oil Ltd. v. Canada, [1994] 2 C.T.C. 143 (FCA) (New company did not "acquire" property of predecessor companies); Guaranty Properties Ltd. v. Canada, [1990] 2 C.T.C. 94 (FCA); leave to appeal to SCC refused (1991), 49 B.L.R. 320 (note) (Notice of reassessment to company subsequent to amalgamation was valid).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-179R: Change of fiscal period. See also list at end of s. 87.

Information Circulars: 88-2, para. 21: General anti-avoidance rule — section 245 of the Income Tax Act.

(b) inventory — for the purpose of computing the income of the new corporation, where the property described in the inventory, if any, of the new corporation at the beginning of its first taxation year includes property that was described in the inventory of a predecessor corporation at the end of the taxation year of the predecessor corporation that ended immediately before the amalgamation (which taxation year of a predecessor corporation is referred to in this section as its "last taxation year"), the property so included shall be deemed to have been acquired by the new corporation at the beginning of its first taxation year for an amount determined in accordance with section 10 as the value thereof for the purpose of computing the income of the predecessor corporation for its last taxation year, except that where the income of the predecessor corporation for its last taxation year from a farming business was computed in accordance with the cash method, the amount so determined in respect of inventory owned in connection with that business shall be deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included because of paragraph 28(1)(b) or (c) in computing that income for that year and, where the income of the new corporation from a farming business is computed in accordance with the cash method, for the purpose of section 28,

(i) an amount equal to that total shall be deemed to have been paid by the new corporation, and

(ii) the new corporation shall be deemed to have purchased the property for an amount equal to that total, in its first taxation year and in the course of carrying on that business;

History: Para. 87(2)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(1), applicable to amalgamations occurring after 1988, except that, in its application with respect to property acquired from a predecessor corporation the last taxation year of which commenced before 1989, the reference to "paragraph 28(1)(b) or (c)" in the para. shall be read as "paragraph 28(1)(b)". Para. 87(2)(b) formerly read:

(b) inventory — for the purpose of computing the income of the new corporation for its first taxation year, where the property described in the inventory, if any, of the new corporation at the commencement of that year includes

(i) property that was described in the inventory of a predecessor corporation at the end of the taxation year of the predecessor corporation that ended immediately before the amalgamation (which taxation year of a predecessor corporation is referred to in this section as its "last taxation year"), or

(ii) property that would have been described in the inventory of the predecessor corporation at the end of its last taxation year if its income for that year had not been computed in accordance with the method authorized by subsection 28(1), the property so included shall be deemed to have been acquired by the new corporation at the commencement of its first taxation year for an amount determined in accordance with section 10 as the value thereof for the purpose of computing the income of the predecessor corporation for its last taxation year, except that where the income of the predecessor corporation for its last taxation year was computed in accordance with the method authorized by subsection 28(1), the amount so determined shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, specified in respect of the predecessor corporation under paragraph 28(1)(b) for that year;

Pre-RSC History: That portion of para. 87(2)(b) following subpara. (ii) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 42(3), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1981, to substitute "the amount, if any, specified in respect of the predecessor corporation under paragraph 28(1)(b) for that year" for "nil".

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-427R: Livestock of farmers. See also list at end of s. 87.

(c) method adopted for computing income — in computing the income of the new corporation for a taxation year from a business or property

(i) there shall be included any amount received or receivable (depending on the method followed by the new corporation in computing its income for that year) by it in that year that would, if it had been received or receivable (depending on the method followed by the predecessor corporation in computing its income for its last taxation year) by the predecessor corporation in its last taxation year, have been included in computing the income of the predecessor corporation for that year, and

(ii) there may be deducted any amount paid or payable (depending on the method followed by the new corporation in computing its income for that year) by it in that year that would, if it had been paid or payable (depending on the method followed by the predecessor corporation in computing its income for its last taxation year) by the predecessor corporation in its last taxation year, have been deductible in computing the income of the predecessor corporation for that year;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(c) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(2), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Para. 87(2)(c) formerly read:

(c) where the method adopted by the new corporation for computing its income for a taxation year from a business is not the same as the method adopted by a predecessor corporation for computing its income for its last taxation year or a previous taxation year, in computing the income of the new corporation for that taxation year from the business

(i) there shall be included any amount received by it in that year in payment of or on account of a debt owing to the predecessor corporation that would, if it had been received by the predecessor corporation in its last taxation year, have been included in computing the income of the predecessor corporation for that year, and

(ii) there may be deducted any amount paid by it in that year in payment of or on account of a debt owing by the predecessor corporation that would, if it had been paid by the predecessor corporation in its last taxation year, have been deductible in computing the income of the predecessor corporation for that year;

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(d) depreciable property — for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) where depreciable property of a prescribed class has been acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation, the capital cost of the property to the new corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost of the property to the predecessor corporation, and

(ii) in determining the undepreciated capital cost to the new corporation of depreciable property of a prescribed class at any time,

(A) there shall be added to the capital cost to the new corporation of depreciable property of the class acquired before that time the cost amount, immediately before the amalgamation, to a predecessor corporation of each property included in that class by the new corporation,

(B) there shall be subtracted from the capital cost to the new corporation of depreciable property of that class acquired before that time the capital cost to the new corporation of property of that class acquired by virtue of the amalgamation,

(C) a reference in subparagraph 13(5)(b)(ii) to amounts that would have been deducted in respect of property in computing a taxpayer's income shall be construed as including a reference to amounts that would have been deducted in respect of that property in computing a predecessor corporation's income, and

(D) where depreciable property that is deemed by subsection 37(6) to be a separate prescribed class has been acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation, the property shall continue to be deemed to be of that same separate prescribed class;

History: Cl. 87(2)(d)(ii)(C) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 18(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1996. Cl. (ii)(C) formerly read:

(C) a reference in subparagraph 13(5)(b)(ii) to amounts that would have been deducted by a taxpayer in respect of transferred property shall be construed as including a reference to amounts that would have been deducted by a predecessor corporation in respect of that property, and

Cl. 87(2)(d)(ii)(C) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(2), applicable to taxation years commencing after June 17, 1987 that end after 1987. Cl. (ii)(C) formerly read:

(C) a reference in subparagraph 13(5)(a)(ii) to amounts that would have been allowed to a taxpayer in respect of transferred property, at the rate that was allowed to the taxpayer in respect of property of a prescribed class, shall be construed as including a reference to amounts that would have been allowed to a predecessor corporation in respect of that property at the rate that was allowed to the predecessor corporation in respect of property of that prescribed class, and

Pre-RSC History: Cl. 87(2)(d)(ii)(A) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(1), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1987. Cl. (ii)(A) formerly read:

(A) there shall be added to the capital cost to the new corporation of depreciable property of that class acquired before that time the undepreciated capital cost to each of the predecessor corporations of property of that class immediately before the amalgamation,

I.T. Application Rules: 20(1.2) (transfer of depreciable property by person who owned it before 1972).

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(d.1) depreciable property acquired from predecessor corporation — for the purposes of this Act, where depreciable property (other than property of a prescribed class) has been acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have acquired the property before 1972 at an actual cost equal to the actual cost of the property to the predecessor corporation, and the new corporation shall be deemed to have been allowed the total of all amounts allowed to the predecessor corporation in respect of the property, under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a), in computing the income of the predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(d.1) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(3), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after 1971.

I.T. Application Rules: 20(1.2) (transfer of depreciable property by person who owned it before 1972).

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(e) capital property — subject to paragraph (e.4) and subsection 142.6(5), where a capital property (other than depreciable property or an interest in a partnership) has been acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation, the cost of the property to the new corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the adjusted cost base of the property to the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

Related Provisions: 53(6) — Effect of amalgamation on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 69(13) — Amalgamation or merger. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(e) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 54(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) where any capital property (other than depreciable property or an interest in a partnership) has been acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation, the cost of the property to the new corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the adjusted cost base of the property to the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(e) amended by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 29(2), to substitute "(other than depreciable property or an interest in a partnership)" for "(other than depreciable property)", applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after January 15, 1987.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(e.1) partnership interest — where a partnership interest that is capital property has been acquired from a predecessor corporation to which the new corporation was related, for the purposes of this Act, the cost of that partnership interest to the new corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the cost of that interest to the predecessor corporation and, in respect of that partnership interest, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 53(1)(e), 53(2)(c) — ACB — partnership interest; 88(1)(c), 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up; 100(2.1) — Gain from disposition of partnership interest on amalgamation. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(e.2) security or debt obligation — subject to paragraphs (e.3) and (e.4) and subsection 142.6(5), where a property that is a security or debt obligation (other than a capital property or an inventory) of a predecessor corporation used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on the business of insurance or lending money in the taxation year ending immediately before the amalgamation has been acquired by the new corporation from the predecessor corporation, the cost of the property to the new corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the cost amount of the property to the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

(e.2) where any property that is a security or debt obligation (other than a capital property or an inventory) of a predecessor corporation used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on the business of insurance or lending money in the taxation year ending immediately before the amalgamation has been acquired by the new corporation from the predecessor corporation, the cost of the property to the new corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the cost amount of the property to the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(e.2) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(2), applicable to amalgamations occurring after December 15, 1987.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(e.3) financial institutions — specified debt obligation — where the new corporation is a financial institution in its first taxation year, it shall be deemed, in respect of a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property) acquired from a predecessor corporation that was a financial institution in its last taxation year, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 87(1.5) — Interpretation; 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up; 142.6(5) — Parallel rule for rollover transactions generally. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(e.3) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 54(3), applicable to amalgamations occurring, and windings-up beginning, after February 22, 1994.

(e.4) financial institutions — mark-to-market property — where

(i) the new corporation is a financial institution in its first taxation year and a property acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation is a mark-to-market property of the new corporation for the year, or

(ii) a predecessor corporation was a financial institution in its last taxation year and a property acquired by the new corporation from the predecessor corporation was a mark-to-market property of the predecessor corporation for the year, the cost of the property to the new corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the fair market value of the property immediately before the amalgamation;

Related Provisions: 87(1.5) — Interpretation; 87(2)(e), (e.2) — Rule overrides normal rules for capital property, securities and debt obligations; 87(2)(g.2), 142.6(1)(b) — Predecessor non-financial institution deemed to have disposed of property before amalgamation; 142.5(2) — Predecessor financial institution deemed to have disposed of property before amalgamation; 142.6(5), (6) — Acquisition of specified debt obligation by financial institution in rollover transaction. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(e.4) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 54(3), applicable to amalgamations occurring after October 1994.

(e.5) financial institutions — mark-to-market property — for the purposes of subsections 112(5) to (5.2) and (5.4) and the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 87(1.5) — Interpretation; 88(1)(h) — Parallel rule on windup. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(e.5) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 54(3), applicable to amalgamations occurring at any time (including, for greater certainty, amalgamations occurring before June 22, 1995).

(f) eligible capital property — for the purposes of determining under this Act any amount relating to cumulative eligible capital, an eligible capital amount, an eligible capital expenditure or eligible capital property, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

History: Para. 87(2)(f) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(3), applicable to amalgamations occurring after June 1988. That para. formerly read:

(f) cumulative eligible capital — for the purposes of computing the cumulative eligible capital of the new corporation at any time in respect of a business, where a predecessor corporation carried on a business that is carried on by the new corporation, the amount of the cumulative eligible capital of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation in respect of that business shall be added to the amount determined for A in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) in respect of that business;

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(j.93) added by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 23(2), applicable to amalgamations that occur and windings-up that begin after February 22, 1994.

(j.94) film or video productions — for the purposes of sections 125.4 and 125.5, the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(j.94) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(4), applicable to amalgamations that occur and windings-up that begin after October 1997. The para. formerly read:

> (j.94) Canadian film or video production tax credit — for the purpose of section 125.4, the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Para. 87(2)(j.94) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 15(2), applicable to amalgamations that occur and windings-up that begin after 1994.

Proposed Addition — 87(2)(j.95)

(j.95) non-resident trusts and foreign investment entities — for the purposes of sections 94 to 94.3, the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, s. 8, will add para. 87(2)(j.95), applicable after 2000.

Technical Notes: Section 87 of the Act sets out rules that apply on the amalgamation of two or more taxable Canadian corporations. The amalgamated corporation is generally treated as a continuation of the predecessor corporations for the purposes of the Act.

New paragraph 87(2)(j.95) provides that, where there has been an amalgamation of two or more taxable Canadian corporations, the amalgamated corporation is deemed to be a continuation of its predecessor corporations for the purposes of sections 94 to 94.3, which relate to foreign trusts and foreign investment entities. Thus, for example, an amalgamated corporation will be considered to be a "contributor" to a trust (as defined in subsection 94(1)) if any predecessor corporation was a contributor to the trust. In addition, the new corporation's "deferral amount" under paragraph 94.2(1)(b) in respect of an interest in a foreign investment entity will be determined in the same manner as a predecessor's "deferral amount" in respect of the same interest.

Because of the operation of paragraph 88(1)(e.2), new paragraph 87(2)(j.95) also applies to windings-up to which section 88 applies.

This amendment applies after 2000.

(k) certain payments to employees — for the purpose of subsection 6(3), any amount received by a person from the new corporation that would, if received by the person from a predecessor corporation, be deemed for the purpose of section 5 to be remuneration for that person's services rendered as an officer or during a period of employment, shall be deemed for the purposes of section 5 to be remuneration for services so rendered by the person;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

(l) scientific research and experimental development — for the purposes of section 37 and Part VIII, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(l) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 27(2), applicable to 1984 et seq. Para. 87(2)(l) formerly read:

> (i) an amount equal to the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of an expenditure referred to in paragraph 37(1)(a) made by a predecessor corporation shall, to the extent that it was not deducted by the predecessor corporation in computing its income for a taxation year, be deemed to be an expenditure of a current nature on scientific research made in Canada by the new corporation in its first taxation year,
> (ii) an amount equal to the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of an expenditure referred to in subparagraph 37(1)(b)(i) made by a predecessor corporation shall, to the extent that it was not deducted by the predecessor corporation in computing its income for a taxation year, be deemed to be an expenditure of a capital nature on scientific research made in Canada by the new corporation in its first taxation year,
> (iii) an amount equal to the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of an expenditure referred to in paragraph 37(1)(c) made by a predecessor corporation shall, to the extent that it was not deducted by a predecessor corporation in computing its income for a taxation year, be deemed to be an expenditure incurred by the new corporation in its first taxation year by way of repayment of an amount paid to the new corporation under an Appropriation Act and on terms and conditions described in paragraph 37(1)(c), and
> (iv) an amount equal to the aggregate of all amounts each of which is an amount paid to a predecessor corporation referred to in paragraph 37(1)(d) shall be deemed to be an amount paid to the new corporation in its first taxation year under an Appropriation Act and on terms and conditions described in paragraph 37(1)(c);

Para. 87(2)(l) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(4), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Para. 87(2)(l) formerly read:

> (l) for the purpose of section 37, any expenditure of a capital nature on scientific research made by a predecessor corporation on its last taxation year or a previous taxation year that would have been deductible by the predecessor corporation by virtue of paragraph 37(1)(b) in computing its income for its last taxation year shall, to the extent that such expenditure was not deducted by the predecessor corporation, be deemed to be an expenditure of a capital nature on scientific research made in Canada by the new corporation in its first taxation year.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(l.1) idem — for the purposes of this paragraph, paragraph (l.2) and section 37.1,

(i) the base period for a particular taxation year of a new corporation that has fewer than 3 preceding taxation years shall be deemed to be the period

(A) commencing on the day that

(I) is the earliest of all days each of which is a day immediately before the commencement of a taxation year of a predecessor corporation in respect of the new corporation that ended after 1976, and

(II) is in the 3 year period ending on the day immediately before the commencement of the particular year, and

(B) ending immediately before the first day of the particular taxation year,

(ii) where subparagraph (i) applies,

(A) in determining the qualified expenditures made by the new corporation in its base period, there shall be included the total of all amounts each of which is the qualified expenditure made by a predecessor corporation in a taxation year that commenced in the base period of the new corporation, and

(B) in determining the total of the amounts paid to the new corporation by persons referred to in subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iii) of the definition "expenditure base" in subsection 37.1(5) in its base period, there shall be included the total of all such amounts paid to a predecessor corporation by a person referred to in those subparagraphs in a taxation year that commenced in the base period of the new corporation,

(iii) the capital cost to the new corporation of any property that was a research property of a predecessor corporation acquired by it from the predecessor corporation shall be deemed to be the capital cost thereof to the predecessor corporation and the property shall be deemed to be a research property of the new corporation, and

(iv) each amount determined in respect of the new corporation under subparagraph 37.1(3)(b)(i) or (iii), as the case may be, shall be deemed to be the total of the amount otherwise determined and the total of amounts each of which is the amount determined under subparagraph 37.1(3)(b)(i) or (iii), as the case may be, in respect of a predecessor corporation;

(l.2) definition of "predecessor corporation" — for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraph (l.1), "predecessor corporation" includes any corporation in respect of which a predecessor corporation was a new corporation;

Pre-RSC History: Paras. 87(2)(l.1), (l.2) added by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 22(1), applicable to 1978 et seq.

(l.21) [debt forgiveness rules] — for the purposes of section 61.3, the definition "unrecognized loss" in subsection 80(1) and subsection 80.01(10), the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

History: Para. 87(2)(l.21) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(5), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The para. formerly read:

(l.21) forgiven amount — for the purposes of section 61.3 and subsection 80.01(10), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Para. 87(2)(l.21) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 30(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

(l.3) replacement property — where before the amalgamation property of a predecessor corporation was unlawfully taken, lost, destroyed or taken under statutory authority, or was a former business property of the predecessor corporation, for the purposes of applying sections 13 and 44 and the definition "former business property" in subsection 248(1) to the new corporation in respect of the property and any replacement property acquired therefor, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(l.3) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(7), applicable to amalgamations occurring and windings-up beginning after 1989. Para. (l.3) formerly read:

(l.3) property lost, destroyed or taken — if the amalgamation was after May 6, 1974 and a property of a predecessor corporation was unlawfully taken, lost, destroyed or taken under statutory authority prior to the amalgamation, sections 13 and 44 apply to the new corporation as though

(i) the new corporation had been in existence and owned that property at the time it was so lost, destroyed or taken,

(ii) the cost or capital cost, as the case may be, of that property to the new corporation were its cost or capital cost, as the case may be, to the predecessor corporation, and

(iii) where the predecessor corporation had acquired a replacement property for that property before the amalgamation, the new corporation had acquired that replacement property immediately after the amalgamation;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(l.3) substituted for former (l.1) by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 22(1), to add "unlawfully taken", applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after April 10, 1978, in para. 87(2)(l.3).

Former para. 87(2)(l.1) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(4), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-259R3: Exchanges of property. See also list at end of s. 87.

(m) reserves — for the purpose of computing the income of the new corporation for a taxation year, any amount claimed under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or 44(1)(e)(iii) in computing a predecessor corporation's gain for its last taxation year from the disposition of any property shall be deemed

(i) to have been claimed under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or 44(1)(e)(iii), as the case may be, in computing the new corporation's gain for a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year from the disposition of that property by it before its first taxation year, and

(ii) to be the amount determined under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(i) or 44(1)(e)(i), as the case may be, in respect of that property;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(m) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(5), applicable to amalgamations occurring and windings-up beginning after 1989. Para. 87(2)(m) formerly read:

(m) proceeds not due until after end of year — for the purpose of computing the income of the new corporation for its first taxation year and any subsequent taxation year, any amount claimed under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) in computing a predecessor corporation's gain for its last taxation year from the disposition of any property shall be deemed

(i) to have been claimed under that subparagraph in computing the new corporation's gain for a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year from the disposition of that property by it before its first taxation year, and

(ii) to be the amount determined under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(i) in respect of that property;

(m.1) [charitable] gift of non-qualifying security — for the purpose of computing the new corporation's gain under subsection 40(1.01) for any taxation year from the disposition of a property, the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

History: Para. 87(2)(m.1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 15, applicable to 1997 et seq.

(n) outlays made pursuant to warranty — for the purpose of section 42, any outlay or expense made or incurred by the new corporation in a taxation year, pursuant to or by virtue of an obligation described in that section incurred by a predecessor corporation, that would, if the outlay or expense had been made or incurred by the predecessor corporation in that year, have been deemed to be a loss of the predecessor corporation for that year from the disposition of a capital property shall be deemed to be a loss of the new corporation for that year from the disposition of a capital property;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-330R: Disposition of capital property subject to warranty, covenant, etc. See also list at end of s. 87.

(o) expiration of options previously granted — for the purpose of subsection 49(2), any option granted by a predecessor corporation that expires after the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been granted by the new corporation, and any proceeds received by the predecessor corporation for the granting of the option shall be deemed to have been received by the new corporation therefor;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

(p) consideration for resource property disposition — for the purpose of computing a deduction from the income of the new corporation for a taxation year under section 64 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, any amount that has been included in computing the income of a predecessor corporation for its last taxation year or a previous taxation year by virtue of subsection 59(1) or paragraph 59(3.2)(c) of this Act, of subsection 59(3) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, or of subsection 83A(5ba) or (5c) of that Act as it read in its application to a taxation year before the 1972 taxation year, shall be deemed to have been included in computing the income of the new corporation for a previous year by virtue thereof;

(r)–(s.1) [Repealed under former Act]

(t) pre-1972 capital surplus on hand — for the purpose of subsection 88(2.1), any capital property owned by a predecessor corporation on December 31, 1971 that was acquired by the new corporation by virtue of the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been acquired by the new corporation before 1972 at an actual cost to it equal to the actual cost of the property to the predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History [paras. 87(2)(q)–(t)]: Para. 87(2)(t) substituted for former para. 87(2)(q), paras. (r), (s), (s.1), (t) by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 42(2), applicable after December 31, 1978 except that

(a) the repeal of paras. 87(2)(s) and (s.1) is applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after March 31, 1977; and

(b) for the purpose of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand of a new corporation after March 31, 1977 and before 1979, paras. 87(2)(r) and (t) shall be read as follows:

(r) 1971 capital surplus on hand — for the purposes of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand of the new corporation at any time after the amalgamation, there shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraph 89(1)(l)(iv) the aggregate of amounts each of which is the 1971 capital surplus on hand, if any, of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

(t) idem — for the purpose of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand of the new corporation, in determining any amount under subparagraph 89(1)(l)(ii) or (xiv), any capital property owned by a predecessor corporation on December 31, 1971 that was acquired by the new corporation by virtue of the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been acquired by the new corporation before 1972 at an actual cost to it equal to the actual cost of the property to the predecessor corporation;

Paras. 87(2)(q), (r), (s), (s.1), (t) formerly read:

(q) tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand — for the purpose of computing the tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand of the new corporation at any time after the amalgamation, where a predecessor corporation had tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand immediately before the amalgamation, the amount thereof shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraphs 89(1)(k)(i) to (iii);

(r) 1971 capital surplus on hand or paid-up capital deficiency — for the purpose of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand or the paid-up capital deficiency, as the case may be, of the new corporation at any time after the amalgamation, there shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraph 89(1)(l)(iv) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the aggregate of amounts each of which is the 1971 capital surplus on hand, if any, of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation

exceeds

(ii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is the paid-up capital deficiency, if any, of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

(s) idem — for the purpose of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand or the paid-up capital deficiency, as the case may be, of the new corporation at any time after the amalgamation, there shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraph 89(1)(d)(iii) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the aggregate of amounts each of which is the paid-up capital deficiency, if any, of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation

exceeds

(ii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is the 1971 capital surplus on hand, if any, of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

(s.1) idem — for the purpose of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand or the paid-up capital deficiency, as the case may be, of the new corporation at any time after the amalgamation, there shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraph 89(1)(d)(iii) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the paid-up capital of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation

exceeds

(ii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is the paid-up capital in respect of a share (except a share held by any other predecessor corporation) of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

(t) idem — for the purpose of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand or the paid-up capital deficiency, as the case may be, of the new corporation, in determining any amount under subparagraph 89(1)(l)(ii) or (xiv), any capital property owned by a predecessor corporation on December 31, 1971 that was acquired by the new corporation by virtue of the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been acquired by the new corporation before 1972 at an actual cost to it equal to the actual cost of the property to the predecessor corporation;

Paras. 87(2)(p), (q) and all that portion of para. 87(2)(r) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(5), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Paras. 87(2)(p), (q) and that portion of para. 87(2)(r) formerly read:

(p) for the purpose of computing a deduction from the income of the new corporation for a taxation year under section 64, any amount that has been included in computing the income of a predecessor corporation for its last taxation year or a previous taxation year by virtue of subsection 59(1) or (3), or by virtue of subsection 83A(5ba) or (5c) of this Act as it read in its application to a taxation year before the 1972 taxation year, shall be deemed to have been included in computing the income of the new corporation for a previous year by virtue thereof;

(q) for the purpose of computing the tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand of the new corporation at any time, where a predecessor corporation had tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand immediately before the amalgamation the amount thereof shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraphs 89(1)(k)(i) to (iii);

(r) 1971 capital surplus on hand — for the purpose of computing the 1971 capital surplus on hand of the new corporation at any time, there shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraphs 89(1)(l)(i) to (iv) the amount, if any, by which

All that portion of para. 87(2)(s) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(6), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. That portion formerly read:

(s) for the purpose of computing the paid-up capital deficiency of the new corporation at any time, there shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraphs 89(1)(d)(i) to (iv) the amount, if any, by which

Para. 87(2)(s.1) added, para. 87(2)(t) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(7), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974, to substitute "(xiv)" for "(vii)" in para. 87(2)(t).

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(u) shares of foreign affiliate — where one or more shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a predecessor corporation have, by virtue of the amalgamation, been acquired by the new corporation and as a result of the acquisition the affiliate has become a foreign affiliate of the new corporation,

(i) for the purposes of subsection 91(5) and paragraph 92(1)(b), any amount required by section 92 to be added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing the adjusted cost base of any such share to the predecessor corporation before the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been so required to be added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing the adjusted cost base of the share to the new corporation, and

(ii) for the purpose of subsection 93(2), any exempt dividend received by the predecessor corporation on any such share shall be deemed to be an exempt dividend received by the new corporation on the share;

Proposed Amendment — 87(2)(u)(ii)

(ii) for the purposes of subsections 93(2) to (2.3), any exempt dividend received by the predecessor corporation on any such share is deemed to be an exempt dividend received by the new corporation on the share;

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 38(1), will amend subpara. 87(2)(u)(ii) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

Technical Notes: Section 87 of the Act provides rules that apply where there has been a merger of two or more corporations to form a new corporation.

Paragraph 87(2)(u) of the Act applies where two or more taxable Canadian corporations (referred to as "predecessor corporations") amalgamate to form a new corporation. Subparagraph 87(2)(u)(ii) provides that any dividend received by a predecessor corporation on a share that is an exempt dividend is considered for the purposes of subsection 93(2) to be an exempt dividend received by the new corporation. Subparagraph 87(2)(u)(ii) of the Act is amended to refer to subsections 93(2) to (2.3), effective after November 30, 1999, to refer to new subsections 93(2) to (2.3) which limit the losses arising on the disposition of shares of a foreign affiliate.

Pre-RSC History: Subpara. 87(2)(u)(i) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(8), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Subpara. 87(2)(u)(i) formerly read:

(i) for the purposes of subsection 90(2), paragraph 92(1)(b) and subsection 93(1), any amount required by section 92 to be added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing the adjusted cost base of any such share to the predecessor corporation before the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been so required to be added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing the adjusted cost base of the share to the new corporation, and

(v) gifts [charitable donations] — for the purposes of section 110.1, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation with respect to gifts;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(v) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(8), applicable to 1988 et seq. Para. 87(2)(v) formerly read:

(v) charitable gifts — for the purposes of paragraphs 110(1)(a), (b) and (b.1), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of each predecessor corporation with respect to gifts;

Para. 87(2)(v) substituted by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 42(4), applicable to 1984 et seq. Para. 87(2)(v) formerly read:

(v) charitable donations — where a predecessor corporation has made a gift in a taxation year, in determining the gifts made and the amounts deductible in respect of such gifts by the new corporation in any taxation year preceding any taxation year of the new corporation for the purposes of paragraphs 110(1)(a), (b) and (b.1), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the predecessor corporation with respect to such gifts;

Para. 87(2)(v) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(4), applicable to gifts made in 1981 et seq. Para. 87(2)(v) formerly read:

(v) for the purposes of paragraphs 110(1)(a), (b) and (b.1), gifts made by a predecessor corporation in its last taxation year shall, to the extent that they were not deductible in computing its taxable income for that taxation year, be deemed to have been made by the new corporation in a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year;

Para. 87(2)(v) substituted by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 22(2), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after September 5, 1977, to add reference to (b.1).

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(w) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(w) repealed by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 38(3), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after December 31, 1982. Para. 87(2)(w) formerly read:

(w) losses — for the purposes of section 111, a restricted farm loss of a predecessor corporation for a taxation year is not deductible in computing the taxable income of the new corporation;

Para. 87(2)(w) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 42(3), applicable to amalgamations and mergers occurring after March 31, 1977. Para. 87(2)(w) formerly read:

(w) for the purposes of section 111, a non-capital loss, net capital loss or restricted farm loss of a predecessor corporation for a taxation year is not deductible in computing the taxable income of the new corporation;

(x) taxable dividends — for the purposes of subsections 112(3) to (4.22),

(i) any taxable dividend received on a share that was deductible from the predecessor corporation's income for a taxation year under section 112 or subsection 138(6) is deemed to be a taxable dividend received on the share by the new corporation that was deductible from the new corporation's income under section 112 or subsection 138(6), as the case may be,

(ii) any dividend (other than a taxable dividend) received on a share by the predecessor corporation is deemed to have been received on the share by the new corporation, and

(iii) a share acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation is deemed to have been owned by the new corporation throughout any period of time throughout which it was owned by a predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(x) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(6), applicable to 1994 et seq. except that, in its application to dispositions of shares that occurred before April 27, 1995, para. 87(2)(x) shall be read as follows:

(x) for the purposes of subsections 112(3) to (4.3),

(i) any taxable dividend received on a share that was deductible from the predecessor corporation's income for a taxation year under section 112 or subsection 138(6) is deemed to be a taxable dividend received on the share by the new corporation that was deductible from the new corporation's income under section 112 or 138(6), as the case may be,

(ii) any capital dividend or life insurance capital dividend received on a share by the predecessor corporation is deemed to be a capital dividend or life insurance capital dividend, as the case may be, received on the share by the new corporation, and

(iii) a share acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation is deemed to have been owned by the new corporation throughout any period of time throughout which it was owned by a predecessor corporation;

The para. formerly read:

(x) for the purposes of subsections 112(3) to (4.3),

(i) any taxable dividend received on a share that was deductible from the predecessor corporation's income for a taxation year under section 112 or subsection 138(6) shall be deemed to be a taxable dividend received on the share by the new corporation that was deductible from the new corporation's income for a taxation year under section 112 or subsection 138(6), as the case may be, and

(ii) any capital dividend or life insurance capital dividend received on a share by the predecessor corporation shall be deemed to be a capital dividend or life insurance capital dividend, as the case may be, received on the share by the new corporation;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(x) substituted by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 29(6), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after June 5, 1987. Para. 87(2)(x) formerly read:

(x) taxable dividends — for the purposes of subsections 112(3) and (4), where a share owned by a predecessor corporation has, by virtue of the amalgamation, been acquired by the new corporation any taxable dividend received on the share by the predecessor corporation that was deductible from the predecessor corporation's income for a taxation year under section 112 shall be deemed to be a taxable dividend received by the new corporation that was deductible from the new corporation's income for a taxation year under section 112;

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(y) contributed surplus — for the purposes of subsections 84(1) and (10), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

History: Para. 87(2)(y) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(6), applicable after July 13, 1990.

Pre-RSC History [former 87(2)(y)]: Para. 87(2)(y) repealed by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 27(3), applicable to 1985 et seq. Para. 87(2)(y) formerly read:

(y) cumulative deduction account — for the purpose of computing the cumulative deduction account (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125(6)) of the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year and to have a cumulative deduction account at the end of that preceding year equal to the aggregate of all amounts each of which was a predecessor corporation's cumulative deduction account immediately before the amalgamation and, with respect to such amounts, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each such predecessor corporation;

Para. 87(2)(y) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(5), applicable to taxation years ending after 1982. Para. 87(2)(y) formerly read:

(y) for the purpose of computing the cumulative deduction account (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125(6)) of the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year and to have a cumulative deduction account at the end of that preceding year equal to the aggregate of amounts each of which was a predecessor corporation's cumulative deduction account immediately before the amalgamation and for the purposes of subsection 125(12), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each such predecessor corporation;

Para. 87(2)(y) substituted by 1979, c. 5, subsec. 28(3), applicable to 1979 et seq., to add "and for the purposes of subsection 125(12), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each such predecessor corporation;"

Para. 87(2)(y) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 42(4), applicable when the first taxation year of a new corporation is the 1978 or any subsequent taxation year. Para. 87(2)(y) formerly read:

(y) for the purpose of computing the cumulative deduction account (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125(6)) of the new corporation

(i) the new corporation shall be deemed to have a cumulative deduction account at the end of a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year equal to the aggregate of amounts each of which was a predecessor corporation's cumulative deduction account immediately before the amalgamation, and

(ii) at the end of any subsequent taxation year, there shall be added to the amount determined under paragraph 125(6)(b) from which the aggregate of the amounts referred to in subparagraphs (iii) and (iv) thereof is to be subtracted, the aggregate of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a predecessor corporation, equal to the amount that would have been the predecessor corporation's cumulative deduction account immediately before the amalgamation if paragraph 125(6)(b) had been read without reference to subparagraph (iv) thereof;

Para. 87(2)(y) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 26(1), applicable to 1972 et seq.

History: Para. 87(2)(y.1) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(7), applicable to taxes payable for taxation years that begin after 1986. The para. formerly read:

(y.1) preferred-earnings amount — for the purpose of computing the preferred-earnings amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 181(2)) of the new corporation, there shall be added to the new corporation's preferred-earnings amount at the end of its first taxation year the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) a predecessor corporation's preferred-earnings amount at the end of its last taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the amount that would be determined under paragraph 181(2)(c) in respect of the predecessor corporation for its last taxation year if the references in that paragraph to "the immediately preceding taxation year" and "that year" were read as "the year";

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(y.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(5), applicable to taxation years ending after 1982.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(z) foreign tax carryover — for the purposes of determining the new corporation's unused foreign tax credit (within the meaning of subsection 126(7)) in respect of a country for any taxation year and determining the extent to which subsection 126(2.3) applies to reduce the amount that may be claimed by the new corporation under paragraph 126(2)(a) in respect of an unused foreign tax credit in respect of a country for a taxation year, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation, except that this paragraph shall in no respect affect the determination of

(i) the fiscal period of the new corporation or any of its predecessor corporations, or

(ii) the tax payable under this Act by any predecessor corporation;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(z) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 27(4), applicable to the computation of tax for 1984 et seq. Para. 87(2)(z) formerly read:

(z) foreign tax carryover — for the purpose of computing the foreign-tax carryover (within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7)) of the new corporation for any taxation year,

(i) the amount determined under paragraph 126(2)(a) in respect of the new corporation for a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year in respect of a particular country, and

(ii) the business-income tax paid by the new corporation for a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year in respect of businesses carried on by it in that country, shall be deemed to be the aggregate of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a predecessor corporation, equal to the amount that the predecessor corporation's foreign-tax carryover in respect of that country would have been for its taxation year immediately following its last taxation year if it had had such a following taxation year;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-520: Unused foreign tax credits — carryforward and carryback. See also list at end of s. 87.

(z.1) capital dividend account — for the purposes of computing the capital dividend account of the new corporation, it shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation, other than a predecessor corporation to which subsection 83(2.1) would, if a dividend were paid immediately before the amalgamation and an election were made under subsection 83(2) in respect of the full amount of that dividend, apply to deem any portion of the dividend to be paid by the predecessor corporation as a taxable dividend;

History: Para. 87(2)(z.1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(7), applicable to amalgamations occurring and windings-up beginning after July 13, 1990. Para. 87(2)(z.1) formerly read:

(z.1) capital dividend account — for the purpose of computing at any particular time after the amalgamation the capital dividend account of a new corporation that has been a private corporation continuously from the time of the amalgamation to the particular time, there shall be added the amount of the capital dividend account of each predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation, except that the amount of the capital dividend account of any predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation shall be deemed to be nil where, had a dividend been paid by the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation and an election been made under subsection 83(2) in respect of that dividend, subsection 83(2.1) would have applied to deem all or any portion of the dividend to be a taxable dividend;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(z.1) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(9), applicable with respect to amalgamations and windings-up occurring after 4 p.m. EDST, September 25, 1987. Para. 87(2)(z.1) formerly read:

(z.1) capital dividend account — for the purpose of computing, at any particular time after the amalgamation, the capital dividend account or the life insurance capital dividend account for a new corporation that has been a private corporation continuously from the time of the amalgamation to the particular time, there shall be added the amount of the capital dividend account or the life insurance capital dividend account, as the case may be, of each predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

Para. 87(2)(z.1) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(6), applicable after June 28, 1982. Para. 87(2)(z.1) formerly read:

(z.1) for the purpose of computing, at any particular time after the amalgamation, the capital dividend account for a new corporation that has been a private corporation continuously from the time of the amalgamation to the particular time, there shall be added the amount of the capital dividend account of any predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

Para. 87(2)(z.1) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(9), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Para. 87(2)(z.1) formerly read:

(z.1) in the case of a new corporation that is a private corporation, for the purposes of computing the capital dividend account of the new corporation at any particular time,

(i) ½ of the amount of any capital gain and ½ of the amount of any capital loss of any predecessor private corporation for any taxation year commencing after it last became a private corporation and ending after 1971 and either before or at the time of the amalgamation shall, in the case of a capital gain, be included, and in the case of a capital loss, be deducted,

(ii) any amount that would, if the amalgamation had not occurred but if any taxation year of a predecessor corporation that would otherwise have ended next after the amalgamation had ended immediately before the amalgamation, have been required by any of subparagraphs 89(1)(b)(ii) to (iv) to be included in computing the predecessor corporation's capital dividend account immediately after the amalgamation shall be included, and

(iii) any capital dividend that became payable by any predecessor corporation after it last became a private corporation and before the amalgamation shall be deducted;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-66R6: Capital dividends. See also list at end of s. 87.

(z.2) application of Part III — for the purposes of Part III, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(z.2) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(10), applicable to amalgamations occurring after April 1988.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(aa) refundable dividend tax on hand — where the new corporation was a private corporation immediately after the amalgamation, for the purpose of computing the refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) of the new corporation at the end of its first taxation year there shall be added to the total determined under subsection 129(3) in respect of the new corporation for the year the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the refundable dividend tax on hand of a predecessor corporation at the end of its last taxation year exceeds its dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) for its last taxation year, except that no amount shall be added under this paragraph in respect of a predecessor corporation

(i) that was not a private corporation at the end of its last taxation year, or

(ii) where subsection 129(1.2) would have applied to deem a dividend paid by the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation not to be a taxable dividend for the purpose of subsection 129(1);

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87; 131(5) — Dividend refund to mutual fund corporation; 186(5) — Deemed private corporation. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of subsec. 87(9).

History: Para. 87(2)(aa) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 15(3), applicable to amalgamations that occur and windings-up that begin after June 1995. The para. formerly read:

(aa) refundable dividend tax on hand — where the new corporation was a private corporation continuously from the time of the amalgamation until the time immediately after the beginning of any taxation year, for the purpose of computing the refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) of the new corporation at the end of that year there shall be added to the total determined under subsection 129(3) for that year, from which the total of amounts determined under paragraphs 129(3)(c) to (e) is subtracted, the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the refundable dividend tax on hand immediately before the amalgamation of a predecessor corporation that was a private corporation at that time exceeds its dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) for its taxation year ending at that time, except that no amount shall be so added in respect of a predecessor corporation where subsection 129(1.2) would have applied to deem a dividend paid by the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation not to be a taxable dividend for the purpose of subsection 129(1);

Para. 87(2)(aa) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(8), applicable to the computation of refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsec. 129(3) as amended) for 1993 et seq. Para. (aa) formerly read:

(aa) refundable dividend tax on hand — in the case of a new corporation that has been a private corporation continuously from the time of the amalgamation to the end of any taxation year, for the purposes of computing the refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)), of the new corporation at the end of the taxation year, where a predecessor corporation had refundable dividend tax on hand immediately before the amalgamation, the amount by which the refundable dividend tax on hand at that time exceeds any dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) of the predecessor corporation for its taxation year ending immediately before the amalgamation shall be added to the total determined under subsection 129(3) from which the new corporation's dividend refunds are to be subtracted, except that the amount to be added to the total determined under subsection 129(3) shall be deemed to be nil where, had a dividend been paid by the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation, subsection 129(1.2) would have applied to deem the dividend not to be a taxable dividend;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(aa) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(11), to substitute "for the purposes of" for "for the purpose of" and to add "except that the amount to be added to the aggregate determined under subsection 129(3) shall be deemed to be nil where, had a dividend been paid by the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation, subsection 129(1.2) would have applied to deem the dividend not to be a taxable dividend", applicable with respect to amalgamations and windings-up occurring after 4 p.m. EDST, September 25, 1987.

Para. 87(2)(aa) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(9), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Para. 87(2)(aa) formerly read:

(aa) in the case of a new corporation that is a private corporation, for the purpose of computing the refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) of the new corporation at the end of any taxation year, where a predecessor corporation had refundable dividend tax on hand immediately before the amalgamation, the amount by which the refundable dividend tax on hand at that time exceeds any dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) of the predecessor corporation for its taxation year ending immediately before the amalgamation shall be added to the aggregate determined under subsection 129(3) from which the new corporation's dividend refunds are to be subtracted;

Para. 87(2)(aa) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 26(2), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(bb) mutual fund and investment corporations — where the new corporation is a mutual fund corporation or an investment corporation, there shall be added to

(i) the amount determined under each of paragraphs (a) and (b) of the definition "capital gains dividend account" in subsection 131(6), and

(ii) the values of A and B in the definition "refundable capital gains tax on hand" in that subsection in respect of the new corporation at any time the amounts so determined and the values of those factors immediately before the amalgamation in respect of each predecessor corporation that was, immediately before the amalgamation, a mutual fund corporation or an investment corporation;

History: Para. 87(2)(bb) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(8), applicable to amalgamations that occur after 1991 except that, for amalgamations that occurred after 1991 and before February 23, 1994, subpara. 87(2)(bb)(i) shall be read as follows:

(i) the amount determined under each of paragraphs (a) to (g) of the definition "capital gains dividend account" in subsection 131(6), and

The para. formerly read:

(bb) mutual fund and investment corporations — where the new corporation is a mutual fund corporation or an investment corporation, there shall be added to the amount determined for each of A, B, C and D in the definition "capital gains dividend account" and A and B in the definition "refundable capital gains tax on hand" in subsection 131(6) in respect of the new corporation at any time the amount so determined immediately before the amalgamation in respect of each predecessor corporation that was a mutual fund corporation or an investment corporation;

Para. 87(2)(bb) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(8), applicable to amalgamations occurring after July 13, 1990 and, where the corporation so elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before 1993, to amalgamations occurring after 1986. Para. 87(2)(bb) formerly read:

(bb) mutual fund corporation — in the case of a new corporation that is a mutual fund corporation,

(i) for the purpose of computing its capital gains dividend account at any time, where a predecessor mutual fund corporation had a capital gains dividend account immediately before the amalgamation the amount thereof shall be added to the amount determined for A in the definition "capital gains dividend account" in subsection 131(6), and

(ii) for the purpose of computing its refundable capital gains tax on hand at the end of any taxation year, where a predecessor mutual fund corporation had refundable capital gains tax on hand immediately before the amalgamation the amount thereof shall be added to the amount determined for A in the definition "refundable capital gains [tax] on hand" in subsection 131(6);

(bb.1) flow-through entities — where a predecessor corporation was, immediately before the amalgamation, an investment corporation, a mortgage investment corporation or a mutual fund corporation and the new corporation is an investment corporation, a mortgage investment corporation or a mutual fund corporation, as the case may be, for the purpose of section 39.1, the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor corporation;

History: Para. 87(2)(bb.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(8), applicable to amalgamations that occur after 1993.

(cc) non-resident-owned investment corporation — in the case of a new corporation that is a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(i) for the purpose of computing its allowable refundable tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 133(9)) at any time, where a predecessor corporation had allowable refundable tax on hand immediately before the amalgamation, the amount thereof shall be added to the total determined for A in the definition "allowable refundable tax on hand" in subsection 133(9),

(ii) for the purpose of computing its capital gains dividend account (within the meaning assigned by subsection 133(8)) at any time, where a predecessor corporation had an amount in its capital gains dividend account immediately before the amalgamation, that amount shall be added to the amount determined under paragraph (a) of the description of A in the definition "capital gains dividend account" in subsection 133(8), and

(iii) for the purpose of computing its cumulative taxable income (within the meaning assigned by subsection 133(9)) at any time, where a predecessor corporation had cumulative taxable income immediately before the amalgamation, the amount thereof shall be added to the total determined for A in the definition "cumulative taxable income" in subsection 133(9);

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(cc) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(10), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after 1971.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(dd), (ee) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(ee) repealed by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 27(5) applicable to 1985 et seq. Para. 87(2)(ee) formerly read:

(ee) preferred-rate amount — for the purpose of computing the preferred-rate amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 190(2)) of the new corporation at any time, where a predecessor corporation had a preferred-rate amount immediately before the amalgamation the amount thereof shall be added to the amount determined under subparagraph 190(2)(b)(i);

Para. 87(2)(ee) substituted for paras. 87(2)(dd), (ee) by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 26(3), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Pre-RSC History [paras. 87(2)(ff), (gg), (hh)]: Paras. 87(2)(ff), (gg), (hh) repealed by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 42(5), applicable, as to paras. (ff), (gg), after March 31, 1977, and as to para. (hh), after 1978. Paras. (ff), (gg), (hh) formerly read:

(ff) application of Part VII — for the purpose of section 192 except subsection (11) thereof, where a corporation was controlled by a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation and has, by virtue of the amalgamation, become controlled by the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have acquired control of the corporation so controlled at the time control thereof was acquired by the predecessor corporation;

(gg) designated surplus — for the purpose of computing the designated surplus of the new corporation at any particular time, there shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraphs 192(13)(a)(i) and (ii) or under subparagraphs 192(13)(b)(i) to (iii), as the case may be, the aggregate of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a predecessor corporation, equal to

(i) in any case where the predecessor corporation was, immediately before the amalgamation, controlled by a corporation that, immediately after the amalgamation and thereafter without interruption until the particular time, controlled the new corporation, its designated surplus immediately before the amalgamation, and

(ii) in any other case, the amount that its designated surplus would have been immediately before the amalgamation if control of the predecessor corporation had been acquired by another corporation immediately before the amalgamation;

(hh) 1971 undistributed income on hand — for the purpose of computing the 1971 undistributed income on hand of the new corporation at any time (except as that computation applies for the purpose of determining the designated surplus of the new corporation at any time), where a predecessor corporation had 1971 undistributed income on hand immediately before the amalgamation the amount thereof shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under paragraphs 196(4)(a), (b) and (c); and

(ii) public corporation — where a predecessor corporation was a public corporation immediately before the amalgamation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have been a public corporation at the commencement of its first taxation year;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(ii) added by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 26(4), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(jj) interest on certain obligations — for the purposes of paragraph 81(1)(m), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(kk) disposition of shares of controlled corporation — for the purposes of paragraph 40(2)(h),

(i) where a corporation was controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation and has, by reason of the amalgamation, become controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have acquired control of the corporation so controlled at the time control thereof was acquired by the predecessor corporation, and

(ii) where a predecessor corporation was immediately before the amalgamation controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by a corporation that, immediately after the amalgamation, controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(kk) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(12), applicable to taxation years commencing after 1988. Para. 87(2)(kk) formerly read:

(kk) for the purposes of paragraph 40(2)(h),

(i) where a corporation was controlled by a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation and has, by virtue of the amalgamation, become controlled by the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have acquired control of the corporation so controlled at the time control thereof was acquired by the predecessor corporation, and

(ii) where a predecessor corporation was immediately before the amalgamation controlled by a corporation that, immediately after the amalgamation, controlled the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Paras. 87(2)(jj), (kk) added by 1979, c. 5, subsec. 28(4), applicable to 1978 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(ll) para. 20(1)(n) and subpara. 40(1)(a)(iii) amounts — notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where any property was disposed of by a predecessor corporation, the new corporation shall, in computing

(i) the amount of any deduction under paragraph 20(1)(n) as a reserve in respect of the property sold in the course of business, and

(ii) the amount of its claim under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or 44(1)(e)(iii) in respect of the disposition of the property, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Subpara. 87(2)(ll)(ii) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(9), to add reference to subpara. 44(1)(e)(iii), applicable to amalgamations occurring and windings-up beginning after 1989.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(ll) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(7), applicable after November 12, 1981.

(mm) idem — for the purposes of section 126.1, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 126.1(5) — UI premium tax credit — "specified employer" defined. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(mm) added by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 9(1), applicable to amalgamations occurring, and windings-up beginning, after 1991.

Pre-RSC History [former para. 87(2)(mm)]: Para. 87(2)(mm) repealed by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 42(5), applicable to 1984 et seq. Para. 87(2)(mm) formerly read:

(mm) work in progress — for the purpose of determining under subsection 10(6) whether a corporation has made an election under paragraph 34(1)(d), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Para. 87(2) (mm) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(7), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1981.

(nn) refundable Part VII tax on hand — for the purpose of computing the refundable Part VII tax on hand of the new corporation at the end of any taxation year, there shall be added to the total determined under paragraph 192(3)(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) a predecessor corporation's refundable Part VII tax on hand at the end of its last taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the predecessor corporation's Part VII refund for its last taxation year;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(nn) added by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 38(4) applicable to 1983 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(oo) investment tax credit — for the purpose of applying subsection 127(10.2) to any corporation, the new corporation is deemed to have had

(i) a particular taxation year that

(A) where it was associated with another corporation in the new corporation's first taxation year, ended in the calendar year that precedes the calendar year in which that first year ends, and

(B) in any other case, immediately precedes that first year, and

History: Para. 87(2)(oo) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 18(2), applicable to amalgamations that occur after 1995, except that, for amalgamations that occur in 1996, the expression "any corporation" shall be read as "the new corporation". For amalgamations that occur after May 23, 1985 and before 1996, para. (oo) shall be read without reference to the expression "paragraph 127.1(2)(a) and subparagraph 157(1)(b)(i)". Para. (oo) formerly read:

(oo) for the purposes of applying subsection 127(10.1), paragraph 127.1(2)(a)[10] and subparagraph 157(1)(b)(i) in respect of the first taxation year of the new corporation, the new corporation shall be deemed to have had a taxation year immediately preceding its first taxation year and to have had

(i) taxable income for that preceding taxation year equal to the total of amounts each of which is the taxable income of a predecessor corporation for its taxation year ending immediately before the amalgamation, and

(ii) a business limit for that preceding taxation year equal to the total of amounts each of which is the business limit of a predecessor corporation for its taxation year ending immediately before the amalgamation;

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(oo) added by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 42(6), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after 1983.

Para. 87(2)(oo) repealed by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 27(6), applicable to 1984 et seq. Para (oo) formerly read:

(oo) refundable Part VIII tax on hand — for the purpose of computing the refundable Part VIII tax on hand of the new corporation at the end of any taxation year, there shall be added to the aggregate determined under paragraph 194(3)(a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) a predecessor corporation's refundable Part VIII tax on hand at the end of its last taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the predecessor corporation's Part VIII refund for its last taxation year.

Para. 87(2)(oo) added by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 38(4), applicable to 1983 et seq.

[10] Sic. This refers to an earlier version of subsec. 127.1(2), which is now the definition of "qualifying corporation" in that subsec.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(oo.1) refundable investment tax credit and balance-due day — for the purpose of applying subparagraph 157(1)(b)(i) and the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsection 127.1(2) to any corporation, the new corporation is deemed to have had

(i) a particular taxation year that

(A) where it was associated with another corporation in the new corporation's first taxation year, ended in the calendar year that precedes the calendar year in which that first year ends, and

(B) where clause (A) does not apply, immediately precedes that first year,

(ii) taxable income for the particular year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the particular year) equal to the total of all amounts each of which is a predecessor corporation's taxable income for its taxation year that ended immediately before the amalgamation (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that year), and

(iii) a business limit for the particular year equal to the total of all amounts each of which is a predecessor corporation's business limit for its taxation year that ended immediately before the amalgamation;

History: Para. 87(2)(oo.1) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 18(3), applicable to amalgamations that occur after May 23, 1985, except that,

(a) for amalgamations that occur before 1997, the expression "any corporation" shall be read as "the new corporation";

(b) for the purpose of applying para. (oo.1) for the purpose of the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsec. 127.1(2), the business limits referred to in para. (oo.1), for taxation years that ended after June 1994 and began before 1996, shall be determined under s. 125 as that section read in its application to taxation years that ended before July 1994; and

(c) cl. (oo.1)(i)(A) does not apply

(i) for the purpose of applying the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsec. 127.1(2) to taxation years that ended before July 1994, and

(ii) for the purpose of applying subpara. 157(1)(b)(i) to taxation years that end before 1998.

(pp) cumulative offset account computation — for the purpose of computing the cumulative offset account (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66.5(2)) of the new corporation at any time, there shall be added to the total otherwise determined under paragraph 66.5(2)(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) a predecessor corporation's cumulative offset account at the end of its last taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the amount deducted under subsection 66.5(1) in computing the predecessor corporation's income for its last taxation year;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(pp) added by 1986, c. 2, s. 21, applicable to 1985 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(qq) continuation of corporation [investment tax credit] — for the purpose of computing the new corporation's investment tax credit at the end of any taxation year, the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation, except that this paragraph does not affect the determination of the fiscal period of any corporation or the tax payable by any predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: See Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(qq) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(9), applicable to amalgamations that occur after April 26, 1995. The para. formerly read:

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(qq) added by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 46(2), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after May 23, 1985.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(rr) tax on taxable preferred shares — for the purposes of subsections 112(2.9), 191(4), and 191.1(2) and (4), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

(ss) transferred liability for Part VI.1 tax — for the purposes of section 191.3, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

Pre-RSC History: Paras. 87(2)(rr), (ss) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(13), applicable to amalgamations and windings-up occurring after June 18, 1987.

(tt) livestock — inclusion of deferred amount — for the purposes of subsections 80.3(3) and (5), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation; and

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2)(tt) added by 1990, c. 39, subsec. 19(2), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring and windings-up commencing after 1987.

(uu) fuel tax rebates — for the purposes of paragraph 12(1)(x.1), the description of D.1 in the definition "non-capital loss" in subsection 111(8), and subsections 111(10) and (11), the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation.

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up; 93(2)–(2.3) — Loss limitation on disposition of share. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2)(uu) amended by 1997, c. 26, s. 83, applicable to 1997 et seq. Para. (uu) formerly read:

(uu) for the purposes of paragraph 12(1)(x.1), the description of D.1 in the definition "non-capital loss" in subsection 111(8), clause 111(10)(a)(i)(B) and subsection 111(11), the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation.

Para. 87(2)(uu) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VI (1992, c. 29), s. 3, applicable to amalgamations occurring after 1991.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(2.01) Application of subsec. 37.1(5) — The definitions in subsection 37.1(5) apply to subsection (2).

Origin of subsec. 87(2.01): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words to subsec. 37.1(5)).

(2.1) Non-capital losses, etc., of predecessor corporations — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations, for the purposes only of

(a) determining the new corporation's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be, for any taxation year, and

(b) determining the extent to which subsections 111(3) to (5.4) and paragraph 149(10)(c) apply to restrict the deductibility by the new corporation of any non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation, except that this subsection shall in no respect affect the determination of

(c) the fiscal period of the new corporation or any of its predecessors,

(d) the income of the new corporation or any of its predecessors, or

(e) the taxable income of, or the tax payable under this Act by, any predecessor corporation.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(a) — Taxation year-end; 87(2.11) — Losses, etc., on amalgamation with subsidiary wholly-owned corporation; 256(7) — Where control deemed not acquired. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Para. 87(2.1)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(10), applicable to a corporation that becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax under Part I of the Act after April 26, 1995. The para. formerly read:

(b) determining the extent to which subsections 111(3) to (5.4) and paragraph 149(10)(d) apply to restrict the deductibility by the new corporation of any non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be,

Pre-RSC History: Para. 87(2.1)(b) substituted by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 29(7), to add reference to paragraph 149(10)(d), applicable with respect to amalgamations occurring after June 5, 1987.

Paras. 87(2.1)(a) and (b) amended by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 23(3), to substitute, in each, "restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss," for "restricted farm loss or farm loss", applicable after February 25, 1986.

(2.1) Non-capital losses and net capital losses of predecessor corporations — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after March 31, 1977, and one or more of the predecessor corporations had a non-capital loss or a net capital loss for any taxation year any portion of which was not deductible by it in computing its taxable income for any taxation year, for the purposes only of

(a) determining the new corporation's non-capital loss or net capital loss, as the case may be, for any taxation year preceding any taxation year of the new corporation, and

(b) determining the extent to which subsection 111(3), (4) or (5) applies to restrict the deductibility by the new corporation of any non-capital loss or net capital loss, as the case may be, the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each such predecessor corporation, except that this subsection shall in no respect affect the determination of Subsec. 87(2.1) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 42(6), applicable to amalgamations and mergers occurring after March 31, 1977.

Selected Cases [subsec. 87(2.1)]: Duha Printers (Western) Ltd. v. R., [1998] 3 C.T.C. 303 (SCC); Reversed [1996] 3 C.T.C. 19 (FCA) (Shareholder agreement did not result in de jure control); Garage Montplaisir Ltée v. MNR, [1992] 2 C.T.C. 2700 (TCC) (Predecessor corporation's business not carried on by corporation resulting from amalgamation; non-capital losses not deductible).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-302R3: Losses of a corporation — the effect that acquisitions of control, amalgamations, and windings-up have on their deductibility — after January 15, 1987. See also list at end of s. 87.

(2.11) Vertical amalgamations — Where a new corporation is formed by the amalgamation of a particular corporation and one or more of its subsidiary wholly-owned corporations, the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the particular corporation for the purposes of applying sections 111 and 126, subsections 127(5) to (26) and 181.1(4) to (7), Part IV and subsections 190.1(3) to (6) in respect of the particular corporation.

Related Provisions: 87(1.4) — Definition of "subsidiary wholly-owned corporation"; 87(2.1) — Non-capital losses, etc., of predecessor corporations; 87(11) — Vertical amalgamation — effects; 256(7) — Where control deemed not acquired.

History: Subsec. 87(2.11) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(11), applicable to amalgamations that occur after April 26, 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(2.11) Losses, etc., on amalgamation with subsidiary wholly-owned corporation — Where a new corporation is formed by the amalgamation of a particular corporation and one or more of its subsidiary wholly-owned corporations, the new corporation shall, for the purposes of applying section 111 and Part IV in respect of the particular corporation, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the particular corporation.

Subsec. 87(2.11) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(9), applicable to amalgamations occurring after 1989.

I.T. Technical News: No. 3 (subsection 87(2.11)).

(2.2) Amalgamation of insurers — Where there has been an amalgamation and one or more of the predecessor corporations was an insurer, the new corporation is, notwithstanding subsection (2), deemed, for the purposes of paragraphs 12(1)(d), (e), (e.1), (i) and (s) and 20(1)(l), (l.1), (p) and (jj) and 20(7)(c), subsection 20(22), sections 138, 138.1, 140, 142 and 148 and Part XII.3, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each of those predecessor corporations.

Related Provisions: 139.1(3)(g) — Where merger causes demutualization of insurer. See also Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: Subsec. 87(2.2) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 18(4), applicable to amalgamations that occur after 1995. Subsec. (2.2) formerly read:

(2.2) Amalgamation of insurance corporations — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations and one or more of the predecessor corporations was an insurance corporation, the new corporation shall, notwithstanding subsection (2), be deemed, for the purposes of paragraphs 12(1)(d), (e), (i) and (s) and 20(1)(l), (l.1), (p) and (jj) and 20(7)(c), sections 138, 138.1, 140, 142 and 148 and Part XII.3 of this Act and section 33 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each such predecessor corporation.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(2.2) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 60(14), applicable to amalgamations occurring after December 15, 1987. Subsec. (2.2) formerly read:

(2.2) Amalgamation of life insurance corporations — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more life insurance corporations after 1977, the new corporation shall be deemed, for purposes of section 138, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation except that this subsection shall in no respect affect the determination of

(a) the fiscal period of the new corporation or any of its predecessors; or

(b) the taxable income of, or the tax payable under this Act by, any predecessor corporation.

Subsec. 87(2.2) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 47(3), applicable to amalgamations occurring after 1977.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952").

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(3) Computation of paid-up capital — Subject to subsection (3.1), where there is an amalgamation or a merger of 2 or more Canadian corporations, in computing at any particular time the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the new corporation,

(a) there shall be deducted that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this subsection, in respect of all the shares of the capital stock of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation or merger exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the paid-up capital in respect of a share (except a share held by any other predecessor corporation) of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation or merger, that

(i) the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this subsection, of the particular class of shares of the capital stock of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation or merger

is of

(ii) the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this subsection, in respect of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation or merger; and

(b) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of the particular class paid by the new corporation before the particular time

exceeds

(B) the total that would be determined under clause (A) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the amount required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital of shares of the particular class.

Related Provisions: 87(3.1) — Election for 87(3) not to apply. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

History: That portion of subsec. 87(3) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(10), applicable to amalgamations occurring after 1990. That portion formerly read:

(3) Computation of paid-up capital — Where there has been an amalgamation or a merger after March 31, 1977 of two or more Canadian corporations, in computing, at any particular time the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the new corporation

Pre-RSC History: Cl. 87(3)(b)(i)(A) substituted by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 22(3), applicable after April 10, 1978, to add reference to (4.1).

Subsec. 87(3) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 42(7), applicable to amalgamations and mergers occurring after March 1977. Subsec. 87(3) formerly read:

(3) Where share of predecessor corporation owned by another such corporation — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after 1971 and, immediately before the amalgamation, one of the predecessor corporations (in this subsection referred to as the "owner corporation") owned any share of the capital stock of another of the predecessor corporations, the following rules apply:

(a) for the purpose of computing the paid-up capital deficiency of the new corporation at any time, the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of the share immediately before the amalgamation exceeds the adjusted cost base of the share to the owner corporation immediately before the amalgamation shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under subparagraph 89(1)(d)(iii); and

(b) for the purpose of computing the post-1971 undistributed surplus on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 192(15)) of the new corporation at any time, the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base of the share to the owner corporation immediately before the amalgamation exceeds the paid-up capital in respect of the share immediately before the amalgamation shall be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under paragraphs 192(15)(a) to (d).

Para. 87(3)(a) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(11), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974, to substitute "89(1)(d)(iii)" for "89(1)(d)(i) to (iv)".

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(3.1) Election for non-application of subsec. (3) — Where,

(a) there is an amalgamation of 2 or more corporations,

(b) all of the issued shares, immediately before the amalgamation, of each class of shares (other than a class of shares all of the issued shares of which were cancelled on the amalgamation) of the capital stock of each predecessor corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "exchanged class") are converted into all of the issued shares, immediately after the amalgamation, of a separate class of shares of the capital stock of the new corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "substituted class"),

(c) immediately after the amalgamation, the number of shareholders of each substituted class, the number of shares of each substituted class owned by each shareholder, the number of issued shares of each substituted class, the terms and conditions of each share of a substituted class, and the paid-up capital of each substituted class determined without reference to the provisions of this Act are identical to the number of shareholders of the exchanged class from which the substituted class was converted, the number of shares of each such exchanged class owned by each shareholder, the number of issued shares of each such exchanged class, the terms and conditions of each share of such exchanged class, and the paid-up capital of each such exchanged class determined without reference to the provisions of this Act, respectively, immediately before the amalgamation, and

(d) the new corporation elects in its return of income filed in accordance with section 150 for its first taxation year to have the provisions of this subsection apply, for the purpose of computing at any particular time the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the new corporation,

(e) subsection (3) does not apply in respect of the amalgamation, and

(f) each substituted class shall be deemed to be the same as, and a continuation of, the exchanged class from which it was converted.

History: Subsec. 87(3.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(11), applicable to amalgamations occurring after 1990.

(4) Shares of predecessor corporation — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after May 6, 1974, each shareholder (except any predecessor corporation) who, immediately before the amalgamation, owned shares of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "old shares") that were capital property to the shareholder and who received no consideration for the disposition of those shares on the amalgamation, other than shares of the capital stock of the new corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "new shares"), shall be deemed

(a) to have disposed of the old shares for proceeds equal to the total of the adjusted cost bases to the shareholder of those shares immediately before the amalgamation, and

(b) to have acquired the new shares of any particular class of the capital stock of the new corporation at a cost to the shareholder equal to that proportion of the proceeds described in paragraph (a) that

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the amalgamation, of all new shares of that particular class so acquired by the shareholder,

(ii) the fair market value, immediately after the amalgamation, of all new shares so acquired by the shareholder, except that, where the fair market value of the old shares immediately before the amalgamation exceeds the fair market value of the new shares immediately after the amalgamation and it is reasonable to regard any portion of the excess (in this subsection referred to as the "gift portion") as a benefit that the shareholder desired to have conferred on a person related to the shareholder, the following rules apply:

(c) the shareholder shall be deemed to have disposed of the old shares for proceeds of disposition equal to the lesser of

(i) the total of the adjusted cost bases to the shareholder, immediately before the amalgamation, of the old shares and the gift portion, and

(ii) the fair market value of the old shares immediately before the amalgamation,

(d) the shareholder's capital loss from the disposition of the old shares shall be deemed to be nil,

(e) the cost to the shareholder of any new shares of any class of the capital stock of the new corporation acquired by the shareholder on the amalgamation shall be deemed to be that proportion of the lesser of

(i) the total of the adjusted cost bases to the shareholder, immediately before the amalgamation, of the old shares, and

(ii) the total of the fair market value, immediately after the amalgamation, of all new shares so acquired by the shareholder and the amount that, but for paragraph (d), would have been the shareholder's capital loss from the disposition of the old shares

that

(iii) the fair market value, immediately after the amalgamation, of the new shares of that class so acquired by the shareholder

is of

(iv) the fair market value, immediately after the amalgamation, of all new shares so acquired by the shareholder, and where the old shares were taxable Canadian property of the shareholder, the new shares shall be deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the shareholder.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 87(4) following subpara. (b)(ii) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 47(4), applicable to amalgamations occurring after December 11, 1979. That portion formerly read:

and where the old shares were taxable Canadian property of the shareholder, the new shares shall be deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the shareholder.

Subsec. 87(4) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(12), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Subsec. 87(4) formerly read:

(4) Rules applicable for computing income of shareholder of predecessor corporation — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after 1971, for the purposes of computing the income of each shareholder (except any predecessor corporation) who owned one or more shares of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation, the following rules apply:

(a) where the shareholder owned one or more preferred shares of any class of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation and received no consideration for the disposition of those shares on the amalgamation other than one or more preferred shares of a class of the capital stock of the new corporation having substantially the same rights and conditions attaching thereto (determined without regard to any voting rights attaching to any shares) as attached to the shares of the predecessor corporation so disposed of by him,

(i) the shareholder shall be deemed to have disposed of the preferred shares of the class of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation so disposed of by him on the amalgamation, for proceeds equal to the adjusted cost base to him of those shares immediately before the amalgamation, and

(ii) he shall be deemed to have acquired the preferred shares of the class of the capital stock of the new corporation so acquired by him as consideration for the disposition of the preferred shares described in subparagraph (i), at a cost to him equal to the proceeds described in that subparagraph; and

(b) where

(i) the shareholder owned one or more common shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation,

(ii) none of the persons (except any predecessor corporation) who owned one or more of the common shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation received any consideration for the disposition of those shares on the amalgamation, other than one or more shares of the capital stock of the new corporation, and

(iii) either

(A) the persons (except any predecessor corporation) who together owned all of the common shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation together received as consideration for the disposition of those shares on the amalgamation, either

(I) not less than 25% of the shares of each particular class of the issued common shares of the capital stock of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation,

(II) common shares of the capital stock of the new corporation to which are attached not less than 25% of all votes that could be cast for any and all purposes by holders of common shares of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation and representing not less than 25% of the fair market value of all common shares of the new corporation issued and outstanding at that time,

or

(B) in any case where

(I) the shareholder owned one or more of the common shares of the capital stock of one or more other predecessor corporations immediately before the amalgamation, and

(II) none of the persons (except any predecessor corporation) who owned one or more of the common shares of the capital stock of such one or more other predecessor corporations immediately before the amalgamation received any consideration for the disposition of those shares on the amalgamation other than one or more shares of the capital stock of the new corporation,

the shareholder received on the amalgamation, as consideration for the disposition of the common shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation and of such one or more other predecessor corporations owned by him immediately before the amalgamation, not less than 80% of the shares of each particular class of the issued common shares of the capital stock of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation,

(iv) shall be deemed to have disposed of the common shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation so disposed of by him on the amalgamation, for proceeds equal to the adjusted cost base to him of those shares immediately before the amalgamation, and

(v) shall be deemed to have acquired the shares of any particular class of the capital stock of the new corporation so acquired by him as consideration for the disposition of the common shares described in subparagraph (iv), at a cost to him equal to that proportion of the proceeds described in subparagraph (iv) that

(A) the fair market value immediately after the amalgamation, of all shares of that particular class so acquired by him,

is of

(B) the fair market value, immediately after the amalgamation, of all of the shares of the capital stock of the new corporation so acquired by him as consideration for the disposition of the common shares described in subparagraph (iv).

Cl. 87(4)(b)(iii)(A) substituted by 1973-74, c. 30, subsec. 7(1), applicable with respect to amalgamations that take place after May 29, 1973. Cl. 87(4)(b)(iii)(A) formerly read:

(A) the persons (except any predecessor corporation) who together owned all of the common shares of the capital stock of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation together received as consideration for the disposition of those shares on the amalgamation not less than 25% of the shares of each particular class of the issued common shares of the capital stock of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation,

(4.1) Exchanged shares — For the purposes of the definition "term preferred share" in subsection 248(1), where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after November 16, 1978 and a share of any class of the capital stock of the new corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "new share") was issued in consideration for the disposition of a share of any class of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "exchanged share") and the terms and conditions of the new share were the same as, or substantially the same as, the terms and conditions of the exchanged share,

(a) the new share shall be deemed to have been issued at the time the exchanged share was issued;

(b) if the exchanged share was issued under an agreement in writing, the new share shall be deemed to have been issued under that agreement; and

(c) the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each such predecessor corporation.

(4.2) Idem — Where there has been an amalgamation or merger of two or more corporations after November 27, 1986 and a share of any class of the capital stock of the new corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "new share") was issued to a shareholder in consideration for the disposition of a share by that shareholder of any class of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "exchanged share") and the terms and conditions of the new share were the same as, or substantially the same as, the terms and conditions of the exchanged share, for the purposes of applying the provisions of this subsection, subsections 112(2.2) and (2.4), Parts IV.1 and VI.1, section 258 and the definitions "grandfathered share", "short-term preferred share", "taxable preferred share" and "taxable RFI share" in subsection 248(1) to the new share, the following rules apply:

(a) the new share shall be deemed to have been issued at the time the exchanged share was issued;

(b) where the exchanged share was a share described in paragraph (a), (b), (c) or (d) of the definition "grandfathered share" in subsection 248(1), the new share shall be deemed to be the same share as the exchanged share for the purposes of that definition;

(c) the new share shall be deemed to have been acquired by the shareholder at the time the exchanged share was acquired by the shareholder;

(d) the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

(e) an election made under subsection 191.2(1) by a predecessor corporation with respect to the class of shares of its capital stock to which the exchanged share belonged shall be deemed to be an election made by the new corporation with respect to the class of shares of its capital stock to which the new share belongs; and

(f) where the terms or conditions of the exchanged share or an agreement in respect of the exchanged share specify an amount in respect of the exchanged share for the purposes of subsection 191(4) and an amount equal to the amount so specified in respect of the exchanged share is specified in respect of the new share for the purposes of subsection 191(4),

(i) for the purposes of subparagraphs 191(4)(d)(i) and (e)(i), the new share shall be deemed to have been issued for the same consideration as that for which the exchanged share was issued and to have been issued for the purpose for which the exchanged share was issued,

(ii) for the purposes of subparagraphs 191(4)(d)(ii) and (e)(ii), the new share shall be deemed to be the same share as the exchanged share and to have been issued for the purpose for which the exchanged share was issued, and

(iii) where the shareholder received no consideration for the disposition of the exchanged share other than the new share, for the purposes of subsection 191(4),

(A) in the case of an exchanged share to which subsection 191(4) applies because of paragraph 191(4)(a), the new share shall be deemed to have been issued for consideration having a fair market value equal to the consideration for which the exchanged share was issued, and

(B) in the case of an exchanged share to which subsection 191(4) applies because of an event described in paragraph 191(4)(b) or (c), the consideration for which the new share was issued shall be deemed to have a fair market value equal to the fair market value of the exchanged share immediately before the time that event occurred.

(4.4) Flow-through shares — Where

(a) there is an amalgamation of two or more corporations each of which is a principal-business corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66(15)) or a corporation that at no time carried on business,

(b) a predecessor corporation entered into an agreement with a person at a particular time for consideration given by the person to the predecessor corporation,

(c) a share of the predecessor corporation

(i) that was a flow-through share (in this subsection having the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 66(15) if the definition "flow-through share" in that subsection were read without reference to the portion after paragraph (b) of that definition) was issued to the person before the amalgamation, or

(ii) that would (if it were issued) be a flow-through share, was to be issued to the person for the consideration under the agreement, and

(d) the new corporation

(i) issues a share (in this subsection referred to as a "new share") of any class of its capital stock on the amalgamation to the person in consideration for the disposition of the flow-through share of the predecessor corporation and the terms and conditions of the new share are the same as, or substantially the same as, the terms and conditions of the flow-through share, or

(ii) is obliged after the amalgamation to issue a new share of any class of its capital stock to the person under the obligation of the predecessor corporation to issue a flow-through share of the predecessor corporation to the person and the new share would not, if issued, be a prescribed share referred to in the definition "flow-through share" in subsection 66(15), for the purposes of subsection 66(12.66) and Part XII.6 and for the purposes of renouncing an amount under subsection 66(12.6), (12.601) or (12.62) in respect of Canadian exploration expenses or Canadian development expenses that would, but for the renunciation, be incurred by the new corporation after the amalgamation,

(e) the person shall be deemed to have given the consideration under the agreement to the new corporation for the issue of the new share,

(f) the agreement shall be deemed to have been entered into between the new corporation and the person at the particular time,

(g) the new share shall be deemed to be a flow-through share of the new corporation, and

(h) the new corporation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor corporation.

History: The portion of subsec. 87(4.4) between paras. (d) and (e) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 18(5), applicable (as amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 308, deemed to have come into force on April 25, 1997) to amalgamations that occur after 1995, except that the expression "subsection 66(12.6), (12.601) or (12.62) in respect of Canadian exploration expenses or Canadian development expenses" in subsection 87(4.4) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (5), shall be read as "subsection 66(12.6), (12.601), (12.62) or (12.64) in respect of Canadian exploration expenses, Canadian development expenses or Canadian oil and gas property expenses" in respect of amalgamations that occur before 1999. This portion formerly read:

for the purpose of subsection 66(12.66) and for the purposes of renouncing an amount under subsection 66(12.6), (12.601), (12.62) or (12.64) in respect of Canadian exploration expenses, Canadian development expenses or Canadian oil and gas property expenses that would, but for the renunciation, be incurred by the new corporation after the amalgamation,

That portion of subsec. 87(4.4) between paras. (d) and (e) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 9(2), applicable to amalgamations occurring after December 2, 1992. That portion formerly read:

for the purpose of subsection 66(12.66) and for the purpose of renouncing an amount under subsection 66(12.6), (12.62) or (12.64) in respect of Canadian exploration expenses, Canadian development expenses or Canadian oil and gas property expenses that would, but for the renunciation, be incurred by the new corporation after the amalgamation, Subsec. 87(4.4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(11), applicable to amalgamations occurring after February 1986.

(5) Options to acquire shares of predecessor corporation — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after May 6, 1974, each taxpayer (except any predecessor corporation) who immediately before the amalgamation owned a capital property that was an option to acquire shares of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "old option") and who received no consideration for the disposition of that option on the amalgamation, other than an option to acquire shares of the capital stock of the new corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "new option"), shall be deemed

(a) to have disposed of the old option for proceeds equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that option immediately before the amalgamation, and

(b) to have acquired the new option at a cost to the taxpayer equal to the proceeds described in paragraph (a),

and where the old option was taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer, the new option shall be deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(5) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(12), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Subsec. 87(5) formerly read:

(5) Determination of percentages — In determining any of the percentages referred to in clause (4)(b)(iii)(A), the percentage shall be deemed to be

(a) the percentage otherwise determined,

plus

(b) that proportion of the percentage otherwise determined that

(i) the fair market value of the issued common shares of the capital stock of a particular predecessor corporation owned by all other predecessor corporations immediately before the amalgamation

is of

(ii) the fair market value of the issued common shares of the capital stock of the particular predecessor corporation owned by all persons (except any predecessor corporation) immediately before the amalgamation.

Subsec. 87(5) substituted by 1973-74, c. 30, subsec. 7(2), applicable with respect to amalgamations that take place after May 29, 1973. Subsec. 87(5) formerly read:

(5) For the purposes of clause (4)(b)(iii)(A), the percentage of the shares of any particular class of the issued common shares of the capital stock of the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation received as described in that clause by the persons (except any predecessor corporation) who together owned all of the common shares of the capital stock of a particular predecessor corporation shall be deemed to be

(a) the percentage thereof otherwise determined,

plus

(b) that proportion of the percentage described in paragraph (a) that

(i) the fair market value of the issued common shares of the capital stock of the particular predecessor corporation owned by all other predecessor corporations immediately before the amalgamation

is of

(ii) the fair market value of the issued common shares of the capital stock of the particular predecessor corporation owned by all persons (except any predecessor corporation) immediately before the amalgamation.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(5.1) Adjusted cost base of option — Where the cost to a taxpayer of a new option is determined at any time under subsection (5),

(a) there shall be deducted after that time in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the new option the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing, immediately before that time, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the old option; and

(b) the amount determined under paragraph (a) shall be added after that time in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the new option.

History: Subsec. 87(5.1) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 30(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

(6) Obligations of predecessor corporation — Notwithstanding subsection (7), where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after May 6, 1974, each taxpayer (except any predecessor corporation) who, immediately before the amalgamation, owned a capital property that was a bond, debenture, mortgage, note or other similar obligation of a predecessor corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "old property") and who received no consideration for the disposition of the old property on the amalgamation other than a bond, debenture, mortgage, note or other similar obligation respectively, of the new corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "new property") shall, if the amount payable to the holder of the new property on its maturity is the same as the amount that would have been payable to the holder of the old property on its maturity, be deemed

(a) to have disposed of the old property for proceeds equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that property immediately before the amalgamation; and

(b) to have acquired the new property at a cost to the taxpayer equal to the proceeds described in paragraph (a).

Related Provisions: 80(2) — Deemed settlement on amalgamation; 87(6.1) — ACB of property; 88(1)(e.2) — Application to winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(6) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(12), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after May 6, 1974. Subsec. 87(6) formerly read:

(6) Canadian exploration and development expenses — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after 1971 and the new corporation is a principal-business corporation within the meaning assigned by subsection 66(15), there may be deducted by the new corporation in computing its income for a taxation year the aggregate of the following amounts in respect of expenses incurred by predecessor corporations, namely, in respect of each individual predecessor corporation, the amount that is the lesser of

(a) the aggregate of the Canadian exploration and development expenses (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66(15)) incurred by the predecessor corporation to the extent that such expenses

(i) were not deductible by the new corporation in computing its income for a previous taxation year, and were not deductible by the predecessor corporation in computing its income for its last taxation year or for a previous taxation year, and

(ii) would, but for paragraph 66(1)(b), have been deductible by the predecessor corporation in computing its income for its last taxation year, and

(b) of the aggregate determined under paragraph (a), an amount equal to such part of the income of the new corporation for the year if no deduction were allowed under this section, section 65 or section 66 (minus any deductions allowed for the year by sections 112 and 113) as may reasonably be regarded as attributable to the production of petroleum or natural gas from wells, or the production of minerals from mines, situated on property in Canada from which the predecessor corporation had, immediately before the amalgamation, a right to take or remove petroleum or natural gas or a right to take or remove minerals;

and no amount in respect of expenses of the predecessor corporation included in the aggregate determined under paragraph (a) shall, where subsection 192(15) is being applied to determine for the purposes of paragraph (2)(gg) of this section the designated surplus of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation, be included in the amount or amounts deductible under any paragraph of subsection 192(15).

I.T. Application Rules: 26(23) (where taxpayer owned the old property since before 1972).

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(6.1) Adjusted cost base — Where the cost to a taxpayer of a particular property that is a bond, debenture or note is determined at any time under subsection (6) and the terms of the bond, debenture or note conferred upon the holder the right to exchange that bond, debenture or note for shares,

(a) there shall be deducted after that time in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the bond, debenture or note the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing, immediately before that time, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the property for which the particular property was exchanged at that time; and

(b) the amount determined under paragraph (a) in respect of the particular property shall be added after that time in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the particular property.

Related Provisions: 53(1)(q) — Addition to ACB for amount under 87(6.1)(b); 53(2)(g.1) — Reduction in ACB under 87(6.1)(a); 80.03(2)(a) — Deemed gain on disposition following debt forgiveness.

History: Subsec. 87(6.1) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 30(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

(7) [Obligations of predecessor corporation] — Where there has been an amalgamation of two or more corporations after May 6, 1974 and

(a) a debt or other obligation of a predecessor corporation that was outstanding immediately before the amalgamation became a debt or other obligation of the new corporation on the amalgamation, and

(b) the amount payable by the new corporation on the maturity of the debt or other obligation, as the case may be, is the same as the amount that would have been payable by the predecessor corporation on its maturity, the provisions of this Act

(c) shall not apply in respect of the transfer of the debt or other obligation to the new corporation, and

(d) shall apply as if the new corporation had incurred or issued the debt or other obligation at the time it was incurred or issued by the predecessor corporation under the agreement made on the day on which the predecessor corporation made an agreement under which the debt or other obligation was issued, except that, for the purposes of the definition "income bond" or "income debenture" in subsection 248(1), paragraph (d) shall not apply to any debt or other obligation of the new corporation unless the terms and conditions thereof immediately after the amalgamation are the same as, or substantially the same as, the terms and conditions of the debt or obligation that was an income bond or income debenture of the predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation.

Related Provisions: 87(6) — Obligations of predecessor corporation; 88(1)(e.2) — Application to winding-up. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 87.

(8) Foreign merger — Subject to subsection 95(2), where there has been a foreign merger in which a taxpayer's shares or options to acquire shares of the capital stock of a corporation that was a predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger were exchanged for or became shares or options to acquire shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation or the foreign parent corporation, unless the taxpayer elects in the taxpayer's return of income for the taxation year in which the foreign merger took place not to have this subsection apply, subsections (4) and (5) apply to the taxpayer as if the references in those subsections to

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 38(2), will amend the opening words of subsec. 87(8) to read as above, applicable to mergers and combinations that occur after 1995 and, where a taxpayer notifies the Minister of National Revenue in writing before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year in which the amending legislation is assented to that the taxpayer makes the election referred to in subsec. 87(8), as amended, in respect of a merger or combination that occurred before 1999, the election is deemed to have been validly made in respect of the merger or combination.

Technical Notes: Subsections 87(8) and (8.1) of the Act provide tax-deferred rollover treatment to a shareholder of a foreign corporation (a predecessor) in respect of a disposition of shares of the predecessor where the predecessor undergoes a merger with one or more other foreign corporations. It also provides a shareholder with a similar rollover in respect of the disposition of shares of the predecessor in the case of a three-way or "triangular" foreign merger. The rollover is only available where the predecessor corporations, the new corporation formed on the merger and, in the case of a triangular merger, the corporation that controls the new corporation formed on the merger, are resident in the same foreign jurisdiction.

Subsections 87(8) and (8.1) are amended to remove the requirement that all of the corporations be resident in the same foreign jurisdiction. Consequently, the tax-deferred rollover will be available under subsection 87(8) in cases where the foreign corporations are resident in the same or different foreign jurisdictions.

New subsections 87(8) and (8.1) apply to mergers that occur after 1995. Where subsection 87(8) would otherwise apply to a taxpayer in respect of a merger that occurred in 1996, 1997 or 1998, the taxpayer can notify the Minister of National Revenue in writing, before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year in which subsections 87(8) and (8.1) receive Royal Assent, that the taxpayer elects not to have the subsection apply. Where the taxpayer so elects, the election will be considered to have been made in accordance with new subsection 87(8) of the Act.

Dept. of Finance news release, April 15, 1999: See under 85.1(5), (6).

Letter from Department of Finance, October 8, 1997:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letters of May 18 and June 20, 1997 and further to your telephone conversations with Davine Roach of the Department regarding the income tax treatment granted a Canadian shareholder of a foreign corporation which has been the subject of a so-called triangular foreign merger. You suggest that the Canadian income tax provisions are deficient in that they do not provide rollover treatment to the Canadian shareholder in such a merger.

As you indicate, the income tax provisions provide in certain circumstances for the tax deferred exchange by a Canadian shareholder of a share of a "predecessor foreign corporation" for a share of the "new foreign corporation" formed on the merger of the predecessor foreign corporation and another "predecessor foreign corporation" (a "foreign merger"). The provisions do not however provide for such a tax-deferred exchange where such a shareholder exchanges a share of the foreign predecessor corporation for a share of the foreign corporation that controls, immediately after the merger, the new foreign corporation (a "triangular foreign merger"). You believe this is unintended because the Canadian shareholder should be treated the same in respect of an exchanged share under both the foreign merger and the triangular foreign merger.

From a tax policy perspective, we agree that it would be appropriate for a Canadian shareholder of a predecessor foreign corporation to receive rollover tax treatment in the case of a triangular foreign merger. Therefore, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Income Tax Act be amended to accommodate such mergers. In particular, such amendments would provide that a Canadian shareholder of a predecessor foreign corporation would receive rollover treatment in respect of the adjusted cost base of a share of the predecessor foreign corporation owned by the shareholder and exchanged for a share of the foreign corporation that controls, immediately after the merger, the new foreign corporation formed as a result of the merger of the predecessor foreign corporation and another predecessor foreign corporation where such predecessor corporations and controlling corporation are all resident of the same country.

We would recommend that such amendments apply in respect of triangular foreign mergers that occur after 1996. If this recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

History: Subsec. 87(8) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 24(1), applicable to a taxpayer in respect of a merger or combination of foreign corporations

(a) that occurs after February 24, 1998, or

(b) that occurred

(i) before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer for which the taxpayer's normal reassessment period, as defined in subsec. 152(3.1), has not ended before 1999, or

unless the taxpayer elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing, before January 1, 2000, that the amendment not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the merger or combination. Subsec. 87(8) formerly read:

(8) Merger of foreign affiliate — Where there has been a foreign merger in which the shares owned by a taxpayer of the capital stock of a corporation that was a predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger were exchanged for or became shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation, unless the taxpayer elects in the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which the foreign merger took place not to have the provisions of this section apply, subsection (4) applies to the taxpayer as if the references therein to

(a) "amalgamation" were read as "foreign merger";

(b) "predecessor corporation" were read as "predecessor foreign corporation";

(c) "new corporation" were read as "new foreign corporation"; and

(d) "May 6, 1974" were read as "November 12, 1981".

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(8) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 52(8), applicable with respect to foreign mergers occurring after November 12, 1981. Subsec. 87(8) formerly read:

(8) Where there has been a merger of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as a "predecessor affiliate") and one or more other corporations to form one corporate entity (in this subsection referred to as a "new affiliate") that, immediately after the merger, is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and such merger is not as a result of the acquisition of property of one corporation by another corporation, pursuant to the purchase of such property by the other corporation, or as a result of the distribution of such property to another corporation upon the winding-up of the predecessor affiliate, subsection (4) applies to the taxpayer as if the references therein to

(a) "amalgamation" were read as "merger";

(b) "predecessor corporation" were read as "predecessor affiliate";

(c) "new corporation" were read as "new affiliate"; and

(d) "May 6, 1974" were read as "1971".

Subsec. 87(8) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 51(12), applicable in respect of mergers occurring after 1971.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 87.

(8.1) Definition of "foreign merger" — For the purposes of this section, "foreign merger" means a merger or combination of two or more corporations each of which was, immediately before the merger or combination, resident in a country other than Canada (each of which is in this section referred to as a "predecessor foreign corporation") to form one corporate entity resident in the country in which all the predecessor foreign corporations were resident (in this section referred to as the "new foreign corporation") in such manner that

(a) all or substantially all the property (except amounts receivable from any predecessor foreign corporation or shares of the capital stock of any predecessor foreign corporation) of the predecessor foreign corporations immediately before the merger or combination becomes property of the new foreign corporation by virtue of the merger or combination,

(b) all or substantially all the liabilities (except amounts payable to any predecessor foreign corporation) of the predecessor foreign corporations immediately before the merger or combination become liabilities of the new foreign corporation by virtue of the merger or combination, and

(c) all or substantially all of the shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporations (except any shares or options owned by any predecessor foreign corporation) are exchanged for or become, because of the merger or combination,

(i) shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation, or

(ii) if, immediately after the merger, the new foreign corporation was controlled by another foreign corporation (in this section referred to as the "foreign parent corporation") that was resident in the same country as the new foreign corporation, shares of the capital stock of the foreign parent corporation, otherwise than as a result of the distribution of property to one corporation on the winding-up of another corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 87(8.1)

(8.1) Definition of "foreign merger" — For the purposes of this section, "foreign merger" means a merger or combination of two or more corporations each of which was, immediately before the merger or combination, resident in a country other than Canada (each of which is in this section referred to as a "predecessor foreign corporation") to form one corporate entity resident in a country other than Canada (in this section referred to as the "new foreign corporation") in such a manner that, and otherwise than as a result of the distribution of property to one corporation on the winding-up of another corporation,

(a) all or substantially all the property (except amounts receivable from any predecessor foreign corporation or shares of the capital stock of any predecessor foreign corporation) of the predecessor foreign corporations immediately before the merger or combination becomes property of the new foreign corporation as a consequence of the merger or combination;

(b) all or substantially all the liabilities (except amounts payable to any predecessor foreign corporation) of the predecessor foreign corporations immediately before the merger or combination become liabilities of the new foreign corporation as a consequence of the merger or combination; and

(c) all or substantially all of the shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporations (except any shares or options owned by any predecessor foreign corporation) are exchanged for or become, because of the merger or combination,

(i) shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation, or

(ii) if, immediately after the merger, the new foreign corporation was controlled by another corporation (in this section referred to as the "foreign parent corporation") that was resident in a country other than Canada, shares of the capital stock of the foreign parent corporation.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 38(3), will amend subsec. 87(8.1) to read as above, applicable to mergers and combinations that occur after 1995.

(9) Rules applicable in respect of certain mergers [triangular amalgamation] — Where there has been a merger of two or more taxable Canadian corporations to form a new corporation that was controlled, immediately after the merger, by a taxable Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent") and, on the merger, shares of the capital stock of the parent (in this subsection referred to as "parent shares") were issued by the parent to persons who were, immediately before the merger, shareholders of a predecessor corporation, the following rules apply:

(a) for the purposes of paragraph (1)(c), subsection (4) and the Income Tax Application Rules, any parent shares received by a shareholder of a predecessor corporation shall be deemed to be shares of the capital stock of the new corporation received by the shareholder by virtue of the merger;

(a.1) for the purposes of subsections (4.1) and (4.2), a parent share issued to a shareholder in consideration for the disposition of a share of a class of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation shall be deemed to be a share of a class of the capital stock of the new corporation that was issued in consideration for the disposition of a share of a class of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation by that shareholder;

(a.2) for the purposes of subsection (4.3), a right listed on a prescribed stock exchange to acquire a share of a class of the capital stock of the parent shall be deemed to be a right listed on a prescribed stock exchange to acquire a share of a class of the capital stock of the new corporation;

(a.3) for the purpose of applying subsection (5) in respect of the merger, the reference in that subsection to "the new corporation" shall be read as a reference to "the parent";

(a.4) for the purpose of paragraph (c), any shares of the new corporation acquired by the parent on the merger shall be deemed to be new shares;

(a.5) for the purpose of applying subsection (10) in respect of the merger,

(i) the reference in paragraph (10)(b) to "the new corporation" shall be read as a reference to "the new corporation or the parent, within the meaning assigned by subsection (9)", and

(ii) the references in paragraphs (10)(c) and (f) to "the new corporation" shall be read as references to "the public corporation described in paragraph (b)".

(b) in computing, at any particular time, the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the parent that included parent shares immediately after the merger

(i) there shall be deducted that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this paragraph, in respect of all the shares of the capital stock of the parent immediately after the merger exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the paid-up capital in respect of a share of the capital stock of the parent or a predecessor corporation (other than any share of a predecessor corporation owned by the parent or by another predecessor corporation and any share of a predecessor corporation owned by a shareholder other than the parent or another predecessor corporation that was not exchanged on the merger for parent shares) immediately before the merger that

(A) the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this paragraph, in respect of that particular class of shares of the capital stock of the parent immediately after the merger

is of

(B) the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this paragraph, in respect of all the issued and outstanding shares of the classes of the capital stock of the parent that included parent shares immediately after the merger, and

(ii) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of the particular class paid by the parent before the particular time

exceeds

(II) the total that would be determined under subclause (I) if this Act were read without reference to subparagraph (i), and

(B) the amount required by subparagraph (i) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital of shares of the particular class; and

(c) notwithstanding paragraph (4)(b), the parent shall be deemed to have acquired the new shares of any particular class of the capital stock of the new corporation at a cost equal to the total of

(i) the amount otherwise determined under paragraph (4)(b) to be the cost of those shares, and

(ii) in any case where the parent owned, immediately after the merger, all of the issued shares of the capital stock of the new corporation, such portion of

(A) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the amount by which the total of the money on hand of the new corporation and all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the new corporation of a property owned by it, immediately after the merger, exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any debt owing by the new corporation, or of any other obligation of the new corporation to pay any amount, that was outstanding immediately after the merger,

exceeds

(II) the total of the adjusted cost bases to the parent of all shares of the capital stock of each predecessor corporation beneficially owned by it immediately before the merger

as is designated by the parent in respect of the shares of that particular class in its return of income under this Part for its taxation year in which the merger occurred, except that

(B) in no case shall the amount so designated in respect of the shares of a particular class exceed the amount, if any, by which the total fair market value, immediately after the merger, of the shares of that particular class issued by virtue of the merger exceeds the cost of those shares to the parent determined without reference to this paragraph, and

(C) in no case shall the total of the amounts so designated in respect of the shares of each class of the capital stock of the new corporation exceed the amount determined under clause (A).

History: Para. 87(9)(a.5) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(12), applicable to amalgamations that occur after April 26, 1995 except that, in its application to amalgamations that occurred before 1998, para. 87(9)(a.5) shall be read as follows:

(a.5) for the purpose of applying subsection (10) in respect of the merger,

(i) any share issued by the parent on the merger is deemed to have been issued by the new corporation, and

(ii) the reference in paragraph (10)(f) to "the new corporation" shall be read as a reference to "the corporation that issued the share";

Paras. 87(9)(a.3) and (a.4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 37(13), applicable to amalgamations and mergers occurring after December 20, 1991.

Paras. 87(9)(a.1), (a.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 65(12), applicable to amalgamations and mergers occurring after 1986.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 87(9) added by 1979, c. 5, subsec. 28(7), applicable in respect of amalgamations occurring after November 16, 1978.

Regulations: 3200 (prescribed stock exchange).

(10) Share deemed listed — Where

(a) a new corporation is formed as a result of an amalgamation,

(b) the new corporation is a public corporation,

(c) the new corporation issues a share (in this subsection referred to as the "new share") of its capital stock,

(d) the new share is issued in exchange for a share (in this subsection referred to as the "old share") of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation,

(e) immediately before the amalgamation, the old share was listed on a prescribed stock exchange, and

(f) the new share is redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the new corporation within 60 days after the amalgamation, the new share is deemed, for the purposes of subsections 115(1) and 116(6) and the definitions "qualified investment" in subsections 146(1), 146.1(1) and 146.3(1) and in section 204, to be listed on the exchange until the earliest time at which it is so redeemed, acquired or cancelled.

Proposed Amendment — 87(10)

the new share is deemed, for the purposes of subsection 116(6), the definitions "qualified investment" in subsections 146(1), 146.1(1), and 146.3(1) and in section 204, and the definition "taxable Canadian property" in subsection 248(1), to be listed on the exchange until the earliest time at which it is so redeemed, acquired or cancelled.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 38(4), will amend the closing words of subsec. 87(10) to read as above, applicable after October 1, 1996.

Technical Notes: Section 87 of the Act sets out rules that apply where there has been an amalgamation of two or more taxable Canadian corporations to form a new corporation.

Subsection 87(10) of the Act treats certain shares issued as part of an "amalgamation squeeze-out" as being listed on a prescribed stock exchange. The subsection is amended, with application after October 1, 1996, to replace its reference to subsection 115(1) of the Act with a reference to the new definition "taxable Canadian property" in subsection 248(1) of the Act. This consequential change is not intended to have any substantive effect on the operation of subsection 87(10).

History: The closing words of subsec. 87(10) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 24(3), applicable after 1997. The closing words formerly read:

> the new share is deemed, for the purposes of subsections 115(1) and 116(6) and the definitions "qualified investment" in subsections 146(1) and 146.3(1) and in section 204, to be listed on the exchange until the earliest time at which it is so redeemed, acquired or cancelled.

Subsec. 87(10) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(13), applicable to amalgamations that occur after April 26, 1995 except that, in its application to amalgamations that occurred before July 1996, subsec. 87(10) shall be read without reference to para. (b).

Regulations: 3200, 3201 (prescribed stock exchanges; expected to be amended to cover 87(10)).

(11) Vertical amalgamations — Where at any time there is an amalgamation of a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent") and one or more other corporations (each of which in this subsection is referred to as the "subsidiary") each of which is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the parent,

(a) the shares of the subsidiary are deemed to have been disposed of by the parent immediately before the amalgamation for proceeds equal to the proceeds that would be determined under paragraph 88(1)(b) if subsections 88(1) and (1.7) applied, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to the amalgamation; and

(b) the cost to the new corporation of each capital property of the subsidiary acquired on the amalgamation is deemed to be the amount that would have been the cost to the parent of the property if the property had been distributed at that time to the parent on a winding-up of the subsidiary and subsections 88(1) and (1.7) had applied to the winding-up.

Related Provisions: 87(2.11) — Vertical amalgamation — carryback of losses; 87(9)(a.5) — Application on triangular amalgamation.

History: Subsec. 87(11) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 117(13), subject to subsec. 117(27) of 1998, c. 19, applicable to amalgamations that occur after 1994, and for the purpose of para. 87(11)(b), any designation by a new corporation of an amount under para. 88(1)(d) that is filed with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998 is deemed to have been made by the new corporation in its return of income under Part I of the Act for its first taxation year.

> (27) Where the new corporation formed on an amalgamation that occurred before June 20, 1996 so elects in writing, filed with the Minister of National Revenue with the return of income under Part I of the Act for the parent's taxation year that ended immediately before the amalgamation, or within 90 days after any assessment or reassessment of tax payable under that Part for the year, subsection 87(11) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (13), does not apply to the amalgamation.

(c) [cost to parent] — subject to paragraph 87(2)(e.3) (as modified by paragraph (e.2)), and notwithstanding paragraph 87(2)(e.1) (as modified by paragraph (e.2)), the cost to the parent of each property of the subsidiary distributed to the parent on the winding-up shall be deemed to be

(i) in the case of a property that is an interest in a partnership, the amount that but for this paragraph would be the cost to the parent of the property, and

(ii) in any other case, the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount that would, but for subsection 69(11), be deemed by paragraph (a) to be the proceeds of disposition of the property

exceeds

(B) any reduction of the cost amount to the subsidiary of the property made because of section 80 on the winding-up, plus, where the property was a capital property (other than an ineligible property) of the subsidiary at the time that the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary and was owned by the subsidiary thereafter without interruption until such time as it was distributed to the parent on the winding-up, the amount determined under paragraph (d) in respect of the property and, for the purposes of this paragraph, "ineligible property" means

(iii) depreciable property,

(iv) property transferred to the parent on the winding-up where the transfer is part of a distribution (within the meaning assigned by subsection 55(1)) made in the course of a reorganization in which a dividend was received to which subsection 55(2) would, but for paragraph 55(3)(b), apply,

(v) property acquired by the subsidiary from the parent or from any person or partnership that was not (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) dealing at arm's length with the parent, or any other property acquired by the subsidiary in substitution for it, where the acquisition was part of the series of transactions or events in which the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary, and

(vi) property distributed to the parent on the winding-up where, as part of the series of transactions or events that includes the winding-up,

(A) the parent acquired control of the subsidiary, and

(B) any property distributed to the parent on the winding-up or any other property acquired by any person in substitution therefor is acquired by

(I) a particular person (other than a specified person) that, at any time during the course of the series and before control of the subsidiary was last acquired by the parent, was a specified shareholder of the subsidiary,

(II) 2 or more persons (other than specified persons), if a particular person would have been, at any time during the course of the series and before control of the subsidiary was last acquired by the parent, a specified shareholder of the subsidiary if all the shares that were then owned by those 2 or more persons were owned at that time by the particular person, or

(III) a corporation (other than a specified person)

Proposed Amendment — 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III)

(III) a corporation (other than a specified person or the subsidiary)

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 39(1), will amend the opening words of subcl. 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) to read as above, applicable to windings-up that begin after November 1994.

Technical Notes: Section 88 of the Act deals with the tax consequences arising from the winding-up of a corporation. Subsection 88(1) provides rules that apply where a subsidiary has been wound up into its parent corporation where both corporations are taxable Canadian corporations and the parent owns at least 90% of the issued shares of each class of the subsidiary's capital stock.

Paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Act provides that the cost to a parent corporation of each property distributed to it on the winding-up of a subsidiary is equal to the subsidiary's proceeds of disposition of the property plus, where the property is not an "ineligible property", an amount determined under paragraph 88(1)(d) of the Act in respect of the property. An ineligible property is defined in paragraph 88(1)(c) and consists of four types of property. Subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi) describes the fourth type of ineligible property.

Subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) of the Act provides that property will be an ineligible property for the purposes of paragraph 88(1)(c) where the property distributed to the parent on the winding-up is acquired as part of the series of transactions or events that includes the winding-up by a person described in subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III).

A person described in subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) of the Act is

A. a corporation (other than a specified person) of which any person who was a specified shareholder of the subsidiary is a specified shareholder, or

B. a corporation (other than a specified person) in which persons described in subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(II) owns shares that, if owned by one person, would have made that person a specified shareholder of the corporation.

Subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) of the Act is amended to also exclude from persons described therein the subsidiary itself. This amendment will ensure that where a target/subsidiary corporation transfers some of its property to a subsidiary of the target prior to the parent's acquisition of control of the target, the transfer, in and by itself, will not cause property distributed to the parent on the winding-up of the target/subsidiary to be ineligible property.

Amended subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) applies to windings-up that begin after November 1994.

Letter from Department of Finance, June 19, 1998:

Dear [xxx]

This is in reply to your letter of May 28, 1998 to Davine Roach of the Department regarding the application of proposed subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") to the proposed takeover transaction described in your letter. You believe this application gives rise to unintended tax consequences and ask that consideration be given to amending the subclause to ensure the appropriate tax results.

Based on our understanding of the facts of the proposed transaction, proposed subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) will cause the Opco shares to be "ineligible property" for the purpose of paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Act and therefore ineligible for a step-up in tax basis. The Opco shares will be rendered "ineligible property" because of the fact that as part of the series of transactions or events in which PCo acquired control of TCo and in which Amalco was wound-up into PCo, Holdco acquired the shares of Opco.

In these circumstances, we agree that the Opco shares should not be "ineligible property" for the purposes of the step-up in tax basis under paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Act. Consequently, we will recommend to the Minister of Finance that an amendment to paragraph 88(1)(c)(vi) of the Act be introduced to ensure that, in the circumstances described in your letter, the Opco shares will not be "ineligible property". We will recommend that such an amendment be effective for windings-up that occur after November 1994. If the recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in the government's next technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber, Director General, Tax Legislation Division

Letter from Department of Finance, October 8, 1997:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letter of October 7, 1997 to Davine Roach of this Department, on behalf of your client, [xxx], regarding subparagraph 88(1)(c)(v) of the Income Tax Act. In particular, you ask if we could confirm our intention to recommend to the Minister of Finance that a particular amendment be made to subparagraph 88(1)(c)(v).

We can confirm that we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subparagraph 88(1)(c)(v) of the Income Tax Act be amended to refer to property transferred to the subsidiary by the parent or a person or partnership that was not (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) dealing at arm's length with the parent where the transfer was made as part of the series of transactions or events in which the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary. It will be recommended that such an amendment be effective for windings-up that begin after 1996.

If the recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber

Letter from Department of Finance, October 8, 1997:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letter of September 24, 1997 to Davine Roach of the Department regarding amended subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi) of the Income Tax Act as contained in Bill C-69. You ask if we would reconsider the appropriateness of the application of this subparagraph in view of the transaction described in your letter.

Based on our understanding of your transaction, the Newco shares will be considered to be substituted property for the purposes of subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi) of the Income Tax Act. As a result, the partnership interests distributed to Buyco on the winding-up of Newco will be considered to be ineligible property for the purposes of the step-up in cost under paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Income Tax Act.

We are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the income tax provisions be amended so that in the transaction you describe the Newco shares will not be considered to be substituted property for the purposes of subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi) of the Income Tax Act. It will be recommended that such an amendment have the same effective date as currently provided for proposed paragraph 88(1)(c.3) of the Income Tax Act included in former Bill C-69.

If the recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that the amendment would be included in either the bill that replaces former Bill C-69 or a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

Letter from Department of Finance, August 28, 1997:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letter of August 26, 1997 regarding proposed paragraph 88(1)(c.3) of the Income Tax Act. You state that the current wording of proposed paragraph 88(1)(c.3) is too restrictive thereby rendering a capital property that would otherwise qualify for the step-up in cost under paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Income Tax Act to be an ineligible property for this purpose.

Based on our understanding of the facts of the so-called Dual Offer and the Amalgamation Squeeze Out described in your letter, certain capital property owned by the subsidiary since the Parent last acquired control of the subsidiary and distributed to the Parent on the winding-up of the subsidiary does not technically qualify for the step-up in cost under paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Income Tax Act. This is as a consequence of certain transitory transactions which were facilitating in nature and which may be considered to have occurred during the series of transactions or events that included the acquisition of control of the subsidiary by the Parent and the winding-up of the subsidiary into the Parent.

Under the Dual Offer, shares of the Parent, a taxable Canadian corporation, (the "Dual Shares"), were issued as consideration for the acquisition of the shares of the subsidiary by a wholly-owned subsidiary corporation of the Parent.

Under the Amalgamation Squeeze Out, shares of the subsidiary, (the "Amalco Shares"), which subsidiary was formed on the amalgamation of two or more corporations one of which was a wholly-owned subsidiary corporation of the Parent, were issued on the amalgamation in exchange for the shares of a predecessor corporation and were redeemed immediately after the amalgamation for money or shares of the Parent.

From a tax policy perspective, the Dual Shares and the Amalco Shares should not, in and by themselves, cause the capital property distributed to the parent on the winding-up of the subsidiary to be ineligible property for the purposes of the step-up in cost under paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Income Tax Act. While Revenue Canada's strict application of the law is that the issue of the Dual Shares and the Amalco Shares is part of the series of transactions that includes the acquisition of control by the Parent of the subsidiary and the winding-up of the subsidiary, we believe that there is scope to interpret these provisions in a manner consistent with the policy intent underlying the provisions. We intend to pursue this approach further with Revenue Canada.

Should Revenue Canada continue to maintain its position with respect to the Dual Shares and the Amalco Shares we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that a technical amendment be made to the income tax provisions to ensure that the tax policy intent of those provisions is more properly reflected in the law. In this context, we would recommend that paragraph 88(1)(c.3) of the Income Tax Act be amended to provide that such shares will not be considered to be substituted property for the purposes of clause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B) of the Income Tax Act. It would be recommended that such an amendment have the same effective date as is currently provided for proposed paragraph 88(1)(c.3) of the Income Tax Act in former Bill C-69. If the recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in either the bill that replaces Bill C-69 or a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

Letter from Department of Finance, June 19, 1997:

Dear [xxx]

This letter is in response to the letters to Ms. Davine Roach of the Department of Finance dated June 6 and 9, 1997 that were written by [xxx] on behalf of [xxx] and [xxx] [regarding the] proposed public takeover offer by [xxx] of [xxx]. These letters request an amendment to the Income Tax Act that would eliminate the negative effect subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi) of the Income Tax Act has on the proposed takeover.

Based on our understanding of the facts as set out in the letters, [xxx] and his personal holding company [xxx] own shares of [xxx]. Prior to the sale of the [xxx] shares to [xxx], [xxx] will transfer his [xxx] shares to [xxx] and [xxx] will then transfer the [xxx] shares to a newly incorporated company (Newco). The adjusted cost base and paid-up capital of the Newco shares will be increased by an amount equal to the so-called "safe income" that [xxx] had in [xxx] at the time of the transfer. [xxx] will then sell the Newco shares to Acquisico. Newco will be wound up into (or amalgamated with) Acquisico and the cost of the [xxx] shares acquired on the winding-up (or amalgamation) will be stepped-up in accordance with subsection 88(1) (or proposed subsection 87(11)) of the Income Tax Act. The acquisition of the shares of Newco by [xxx] will however cause the [xxx] shares to be ineligible property for the purpose of paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Income Tax Act with the result that on the winding-up (or [xxx] amalgamation) of Newco, Acquisico will be denied the step-up in the cost of the [xxx] shares.

We are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the income tax provisions be amended so that in the circumstances described herein the [xxx] shares will not be considered to be ineligible property of Newco for the purpose of paragraph 88(1)(c) of the Income Tax Act. It will be recommended that such an amendment have the same effective date as currently provided for proposed paragraph 88(1)(c.3) of the Income Tax Act included in former Bill C-69. If the recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in either the bill that replaces former Bill C-69 or a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

David A. Dodge

(c.1) [eligible capital property] — for the purpose of determining after the winding-up the amount to be included under paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the parent's income in respect of the business carried on by the subsidiary immediately before the winding-up, there shall be added to the amount otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of that business immediately before the disposition;

History: Para. 88(1)(c.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 38(3), applicable to distributions of property on the winding-up of a subsidiary in a taxation year of the subsidiary beginning after June 1988.

(c.2) ["specified person" and "specified shareholder"] — for the purposes of this paragraph and subparagraph (c)(vi),

(i) "specified person" at any time means the parent and each person that would, if this Act were read without reference to paragraph 251(5)(b), be related to the parent at that time and, for this purpose, a person shall be deemed not to be related to the parent where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main purposes of one or more transactions or events was to cause the person to be related to the parent so as to prevent a property that was distributed to the parent on the winding-up from being an ineligible property for the purpose of paragraph (c),

(ii) where at any time a property is owned or acquired by a partnership or a trust,

(A) the partnership or the trust, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be a person that is a corporation having one class of issued shares, which shares have full voting rights under all circumstances,

(B) each member of the partnership or beneficiary under the trust, as the case may be, shall be deemed to own at that time the proportion of the number of issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation that

(I) the fair market value at that time of that member's interest in the partnership or that beneficiary's interest in the trust, as the case may be,

is of

(II) the fair market value at that time of all the members' interests in the partnership or beneficiaries' interests in the trust, as the case may be, and

(C) the property shall be deemed to have been owned or acquired at that time by the corporation, and

(iii) in determining whether a person is a specified shareholder of a corporation,

(A) the reference in the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) to "or of any other corporation that is related to the corporation" shall be read as "or of any other corporation that is related to the corporation and that has a significant direct or indirect interest in any issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation", and

Proposed Amendment — 88(1)(c.2)(iii)(A)

(A) the reference in the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) to "the issued shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation or of any other corporation that is related to the corporation" shall be read as "the issued shares of any class (other than a specified class) of the capital stock of the corporation or of any other corporation that is related to the corporation and that has a significant direct or indirect interest in any issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation", and

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 39(2), will amend cl. 88(1)(c.2)(iii)(A) to read as above, applicable to windings-up that begin after November 1994.

Technical Notes: Subparagraph 88(1)(c.2)(iii) of the Act provides, for the purposes of paragraph 88(1)(c.2) and subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi) of the Act, that an expanded definition of "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) of the Act is to be used. In particular, clause 88(1)(c.2)(iii)(A) provides that the definition of specified shareholder is to be read as including a reference to "or of any other corporation that is related to the corporation and that has a significant direct or indirect interest in any issued shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation" rather than the reference to "or of any corporation that is related to the corporation".

Amended clause 88(1)(c.2)(iii)(A) provides for a new modification to the expanded definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) of the Act. In particular, for the purposes of paragraph 88(1)(c.2) and subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi), the definition of specified shareholder is to be read as including a reference to "the issued shares of any class (other than a specified class) of the capital stock of the corporation or of any other corporation that is related to the corporation and that has a significant direct or indirect interest in any issued shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation" rather than the reference to "or of any corporation that is related to the corporation". Proposed clause 88(1)(c.2)(iii)(A) ensures that in determining whether a person is a specified shareholder of a particular corporation, for the purposes of paragraph 88(1)(c.2) and subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi), the person does not have to account for shares of a specified class. Specified class is a new expression and is defined in new paragraph 88(1)(c.8) of the Act.

(B) a corporation is deemed not to be a specified shareholder of itself;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(c.8) — Meaning of "specified class" for 88(1)(c.2)(iii)(A); 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control.

History: Subpara. 88(1)(c.2)(iii) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(5), applicable to windings-up that begin after November 1994.

Para. 88(1)(c.2) added by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 24(2), applicable to windings-up that begin after February 21, 1994.

(c.3) [substituted property] — for the purpose of clause (c)(vi)(B), property acquired by any person in substitution for particular property or properties distributed to the parent on the winding-up includes

(i) property (other than a specified property) owned by the person at any time after the acquisition of control referred to in clause (c)(vi)(A) the fair market value of which is, at that time, wholly or partly attributable to the particular property or properties, and

(ii) property owned by the person at any time after the acquisition of control referred to in clause (c)(vi)(A) the fair market value of which is, at that time, determinable primarily by reference to the fair market value of, or to any proceeds from a disposition of, the particular property or properties

but does not include

(iii) money,

(iv) property that was not owned by the person at any time after the acquisition of control referred to in clause (c)(vi)(A), or

(v) property described in subparagraph (i) if the only reason the property is described in that subparagraph is because a specified property described in any of subparagraphs (c.4)(i) to (iv) was received as consideration for the acquisition of a share of the capital stock of the subsidiary in the circumstances described in subparagraphs (c.4)(i) to (iv);

Related Provisions: 88(1)(c.4) — Meaning of specified property; 88(1)(c.6) — Where control acquired by way of articles of arrangement; 88(1)(c.7) — Extended meaning of depreciable property; 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control; 248(5) — Substituted property; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired.

History: Para. 88(1)(c.3) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(6), applicable to windings-up that begin after February 21, 1994 except that, in its application to windings-up that began before June 21, 1996 and to windings-up that begin after June 20, 1996 that are part of an arrangement that was substantially advanced, as evidenced in writing, before June 21, 1996, the para. shall be read as follows:

(c.3) for the purpose of clause (c)(vi)(B), property acquired by any person in substitution for particular property or properties

(i) includes property owned by the person at any time after the acquisition of control referred to in clause (c)(vi)(A) the fair market value of which is, at that time, determinable primarily by reference to the fair market value of the particular property or properties or by reference to any proceeds from a disposition of the particular property or properties, but

(ii) does not include property that is money received as consideration for a disposition of the particular property or properties;

I.T. Technical News: No. 9 (the backdoor butterfly rule).

(c.4) ["specified property"] — for the purposes of subparagraphs (c.3)(i) and (v), a specified property is

(i) a share of the capital stock of the parent that was received as consideration for the acquisition of a share of the capital stock of the subsidiary by the parent or by a corporation that was a specified subsidiary corporation of the parent immediately before the acquisition,

(ii) an indebtedness that was issued by the parent as consideration for the acquisition of a share of the capital stock of the subsidiary by the parent,

(iii) a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation that was received as consideration for the acquisition of a share of the capital stock of the subsidiary by the taxable Canadian corporation or by the parent where the parent was a specified subsidiary corporation of the taxable Canadian corporation immediately before the acquisition,

(iv) an indebtedness of a taxable Canadian corporation that was issued by it as consideration for the acquisition of a share of the capital stock of the subsidiary by the taxable Canadian corporation or by the parent where the parent was a specified subsidiary corporation of the taxable Canadian corporation immediately before the acquisition,

(v) where the subsidiary was formed on the amalgamation of 2 or more predecessor corporations at least one of which was a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the parent, a share of the capital stock of the subsidiary

(A) that was issued on the amalgamation in exchange for a share of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation, and

(B) that was, immediately after the amalgamation, redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the subsidiary for money, and

(vi) where the subsidiary was formed on the amalgamation of 2 or more predecessor corporations at least one of which was a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the parent, a share of the capital stock of the parent

(A) that was issued on the amalgamation in exchange for a share of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation, and

(B) that was, immediately after the amalgamation, redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the parent for money;

Related Provisions: 88(1)(c.5) — Meaning of specified subsidiary corporation; 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control.

History: Para. 88(1)(c.4) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(6), applicable to windings-up that begin after February 21, 1994.

(c.5) ["specified subsidiary corporation"] — for the purpose of paragraph (c.4), a corporation is a specified subsidiary corporation of another corporation, at any time, where the other corporation holds, at that time, shares of the corporation

(i) that give the shareholder 90% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation, and

(ii) having a fair market value of 90% or more of the fair market value of all the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation;

Related Provisions: 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control.

History: Para. 88(1)(c.5) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(6), applicable to windings-up that begin after February 21, 1994.

(c.6) [control acquired by way of articles of arrangement] — for the purpose of paragraph (c.3) and notwithstanding subsection 256(9), where control of a corporation is acquired by way of articles of arrangement, that control is deemed to have been acquired at the end of the day on which the arrangement becomes effective;

Related Provisions: 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control.

History: Para. 88(1)(c.6) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(6), applicable to windings-up that begin after February 21, 1994.

(c.7) [depreciable property] — for the purpose of subparagraph (c)(iii), a leasehold interest in a depreciable property and an option to acquire a depreciable property are depreciable properties;

Related Provisions: 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control.

History: Para. 88(1)(c.7) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(6), applicable to windings-up that begin after June 20, 1996.

Proposed Addition — 88(1)(c.8)

(c.8) ["specified class"] — for the purpose of clause (c.2)(iii)(A), a specified class of the capital stock of a corporation is a class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation where

(i) the paid-up capital in respect of the class was not, at any time, less than the fair market value of the consideration for which the shares of that class then outstanding were issued,

(ii) the shares are non-voting in respect of the election of the Board of Directors of the corporation, except in the event of a failure or default under the terms or conditions of the shares,

(iii) under neither the terms and conditions of the shares nor any agreement in respect of the shares are the shares convertible into or exchangeable for shares other than shares of a specified class of the capital stock of the corporation, and

(iv) under neither the terms and conditions of the shares nor any agreement in respect of the shares is any holder of the shares entitled to receive on the redemption, cancellation or acquisition of the shares by the corporation or by any person with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length an amount (excluding any premium for early redemption) greater than the total of the fair market value of the consideration for which the shares were issued and the amount of any unpaid dividends on the shares;

Related Provisions: 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 39(3), will add para. 88(1)(c.8), applicable to windings-up that begin after November 1994.

Technical Notes: New paragraph 88(1)(c.8) of the Act is relevant in determining whether a person is a specified shareholder for the purposes of a divisive reorganization commonly known as a "backdoor butterfly" described in subparagraph 88(1)(c)(vi) of the Act. (See the commentary on subclause 88(1)(c)(vi)(B)(III) of the Act re the significance of specified shareholder status.) Shares of a specified class are considered to be financing or debt-like shares and consequently need not be counted in determining whether a person is a specified shareholder of a corporation.

New paragraph 88(1)(c.8) provides that shares of the capital stock of a corporation will qualify as shares of a specified class where

1) the paid-up capital in respect of the class was not at any time less than the fair market value of the consideration for which the shares of that class then outstanding were issued;

2) the shares are non-voting in respect of the election of the Board of Directors of the corporation, except in the event of a failure or default under the terms or conditions of the shares;

3) the shares are not convertible into or exchangeable for any other shares (other than shares of a specified class) of the capital stock of the corporation; and

4) the holder of the share is not entitled to receive on the redemption, cancellation or acquisition of the share by the corporation or any person who does not deal at arm's length with the corporation, an amount (excluding any premium for early redemption) greater than the fair market value of the consideration for which the share was issued plus the amount of any unpaid dividends on the share.

(d) [increase in cost amounts (bump)] — the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of each property of the subsidiary distributed to the parent on the winding-up is such portion of the amount, if any, by which the total determined under subparagraph (b)(ii) exceeds the total of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any property owned by the subsidiary immediately before the winding-up, equal to the cost amount to the subsidiary of the property immediately before the winding-up, plus the amount of any money of the subsidiary on hand immediately before the winding-up,

exceeds the total of

(B) all amounts each of which is the amount of any debt owing by the subsidiary, or of any other obligation of the subsidiary to pay any amount, that was outstanding immediately before the winding-up, and

(C) the amount of any reserve (other than a reserve referred to in paragraph 20(1)(n), subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or 44(1)(e)(iii) of this Act or in subsection 64(1) or (1.1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as those two provisions read immediately before November 3,[11] 1981) deducted in computing the subsidiary's income for its taxation year during which its assets were distributed to the parent on the winding-up, and

(i.1) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any share of the capital stock of the subsidiary disposed of by the parent on the winding-up or in contemplation of the winding-up, equal to the total of all amounts received by the parent or by a corporation with which the parent was not dealing at arm's length (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) in respect of the subsidiary) in respect of

(A) taxable dividends on the share or on any share (in this subparagraph referred to as a "replaced share") for which the share or a replaced share was substituted or exchanged to the extent that the amounts thereof were deductible from the recipient's income for any taxation year by virtue of section 112 or subsection 138(6) and were not amounts on which the recipient was required to pay tax under Part VII of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read on March 31, 1977, or

(B) capital dividends and life insurance capital dividends on the share or on any share (in this subparagraph referred to as a "replaced share") for which a share or a replaced share was substituted or exchanged,

as is designated by the parent in respect of that capital property in its return of income under this Part for its taxation year in which the subsidiary was so wound up, except that

(ii) in no case shall the amount so designated in respect of any such capital property exceed the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at the time the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary exceeds the cost amount to the subsidiary of the property immediately before the winding-up, and

(iii) in no case shall the total of amounts so designated in respect of all such capital properties exceed the amount, if any, by which the total determined under subparagraph (b)(ii) exceeds the total of the amounts determined under subparagraphs (i) and (i.1).

Related Provisions: 88(1)(d.2) — When taxpayer last acquired control; 88(1)(d.3) — Where control acquired because of death; 88(1.7) — Where parent did not deal at arm's length; 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired. History: Para. 88(1)(d.2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(9), applicable to windings-up that begin after December 20, 1991. The para. formerly read:

(d.2) in determining, for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (c) and (d), the time that a taxpayer last acquired control of the subsidiary, where control of the subsidiary was acquired from a person or group of persons (in this paragraph referred to as the "vendor") with whom the taxpayer was not (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) dealing at arm's length, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have last acquired control at the earlier of the time that the vendor last acquired control (within the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 186(2) if the reference therein to "another corporation" were read as "a person" and the references therein to "the other corporation" were read as "the person") of the subsidiary and the time that the vendor was deemed by this subsection to have last acquired control, except that in determining the time that a particular person or group of persons last acquired control of a corporation where at any time control of the corporation is acquired by the particular person or group of persons because of a bequest or an inheritance of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, for the purposes of this paragraph and subsection 186(2) in its application to this paragraph, the particular person or group of persons shall be deemed at that time, and at any time before that time, to have dealt at arm's length with the person who bequeathed the shares, or from whom the shares were inherited, and each other person who is related to that person;

Para. 88(1)(d.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 40(1), applicable to windings-up that begin after December 20, 1991. That para. formerly read:

(d.2) in determining for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (c) and (d) the time that a taxpayer last acquired control of the subsidiary, where control of the subsidiary was acquired from a person or group of persons (in this paragraph referred to as the "vendor") with whom the taxpayer was not (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) dealing at arm's length, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have last acquired control at the earlier of the time that the vendor last acquired control (within the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 186(2) if the reference therein to "another corporation" were read as a reference to "a person" and the references therein to "the other corporation" were read as references to "the person") of the subsidiary and the time that the vendor was deemed by this subsection to have last acquired control, except that, in determining the time that a particular taxpayer last acquired control of a corporation where at any time control of the corporation is acquired by the particular taxpayer because of a bequest or an inheritance of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, for the purposes of this paragraph and subsection 186(2) in its application to this paragraph, the particular taxpayer shall be deemed at that time, and at any time before that time, to have dealt at arm's length with the person who bequeathed the shares, or from whom the shares were inherited, and each other person who is related to that person;

Para. 88(1)(d.2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 38(4), applicable to windings-up beginning after December 20, 1991. Para (d.2) formerly read:

(d.2) in determining for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (c) and (d) the time that a taxpayer last acquired control of the subsidiary, where control of the subsidiary was acquired (otherwise than by way of bequest or inheritance) from a person or group of persons (in this paragraph referred to as the "vendor") with whom the taxpayer was not (otherwise than by virtue of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) dealing at arm's length, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have last acquired control at the earlier of the time that the vendor last acquired control (within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2) if the reference therein to "another corporation" were read as a reference to "a person" and the references therein to "the other corporation" were read as references to "the person") of the subsidiary and the time that the vendor was deemed by this subsection to have last acquired control;

Pre-RSC History: See end of subsec. 88(1).

(d.3) [control acquired due to death] — for the purposes of paragraphs (c), (d) and (d.2), where at any time control of a corporation is last acquired by an acquirer because of an acquisition of shares of the capital stock of the corporation as a consequence of the death of an individual, the acquirer is deemed to have last acquired control of the corporation immediately after the death from a person who dealt at arm's length with the acquirer;

Related Provisions: 88(4) — Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired. See additional Related Provisions at end of 88(1).

History: Para. 88(1)(d.3) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(9), applicable to windings-up that begin after December 20, 1991.

(e) [Repealed under former Act]

(e.1) [reserves] — the subsidiary may, for the purposes of computing its income for its taxation year during which its assets were transferred to, and its obligations were assumed by, the parent on the winding-up, claim any reserve that would have been allowed under this Part if its assets had not been transferred to, or its obligations had not been assumed by, the parent on the winding-up and notwithstanding any other provision of this Part, no amount shall be included in respect of any reserve so claimed in computing the income of the subsidiary for its taxation year, if any, following the year in which its assets were transferred to or its obligations were assumed by the parent;

(e.2) [rules applicable] — paragraphs 87(2)(c), (d.1), (e.1), (e.3), (g) to (l), (l.3) to (u), (x), (z.1), (z.2), (aa), (cc), (ll), (nn), (pp), (rr), (tt) and (uu), subsection 87(6) and, subject to section 78, subsection 87(7) apply to the winding-up as if the references in those provisions to

(e.3) [investment tax credit] — for the purpose of computing the parent's investment tax credit at the end of any particular taxation year ending after the subsidiary was wound up,

(i) property acquired or expenditures made by the subsidiary or an amount included in the investment tax credit of the subsidiary by virtue of paragraph (b) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "expenditure year") shall be deemed to have been acquired, made or included, as the case may be, by the parent in its taxation year in which the expenditure year of the subsidiary ended, and

(ii) there shall be added to the amounts otherwise determined for the purposes of paragraphs (f) to (k) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of the parent for the particular year

(A) the amounts that would have been determined in respect of the subsidiary for the purposes of paragraph (f) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) for its taxation year in which it was wound up if the reference therein to "a preceding taxation year" were read as a reference to "the year or a preceding taxation year",

(B) the amounts determined in respect of the subsidiary for the purposes of paragraphs (g) to (i) and (k) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) for its taxation year in which it was wound up, and

(C) the amount determined in respect of the subsidiary for the purposes of paragraph (j) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) for its taxation year in which it was wound up except that, for the purpose of the calculation in this clause, where control of the subsidiary has been acquired by a person or group of persons (each of whom is referred to in this clause as the "purchaser") at any time (in this clause referred to as "that time") before the end of the taxation year in which the subsidiary was wound up, there may be added to the amount determined under subparagraph 127(9.1)(d)(i) in respect of the subsidiary the amount, if any, by which that proportion of the amount that, but for subsections 127(3) and (5) and sections 126, 127.2 and 127.3, would be the parent's tax payable under this Part for the particular year, that,

(I) where the subsidiary carried on a particular business in the course of which a property was acquired, or an expenditure was made, before that time in respect of which an amount was included in computing the subsidiary's investment tax credit for its taxation year in which it was wound up, and the parent carried on the particular business throughout the particular year, the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is the parent's income for the particular year from the particular business, or the parent's income for the particular year from any other business substantially all the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development of properties or the rendering of services similar to the properties sold, leased, rented or developed, or the services rendered, as the case may be, by the subsidiary in carrying on the particular business before that time, exceeds the total of the amounts, if any, deducted for the particular year under paragraph 111(1)(a) or (d) by the parent in respect of a non-capital loss or a farm loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year in respect of the particular business is of the greater of

(II) the amount determined under subclause (I), and

(III) the parent's taxable income for the particular year exceeds the amount, if any, calculated under subparagraph 127(9.1)(d)(i) in respect of the particular business or the other business, as the case may be, in respect of the parent at the end of the particular year to the extent that such amounts determined in respect of the subsidiary may reasonably be considered to have been included in computing the parent's investment tax credit at the end of the particular year by virtue of subparagraph (i), and, for the purposes of the definitions "first term shared-use-equipment" and "second term shared-use-equipment" in subsection 127(9), the parent shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the subsidiary;

Related Provisions: 88(1.3) — Rules relating to computation of income and tax of parent; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired. See additional Related Provisions at end of 88(1).

History: Subcl. 88(1)(e.3)(ii)(C)(I) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 40(2), applicable to windings-up that begin after December 21, 1992. That subcl. formerly read:

(I) where the subsidiary carried on a particular business in the course of which a property was acquired, or an expenditure was made, before that time in respect of which an amount was included in computing the subsidiary's investment tax credit for its taxation year in which it was wound up, the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is the parent's income for the particular year from the particular business, or the parent's income for the particular year from any other business substantially all the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development of properties or the rendering of services similar to the properties sold, leased, rented or developed, or the services rendered, as the case may be, by the subsidiary in carrying on the particular business before that time, exceeds the total of the amounts, if any, deducted by the parent under paragraph 111(1)(a) or (d) for the particular year in respect of a non-capital loss or a farm loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year in respect of the particular business

The words following subpara. 88(1)(e.3)(ii) added by 1994, c. 8, s. 10, applicable to taxation years ending after December 2, 1992.

Pre-RSC History: See end of subsec. 88(1).

(e.4) [employment tax credit] — for the purpose of computing the parent's employment tax credit at the end of any particular taxation year ending after the subsidiary was wound up,

(i) the subsidiary's taxpayer employment credits for any taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "employment year") and any amounts required to be added by virtue of subsection 127(15) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in computing the subsidiary's employment tax credit at the end of the employment year shall be deemed to be taxpayer employment credits of the parent for, and amounts required to be added by virtue of that subsection in computing the parent's employment tax credit at the end of, its taxation year in which the employment year of the subsidiary ended, and

(ii) there shall be added to the amounts otherwise determined under paragraphs 127(16)(c) and (d) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in respect of the parent for the particular taxation year, the amounts that would have been determined under those paragraphs in respect of the subsidiary for its taxation year in which it was wound-up if the reference in paragraph 127(16)(c) of that Act to "the five immediately preceding taxation years" were read as a reference to "that taxation year or the five immediately preceding taxation years" to the extent that those amounts determined in respect of the subsidiary may reasonably be considered to be in respect of a taxpayer employment credit or an amount required to be added by virtue of subsection 127(15) of that Act that is included in computing the parent's employment tax credit at the end of the particular year by virtue of subparagraph (i);

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952").

History: Para. 88(1)(e.5) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 16(2), applicable to windings-up that begin after June 1995. The para. formerly read:

(e.5) for the purpose of computing the refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) of the parent at the end of any particular taxation year ending after the subsidiary was wound up, the amount, if any, by which

(i) the subsidiary's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its taxation year during which it was wound up

exceeds

(ii) the subsidiary's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) for its taxation year referred to in subparagraph (i) shall, if

(iii) the subsidiary was a private corporation at the end of the year during which it was wound up, and

(iv) the parent was a private corporation

(A) where the subsidiary was wound up in the particular year, at the time immediately after the winding-up, and

(B) in any other case, continuously from the time of the winding-up until the time immediately after the beginning of the particular year, be added to the total determined for the particular year under subsection 129(3) from which the total of amounts determined under paragraphs 129(3)(c) to (e) is subtracted, except that no amount shall be so added in respect of the subsidiary where subsection 129(1.2) would have applied to deem a dividend paid by the subsidiary immediately before the winding-up not to be a taxable dividend for the purpose of subsection 129(1);

Para. 88(1)(e.5) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 38(5), applicable to the computation of refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsec. 129(3) as amended) for 1993 et seq. Para. (e.5) formerly read:

(e.5) for the purpose of computing the refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) of the parent at the end of any taxation year ending after the subsidiary was wound up, the amount, if any, by which

(i) the subsidiary's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its taxation year during which it was wound up

exceeds

(ii) the subsidiary's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) for its taxation year referred to in subparagraph (i) shall, if the parent has been a private corporation continuously from the time of the winding-up to the end of the taxation year, be added to the total determined under subsection 129(3) from which the parent's dividend refunds are to be subtracted, except that the amount to be added to the total determined under subsection 129(3) shall be deemed to be nil where, had a dividend been paid by the subsidiary immediately before the winding-up, subsection 129(1.2) would have applied to deem the dividend not to be a taxable dividend;

Pre-RSC History: See end of subsec. 88(1).

(e.6) [charitable donations] — where a subsidiary has made a gift in a taxation year (in this section referred to as the "gift year"), for the purposes of computing the amount deductible under section 110.1 by the parent for its taxation years ending after the subsidiary was wound up, the parent shall be deemed to have made a gift in each of its taxation years in which a gift year of the subsidiary ended equal to the amount, if any, by which the total of all gifts made by the subsidiary in the gift year exceeds the total of all amounts deducted by the subsidiary under section 110.1 of this Act or paragraph 110(1)(a), (b) or (b.1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in respect of those gifts;

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952").

(e.61) [donation of non-qualifying securities] — the parent is deemed for the purpose of section 110.1 to have made any gift deemed by subsection 118.1(13) to have been made by the subsidiary after the subsidiary ceased to exist;

History: Para. 88(1)(e.61) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 16, applicable after July 1997.

(e.7) [foreign tax credit] — for the purposes of

(i) determining the amount deductible by the parent under subsection 126(2) for any taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, and

(ii) determining the extent to which subsection 126(2.3) applies to reduce the amount that may be claimed by the parent under paragraph 126(2)(a),

any unused foreign tax credit (within the meaning of subsection 126(7)) of the subsidiary in respect of a country for a particular taxation year (in this section referred to as the "foreign tax year"), to the extent that it exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is claimed in respect thereof under paragraph 126(2)(a) in computing the tax payable by the subsidiary under this Part for any taxation year, shall be deemed to be an unused foreign tax credit of the parent for its taxation year in which the subsidiary's foreign tax year ended;

Related Provisions: 88(1.3) — Rules relating to computation of income and tax of parent. See additional Related Provisions at end of 88(1).

(e.8) [investment tax credit — expenditure limit] — for the purpose of applying subsection 127(10.2) to any corporation (other than the subsidiary)

(i) where the parent is associated with another corporation in a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "current year") of the parent that begins after the parent received an asset of the subsidiary on the winding-up and that ends in a calendar year,

(A) the parent's taxable income for its last taxation year that ended in the preceding calendar year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that last year) is deemed to be the total of

(I) its taxable income for that last year (determined before applying this paragraph to the winding-up and before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that last year), and

(II) the total of the subsidiary's taxable incomes for its taxation years that ended in that preceding calendar year (determined without reference to clause (B) and before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for those years), and

(B) the subsidiary's taxable income for each of its taxation years that ends after the first time that the parent receives an asset of the subsidiary on the winding-up of the subsidiary is deemed to be nil, and

(ii) where the parent received an asset of the subsidiary on the winding-up before the current year and is not associated with any corporation in the current year, the parent's taxable income for its immediately preceding taxation year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that preceding year) is deemed to be the total of

(A) its taxable income for that preceding taxation year (determined before applying this paragraph to the winding-up and before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that preceding taxation year), and

(B) the total of the subsidiary's taxable incomes for its taxation years that ended in the calendar year in which that preceding taxation year ended (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for those years);

History: Para. 88(1)(e.8) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 19(1), applicable for the purpose of applying subsecs. 127(10.1) and (10.2) to taxation years that begin after 1995, except that, for taxation years that begin in 1996, the expression "any corporation (other than the subsidiary)" shall be read as "the parent". For windings-up that begin after May 23, 1985, para. (e.8) shall be read without reference to the expression "the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsection 127.1(2) and subparagraph 157(1)(b)(i)". Para. (e.8) formerly read:

(e.8) for the purposes of subsection 127(10.1), the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsection 127.1(2) and subparagraph 157(1)(b)(i),

(i) the taxable income of the parent for its taxation year during which it received the assets of the subsidiary on the winding-up shall be deemed to be the total of its taxable income for that year as otherwise determined and the taxable incomes of the subsidiary for its taxation years ending in the calendar year in which that year ended, and

(ii) the business limit of the parent for that year shall be deemed to be the total of its business limit for that year as otherwise determined and the business limits of the subsidiary for its taxation years ending in the calendar year in which that year ended;

That portion of para. 88(1)(e.8) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(9), to substitute "the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsection 127.1(2)" for "paragraph 127.1(2)(a)", applicable to windings-up beginning after May 23, 1985.

Pre-RSC History: See end of subsec. 88(1).

(e.9) [instalments and refundable ITCs] — for the purpose of applying subparagraph 157(1)(b)(i) and the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsection 127.1(2) to any corporation (other than the subsidiary)

(i) where the parent is associated with another corporation in a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "current year") of the parent that begins after the parent received an asset of the subsidiary on the winding-up and ends in a calendar year,

(A) the parent's taxable income for its last taxation year that ended in the preceding calendar year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that last year) is deemed to be the total of

(II) the total of the subsidiary's taxable incomes for its taxation years that ended in that preceding calendar year (determined without reference to subparagraph (iii) and before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for those years), and

(B) the parent's business limit for that last year is deemed to be the total of

(I) its business limit (determined before applying this paragraph to the winding-up) for that last year, and

(II) the total of the subsidiary's business limits (determined without reference to subparagraph (iii)) for its taxation years that ended in that preceding calendar year,

(ii) where the parent received an asset of the subsidiary on the winding-up before the current year and subparagraph (i) does not apply,

(A) the parent's taxable income for its immediately preceding taxation year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that preceding year) is deemed to be the total of

(I) its taxable income for that preceding taxation year (determined before applying this paragraph to the winding-up and before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that preceding taxation year), and

(II) the total of the subsidiary's taxable incomes for the subsidiary's taxation years that end in the calendar year in which that preceding taxation year ended (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for those years), and

(B) the parent's business limit for that preceding taxation year is deemed to be the total of

(I) its business limit (determined before applying this paragraph to the winding-up) for that preceding taxation year, and

(II) the total of the subsidiary's business limits (determined without reference to subparagraph (iii)) for the subsidiary's taxation years that end in the calendar year in which that preceding taxation year ended, and

(iii) where the parent and the subsidiary are associated with each other in the current year, the subsidiary's taxable income and the subsidiary's business limit for each taxation year that ends after the first time that the parent receives an asset of the subsidiary on the winding-up are deemed to be nil;

History: Para. 88(1)(e.9) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 19(2), applicable to windings-up that begin after May 23, 1985, except that

(a) the expression "any corporation (other than the subsidiary)" shall be read as "the parent" with respect to windings-up that begin before 1997;

(b) for the purpose of applying para. (e.9) for the purpose of the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsec. 127.1(2), the business limits referred to in para. (e.9), for taxation years that ended after June 1994 and began before 1996, shall be determined under s. 125 as that section read in its application to taxation years that ended before July 1994; and

(c) subpara. (e.9)(i) does not apply

(i) for the purpose of applying the definition "qualifying corporation" in subsec. 127.1(2) to taxation years that ended before July 1994, and

(ii) for the purpose of applying subpara. 157(1)(b)(i) to taxation years that end before 1998.

(f) [depreciable property] — where property that was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the subsidiary has been distributed to the parent on the winding-up and the capital cost to the subsidiary of the property exceeds the amount deemed by paragraph (a) to be the subsidiary's proceeds of disposition of the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) notwithstanding paragraph (c), the capital cost to the parent of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost of the property to the subsidiary, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the parent in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the parent of the property;

I.T. Application Rules: 20(1.2) (transfer of depreciable property by person who owned it before 1972).

(g) [insurance corporation] — where the subsidiary was an insurance corporation,

(i) for the purposes of paragraphs 12(1)(d), (e), (e.1), (i) and (s) and 20(1)(l), (l.1), (p) and (jj) and 20(7)(c), subsection 20(22), sections 138, 138.1, 140, 142 and 148 and Part XII.3, the parent is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the subsidiary, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining the amount of the gross investment revenue required to be included under subsection 138(9) in the income of the subsidiary and the parent and the amount of gains and losses of the subsidiary and the parent from property used by them in the year or held by them in the year in the course of carrying on an insurance business in Canada

(A) the subsidiary and the parent shall, in addition to their normal taxation years, be deemed to have had a taxation year ending immediately before the time when the property of the subsidiary was transferred to, and the obligations of the subsidiary were assumed by, the parent on the winding-up, and

(B) for the taxation years of the subsidiary and the parent following the time referred to in clause (A), the property transferred to, and the obligations assumed by, the parent on the winding-up shall be deemed to have been transferred or assumed, as the case may be, on the last day of the taxation year ending immediately before that time and the parent shall be deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the subsidiary with respect to that property, those obligations and the insurance businesses carried on by the subsidiary;

History: Subpara. 88(1)(g)(i) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 19(3), applicable to windings-up that begin after 1995. Subpara. (i) formerly read:

(i) for the purposes of paragraphs 12(1)(d), (e), (i) and (s) and 20(1)(l), (l.1), (p) and (jj) and 20(7)(c), sections 138, 138.1, 140, 142 and 148 and Part XII.3 of this Act and section 33 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, the parent shall, notwithstanding paragraph (e.2), be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the subsidiary, and

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952").

(h) [financial institution — mark-to-market property] — for the purposes of subsections 112(5) to (5.2) and (5.4) and the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1), the parent shall be deemed, in respect of each property distributed to it on the winding-up, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the subsidiary; and

History: Para. 88(1)(h) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 55(5), applicable to windings-up that begin at any time (including, for greater certainty, windings-up that began before June 22, 1995).

(i) [financial institution — mark-to-market property] — for the purpose of subsection 142.5(2), the subsidiary's taxation year in which its assets were distributed to the parent on the winding-up shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the time when the assets were distributed.

History: Para. 88(1)(i) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 55(5), applicable to windings-up that begin after October 1994.

Related Provisions [subsec. 88(1)]: 69(5) — Deemed distribution of corporation's property before windup; 69(13) — Amalgamation or merger; 80.01(4) — Deemed settlement of debt on winding-up; 80.01(5) — Deemed settlement of distress preferred share on winding-up; 84(2) — Distribution on winding-up, etc.; 89(3) — Ordering of simultaneous dividends; 98(5)(a)(i) — Where partnership business carried on as sole proprietorship; 137(4.3) — Determination of preferred-rate amount; 142.6(5), (6) — Acquisition of specified debt obligation by financial institution in rollover transaction; 186(5) — Presumption; Reg. 8101(3) — Windup of insurer.

Pre-RSC History [subsec. 88(1)]: That portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1990, c. 39, s. 20, to add reference to para. 87(2)(tt), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after 1987.

That portion of subpara. 88(1)(d)(i.1) preceding cl. (A) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(1), to substitute "in respect of any share of the capital stock of the subsidiary disposed of by the parent on the winding-up or in contemplation of the winding-up" for "in respect of any share of the capital stock of the subsidiary so disposed of by the parent on the winding-up", applicable to windings-up commencing after June 1988.

Para. 88(1)(e.1) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(2), applicable to windings-up commencing after December 15, 1987. Para. 88(1)(e.1) formerly read:

> (e.1) the subsidiary may, for the purposes of computing its income for its taxation year during which its assets were transferred to the parent on the winding-up, claim any reserve that would have been allowed under this Part if its assets had not been transferred to the parent on the winding-up and notwithstanding any other provision of this Part, no amount shall be included in respect of any reserve so claimed in computing the income of the subsidiary for its taxation year, if any, following the year in which its assets were transferred to the parent;

That portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(3), to add reference to paras. 87(2)(e.2), (z.2), (rr), applicable to windings-up ending after June 18, 1987 except that in applying para. 88(1)(e.2)

> (a) to windings-up commencing before December 16, 1987, it shall be read without reference to "(e.2)" and "(z.2)" therein, and
> (b) to windings-up commencing before May, 1988, it shall be read without reference to "(z.2)" therein.

That portion of para. 88(1)(e.5) following subpara. (ii) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(4), applicable with respect to windings-up occurring after 4 p.m. EDST, September 25, 1987. That portion formerly read:

> shall, if the parent has been a private corporation continuously from the time of the winding-up to the end of the taxation year, be added to the aggregate determined under subsection 129(3) from which the parent's dividend refunds are to be subtracted;

Para. 88(1)(e.6) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(5), applicable to 1988 et seq. Para. 88(1)(e.6) formerly read:

> (e.6) where a subsidiary has made a gift in a taxation year (in this section referred to as the "gift year"), for the purposes of computing the amount deductible under paragraphs 110(1)(a), (b) and (b.1) by the parent for its taxation years ending after the subsidiary was wound up,
> (i) the parent shall be deemed to have made a gift in each of its taxation years in which a gift year of the subsidiary ended equal to the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of all gifts made by the subsidiary in the gift year exceeds the aggregate of all amounts deducted by the subsidiary under paragraph 110(1)(a), (b) or (b.1) in respect of such gifts, and
> (ii) the amount of the excess determined under paragraph (i) shall be deemed not to have been deductible in any taxation year of the parent ending on or before the day the subsidiary was wound up;

Para. 88(1)(g) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(6), applicable to windings-up commencing after December 15, 1987.

That portion of subsec. 88(1) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 30(1), to add "other than subsection 69(11)", applicable after January 15, 1987. That portion of para. 88(1)(a) preceding subpara. (i) substituted to add "(other than an interest in a partnership)", para. 88(1)(a.2) added, para. 88(1)(c) substituted, and that portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i) substituted to add reference to para. 87(2)(e.1) by 1987, c. 46, subsecs. 30(2)–(5), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after January 15, 1987. Para. 88(1)(c) formerly read:

> (c) the cost to the parent of each property of the subsidiary distributed to the parent on the winding-up shall be deemed to be the amount deemed by paragraph (a) to be the proceeds of disposition of the property, plus, where the property was a capital property (other than depreciable property) owned by the subsidiary at the time that the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary and thereafter without interruption until such time as it was distributed to the parent on the winding-up, the amount determined under paragraph (d) in respect thereof;

Subpara. 88(1)(e.3)(i) substituted, cl. 88(1)(e.3)(ii)(B) amended to substitute "(g) to (i) and (k)" for "(g) to (k)", and cl. 88(1)(e.3)(ii)(C) added by 1987, c. 46, subsecs. 30(6), (7), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after May 23, 1985 except that, with respect to acquisitions of control occurring on or before January 15, 1987 or before 1988, where the persons acquiring the control were obliged on that date to acquire the control (see "Interpretation" following this history) pursuant to the terms of agreements in writing entered into on or before that date, subcl. 88(1)(e.3)(ii)(C)(I) shall be read as follows:

> (I) where the subsidiary carried on a particular business in the course of which a property was acquired, or an expenditure was made, before that time in respect of which an amount was included in computing the subsidiary's investment tax credit for its taxation year in which it was wound up, the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the parent's income for the particular year from the particular business, the parent's income for the particular year from any other business substantially all the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development of properties or the rendering of services similar to the properties sold, leased, rented or developed, or the services rendered, as the case may be, by the subsidiary in carrying on the particular business before that time, or the amount, if any, by which,
> 1. the aggregate of the parent's taxable capital gains for the particular year from the disposition of property owned by the subsidiary at that time, other than property that was acquired from the purchaser or a person who did not deal at arm's length with the purchaser,
>
>
> 2. the aggregate of the parent's allowable capital losses for the particular year from the disposition of such property
> exceeds, in the case of a winding-up commencing after June 5, 1987, the aggregate of the amounts, if any, deducted by the parent under paragraph 111(1)(a) or (d) for the particular year in respect of a non-capital loss or a farm loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year in respect of the particular business

Subpara. 88(1)(e.3)(i) formerly read:

> (i) property acquired and expenditures made by the subsidiary in a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "expenditure year") shall be deemed to have been acquired or made, as the case may be, by the parent in its taxation year in which the expenditure year of the subsidiary ended, and

Para. 88(1)(e.2) amended by 1986, c. 2, s. 22, applicable to 1985 et seq., to add subpara. 88(1)(e.2)(xxi) and in that portion preceding subpara. (i), to substitute "paragraphs 87(2)(c)" for "the provisions of paragraphs 87(2)(c)", to substitute reference to paragraphs 87(2)(l.3) to (u) for reference to paragraphs 87(2)(l.3) to (s), (t), (u) and to add reference to paragraph 87(2)(pp).

Paras. 88(1)(e.3) and (e.4) added by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 47(1), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after May 23, 1985.

Subpara. 88(1)(a)(i) substituted applicable with respect to windings-up commencing in taxation years commencing after 1984; subpara. 88(1)(e.6)(i) amended by substituting "deducted" for "each of which was the amount deductible", applicable to 1984 et seq.; and para. 88(1)(e.8) added applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after 1983 by 1985, c. 45, subsecs. 43(1)–(3). Subpara. 88(1)(a)(i) formerly read:

> (i) in the case of any property described in subsection 59(2), nil,

All that portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i) substituted, subpara. 88(1)(e.2)(ix) and para. 88(1)(e.3) repealed and para. 88(1)(e.7) added by 1984, c. 45, subsecs. 28(1) to (4). The substituted portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i) is applicable to 1984 et seq. except that, in its application to the 1984 taxation year, paragraph 88(1)(e.2) shall be deemed to have included a reference to paragraph 87(2)(ee); the repeal of subpara. 88(1)(e.2)(ix) is applicable to 1984 et seq; the repeal of para. 88(1)(e.3) is applicable to 1985 et seq; para. 88(1)(e.7) is applicable to the computation of tax for 1984 et seq. That portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i), subpara. 88(1)(e.2)(ix) and para. 88(1)(e.3) formerly read:

> (e.2) the provisions of paragraphs 87(2)(c), (d.1), (g) to (l), (l.3) to (s), (t), (u), (x), (y.1) to (z.1), (cc), (ee), and (ll) to (oo), subsection 87(6) and, subject to section 78, subsection 87(7) apply to the winding-up as if the references therein to

Para. 88(1)(d.2) substituted, all that portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i) substituted to add "to (oo)", subparas. 88(1)(e.2)(xvii) to (xx) added, by 1984, c. 1, subsecs. 39(1)–(3). Para 88(1)(d.2), as substituted, applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after November 12, 1981. All that portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i), as substituted, and subparas. 88(1)(e.2)(xvii) to (xx) applicable to 1983 et seq. Para. 88(1)(d.2) formerly read:

> (d.2) in determining for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (c) and (d) the time that a taxpayer last acquired control of the subsidiary, where any share of the subsidiary was acquired (otherwise than by way of bequest or inheritance) from any person (in this paragraph referred to as the "vendor") with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have last acquired control at the earlier of the time that the vendor last acquired control (within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2) if the reference therein to "another corporation" were read as a reference to "a person" and the references therein to "the other corporation" were read as references to "the person") of the subsidiary and the time that the vendor was deemed by this subsection to have last acquired control;

All that portion of para. 88(1)(d) preceding subpara. (i), cl. 88(1)(d)(i.1)(B), paras. 88(1)(d.1), (d.2), (e.3), (e.6), all that portion of para. 88(1)(e.2) preceding subpara. (i) substituted, subparas. 88(1)(e.2)(xiv)–(xvi) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsecs. 53(1)–(7). (For application, see "Application" below.) The substituted portions formerly read:

> (d) the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of each property that was a capital property (other than a depreciable property) owned by the subsidiary at the time that the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary and thereafter without interruption until such time as it was distributed to the parent on the winding-up, is such portion of the amount, if any, by which the aggregate determined under subparagraph (b)(ii) exceeds the aggregate of

the winding-up, is such portion of the amount, if any, by which the aggregate determined under subparagraph (b)(ii) exceeds

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the aggregate of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any property owned by the subsidiary immediately before the winding-up, equal to the cost amount to the subsidiary of the property immediately before the winding-up, plus the amount of any money of the subsidiary on hand immediately before the winding-up,

exceeds the aggregate of

(C) the amount of any reserve (other than a reserve referred to in paragraph 20(1)(n), subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or subsection 64(1) or (1.1)), deducted in computing the subsidiary's income for its taxation year during which its assets were distributed to the parent on the winding-up,

as is designated by the parent in respect of that capital property in its return of income under this Part for its taxation year in which the subsidiary was so wound up, except that

(ii) in no case shall the amount so designated in respect of any such capital property exceed the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at the time the parent last acquired control of the subsidiary exceeds the cost amount to the subsidiary of the property immediately before the winding-up, and

(iii) in no case shall the aggregate of amounts so designated in respect of all such capital properties exceed the amount, if any, by which the aggregate determined under subparagraph (b)(ii) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (i);

(a.1) each property of the subsidiary that was distributed to the parent on the winding-up shall, for the purpose of subparagraph 89(1)(l)(ii) or (xiv), be deemed not to have been disposed of;

(b) lesser of the paid-up capital limit of the subsidiary immediately before the winding-up and the amount determined under subparagraph (d)(i), and

. . . . .

(c) the cost to the parent of each property of the subsidiary distributed to the parent on the winding-up shall be deemed to be the amount deemed by paragraph (a) to be the proceeds of disposition of the property, plus, where the property was a capital property (other than depreciable property) of the subsidiary, the amount determined under paragraph (d) in respect thereof;

(d) the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of each property that was a capital property (other than a depreciable property) of the subsidiary is such portion of the amount, if any, by which the aggregate determined under subparagraph (b)(ii) exceeds the aggregate of

. . . . .

(i) the amount of any reserve (other than a reserve referred to in paragraph 20(1)(n), subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or subsection 64(1)), deducted in computing the subsidiary's income for its taxation year during which its assets were distributed to the parent on the winding-up,

(i.1) the amount of the subsidiary's tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand at the time it was wound up, and

(i.2) the amount of the subsidiary's 1971 capital surplus on hand at the time it was wound up,

(ii) in no case shall the amount so designated in respect of any such capital property exceed the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property immediately before the winding-up exceeds the cost amount to the subsidiary of the property immediately before the winding-up, and

(e) for the purposes of Parts VII and VIII, the subsidiary shall be deemed to have paid and the parent shall be deemed to have received a taxable dividend on the shares of the capital stock of the subsidiary equal to the amount that would have been the designated surplus of the subsidiary with respect to the parent that would have been determined under paragraph 192(13)(b) if control of the subsidiary had been acquired by the parent immediately before the winding-up of the subsidiary and the taxation year of the subsidiary that included that time had ended immediately before that time;

(e.2) "tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand immediately before the amalgamation" were read as "tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand at the time the subsidiary was wound up",

(xiii) "the aggregate of amounts each of which is the 1971 capital surplus on hand, if any, of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation" were read as "the amount of the subsidiary's 1971 capital surplus on hand at the time the subsidiary was wound up",

(xiv) "the aggregate of amounts each of which is the paid-up capital deficiency, if any, of a predecessor corporation immediately before the amalgamation" were read as "the amount of the subsidiary's paid-up capital deficiency at the time the subsidiary was wound up", and

(e.3) for the purpose of computing the cumulative deduction account (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125(6)) of the parent at the end of its taxation year during which the subsidiary was wound up and any subsequent year, there shall be added to the amount determined under paragraph 125(6)(b), from which the aggregate of the amounts referred to in subparagraphs (iii) and (iv) thereof is to be subtracted, an amount equal to the amount that would have been the subsidiary's cumulative deduction account at the end of its taxation year during which the subsidiary was wound up if paragraph 125(6)(b) were read without reference to subparagraph (iv) thereof;

(e.4) for the purpose of computing the 1971 undistributed income on hand of the parent at any time after the winding-up, where the subsidiary had 1971 undistributed income on hand at the time the subsidiary was wound up, the amount thereof shall (except for the purpose of determining the designated surplus of the parent at any time) be added to the aggregate of the amounts determined under paragraphs 196(4)(a) to (c);

Application — 1977-78, c. 1, subsecs. 43(13)–(17) provide:

Subpara. 88(1)(b)(i) is applicable after March 31, 1977.

(1.1) Non-capital losses, etc., of subsidiary — Where a Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary") has been wound up and not less than 90% of the issued shares of each class of the capital stock of the subsidiary were, immediately before the winding-up, owned by another Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent") and all the shares of the subsidiary that were not owned by the parent immediately before the winding-up were owned at that time by a person or persons with whom the parent was dealing at arm's length, for the purpose of computing the taxable income of the parent under this Part and the tax payable under Part IV by the parent for any taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, such portion of any non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss of the subsidiary as may reasonably be regarded as its loss from carrying on a particular business (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's loss business") and any other portion of any non-capital loss or limited partnership loss of the subsidiary as may reasonably be regarded as being derived from any other source or being in respect of a claim made under section 110.5 for any particular taxation year of the subsidiary (in this subsection referred to as "the subsidiary's loss year"), to the extent that it

(a) was not deducted in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for any taxation year of the subsidiary, and

(b) would have been deductible in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for any taxation year beginning after the commencement of the winding-up, on the assumption that it had such a taxation year and that it had sufficient income for that year, shall, for the purposes of this subsection, paragraphs 111(1)(a), (c), (d) and (e), subsection 111(3) and Part IV,

(c) in the case of such portion of any non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss of the subsidiary as may reasonably be regarded as its loss from carrying on the subsidiary's loss business, be deemed, for the taxation year of the parent in which the subsidiary's loss year ended, to be a non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, respectively, of the parent from carrying on the subsidiary's loss business, that was not deductible by the parent in computing its taxable income for any taxation year that commenced before the commencement of the winding-up,

(d) in the case of any other portion of any non-capital loss or limited partnership loss of the subsidiary as may reasonably be regarded as being derived from any other source, be deemed, for the taxation year of the parent in which the subsidiary's loss year ended, to be a non-capital loss or a limited partnership loss, respectively, of the parent that was derived from the source from which the subsidiary derived the loss and that was not deductible by the parent in computing its taxable income for any taxation year that commenced before the commencement of the winding-up, and

(d.1) in the case of any other portion of any non-capital loss of the subsidiary as may reasonably be regarded as being in respect of a claim made under section 110.5, be deemed, for the taxation year of the parent in which the subsidiary's loss year ended, to be a non-capital loss of the parent in respect of a claim made under section 110.5 that was not deductible by the parent in computing its taxable income for any taxation year that commenced before the commencement of the winding-up,

(e) where at any time control of the parent or subsidiary has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of the subsidiary's non-capital loss or farm loss for a taxation year ending before that time is deductible in computing the taxable income of the parent for a particular taxation year ending after that time, except that such portion of the subsidiary's non-capital loss or farm loss as may reasonably be regarded as its loss from carrying on a business and, where a business was carried on by the subsidiary in that year, such portion of the non-capital loss as may reasonably be regarded as being in respect of an amount deductible under paragraph 110(1)(k) in computing its taxable income for the year is deductible only

(i) if that business is carried on by the subsidiary or the parent for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit throughout the particular year, and

(ii) to the extent of the total of the parent's income for the particular year from that business and, where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, from any other business substantially all of the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services, and, for the purpose of this paragraph, where this subsection applied to the winding-up of another corporation in respect of which the subsidiary was the parent and this paragraph applied in respect of losses of that other corporation, the subsidiary shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, that other corporation with respect to those losses, and

(f) any portion of a loss of the subsidiary that would otherwise be deemed by paragraph (c), (d) or (d.1) to be a loss of the parent for a particular taxation year beginning after the commencement of the winding-up shall be deemed, for the purpose of computing the parent's taxable income for taxation years beginning after the commencement of the winding-up, to be such a loss of the parent for its immediately preceding taxation year and not for the particular year, where the parent so elects in its return of income under this Part for the particular year.

History: Para. 88(1.1)(b) amended to substitute "any taxation year" for "its first taxation year", and that portion of subsec. 88(1.1) between paras. (b) and (c) amended to add "this subsection", by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(10), applicable in computing the taxable income of parent corporations for 1985 et seq.

That portion of para. 88(1.1)(e) following subpara. (ii) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(11), applicable in computing taxable income for 1990 et seq.

Para. 88(1.1)(f) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(12), applicable in computing the taxable income of parent corporations for 1985 et seq., except that a parent corporation may elect in accordance with the para. in respect of any of its 1985 to 1991 taxation years by so notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before June 18, 1992.

Pre-RSC History: That portion of para. 88(1.1)(e) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(7), applicable with respect to non-capital losses and farm losses for 1988 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(e) where, at any time, control of the parent or subsidiary has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of the subsidiary's non-capital loss or farm loss for a taxation year ending before that time is deductible in computing the taxable income of the parent for a particular taxation year ending after that time, except that such portion of the subsidiary's non-capital loss or farm loss from carrying on a business is deductible

That portion of subsec. 88(1.1) following para. (b) and preceding para. (c) substituted by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 30(8), to add reference to para. 111(1)(e), applicable after February 25, 1986; para. 88(1.1)(e) substituted by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 30(9), applicable to acquisitions of control occurring after January 15, 1987 other than acquisitions of control occurring before 1988, where the persons acquiring the control were obliged on that date to acquire the control pursuant to the terms of agreements in writing entered into on or before that date. Reference should be made to "Interpretation" following this history. Para. 88(1.1)(e) formerly read:

(e) where, at any time, control of the parent or subsidiary has been acquired by a person or persons (each of whom is in this section referred to as the "purchaser") such portion of the subsidiary's non-capital loss or farm loss for a taxation year ending before that time as may reasonably be regarded as its loss from carrying on a particular business is deductible by the parent for a particular taxation year ending after that time

(i) only if that business was carried on by the subsidiary or parent for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit

(A) throughout the part of the particular year that is after that time, where control of the parent or subsidiary was acquired in the particular year, and

(B) throughout the particular year, in any other case, and

(ii) only to the extent of the aggregate of

(A) the parent's income for the particular year from that business and, where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, from any other business substantially all the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the aggregate of the parent's taxable capital gains for the particular year from dispositions of property owned by the corporation at or before that time, other than property that was acquired by the subsidiary within the two-year period ending at that time from the purchaser or a person who did not deal at arm's length with the purchaser,

exceeds

(II) the aggregate of the parent's allowable capital losses for the particular year from dispositions described in subclause (I).

That portion of subsec. 88(1.1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 24(1), to substitute "restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss" for "restricted farm loss or farm loss" and "any non-capital loss or limited partnership loss of the subsidiary" for "any non-capital loss of the subsidiary", applicable after February 25, 1986.

Paras. 88(1.1)(c) and (d) amended by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 24(2), to substitute, in para. (c), "restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss of the subsidiary" for "restricted farm loss or farm loss of the subsidiary" and "restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, respectively," for "restricted farm loss or farm loss, respectively,", and in para. (d), "any non-capital loss or limited partnership loss of the subsidiary" for "any non-capital loss of the subsidiary", "a non-capital loss or a limited partnership loss, respectively, of the parent" for "a non-capital loss of the parent" and "from which the subsidiary derived the loss" for "from which the subsidiary derived that portion of its non-capital loss", applicable after February 25, 1986.

That portion of subsec. 88(1.1) preceding para. (a) amended to substitute "for the purpose of computing the taxable income of the parent under this Part" for "for the purpose of computing the taxable income of the parent" and to substitute "non-capital loss of the subsidiary as may reasonably be regarded as being derived from any other source or being in respect of a claim made under section 110.5" for "non-capital loss of the subsidiary from any other source" by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 43(4), applicable with respect to non-capital losses for 1985 et seq.

Para. 88(1.1)(d) substituted, para. 88(1.1)(d.1) added, applicable with respect to non-capital losses for 1985 et seq.; subpara. 88(1.1)(e)(i) substituted applicable with respect to windings-up commencing in 1983 et seq.; cl. 88(1.1)(e)(ii)(B) substituted applicable with respect to acquisitions of control occurring after May 9, 1985, except that subcl. 88(1.1)(e)(ii)(B)(I) is applicable with respect to acquisitions of control occurring in 1984 et seq., by 1985, c. 45, subsecs. 43(5)–(7). Para. 88(1.1)(d), subpara. 88(1.1)(e)(i) and cl. 88(1.1)(e)(ii)(B) formerly read:

(d) in the case of any other portion of any non-capital loss of the subsidiary from any other source, be deemed, for the taxation year of the parent in which the subsidiary's loss year ended, to be a non-capital loss of the parent that was derived from the source from which the subsidiary derived the loss and that was not deductible by the parent in computing its taxable income for any taxation year that commenced before the commencement of the winding-up,

(e) only if throughout the particular year and after that time that business was carried on by the subsidiary or parent for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit, and

. . . . .

(e)(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the aggregate of the parent's taxable capital gains for the particular year from the disposition of property owned by the subsidiary at or before that time, other than property that was acquired from the purchaser or a person who did not deal at arm's length with the purchaser,

exceeds

(II) the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of the parent's allowable capital losses for the particular year from the disposition of property described in subclause (I) exceeds the aggregate of its allowable business investment losses for the particular year from the disposition of that property.

Subsec. 88(1.1) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 39(4), applicable by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 102(1), (deemed in force January 19, 1984), with respect to a subsidiary's restricted farm losses determined for 1978 et seq. where the winding-up of the subsidiary commenced in the 1983 or a subsequent taxation year and with respect to a subsidiary's non-capital losses and farm losses determined for 1983 et seq. Subsec. 88(1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Non-capital losses of subsidiary — Where the winding-up of a Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary") commenced after March 31, 1977 and not less than 90% of the issued shares of each class of the capital stock of the subsidiary were, immediately before the winding-up, owned by another Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent") and all the shares of the subsidiary that were not owned by the parent immediately before the winding-up were owned at that time by a person or persons with whom the parent was dealing at arm's length, for the purpose of computing the taxable income of the parent for any taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, such portion of any non-capital loss of the subsidiary, as may reasonably be regarded as its loss from carrying on a particular business (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's loss business") and any other portion of any non-capital loss of the subsidiary from any other source for any particular taxation year of the subsidiary (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's loss year"), to the extent that it

(a) was not deductible in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for any taxation year of the subsidiary, and

shall, for the purposes of paragraph 111(1)(a), subsection 111(3) and Part IV, be deemed to be

(c) in the case of such portion of any non-capital loss of the subsidiary as may reasonably be regarded as its loss from carrying on the subsidiary's loss business, a non-capital loss of the parent from carrying on the subsidiary's loss business, and

(d) in the case of any other portion of any non-capital loss of the subsidiary from any other source, a non-capital loss of the parent from the source from which the subsidiary derived the loss for the taxation year of the parent in which the subsidiary's loss year ended that was not deductible by the parent in computing its taxable income for any taxation year that commenced before the commencement of the winding-up, except that

(e) where, at any time, control of the parent or subsidiary has been acquired by a person or persons (each of whom is in this section referred to as the "purchaser"), such portion of the subsidiary's non-capital loss for a taxation year ending before that time as may reasonably be regarded as its loss from carrying on a particular business is deductible by the parent for a taxation year ending after that time only

(i) if throughout the year and after that time the particular business was carried on by the subsidiary or parent for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit, and

(ii) to the extent of the aggregate of

(A) the parent's income for the year from the particular business and any other business substantially all the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development of property or the rendering of services that are similar to the properties sold, leased, rented or developed, or the services rendered, as the case may be, in the course of carrying on the particular business before that time, or where the subsidiary was wound-up before that time, before the time of the commencement of the winding-up, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the aggregate of the parent's taxable capital gains for the year from the disposition of property owned by the subsidiary at that time or, where the subsidiary was wound up before that time, at the time of the commencement of the winding-up, other than property that was acquired from the purchaser or from a person that did not deal at arm's length with the purchaser,

exceeds

(II) the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of the parent's allowable capital losses for the year from the disposition of property described in subclause (I) exceeds the aggregate of its allowable business investment losses for the year from the disposition of property described in that subclause.

Subsec. 88(1.1) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 53(8), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after November 12, 1981, except where control of the parent or subsidiary was last acquired by a person or persons before November 13, 1981, or after November 12, 1981 and before 1983 where the arrangements therefor were substantially advanced and evidenced in writing on November 12, 1981. Subsec. 88(1.1) formerly read:

> (1.1) Where the winding-up of a Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary") commenced after March 31, 1977 and not less than 90% of the issued shares of each class of the capital stock of the subsidiary were, immediately before the winding-up, owned by another Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent") and all of the shares of the subsidiary that were not owned by the parent immediately before the winding-up were owned at that time by persons with whom the parent was dealing at arm's length, for the purposes of computing the taxable income of the parent for any taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, any non-capital loss of the subsidiary for any particular taxation year of the subsidiary (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's loss year"), to the extent that it
> (a) was not deductible in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for any taxation year of the subsidiary, and
> (b) would have been deductible in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for its first taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, on the assumption that it had such a taxation year and that it had sufficient income for that year,
>
> shall, for the purposes of paragraph 111(1)(a), subsection 111(3) and Part IV, be deemed to be a non-capital loss of the parent for the taxation year of the parent in which the subsidiary's loss year ended that was not deductible by the parent in computing its taxable income for any taxation year that commenced before the commencement of the winding-up, except that this subsection does not apply to permit the parent to deduct, for the purpose of computing its taxable income for a particular taxation year, such portion of the subsidiary's non-capital loss for a taxation year as may reasonably be regarded as the subsidiary's loss from carrying on any particular business if
> (c) control of the parent or the subsidiary has been acquired, before the end of the parent's particular year, by a person or persons who did not, at the end of the subsidiary's loss year, control the parent or the subsidiary, as the case may be, and the parent was not, during the particular year, carrying on that business, or
> (d) control of the parent or the subsidiary was acquired, before the end of the particular year and after the winding-up or discontinuance of that business, by a person or persons who did not control the parent or the subsidiary, as the case may be, at any time during the subsidiary's loss year when that business was being carried on.

All that portion of subsec. 88(1.1) preceding para. (d) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 48(3), applicable with respect to windings-up commenced after December 11, 1979, except that in their application to windings-up that commenced before January 13, 1981, subsec. 88(1.1) shall be read without reference therein to "and all the shares of the subsidiary that were not owned by the parent immediately before the winding-up were owned at that time by persons with whom the parent was dealing at arm's length". Subsec. 88(1.1) formerly read:

> (1.1) Where the winding-up of a Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "subsidiary") commenced after March 31, 1977 and all of the issued shares of the capital stock thereof were, immediately before the winding-up, owned by another Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "parent"), for the purposes of computing the taxable income of the parent for any taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, any non-capital loss of the subsidiary for any particular taxation year of the subsidiary (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's loss year"), to the extent that it

Subsec. 88(1.1) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 43(11), applicable to taxation years ending after March 31, 1977.

Interpretation — "obliged to acquire or dispose of property or to acquire control of a corporation": 1987, c. 46, s. 72 reads as follows:

> 72. For the purposes of this Act, a person shall be considered not to be obliged either to acquire or dispose of property or to acquire control of a corporation, as the case may be, if the person may be excused from performing the obligation as a result of changes to the [Income Tax Act] affecting acquisitions or dispositions of property or acquisitions of control of corporations.

Selected Cases [subsec. 88(1.1)]: Hickman Motors Ltd. v. R., [1998] 1 C.T.C. 213 (SCC) (Property retains depreciable character in hands of transferee on winding-up, if not used for other purposes).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-302R3: Losses of a corporation — the effect that acquisitions of control, amalgamations, and windings-up have on their deductibility — after January 15, 1987. See also list at end of s. 88.

(1.2) Net capital losses of subsidiary — Where the winding-up of a Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary") commenced after March 31, 1977 and not less than 90% of the issued shares of each class of the capital stock of the subsidiary were, immediately before the winding-up, owned by another Canadian corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "parent") and all of the shares of the subsidiary that were not owned by the parent immediately before the winding-up were owned at that time by persons with whom the parent was dealing at arm's length, for the purposes of computing the taxable income of the parent for any taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, any net capital loss of the subsidiary for any particular taxation year of the subsidiary (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's loss year"), to the extent that it shall, for the purposes of this subsection, paragraph 111(1)(b) and subsection 111(3), be deemed to be a net capital loss of the parent for its taxation year in which the particular taxation year of the subsidiary ended, except that

> (a) was not deducted in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for any taxation year of the subsidiary, and
> (b) would have been deductible in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for any taxation year beginning after the commencement of the winding-up, on the assumption that it had such a taxation year and that it had sufficient income and taxable capital gains for that year,

> (c) where at any time control of the parent or subsidiary has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of the subsidiary's net capital loss for a taxation year ending before that time is deductible in computing the parent's taxable income for a taxation year ending after that time, and
> (d) any portion of a net capital loss of the subsidiary that would otherwise be deemed by this subsection to be a loss of the parent for a particular taxation year beginning after the commencement of the winding-up shall be deemed, for the purposes of computing its taxable income for taxation years beginning after the commencement of the winding-up, to be a net capital loss of the parent for its immediately preceding taxation year and not for the particular year, where the parent so elects in its return of income under this Part for the particular year.

Related Provisions: 80(12)(a)(ii)(B) — Application of subsidiary's capital losses against capital gain from forgiveness of debt; 88(1.3) — Computation of income and tax of parent; 111(5.4) — Non-capital loss; 139.1(18) — Holding corporation deemed not to acquire control of insurer on demutualization; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired.

History: That portion of subsec. 88(1.2) following para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(13), applicable in computing the taxable income of parent corporations for 1985 et seq., except that a parent corporation may elect in accordance with para. (d), with respect to any of its 1985 to 1991 taxation years by so notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing within 6 months after December 17, 1991. That portion formerly read:

> (b) would have been deductible in computing the taxable income of the subsidiary for its first taxation year commencing

after the commencement of the winding-up, on the assumption that it had such a taxation year and that it had sufficient income and taxable capital gains for that year, shall, for the purposes of paragraph 111(1)(b) and subsection 111(3), be deemed to be a net capital loss of the parent for the taxation year of the parent in which the particular taxation year of the subsidiary ended that was not deductible by the parent in computing its taxable income for any taxation year that commenced before the commencement of the winding-up, except that this subsection does not apply to permit the parent to deduct, for the purpose of computing its taxable income for a particular taxation year, the subsidiary's net capital loss for a taxation year if control of the parent or the subsidiary has been acquired, before the end of the parent's particular year, by a person or persons who did not, at the end of the subsidiary's loss year, control the parent or the subsidiary, as the case may be.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 88(1.2)(a) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 39(5), to substitute "deducted" for "deductible", applicable with respect to windings-up commencing in 1983 et seq.

All that portion of subsec. 88(1.2) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 48(4), applicable with respect to windings-up commenced after December 11, 1979, except that in their application to windings-up that commenced before January 13, 1981, subsec. 88(1.2) shall be read without reference therein to "and all the shares of the subsidiary that were not owned by the parent immediately before the winding-up were owned at that time by persons with whom the parent was dealing at arm's length". That portion formerly read:

(1.2) Where the winding-up of a Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "subsidiary") commenced after March 31, 1977 and all of the issued shares of the capital stock thereof were, immediately before the winding-up, owned by another Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "parent"), for the purposes of computing the taxable income of the parent for any taxation year commencing after the commencement of the winding-up, any net capital loss of the subsidiary for any particular taxation year of the subsidiary (in this subsection referred to as the "subsidiary's loss year"), to the extent that it

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-302R3: Losses of a corporation — the effect that acquisitions of control, amalgamations, and windings-up have on their deductibility — after January 15, 1987. See also list at end of s. 88.

(1.3) Computation of income and tax of parent — For the purpose of paragraphs (1)(e.3), (e.6) and (e.7), subsections (1.1) and (1.2), section 110.1, subsections 111(1) and (3) and Part IV, where a parent corporation has been incorporated or otherwise formed after the end of an expenditure year, gift year, foreign tax year or loss year, as the case may be, of a subsidiary of the parent, for the purpose of computing the taxable income of, and the tax payable under this Part and Part IV by, the parent for any taxation year,

(a) it shall be deemed to have been in existence during the particular period beginning immediately before the end of the subsidiary's first expenditure year, gift year, foreign tax year or loss year, as the case may be, and ending immediately after it was incorporated or otherwise formed;

(b) it shall be deemed to have had, throughout the particular period, fiscal periods ending on the day of the year on which its first fiscal period ended; and

(c) it shall be deemed to have been controlled, throughout the particular period, by the person or persons who controlled it immediately after it was incorporated or otherwise formed.

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

History: Para. 88(1.3)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 38(6), applicable to windings-up commencing after 1988. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) it shall be deemed to have been in existence during the particular period commencing immediately before the end of the subsidiary's first foreign tax year, gift year or loss year, as the case may be, and ending immediately after it was incorporated or otherwise formed;

Pre-RSC History: That portion of subsec. 88(1.3) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(8), applicable to taxation years ending after May 23, 1985, except that in the application of subsec. 88(1.3)

(a) to taxation years ending before 1988, the reference therein to "section 110.1" shall be read as a reference to "paragraphs 110(1)(a), (b) and (b.1)"; and

(b) to taxation years ending before 1989, the references therein to "(1)(e.3)" and "expenditure year" shall be read as references to "(1)(e.3), (e.4)" and to "expenditure year, employment year" respectively.

That portion of subsec. 88(1.3) formerly read:

(1.3) Computation of income of and tax payable by parent — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(e.6) and (e.7), subsections (1.1) and (1.2), paragraphs 110(1)(a), (b) and (b.1) and subsections 111(1) and (3) and Part IV, where a parent corporation has been incorporated or otherwise formed after the end of a foreign tax year, gift year or loss year, as the case may be, of a subsidiary of the parent, for the purpose of computing the taxable income of, and the tax payable under this Part and Part IV by, the parent for any taxation year,

All that portion of subsec. 88(1.3) preceding para. (b) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 28(5) to add reference to para. (e.7), to add "foreign tax year" and to add "this Part" located before "Part IV", applicable to the computation of tax for 1984 et seq.

Subsec. 88(1.3) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 39(6), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing in 1983 et seq. Subsec. 88(1.3) formerly read:

(1.3) Rules relating to computation of income of parent — For the purposes of subsections (1.1) and (1.2), paragraphs (1)(e.6), 110(1)(a), (b) and (b.1) and 111(1)(a) and (b), subsection 111(3) and Part IV, where a parent corporation has been incorporated or otherwise formed after the end of a loss year or a gift year, as the case may be, of a subsidiary of the parent, for the purpose of computing the taxable income of the parent for any taxation year,

(a) it shall be deemed to have been in existence during the particular period commencing immediately before the end of the subsidiary's first loss year or gift year, as the case may be, and ending immediately after it was incorporated;

(b) it shall be deemed to have had, throughout the particular period, fiscal periods ending on the day of the year on which its first fiscal period ended; and

(c) it shall be deemed to have been controlled, throughout the particular period, by the person or group of persons who controlled it immediately after its incorporation.

All that portion of subsec. 88(1.3) preceding para. (b) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 53(9), applicable to gifts made in 1981 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(1.3) For the purposes of subsections (1.1), (1.2) and 111(3), paragraphs 111(1)(a) and (b) and Part IV, where a parent corporation has been incorporated or otherwise formed after the end of a loss year of a subsidiary of the parent, for the purpose of computing the taxable income of the parent for any taxation year,

(a) it shall be deemed to have been in existence during the particular period commencing immediately before the end of the subsidiary's first loss year and ending immediately after it was incorporated;

Subsec. 88(1.3) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 43(11), applicable to taxation years ending after March 31, 1977.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-302R3: Losses of a corporation — the effect that acquisitions of control, amalgamations, and windings-up have on their deductibility — after January 15, 1987.

(1.4) Qualified expenditure of subsidiary — For the purposes of this subsection and section 37.1, where the rules in subsection (1) applied to the winding-up of a subsidiary, for the purpose of computing the income of its parent for any taxation year commencing after the subsidiary has been wound up, the following rules apply:

(a) where the parent's base period consists of fewer than three taxation years, its base period shall be determined on the assumption that it had taxation years in each of the calendar years preceding the year in which it was incorporated, each of which commenced on the same day of the year as the day of its incorporation;

(b) the qualified expenditure made by the parent in a particular taxation year in its base period shall be deemed to be the total of the amount thereof otherwise determined and the qualified expenditure made by the subsidiary in its taxation year ending in the same calendar year as the particular year;

(c) the total of the amounts paid to the parent by persons referred to in subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iii) of the definition "expenditure base" in subsection 37.1(5) in a particular taxation year in its base period shall be deemed to be the total otherwise determined and all those amounts paid to the subsidiary by a person referred to in those subparagraphs in the subsidiary's taxation year ending in the same calendar year as the particular year; and

(d) there shall be added to the total of the amounts otherwise determined in respect of the parent under subparagraphs 37.1(3)(b)(i) and (iii) respectively, the total of the amounts determined under those subparagraphs in respect of the subsidiary.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 88(1.4) preceding para. (a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 43(8), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after 1982, to substitute "where the rules in subsection (1) applied to the winding-up of a subsidiary" for "where a subsidiary to which the rules in subsection (1) apply has been wound up".

Subsec. 88(1.4) added by 1977-78, c. 32, subsec. 23(3), applicable to 1978 et seq.

(1.41) Application of subsec. 37.1(5) — The definitions in subsection 37.1(5) apply to subsection (1.4).

Origin of subsec. 88(1.41): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words to subsec. 37.1(5)).

(1.5) Parent continuation of subsidiary — For the purposes of section 29 of the Income Tax Application Rules, subsection 59(3.3) and sections 66, 66.1, 66.2, 66.4 and 66.7, where the rules in subsection (1) applied to the winding-up of a subsidiary, its parent shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the subsidiary.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 88(1.5) amended by 1987, c. 46, subsec. 30(10), to substitute "66.4 and 66.7" for "and 66.4", applicable to taxation years ending after February 17, 1987 with respect to windings-up commencing after 1982.

Subsec. 88(1.5) added by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 43(9), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after 1982.

(1.6) Idem — Where a corporation that carries on a farming business and computes its income from that business in accordance with the cash method is wound up in circumstances to which subsection (1) applies and, at the time that is immediately before the winding-up of the corporation, owned inventory that was used in connection with that business,

(a) for the purposes of subparagraph (1)(a)(iii), the cost amount to the corporation at that time of property purchased by it that is included in that inventory shall be deemed to be the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, that would be included under paragraph 28(1)(c) in computing the corporation's income for its last taxation year beginning before that time if that year had ended at that time,

B is the value (determined in accordance with subsection 28(1.2)) to the corporation at that time of the purchased inventory that is distributed to the parent on the winding-up,

C is the value (determined in accordance with subsection 28(1.2)) of all of the inventory purchased by the corporation that was owned by it in connection with that business at that time, and

D is the lesser of

(i) such additional amount as the corporation designates in respect of the property, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds the amount determined for A in respect of the property;

(b) for the purpose of subparagraph 28(1)(a)(i), the disposition of the inventory and the receipt of the proceeds of disposition therefor shall be deemed to have occurred at that time and in the course of carrying on the business; and

(c) where the parent carries on a farming business and computes its income therefrom in accordance with the cash method, for the purposes of section 28,

(i) an amount equal to the cost to the parent of the inventory shall be deemed to have been paid by it, and

(ii) the parent shall be deemed to have purchased the inventory for an amount equal to that cost, in the course of carrying on that business and at the time it acquired the inventory.

History: Subsec. 88(1.6) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(14), applicable to windings-up beginning after July 13, 1990.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-427R: Livestock of farmers.

(1.7) Interpretation — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(c) and (d), where a parent of a subsidiary did not deal at arm's length with another person (other than a corporation the control of which was acquired by the parent from a person with whom the parent dealt at arm's length) at any time before the winding-up of the subsidiary, the parent and the other person are deemed never to have dealt with each other at arm's length, whether or not the parent and the other person coexisted.

Related Provisions: 87(11) — Application to vertical amalgamation; 256(6)–(9) — Whether control acquired.

History: Subsec. 88(1.7) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 118(12), applicable to windings-up that begin after February 21, 1994.

(2) Winding-up of [other] Canadian corporation — Where a Canadian corporation (other than a subsidiary to the winding-up of which the rules in subsection (1) applied) has been wound up after 1978 and, at a particular time in the course of the winding-up, all or substantially all of the property owned by the corporation immediately before that time was distributed to the shareholders of the corporation,

(a) for the purposes of computing the corporation's

(i) capital dividend account,

(i.1) capital gains dividend account (within the meaning assigned by subsection 131(6)), where the corporation is an investment corporation,

(ii) capital gains dividend account (within the meaning assigned by section 133), and

(iii) pre-1972 capital surplus on hand,

at the time (in this paragraph referred to as the "time of computation") immediately before the particular time,

(iv) the taxation year of the corporation that otherwise would have included the particular time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the time of computation, and a new taxation year shall be deemed to have commenced at that time, and

(v) each property of the corporation that was so distributed at the particular time shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the corporation immediately before the end of the taxation year so deemed to have ended for proceeds equal to the fair market value of the property immediately before the particular time;

(vi) [Repealed]

(b) where the corporation is, by virtue of subsection 84(2), deemed to have paid at the particular time a dividend (in this paragraph referred to as the "winding-up dividend") on shares of any class of its capital stock, the following rules apply:

(i) such portion of the winding-up dividend as does not exceed the corporation's capital dividend account immediately before that time or capital gains dividend account immediately before that time, as the case may be, shall be deemed, for the purposes of an election in respect thereof under subsection 83(2), 131(1) (as that subsection applies for the purposes of section 130) or 133(7.1), as the case may be, and where the corporation has so elected, for all other purposes, to be the full amount of a separate dividend,

(i.1) [Repealed under former Act]

(ii) the portion of the winding-up dividend equal to the lesser of the corporation's pre-1972 capital surplus on hand immediately before that time and the amount by which the winding-up dividend exceeds

(A) the portion thereof in respect of which the corporation has made an election under subsection 83(2), or

(B) the portion thereof in respect of which the corporation has made an election under subsection 133(7.1), as the case may be, shall be deemed not to be a dividend,

(iii) notwithstanding the definition "taxable dividend" in subsection 89(1), the winding-up dividend, to the extent that it exceeds the total of the portion thereof deemed by subparagraph (i) to be a separate dividend for all purposes and the portion deemed by subparagraph (ii) not to be a dividend, shall be deemed to be a separate dividend that is a taxable dividend, and

(iv) each person who held any of the issued shares of that class at the particular time shall be deemed to have received that proportion of any separate dividend determined under subparagraph (i) or (iii) that the number of shares of that class held by the person immediately before the particular time is of the number of issued shares of that class outstanding immediately before that time; and

(c) for the purpose of computing the income of the corporation for its taxation year that includes the particular time, paragraph 12(1)(t) shall be read as follows:

"(t) the amount deducted under subsection 127(5) or (6) in computing the taxpayer's tax payable for the year or a preceding taxation year to the extent that it was not included under this paragraph in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year or is not included in an amount determined under paragraph 13(7.1)(e) or 37(1)(e) or subparagraph 53(2)(c)(vi) or (h)(ii) or the amount determined for I in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) or L in the definition "cumulative Canadian exploration expense" in subsection 66.1(6);".

Related Provisions: 69(5) — Property appropriated by shareholder on winding-up of corporation; 84(2) — Distribution of property on winding-up of corporation; 88(2.1) — "Pre-1972 capital surplus on hand" defined; 89(3) — Ordering of simultaneous dividends; 134 — Status of non-resident-owned investment corporation for 88(2).

History: Subpara. 88(2)(a)(i.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(15), applicable to windings-up beginning after 1988.

Subpara. 88(2)(a)(vi) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(16), applicable to windings-up beginning after 1987. Subpara. 88(2)(a)(vi) formerly read:

(vi) in calculating the income of the corporation for the taxation year so deemed to have ended, paragraph 12(1)(t) shall be read as follows:

"(t) the amount deducted under subsection 127(5) or (6) in computing the taxpayer's tax payable for the year or a preceding taxation year to the extent that it was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year under this paragraph or is not included in an amount determined under paragraph 13(7.1)(e) or 37(1)(e), or subparagraph 53(2)(c)(vi) or (h)(ii) or for I in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) or L in the definition "cumulative Canadian exploration expense" in subsection 66.1(6);" and

Subpara. 88(2)(b)(i) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(17), to add "131(1) (as that subsection applies for the purposes of section 130)", applicable to windings-up beginning after 1988.

Para. 88(2)(c) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(18), applicable to windings-up commencing after 1987.

Pre-RSC History: Subpara. 88(2)(a)(vi) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 61(9), applicable after 1987.

Subpara. 88(2)(b)(i.1) repealed, subpara. 88(2)(b)(ii) amended to substitute "subsection 83(2)" for "subsection 83(2), or (2.1)", subpara. 88(2)(b)(iii) amended to substitute "subparagraph (i)" for "subparagraph (i) or (i.1)", and subpara. 88(2)(b)(iv) amended to substitute "subparagraph (i) or (iii)" for "subparagraph (i), (i.1) or (iii)", and "number of issued shares" for "number of the issued shares", by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 47(2), applicable with respect to winding-up dividends paid after May 23, 1985. Subpara. 88(2)(b)(i.1) formerly read:

(i.1) the portion of the winding-up dividend equal to the lesser of the corporation's life insurance capital dividend account immediately before that time and the amount by which the winding-up dividend exceeds the portion thereof in respect of which the corporation has made an election under subsection 83(2) or 133(7.1), as the case may be, shall be deemed to be the full amount of a separate dividend,

All that portion of subsec. 88(2) preceding para. (a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 43(10), applicable with respect to windings-up commencing after 1982, to substitute "(other than a subsidiary to the winding-up of which the rules in subsection (1) applied) has been wound up after 1978" for "other than a subsidiary within the meaning of subsection (1), has been wound up after December 31, 1978".

All that portion of para. 88(2)(b) following subpara. (i) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 53(10), applicable with respect to windings-up ending after June 28, 1982. That portion formerly read:

(ii) the portion of the winding-up dividend equal to the lesser of the corporation's pre-1972 capital surplus on hand immediately before that time and the amount by which the winding-up dividend exceeds the portion thereof in respect of which the corporation has made an election under subsection 83(2) or 133(7.1), as the case may be, shall be deemed not to be a dividend,

(iii) notwithstanding paragraph 89(1)(j), the winding-up dividend, to the extent that it exceeds the aggregate of the portion thereof deemed by subparagraph (i) to be a separate dividend for all purposes and the portion deemed by subparagraph (ii) not to be a dividend, shall be deemed to be a separate dividend that is a taxable dividend, and

(iv) each person who held any of the issued shares of that class at the particular time shall be deemed to have received that proportion of any separate dividend determined under subparagraph (i) or (iii) that the number of shares of that class held by him immediately before the particular time is of the number of the issued shares of that class outstanding immediately before that time.

Subsec. 88(2) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 43(11), applicable after December 31, 1978. Subsec. 88(2) formerly read:

(2) Where a Canadian corporation, other than a subsidiary within the meaning of subsection (1), has been wound up after May 6, 1974 and, at a particular time in the course of the winding-up, all or substantially all of the property owned by the corporation immediately before that time was distributed to the shareholders of the corporation,

(a) for the purposes of computing

(i) the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand,

(ii) its paid-up capital deficiency,

(iii) its capital dividend account, and

(iv) its capital gains dividend account (within the meaning assigned by section 133),

at the time (in this paragraph referred to as the "time of computation") immediately before the particular time,

(v) the taxation year of the corporation that otherwise would have included the particular time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the time of computation, and a new taxation year shall be deemed to have commenced at that time, and

(vi) each property of the corporation that was so distributed at the particular time shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the corporation immediately before the end of the taxation year so deemed to have ended for proceeds equal to the fair market value thereof immediately before the particular time; and

(b) where the corporation is, by virtue of subsection 84(2), deemed to have paid at the particular time a dividend (in this paragraph referred to as the "winding-up dividend") on shares of any class of its capital stock, the following rules apply:

(i) such portion of the winding-up dividend as does not exceed the corporation's capital dividend account immediately before that time or capital gains dividend account immediately before that time, as the case may be, shall be deemed, for the purposes of an election in respect thereof under subsection 83(2) or 133(7.1), as the case may be, and where the corporation has so elected, for all other purposes, to be the full amount of a separate dividend,

(ii) the portion of the winding-up dividend equal to the lesser of

(A) the amount by which the winding-up dividend exceeds the portion thereof in respect of which the corporation has made an election under subsection 83(2) or 133(7.1), as the case may be, and

(B) the aggregate of the corporation's tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand immediately before that time and its 1971 capital surplus on hand immediately before that time, shall, for the purposes of an election in respect thereof under subsection 83(1), and, where the corporation has so elected, for all other purposes, be deemed to be the full amount of a separate dividend,

(iii) notwithstanding paragraph 89(1)(j), the winding-up dividend, to the extent that it exceeds the aggregate of the portions thereof deemed by subparagraph (i) or (ii) to be separate dividends for all purposes, shall be deemed to be a separate dividend that is a taxable dividend, and

(iv) each person who held any of the issued shares of that class at the particular time shall be deemed to have received that proportion of any separate dividend determined under subparagraph (i), (ii) or (iii) that the number of shares of that class held by him immediately before the particular time is of the number of the issued shares of that class outstanding immediately before that time.

All that portion of subsec. 88(2) preceding para. (a), subpara. 88(2)(a)(vi), all that portion of para. 88(2)(b) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsecs. 52(5)–(7), applicable in respect of any winding-up ending after May 6, 1974. That portion of subsec. 88(2), subpara. 88(2)(a)(vi), that portion of para. 88(2)(b) formerly read:

(2) Where a Canadian corporation, whether or not it is a subsidiary within the meaning of subsection (1), has been wound up after 1971 and, at a particular time in the course of the winding-up, all or substantially all of the property owned by the corporation immediately before that time was distributed to the shareholders of the corporation,

(vi) each property of the corporation that was so distributed at the particular time shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the corporation immediately before the end of the taxation year so deemed to have ended, for proceeds equal to the fair market value thereof immediately before the particular time except that this subparagraph shall not apply in determining the proceeds of disposition of such property where the corporation is a subsidiary within the meaning of subsection (1); and

. . . . .

(b) where the corporation is, by virtue of subsection 84(2) or paragraph (1)(e), deemed to have paid at the particular time a dividend (in this paragraph referred to as the "winding-up dividend") on shares of any class of its capital stock, the following rules apply:

Subsec. 88(2) added by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 27(4), applicable to 1972 et seq.

(2.1) Definition of "pre-1972 capital surplus on hand" — For the purposes of subsection (2), "pre-1972 capital surplus on hand" of a particular corporation at a particular time means the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand on December 31, 1978 within the meaning of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read on that date,

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property of the corporation owned by it on December 31, 1971 and disposed of by it after 1978 and before the particular time, equal to the amount, if any, by which the lesser of its fair market value on valuation day (within the meaning assigned by section 24 of the Income Tax Application Rules) and the corporation's proceeds of disposition of that capital property exceeds its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules other than subsections 26(15), (17) and (21) to (27) of that Act,

(c) where before the particular time a subsidiary (to the winding-up of which the rules in subsection (1) applied) of the particular corporation has been wound up after 1978, an amount equal to the pre-1972 capital surplus on hand of the subsidiary immediately before the commencement of the winding-up, and

(d) where the particular corporation is a new corporation formed as a result of an amalgamation (within the meaning of section 87) after 1978 and before the particular time, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a predecessor corporation, equal to the predecessor corporation's pre-1972 capital surplus on hand immediately before the amalgamation

exceeds

(e) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property (other than depreciable property) of the corporation owned by it on December 31, 1971 and disposed of by it after 1978 and before the particular time equal to the amount, if any, by which its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, other than subsections 26(15), (17) and (21) to (27) of that Act, exceeds the greater of the fair market value of the property on valuation day (within the meaning assigned by section 24 of that Act) and the corporation's proceeds of disposition of the property.

(2.2) Determination of pre-1972 capital surplus on hand — For the purposes of determining the pre-1972 capital surplus on hand of any corporation at a particular time after 1978, the following rules apply:

(a) an amount referred to in paragraphs (2.1)(b) and (e) in respect of the corporation shall be deemed to be nil, where the property disposed of is

(i) a share of the capital stock of a subsidiary, within the meaning of subsection (1), that was disposed of on the winding-up of the subsidiary where that winding-up commenced after 1978,

(ii) a share of the capital stock of another Canadian corporation that was controlled, within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2), by the corporation immediately before the disposition and that was disposed of by the corporation after 1978 to a person with whom the corporation was not dealing at arm's length immediately after the disposition, other than by a disposition referred to in paragraph (b), or

(iii) subject to subsection 26(21) of the Income Tax Application Rules, a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation that was disposed of by the corporation after 1978, on an amalgamation, within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1), where the corporation controlled, within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2), both the particular corporation immediately before the amalgamation and the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation; and

(b) where another corporation that is a Canadian corporation owned a capital property on December 31, 1971 and subsequently disposed of it to the corporation in a transaction to which section 85 applied, the other corporation shall be deemed not to have disposed of that property in the transaction and the corporation shall be deemed to have owned that property on December 31, 1971 and to have acquired it at an actual cost equal to the actual cost of that property to the other corporation.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-488R2: Winding-up of 90%-owned taxable Canadian corporations. See also list at end of s. 88.

(2.3) Actual cost of certain depreciable property — For the purpose of subsection (2.1), the actual cost of the depreciable property that was acquired by a corporation before the commencement of its 1949 taxation year that is capital property referred to in that subsection shall be deemed to be the capital cost of that property to the corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 144 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1971 taxation year).

Pre-RSC History: Subsecs. 88(2.2), (2.3) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 43(11), applicable as to subsecs. 88(2.1)–(2.3), with respect to windings-up that give rise to winding-up dividends that are deemed to have been paid after December 31, 1978.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952").

(3) Dissolution of foreign affiliate — Where on the dissolution of a controlled foreign affiliate (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1)) of a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "disposing affiliate") one or more shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer have been disposed of to the taxpayer,

(a) the disposing affiliate's proceeds of disposition of each such share and the cost thereof to the taxpayer shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the adjusted cost base to the disposing affiliate of the share immediately before the dissolution, or such greater amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the fair market value of the share immediately before the dissolution; and

(b) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the shares of the disposing affiliate shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the total of

(i) the cost to the taxpayer of the shares of the other foreign affiliate, as determined in paragraph (a), and

(ii) the fair market value of any property (other than the shares referred to in subparagraph (i)) disposed of by the disposing affiliate to the taxpayer on the dissolution,

exceeds

(iii) the total of all debts owing by the disposing affiliate, and of all amounts of other obligations of the disposing affiliate to pay amounts, otherwise than as or on account of a dividend owing by the disposing affiliate to the taxpayer or to persons with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, that were outstanding immediately before the dissolution and that were assumed or cancelled by the taxpayer on the dissolution.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(f) — Determination of certain components of foreign accrual property income.

History: Subpara. 88(3)(b)(iii) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(19), to add "otherwise than as or on account of a dividend owing by the disposing affiliate to the taxpayer or to a person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length," applicable to dissolutions occurring after July 13, 1990.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 88(3) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 53(11), applicable with respect to dissolutions occurring after November 12, 1981, other than a dissolution that was part of a reorganization that was substantially advanced before November 13, 1981. That portion formerly read:

> (3) Where on the dissolution of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "disposing affiliate") one or more shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer have been disposed of to the taxpayer,

Para. 88(3)(b) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, subsec. 34(2), applicable in respect of any winding-up ending after 1971.

Subsec. 88(3) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 52(8), applicable in respect of any winding-up ending after 1971.

(4) Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(c), (d) and (d.2),

Proposed Amendment — 88(4)

(4) Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(c), (c.2), (d) and (d.2) and, for greater certainty, paragraphs (c.3) to (c.8) and (d.3),

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 39(4), will amend the opening words of para. 88(4) to read as above, applicable to windings-up that begin after November 1994.

Technical Notes: Subsection 88(4) of the Act sets out for the purposes of paragraphs 88(1)(c), (d) and (d.2) the circumstances in which, among other things, a corporation formed on an amalgamation will be considered to be a continuation of its predecessor corporations. Subsection 88(4) is amended to also apply for the purpose of paragraph 88(1)(c.2), and for greater certainty, subsection 88(4) is amended to clarify that it also applies for the purposes of paragraphs 88(1)(c.3) to (c.8) and (d.3) of the Act.

> (a) subject to paragraph (c), control of any corporation shall be deemed not to have been acquired because of an amalgamation;
> (b) any corporation formed as a result of an amalgamation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation; and
> (c) in the case of an amalgamation described in subsection 87(9), control of a predecessor corporation that was not controlled by the parent before the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been acquired by the parent immediately before the amalgamation.

History: Subpara. 88(4) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 66(20), applicable to windings-up beginning after March 1977. Subsec. 88(4) formerly read:

> (4) Amalgamation deemed not to be acquisition of control — In determining, for the purposes of paragraphs (1)(c) and (d), whether control of any corporation has been acquired, control shall be deemed not to have been acquired by virtue of any amalgamation and any corporation formed as a result of any amalgamation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation and, in the case of a merger described in subsection 87(9), control of a predecessor corporation that was not controlled by the parent prior to such a merger shall be deemed to have been acquired by the parent immediately prior to the merger.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 88(4) substituted by 1979, c. 5, subsec. 29(6), applicable with respect to corporate wind-ups commencing after November 16, 1978. Subsec. 88(4) formerly read:

> (4) In determining, for the purposes of paragraphs (1)(c) and (d), whether control of any corporation has been acquired, control shall be deemed not to have been acquired by virtue of any amalgamation, and any corporation formed as a result of any amalgamation shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, its predecessor corporations.

Subsec. 88(4) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 43(12), applicable with respect to corporate wind-ups commencing after March 31, 1977.

Pre-RSC History [s. 88.1]: S. 88.1 added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, s. 49, applicable to 1980 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-451R: Deemed disposition and acquisition and acquisition on ceasing to be or becoming resident in Canada.

89. (1) Definitions — In this subdivision,

"Canadian corporation" at any time means a corporation that is resident in Canada at that time and was

(a) incorporated in Canada, or

(b) resident in Canada throughout the period that began on June 18, 1971 and that ends at that time, and, for greater certainty, a corporation formed at any particular time by the amalgamation or merger of, or by a plan of arrangement or other corporate reorganization in respect of, 2 or more corporations (otherwise than as a result of the acquisition of property of one corporation by another corporation, pursuant to the purchase of the property by the other corporation or as a result of the distribution of the property to the other corporation on the winding-up of the corporation) is a Canadian corporation because of paragraph (a) only if

(c) that reorganization took place under the laws of Canada or a province, and

(d) each of those corporations was, immediately before the particular time, a Canadian corporation;

Related Provisions: 134 — NRO not a Canadian corporation; 219 — Additional tax on corporations (other than Canadian corporations) carrying on business in Canada; 219.1 — Tax when corporation ceases to be Canadian corporation; 248(1)"Canadian corporation" — Definition applies to entire Act; 248(1)"corporation" — meaning of "incorporated in Canada"; 250 — Resident in Canada.

History: The definition "Canadian corporation" in subsec. 89(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 42(1), applicable June 15, 1994. That definition formerly read:

"Canadian corporation" at any time means a corporation that was resident in Canada at that time and was

(a) incorporated in Canada, or

(b) resident in Canada throughout the period commencing June 18, 1971 and ending at that time;

Para. 89(1)(a) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 44(1), applicable after December 31, 1978, to delete the following words from the end of the para.:

except that for the purposes of subsection 83(1) a corporation that was incorporated in Canada before April 27, 1965 and that was not resident in Canada at the end of 1971 shall be deemed not to be a Canadian corporation;

"capital dividend account" of a corporation at any particular time means the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount if any, by which

(A) the amount of the corporation's capital gain from a disposition (other than a disposition that is the making of a gift after December 8, 1997 that is not a gift described in subsection 110.1(1)[)] of a property in the period beginning at the beginning of its first taxation year (that began after the corporation last became a private corporation and that ended after 1971) and ending immediately before the particular time

Proposed Amendment — 89(1)"capital dividend account"(a)(i)(A)

(A) the amount of the corporation's capital gain from a disposition (other than a disposition that is the making of a gift after December 8, 1997 that is not a gift described in subsection 110.1(1)) of a property in the period beginning at the beginning of its first taxation year (that began after the corporation last became a private corporation and that ended after 1971) and ending immediately before the particular time

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 40, will amend cl. (a)(i)(A) of the definition "capital dividend account" in subsec. 89(1) to read as above, applicable to dispositions made after December 8, 1997, other than a disposition made under a written agreement made before December 9, 1997.

Technical Notes: Subsection 89(1) defines certain terms that apply to corporations and their shareholders.

Clause (a)(i)(A) of the definition "capital dividend account" is amended to add a bracket that was omitted when the provision was amended by S.C. 1998, c. 19, ss. 17(1) [formerly Bill C-28].

The current amendment applies to dispositions made after December 8, 1997, other than a disposition made under a written agreement made before December 9, 1997 — the same coming-into-force provision as the 1998 amendment.

(v) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of an eligible capital amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 14(1)) in respect of a business carried on by the corporation that became payable to the corporation in a taxation year commencing after the time the corporation last became a private corporation and ending before the particular time, equal to the amount, if any, by which

exceeds

(B) the aggregate of

(I) the eligible capital amount, and

(II) where the amount in respect of an eligible capital amount is received as consideration for the disposition of, or for allowing the expiry of, a government right (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 21(3)(a) of the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971), such amount as is included in respect thereof in the tax equity of the corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year by virtue of subparagraph (h)(ii.1),

(vi) all amounts each of which is an amount that became payable to the corporation after the end of its 1971 taxation year and before 1972 in respect of a property, owned by it at the end of its 1971 taxation year or acquired by it thereafter and disposed of by it before 1972, that would have been eligible capital property if it had been disposed of after 1971, equal to the amount, if any, by which the amount that became payable exceeds any amount included in respect of that property in the tax equity of the corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year by virtue of subparagraph (h)(ii.1),

(vii) all amounts each of which is an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the aggregate of all amounts that have become due to the corporation before the particular time in respect of the disposition after 1971 of a property owned by the corporation on December 31, 1971 that is a property referred to in any of paragraphs 59(2)(c), (d) or (e),

exceeds

(B) the relevant percentage (within the meaning assigned by subsection 59(4)) of the amount receivable by the corporation in respect of that disposition,

(viii) all amounts each of which is an amount receivable in respect of a property referred to in any of paragraphs 59(2)(c), (d) or (e) owned by the corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year or acquired by it thereafter and disposed of by it before 1972,

(ix) all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by virtue of paragraph 29(1)(b) or 29(2)(b) in computing the income of the corporation for a taxation year ending before the particular time,

(x) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the proceeds of any life insurance policy received by the corporation after the end of its 1971 taxation year and before 1972 as the result of the death of any person whose life was insured under the policy,

(B) the aggregate of

(I) all amounts included in the tax equity of the corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year in respect of the policy, and

(II) all amounts paid as or on account of premiums paid under the policy by the corporation after the end of its 1971 taxation year and before 1972, and

(xi) all amounts determined under subparagraphs (d) (vii) and (x) in respect of the corporation at the particular time,

exceeds the aggregate of

(xii) the paid-up capital of the corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year in respect of all of the shares of its capital stock,

(xiii) the amount that the corporation's undistributed income on hand (within the meaning assigned by this Act as it read in its application to the 1971 taxation year) would be at the end of its 1971 taxation year if

(A) this Act as it so read were read without reference to subparagraph 82(1)(a)(iii) thereof,

(B) references in paragraph 82(1)(a) (except clause (vii)(A) thereof) to "1917" were read as references to "1950", and

(C) no amount were allowed as a deduction under subparagraph 82(1)(a)(ii) as it read in its application to that year that was not deductible in computing the corporation's income for the 1971 or any previous taxation year for the purposes of Part I of this Act as it read in its application to that year, but would have been deductible in computing its income for the 1971 taxation year if this Act as it read in its application to that year had been read without reference to any restriction on the quantum of any deduction thereunder,

(xiv) subject to subsection (5), all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property (other than depreciable property) of the corporation owned by it on December 31, 1971 and disposed of by it after that date and before the particular time equal to the amount, if any, by which its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 (other than subsections 26(15), (17) and (21) to (27) thereof) exceeds the greater of the fair market value of the property on the day fixed by proclamation for the purposes of subdivision c and the corporation's proceeds of disposition thereof,

(xv) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property (other than depreciable property) owned by it at the end of its 1971 taxation year or acquired by it thereafter and disposed of by it before 1972, equal to the amount, if any, by which its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 exceeds the corporation's proceeds of disposition thereof,

(xvi) all amounts determined under subparagraphs (d)(iii) and (iv.1) in respect of the corporation at the particular time,

(xvii) where the particular time is after November 18, 1974, all amounts determined under subparagraph (d)(iv) in respect of the corporation at the particular time, and

(xviii) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a dividend that became payable by the corporation before the particular time, equal to the portion, if any, thereof payable out of its 1971 capital surplus on hand.

All that portion of para. 89(1)(l) preceding subpara. (iii) and following subpara. (iv) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsecs. 53(6), (7), applicable in computing 1971 capital surplus on hand after May 6, 1974. Those portions formerly read:

(l) "1971 capital surplus on hand" of a corporation at any particular time means the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of

(i) the tax equity of the corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year,

(ii) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property of the corporation owned by it on December 31, 1971 and disposed of by it after that date and before the particular time, other than shares of the capital stock of a subsidiary corporation referred to in subsection 88(1) that were disposed of on the winding-up of the subsidiary where that winding-up commenced after May 29, 1973 equal to the amount, if any, by which the lesser of its fair market value on the day fixed by proclamation for the purposes of subdivision c and the corporation's proceeds of disposition thereof exceeds its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971, other than subsections 26(15), (17) and (21) thereof,

(A) the amount that the eligible capital amount would be but for the provisions of the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 relating to section 14

exceeds

(B) the eligible capital amount,

exceeds the aggregate of

(v) the paid-up capital of the corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year in respect of all of the shares of its capital stock,

(vi) the amount that the corporation's undistributed income on hand (within the meaning assigned by this Act as it read in its application to the 1971 taxation year) would be at the end of its 1971 taxation year if

(A) this Act as it so read were read without reference to subparagraph 82(1)(a)(iii) thereof, and

(B) references in paragraph 82(1)(a) (except clause (vii)(A)) thereof to "1917" were read as references to "1950",

(vii) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property (other than depreciable property) of the corporation owned by it on December 31, 1971 and disposed of by it after that date and before the particular time other than shares of the capital stock of a subsidiary corporation referred to in subsection 88(1) that were disposed of on the winding-up of the subsidiary where that winding-up commenced after May 29, 1973 equal to the amount, if any, by which its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 (other than subsections 26(15), (17) and (21) thereof) exceeds the greater of the fair market value of the property on the day fixed by proclamation for the purposes of subdivision c and the corporation's proceeds of disposition thereof,

(viii) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property (other than depreciable property) owned by it at the end of its 1971 taxation year or acquired by it thereafter and disposed of by it before 1972, equal to the amount, if any, by which its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 exceeds the corporation's proceeds of disposition thereof, and

(ix) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a dividend that became payable by the corporation before the particular time, equal to the portion, if any, thereof payable out of its 1971 capital surplus on hand.

Subparas. 89(1)(l)(ii), (vii) substituted by 1973-74, c. 30, subsecs. 9(1), (2), applicable with respect to dispositions of capital property after January 31, 1973. Subparas. 89(1)(l)(ii), (vii) formerly read:

(ii) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property of the corporation owned by it on December 31, 1971 and disposed of by it after that date and before the particular time, equal to the amount, if any, by which the lesser of its fair market value on the day fixed by proclamation for the purposes of subdivision c and the corporation's proceeds of disposition thereof exceeds its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971, other than subsections 26(15) and (17) thereof,

(vii) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a capital property (other than depreciable property) of the corporation owned by it on December 31, 1971 and disposed of by it after that date and before the particular time, equal to the amount, if any, by which its actual cost to the corporation determined without reference to the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971 (other than subsections 26(15) and (17) thereof) exceeds the greater of the fair market value of the property on the day fixed by proclamation for the purposes of subdivision c and the corporation's proceeds of disposition thereof,

Subparas. 89(1)(l)(ii), (vii) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsecs. 28(4), (5), applicable to 1972 et seq.

(1.01) Application of subsec. 138(12) — The definitions in subsection 138(12) apply to this section.

Origin of subsec. 89(1.01): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words to subsec. 138(12)).

(1.1) Capital dividend account where control acquired — Where at any particular time after March 31, 1977 a corporation that was, at a previous time, a private corporation controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever by one or more non-resident persons becomes a Canadian-controlled private corporation (otherwise than by reason of a change in the residence of one or more of its shareholders), in computing the corporation's capital dividend account at and after the particular time there shall be deducted the amount of the corporation's capital dividend account immediately before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact; 256(7) — Where control deemed not acquired.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 89(1.1) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 62(5), to substitute "by reason of" for "by virtue of" and "at and after the particular time" for "at any time after the particular time", applicable after 4 p.m. EDST, September 25, 1987.

Subsec. 89(1.1) amended by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 48(5), applicable after May 23, 1985. Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Computation of capital dividend account where control acquired — Where at any particular time after March 31, 1977 a corporation that was, at a previous time, a private corporation controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever by one or more non-resident persons becomes a Canadian-controlled private corporation (otherwise than by virtue of a change in the residence of one or more of its shareholders), for the purposes of computing the corporation's capital dividend account or life insurance capital dividend account at any time after the particular time there shall be deducted the amount of the corporation's capital dividend account or life insurance capital dividend account, as the case may be, immediately before the particular time.

Subsec. 89(1.1) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 54(5), applicable after June 28, 1982. Subsec. 89(1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Where at any particular time after March 31, 1977 a corporation that was, at a previous time, a private corporation controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever by one or more non-resident persons becomes a Canadian-controlled private corporation (otherwise than by virtue of a change in the residence of one or more of its shareholders), for the purposes of computing the corporation's capital dividend account at any time after the particular time there shall be deducted the amount of the corporation's capital dividend account immediately before the particular time.

Subsec. 89(1.1) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 44(6), applicable with respect to taxation years ending after March 31, 1977.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-66R6: Capital dividends.

(1.2) Capital dividend account of tax-exempt corporation — Where at any particular time after November 26, 1987 a corporation ceases to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income, in computing the corporation's capital dividend account at and after the particular time there shall be deducted the amount of the corporation's capital dividend account (computed without reference to this subsection) immediately after the particular time.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 89(1.2) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 62(6), applicable after November 26, 1987.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-66R6: Capital dividends.

(2) Where corporation is beneficiary — For the purposes of this section,

(a) where a corporation was a beneficiary under a life insurance policy on June 28, 1982, it shall be deemed not to have been a beneficiary under such a policy on or before June 28, 1982 where at any time after December 1, 1982 a prescribed premium has been paid under the policy or there has been a prescribed increase in any benefit on death under the policy; and

(b) where a corporation becomes a beneficiary under a life insurance policy by virtue of an amalgamation or a winding-up to which subsection 87(1) or 88(1) applies, it shall be deemed to have been a beneficiary under the policy throughout the period during which its predecessor or subsidiary, as the case may be, was a beneficiary under the policy.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 89(2) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 54(5), applicable after June 28, 1982.

Regulations: 309 (prescribed increase, prescribed premium).

Pre-RSC History [former subsec. 89(2)]: Subsec. 89(2) repealed by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 44(7), applicable after December 31, 1978. Subsec. 89(2) formerly read:

(2) 1971 capital surplus on hand of life insurance corporation — Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(l), a life insurance corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand at any particular time is the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of

(a) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any property disposed of by the corporation after 1968 and before 1972 that would, if the property had been disposed of after 1972, have been a capital property of the corporation, equal to the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of disposition of the property exceeds the cost to the corporation thereof, and

(b) the amount determined under subparagraph (1)(l)(ii) in respect of the corporation at the particular time

exceeds the aggregate of

(c) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any property described in paragraph (a), equal to the amount, if any, by which the cost to the corporation of the property exceeds the proceeds of disposition thereof,

(d) the amount determined under subparagraph (1)(i)(vii) in respect of the corporation at the particular time, and

(e) all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a dividend that became payable by the corporation before the particular time, equal to the portion, if any, thereof payable out of its 1971 capital surplus on hand.

(3) Simultaneous dividends — Where a dividend becomes payable at the same time on more than one class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, for the purposes of sections 83, 84 and 88, the dividend on any such class of shares shall be deemed to become payable at a different time than the dividend on the other class or classes of shares and to become payable in the order designated

(a) by the corporation on or before the day on or before which its return of income for its taxation year in which such dividends become payable is required to be filed; or

(b) in any other case, by the Minister.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 89(3) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, s. 50, applicable to 1980 et seq. Subsec. 89(3) formerly read:

(3) Where a dividend becomes payable at the same time on more than one class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, for the purposes of sections 83, 84, and 88, the dividend on any such class of shares shall be deemed to become payable at a different time than the dividend on the other class or classes of shares and such dividends shall be deemed to become payable in the order designated in prescribed manner by the corporation or, in the event that the corporation does not designate any such order, in the order designated by the Minister.

Pre-RSC History: Subsecs. 89(4), (5), (6) repealed by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 44(8), applicable, as to subsec. 89(6), after March 31, 1977, and as to subsecs. 89(4), (5), after December 31, 1978 except that, in applying those subsections after March 31, 1977 and before 1979, those subsections read as follows:

(4) Deemed capital cost of certain depreciable property — For the purposes of subparagraphs (1)(l)(ii) and (iii), the actual cost of the depreciable property that was acquired by a corporation before the commencement of its 1949 taxation year that is capital property referred to in those subparagraphs shall be deemed to be the capital cost of such property to the corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 144 of this Act as it read in its application to the 1971 taxation year).

(5) Rules concerning 1971 capital surplus on hand — For the purposes of determining the 1971 capital surplus on hand of any corporation at any particular time after May 6, 1974, the following rules apply:

(a) the amount referred to in subparagraphs (1)(l)(ii) and (xiv) in respect of a capital property of the corporation shall be deemed to be nil, where the property disposed of is

(i) a share of the capital stock of a subsidiary corporation referred to in subsection 88(1) that was disposed of on the winding-up of the subsidiary where that winding-up commenced after May 29, 1973,

(ii) a share of the capital stock of another Canadian corporation that was controlled, within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2), by the corporation immediately before the disposition and that was disposed of by the corporation after 1971 to a person with whom the corporation was not dealing at arm's length immediately after the disposition, other than by a disposition referred to in paragraph (b), or

(iii) subject to subsection 26(21) of the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971, a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation that was disposed of by the corporation after May 6, 1974, on an amalgamation, within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1), where the corporation controlled, within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2), both the particular corporation immediately before the amalgamation and the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation; and

(b) where another corporation that is a Canadian corporation owned a capital property on December 31, 1971 and subsequently disposed of it to the corporation in a transaction to which section 85 applied, the other corporation shall be deemed not to have disposed of that property in the transaction and the corporation shall be deemed to have owned that property on December 31, 1971 and to have acquired it at an actual cost equal to the actual cost of that property to the other corporation.

Subsecs. 89(4), (5), (6) formerly read:

(4) Deemed capital cost of certain depreciable property — For the purposes of subparagraphs (1)(d)(vi) and (1)(l)(ii) and (iii), the actual cost of depreciable property that was acquired by a corporation before the commencement of its 1949 taxation year that is capital property referred to in those subparagraphs shall be deemed to be the capital cost of such property to the corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 144 of this Act as it read in its application to the 1971 taxation year).

(5) Rules concerning 1971 capital surplus on hand and paid-up capital deficiency — For the purposes of determining the 1971 capital surplus on hand or paid-up capital deficiency of a corporation at any particular time after May 6, 1974, the following rules apply:

(a) the amount referred to in subparagraphs (1)(l)(ii) and (xiv) in respect of a capital property of the corporation shall be deemed to be nil, where the property disposed of is

(i) a share of the capital stock of a subsidiary corporation referred to in subsection 88(1) that was disposed of on the winding-up of the subsidiary where that winding-up commenced after May 29, 1973,

(ii) a share of the capital stock of another Canadian corporation that was controlled, within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2), by the corporation immediately before the disposition and that was disposed of by the corporation after 1971 to a person with whom the corporation was not dealing at arm's length immediately after the disposition, other than by a disposition referred to in paragraph (b), or

(iii) subject to subsection 26(21) of the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971, a share of the capital stock of a particular corporation that was disposed of by the corporation after May 6, 1974, on an amalgamation, within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1), where the corporation controlled, within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2), both the particular corporation immediately before the amalgamation and the new corporation immediately after the amalgamation; and

(b) where another corporation that is a Canadian corporation owned a capital property on December 31, 1971 and subsequently disposed of it to the corporation in a transaction to which section 85 applied, the other corporation shall be deemed not to have disposed of that property in the transaction and the corporation shall be deemed to have owned that property on December 31, 1971 and to have acquired it at an actual cost equal to the actual cost of that property to the other corporation.

(6) Reduction in paid-up capital deficiency — Where subparagraph (1)(d)(iv.1) has applied to the issue, prior to November 19, 1974, of any share of the capital stock of a corporation, for the purpose of clause (1)(d)(iv.1)(C), the increase in the paid-up capital of the corporation by virtue of the issue of that share shall, subject to section 84.2, be deemed to be equal to the amount that would be determined under clause (1)(c)(ii)(B) in respect of the issue of that share if paragraph (1)(c) were applicable at that time.

Subsecs. 89(4)–(6) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 53(8), subsec. 89(4) applicable to 1972 et seq., subsecs. 89(5), (6) applicable in computing the paid-up capital deficiency or 1971 capital surplus on hand after May 6, 1974.

89.1 [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: S. 89.1 repealed by 1977-78, c. 1, s. 45, applicable after March 31, 1977. S. 89.1 formerly read:

89.1 (1) Paid-up capital: special rules on conversion of property — For the purposes of subclause 89(1)(c)(ii)(B)(I), where a corporation has issued any shares of a particular class of its capital stock in exchange for another share, bond, debenture, mortgage, note or other similar obligation of the corporation (in this subsection referred to as a "convertible property"), the fair market value of the convertible property at the time the shares of the particular class were issued shall be deemed to be an amount equal to

(a) where the convertible property was a share, the amount of the paid-up capital in respect of that share immediately before the exchange; or

(b) where the convertible property was a debt owing by the corporation, the amount of that debt immediately before the exchange.

(2) Paid-up capital in respect of amalgamations — Where there has been an amalgamation (within the meaning assigned by section 87) of two or more corporations (each of which corporations is in this subsection referred to as a "predecessor corporation") to form one corporate entity (in this subsection referred to as the "new corporation"),

(a) for the purposes of subclause 89(1)(c)(ii)(B)(I), the new corporation shall be deemed to have received no consideration for any shares of its capital stock that were issued on the amalgamation;

(b) the paid-up capital in respect of any particular class of the capital stock of the new corporation shall, at any particular time after the amalgamation and after May 6, 1974, be increased by the amount, if any, by which

(i) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the paid-up capital, immediately before the amalgamation, in respect of a share of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation (other than a share owned by another predecessor corporation)

exceeds

(ii) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the paid-up capital (referred to in clause 89(1)(c)(ii)(A)), immediately after the amalgamation, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of the new corporation, to the extent that that amount has not been included in the paid-up capital of any other class of shares of the capital stock of the new corporation; and

(c) where the amalgamation occurred prior to May 7, 1974, the paid-up capital, immediately before the amalgamation, of a share of the capital stock of a predecessor corporation shall, for the purposes of subparagraph (b)(i), be determined as though subparagraphs 89(1)(c)(i) and (ii) applied immediately before the amalgamation.

(3) Paid-up capital: where dividend paid — Where a corporation has made an election under subsection 83(1) in respect of a dividend on a particular class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation that has, before November 19, 1974, become payable, or was paid if that event was earlier than the time it became payable, and

(a) the portion of the dividend that was payable out of the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand if the paid-up capital of the corporation in respect of any class of shares of its capital stock at the end of its 1971 taxation year was the amount determined under clause 89(1)(c)(ii)(A) in respect of that class at that time

(b) the portion of the dividend that would have been payable out of the corporation's 1971 capital surplus on hand if the paid-up capital of the corporation in respect of any class of shares of its capital stock at the end of its 1971 taxation year was the amount determined under subparagraph 89(1)(c)(ii) without reference to this subsection in respect of that class at that time

notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares at the end of the corporation's 1971 taxation year and at any time after November 18, 1974 shall be reduced by the amount, if any, by which the amount referred to in paragraph (a) exceeds the amount referred to in paragraph (b).

S. 89.1 added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 54, applicable for the purpose of computing the paid-up capital of a corporation at the end of its 1971 taxation year and at any time after May 6, 1974.

Subdivision i — Shareholders of Corporations Not Resident in Canada

90. Dividends received from non-resident corporation — In computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer resident in Canada, there shall be included any amounts received by the taxpayer in the year as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, dividends on a share owned by the taxpayer of the capital stock of a corporation not resident in Canada.

Related Provisions: 82(1) — Dividends received from corporation resident in Canada; 113(1) — Deduction for dividend received from foreign affiliate; 139.1(4)(f), (g) — Deemed dividend on demutualization of insurance corporation; 139.2 — Deemed dividend on distribution by mutual holding corporation.

Pre-RSC History: Subsecs. 90(2), (3) repealed by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 55, applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-451R: Deemed disposition and acquisition on ceasing to be or becoming resident in Canada.

91. (1) Amounts to be included in respect of share of foreign affiliate — In computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer resident in Canada, there shall be included, in respect of each share owned by the taxpayer of the capital stock of a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, as income from the share, the percentage of the foreign accrual property income of any controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, for each taxation year of the affiliate ending in the taxation year of the taxpayer, equal to that share's participating percentage in respect of the affiliate, determined at the end of each such taxation year of the affiliate.

91. (1) Amounts to be included in respect of share of foreign affiliate — In computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer resident in Canada, there shall be included, in respect of each share owned by the taxpayer of the capital stock of a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, as income from the share, the percentage of the foreign accrual property income of any controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, for each taxation year of the affiliate that ends in the taxation year of the taxpayer, equal to the amount that would be that share's participating percentage in respect of the affiliate, determined at the end of each such taxation year of the affiliate if paragraph (a) of the definition "equity percentage" in subsection 95(4) did not take into account each share that would be subject to subsection 94.2(9) in respect of the taxpayer for the year if the taxpayer held the share throughout the year.

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 9(1), will amend subsec. 91(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 91(1) of the Act provides that a taxpayer who is resident in Canada must include in computing income an amount in respect of each share owned by the taxpayer in the capital stock of a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

Subsection 91(1) is amended so that it does not result in additional income for a taxpayer arising because of the ownership by the taxpayer (or a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer) of shares that are "tracked interests" subject to the mark-to-market regime in section 94.2 by reason of the application of subsection 94.2(9). Note that, because of paragraph (a) of the definition "exempt interest" in subsection 94.1(1), a share of the capital stock of a controlled foreign affiliate is otherwise not subject to the regime for foreign investment entities in sections 94.1 and 94.2.

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Related Provisions: 17(1)(b)(iii) — Amount included as FAPI not taxed under rule for loan to non-resident; 94.1(16), (17) — Where demand for information not satisfied; 152(6.1) — Reassessment to apply FAPI loss carryback. See also Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 91.

(2) Reserve where foreign exchange restriction — Where an amount in respect of a share has been included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year by virtue of subsection (1) or (3) and the Minister is satisfied that, by reason of the operation of monetary or exchange restrictions of a country other than Canada, the inclusion of the whole amount with no deduction for a reserve in respect thereof would impose undue hardship on the taxpayer, there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year such amount as a reserve in respect of the amount so included as the Minister deems reasonable in the circumstances.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of the term "share".

(3) Reserve for preceding year to be included — In computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, there shall be included each amount in respect of a share that was deducted by virtue of subsection (2) in computing the taxpayer's income for the immediately preceding year.

(4) Amounts deductible in respect of foreign taxes — Where, by virtue of subsection (1), an amount in respect of a share has been included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year or for any of the 5 immediately preceding taxation years (in this subsection referred to as the "income amount"), there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the lesser of

(a) the product obtained when

(i) the portion of the foreign accrual tax applicable to the income amount that was not deductible under this subsection in any previous year is multiplied by

(ii) the relevant tax factor, and

Proposed Amendment — 91(4)(a)(ii)

(ii) the taxpayer's relevant tax factor for the year, and

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 9(2), will amend subpara. 91(4)(a)(ii) to read as above, applicable after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 91(4) of the Act provides for a deduction in computing the income of a taxpayer resident in Canada. The deduction is available to a taxpayer where the taxpayer has included an amount under subsection 91(1) in computing income in respect of a share of the capital stock of a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. The deduction is generally determined with reference to foreign taxes payable by the affiliate and a "relevant tax factor". The "relevant tax factor" for a resident taxpayer is designed to permit a deduction for the resident taxpayer to result in tax relief that is representative of foreign taxes payable by a controlled foreign affiliate of the resident taxpayer.

Subsection 91(4) is amended to explicitly link the "relevant tax factor" to the resident taxpayer and the taxation year for which the deduction under subsection 91(4) is claimed. This is consistent with the more explicit definition of "relevant tax factor" described below in the commentary on subsection 95(1).

This amendment applies after 2000.

(b) the amount, if any, by which the income amount exceeds the total of the amounts in respect of that share deductible under this subsection in any of the 5 immediately preceding taxation years in respect of the income amount.

(5) Amounts deductible in respect of dividends received — Where in a taxation year a taxpayer resident in Canada has received a dividend on a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was at any time a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, there may be deducted, in respect of such portion of the dividend as is prescribed to have been paid out of the taxable surplus of the affiliate, in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, the lesser of

(a) the amount by which that portion of the dividend exceeds the amount, if any, deductible in respect thereof under paragraph 113(1)(b), and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(a) to be added in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the share before the dividend was so received by the taxpayer

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts required by paragraph 92(1)(b) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the share before the dividend was so received by the taxpayer.

(6) Idem — Where a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that is a taxable Canadian corporation is acquired by the taxpayer from another corporation resident in Canada with which the taxpayer is not dealing at arm's length, for the purpose of subsection (5), any amount required by section 92 to be added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing the adjusted cost base to the other corporation of the share shall be deemed to have been so required to be added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the share.

Related Provisions: 20(13) — Dividend on share from foreign affiliate of taxpayer; 80.1(4)(c) — Assets acquired from foreign affiliate as dividend in kind or benefit to shareholder; 87(2)(u) — Amalgamations; 92(1) — ACB of share in foreign affiliate; 94(1)(d) — Application of certain provisions to trusts not resident in Canada; 113(1) — Deduction for dividend received from foreign affiliate; 233.2–233.5 — Disclosure of foreign property.

History: Subsec. 91(6) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 68, applicable to 1990 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of the term "share".

Proposed Addition — 91(7)

(7) Shares acquired from a partnership — For the purpose of subsection (5), where a taxpayer resident in Canada acquires a share of the capital stock of a corporation that is immediately after the acquisition a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer from a partnership of which the taxpayer, or a corporation resident in Canada with which the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length at the time the share was acquired, was a member (each such person is referred to in this subsection as the "member") at any time during any fiscal period of the partnership that began before the acquisition,

(a) that portion of any amount required by subsection 92(1) to be added to the adjusted cost base to the partnership of the share of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate equal to the amount included in the income of the member because of subsection 96(1) in respect of the amount that was included in the income of the partnership because of subsection (1) or (3) in respect of the foreign affiliate and added to that adjusted cost base, and

(b) that portion of any amount required by subsection 92(1) to be deducted from the adjusted cost base to the partnership of the share of the capital stock of the foreign affiliate equal to the amount by which the income of the member from the partnership under subsection 96(1) was reduced because of the amount deducted in computing the income of the partnership under subsection (2), (4) or (5) and deducted from that adjusted cost base is deemed to be an amount required by subsection 92(1) to be added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the share.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of the term "share".

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 41, will add subsec. 91(7), applicable to shares acquired after November 1999.

Technical Notes: Section 91 of the Act sets out rules for determining amounts that a taxpayer resident in Canada is to include in computing its income for a particular year as income from a share of a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

New subsection 91(7) of the Act applies where a taxpayer that is a taxable Canadian corporation acquires a share of the capital stock of a corporation that is, immediately after the acquisition, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, from a partnership of which the taxpayer or a corporation resident in Canada with which the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length at the time the share was acquired was a member (the "member"). Where, after the acquisition, the taxpayer receives a dividend on such a share out of the foreign affiliate's taxable surplus, subsection 91(7) allows the taxpayer to make a deduction under subsection 91(5) of the Act in respect of the net foreign accrual property income in respect of the share that was previously included in the income of the member from the partnership from which the taxpayer acquired the share. Subsection 91(7) allows the deduction under subsection 91(5) by deeming the taxpayer's adjusted cost base of the share to have been adjusted under subsection 92(1) of the Act by the member's share of any additions to, or deductions from, the adjusted cost base of the share to the partnership under subsection 92(1).

New paragraph 91(7)(a) provides that the member's share of the increase to the partnership's adjusted cost base of the share is the amount included in the member's income under subsection 96(1) in respect of the affiliate's foreign accrual property income included in the partnership's income under subsections 91(1) or (3) of the Act. New paragraph 91(7)(b) provides that the member's share of the decrease to the partnership's adjusted cost base of the share is the amount by which the member's share of the partnership's income determined under subsection 96(1) decreased as a result of an amount deducted in computing the partnership's income under subsections 91(2), (4) or (5) of the Act.

92. (1) Adjusted cost base of share of foreign affiliate — In computing, at any time in a taxation year, the adjusted cost base to a taxpayer resident in Canada of any share owned by the taxpayer of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer,

(a) there shall be added any amount required to be included in respect of that share by reason of subsection 91(1) or (3) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or any preceding taxation year (or that would have been so required to be included but for subsection 56(4.1) and sections 74.1 to 75 of this Act and section 74 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952); and

(b) there shall be deducted in respect of that share

(i) any amount deducted by the taxpayer by reason of subsection 91(2) or (4), and

(ii) any dividend received by the taxpayer before that time to the extent of the amount deducted by the taxpayer in respect thereof by reason of subsection 91(5) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or any preceding taxation year (or that would have been deductible by the taxpayer but for subsection 56(4.1) and sections 74.1 to 75 of this Act and section 74 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952).

(2) Deduction in computing adjusted cost base — In computing, at any time in a taxation year,

(a) the adjusted cost base to a corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as an "owner") of any share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation, or

(b) the adjusted cost base to a foreign affiliate (in this subsection referred to as an "owner") of a person resident in Canada of any share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of that person, there shall be deducted, in respect of any dividend received on the share before that time by the owner of the share, an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which

(c) such portion of the amount of the dividend so received as was deductible by virtue of paragraph 113(1)(d) from the income of the owner for the year in computing the owner's taxable income for the year or as would have been so deductible if the owner had been a corporation resident in Canada,

exceeds

(d) such portion of any income or profits tax paid by the owner to the government of a country other than Canada as may reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of the portion described in paragraph (c).

Proposed Addition — 92(4)–(6)

(4) Disposition of a partnership interest — Where a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada has at any time disposed of all or a portion of an interest in a partnership of which it was a member, there shall be added, in computing the proceeds of disposition of that interest, the amount determined by the formula

$$(A - B) \times C/D$$

where

A is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was deductible under paragraph 113(1)(d) by the member from its income in computing its taxable income for any taxation year of the member that began before that time in respect of any portion of a dividend received by the partnership, or would have been so deductible if the member were a corporation resident in Canada,

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of any income or profits tax paid by the partnership or the member of the partnership to a government of a country other than Canada that can reasonably be considered as having been paid in respect of the member's share of the dividend described in paragraph (a);

B is the total of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which was an amount added under this subsection in computing the member's proceeds of a disposition before that time of another interest in the partnership, and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which was an amount deemed by subsection (5) to be a gain of the member from a disposition before that time of a share by the partnership;

C is the adjusted cost base, immediately before that time, of the portion of the member's interest in the partnership disposed of by the member at that time; and

D is the adjusted cost base, immediately before that time, of the member's interest in the partnership immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(5) Deemed gain from the disposition of a share — Where a partnership has, at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership at the end of which a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada was a member, disposed of a share of the capital stock of a corporation, the amount determined under subsection (6) in respect of such a member is deemed to be a gain of the member from the disposition of the share by the partnership for the member's taxation year in which the fiscal period of the partnership ends.

(6) Formula — The amount determined for the purposes of subsection (5) is the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was deductible under paragraph 113(1)(d) by the member from its income in computing its taxable income for a taxation year in respect of any portion of a dividend received by the partnership on the share in a fiscal period of the partnership that began before the time referred to in subsection (5) and ends in the member's taxation year, or would have been so deductible if the member were a corporation resident in Canada,

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of any income or profits tax paid by the partnership or the member to a government of a country other than Canada that can reasonably be considered as having been paid in respect of the member's share of the dividend described in paragraph (a), and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was added under subsection (4) in computing the member's proceeds of a disposition before the time referred to in subsection (5) of an interest in the partnership.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 42, will add subsecs. 92(4) to (6), applicable to dispositions that occur after November 1999.

Technical Notes: Section 92 of the Act provides for adjustments to be made to the adjusted cost base of a share in a foreign affiliate with respect to certain amounts included or deducted in computing income of the owner of the share.

New subsection 92(4) of the Act applies where a member of a partnership that is a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada disposes of all or any portion of its interest in the partnership. New subsection 92(4) ensures that prior dividends received by the partnership out of the affiliate's pre-acquisition surplus, to the extent that they exceed related foreign withholding taxes, are included in calculating the member's proceeds of disposition on the partnership interest. Subsection 92(4) increases the member's proceeds of disposition by the amount that was deductible (or would have been deductible if it were a corporation resident in Canada) by the member under paragraph 113(1)(d) of the Act net of foreign withholding taxes. The amount added to the member's proceeds does not include amounts previously added under this subsection, or amounts that were previously deemed to be a gain under new subsection 92(5) of the Act. Where the member does not dispose of all of its interests in the partnership, the deemed proceeds under new subsection 92(4) are reduced in proportion to the interests that were retained.

New subsection 92(4) applies to dispositions that occur after November 30, 1999.

New subsections 92(5) and (6) of the Act apply where a partnership disposes of a share of corporation. Where a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada is a member of the partnership (the "member"), new subsections 92(5) and (6) treat the member as having a gain on the disposition of the share equal to the amount that was deductible (or would have been deductible by the member if it were a corporation resident in Canada) by the member under paragraph 113(1)(d) of the Act in respect of dividends (net of foreign withholding taxes) received by the partnership on the share that were paid out of pre-acquisition surplus. The gain in this subsection is reduced by any amount that was added to the member's proceeds of disposition of a partnership interest under subsection 92(4).

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

93. (1) Election re disposition of share in foreign affiliate — For the purposes of this Act, where a corporation resident in Canada so elects, in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time, in respect of any share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation disposed of by it or by another foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(a) the amount (in this subsection referred to as the "elected amount") designated by the corporation in its election not exceeding the proceeds of disposition of the share shall be deemed to have been a dividend received on the share from the affiliate by the disposing corporation or disposing affiliate, as the case may be, immediately before the disposition and not to have been proceeds of disposition; and

(b) where subsection 40(3) applies to the disposing corporation or disposing affiliate, as the case may be, in respect of the share,

(i) the amount deemed by that subsection to be the gain of the disposing corporation or disposing affiliate, as the case may be, from the disposition of the share shall, except for the purposes of paragraph 53(1)(a), be deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount deemed by that subsection to be the gain from the disposition of the share determined without reference to this subparagraph

exceeds

(B) the elected amount, and

(ii) for the purposes of determining the exempt surplus, exempt deficit, taxable surplus, taxable deficit and underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the corporation resident in Canada (within the meanings assigned by the regulations for the purpose of section 95), the affiliate shall be deemed at the time of disposition to have redeemed shares of a class of its capital stock.

Proposed Amendment — 93(1)(b)(ii)

(ii) for the purposes of determining the exempt surplus, exempt deficit, taxable surplus, taxable deficit and underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the corporation resident in Canada (within the meanings assigned by Part LIX of the Income Tax Regulations), the affiliate is deemed to have redeemed at the time of disposition shares of a class of its capital stock.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 43(1), will amend subpara. 93(1)(b)(ii) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur after November 1999.

Technical Notes: Section 93 of the Act contains a number of rules relating to the disposition of shares of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada.

Subsection 93(1) of the Act permits a corporation resident in Canada that disposes of a share of a foreign affiliate of the corporation to treat the proceeds of disposition of the share as a dividend.

In such circumstances, subparagraph 93(1)(b)(ii) provides that the foreign affiliate of the corporation will be considered to have redeemed shares of a class of its capital stock for the purposes of calculating certain of its surplus accounts in respect of the corporation. Subparagraph 93(1)(b)(ii) is amended to clarify that those accounts take their meaning from those meanings assigned for the purpose of Part LIX of the Regulations. New subparagraph 93(1)(b)(ii) applies to dispositions that occur after November 30, 1999.

Proposed Addition — 93(1.2), (1.3)

(1.2) Disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate held by a partnership — Where a particular corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation (each of which is referred to in this subsection as the "disposing corporation") would, but for this subsection, have a taxable capital gain from a disposition by a partnership, at any time, of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation and the particular corporation so elects in prescribed manner in respect of the disposition,

(a) 4/3 of

(i) the amount designated by the particular corporation (which amount shall not exceed the amount of the disposing corporations's[12] taxable capital gain from the disposition of the share), or

(ii) where subsection (1.3) applies, the amount prescribed for the purpose of that subsection in respect of the share is deemed to have been a dividend received on the share by the disposing corporation from the affiliate immediately before that time;

(b) notwithstanding section 96, the disposing corporation's taxable capital gain from the disposition of the share is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the disposing corporation's taxable capital gain from the disposition of the share otherwise determined exceeds the amount designated by the particular corporation in respect of the share;

(c) for the purpose of any regulation made under this subsection, the disposing corporation is deemed to have disposed of the share at that time and to have had a capital gain from the disposition of the share equal to 4/3 of the disposing corporation's taxable capital gain from the disposition of the share;

(d) for the purpose of section 113 in respect of the dividend referred to in paragraph (a), the disposing corporation is deemed to have owned the share on which that dividend was received; and

(e) where the disposing corporation has a taxable capital gain from the partnership because of the application of subsection 40(3) to the partnership in respect of the share, for the purposes of this subsection, the share is deemed to have been disposed of by the partnership.

Technical Notes: New subsection 93(1.2) of the Act provides that, where a particular corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation (referred to as "disposing corporation") would, but for this subsection, have a taxable capital gain from a partnership from the disposition by the partnership of a share of a foreign affiliate of the corporation, and the particular corporation elects in prescribed manner in respect of the gain, the amount designated will reduce the taxable capital gain and will be grossed-up and recharacterized as a dividend received on the share by the disposing corporation.

New paragraph 93(1.2)(a) provides that 4/3 of the amount designated by the particular corporation in respect of the share (the amount designated cannot exceed the disposing corporation's taxable capital gain), or where proposed subsection 93(1.3) applies 4/3 of the amount determined under that subsection, will be treated as a dividend received on the share by the disposing corporation from the foreign affiliate.

New paragraph 93(1.2)(b) provides that, notwithstanding section 96, the disposing corporation's taxable capital gain from the disposition of the share is considered to be the amount by which the disposing corporation's taxable capital gain from the disposition of the share otherwise determined exceeds the amount designated by the particular corporation.

New paragraph 93(1.2)(c) provides that, for the purpose of any regulation made under subsection 93(1.2), the disposing corporation is treated as having disposed of the share and to have had a capital gain from the disposition equal to 4/3 of the disposing corporation's taxable capital gain.

New paragraph 93(1.2)(d) provides that, for the purpose of section 113 in respect of the dividend referred to in new paragraph 93(1.2)(a), the disposing corporation is considered to have owned the share on which the dividend is paid.

New paragraph 93(1.2)(e) provides that, where the disposing corporation has a taxable capital gain from the disposition of the share because of the application of subsection 40(3) of the Act to the partnership in respect of the share, the partnership is treated for the purposes of this subsection as having disposed of the share.

Related Provisions: 93(1.3) — Deemed election; Reg. 5900(2) — No election for dividend to have been paid out of taxable surplus; Reg. 5905(2) — Where shares of foreign affiliate are redeemed or cancelled.

Regulations: 5902 (prescribed manner, prescribed time).

(1.3) Deemed election — Where a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada has a gain from the disposition by a partnership at any time of shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation that are excluded property, the particular corporation is deemed to have made an election under subsection (1.2) in respect of each such share disposed of by the partnership and to have designated in the election an amount equal to a prescribed amount.

Technical Notes: New subsection 93(1.3) of the Act provides that, where a foreign affiliate of a particular corporation resident in Canada has a gain from the disposition by a partnership of a share of a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation and the share is excluded property, the particular corporation will treated as having made the election under new subsection 93(1.2) and to have designated the prescribed amount.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5902(6) — Deemed amount designated.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 43(2), will add subsecs. 93(1.2) and (1.3), applicable to dispositions that occur after November 1999.

(2) Loss limitation on disposition of share — Where

(a) a corporation resident in Canada has disposed of a share of the capital stock of any foreign affiliate of the corporation, or

(b) a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada has disposed of a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation, the amount of the loss of the disposing corporation from the disposition of the share shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(c) the amount that would be the loss of the disposing corporation therefrom if this Act were read without reference to this subsection

exceeds

(d) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts received before the disposition of the share in respect of exempt dividends on the share or a share for which the share was substituted by

(A) the disposing corporation,

(B) a corporation related to the disposing corporation,

(C) a foreign affiliate of the disposing corporation, or

(D) a foreign affiliate of a corporation related to the disposing corporation

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which a loss from a previous disposition of the share or a share for which the share was substituted by a corporation referred to in any of clauses (i)(A) to (D) has been reduced because of this subsection.

Proposed Amendment — 93(2)

(2) Loss limitation on disposition of share — Where

(a) a corporation resident in Canada has a loss from the disposition by it at any time of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "affiliate share"), or

(b) a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada has a loss from the disposition by it at any time of a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada that is not excluded property (in this subsection referred to as the "affiliate share"), the amount of the loss is deemed to be the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of the loss determined without reference to this subsection,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received before that time, in respect of an exempt dividend on the affiliate share or on a share for which the affiliate share was substituted, by

(a) the corporation resident in Canada,

(b) a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada,

(c) a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada, or

(d) a foreign affiliate of a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada,

C is the total of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), from another disposition at or before that time by a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B of the affiliate share or a share for which the affiliate share was substituted, was reduced under this subsection in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is 4/3 of the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from a previous disposition by a partnership of the affiliate share or a share for which the affiliate share was substituted, was reduced under subsection (2.1) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), from a disposition at or before that time by a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B of an interest in a partnership, was reduced under subsection (2.2) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B, and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is 4/3 of the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from a disposition at or before that time by a partnership of an interest in another partnership, was reduced under subsection (2.3) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 43(3), will amend subsec. 93(2) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur after November 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 93(2) of the Act is an anti-avoidance rule. It reduces a loss arising on a disposition of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada by exempt dividends received on the share before the disposition. The rule applies to the corporation resident in Canada and any foreign affiliate of such a corporation in respect of a share of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada.

Subsection 93(2) of the Act is repealed and replaced by new subsections 93(2) to (2.3) of the Act because of the introduction of new section 93.1 of the Act.

Subsection 93(2) of the Act applies where a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of such a corporation has a loss from the disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada. Where the foreign affiliate has the loss from the disposition of a share of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, the rule does not apply where that affiliate share is excluded property of the disposing affiliate.

Where the rule applies, the loss arising on the disposition of the affiliate share is reduced by the exempt dividends received on the share by the particular corporation resident in Canada, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation, another corporation related to the particular corporation or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada that is related to the particular corporation, to the extent that those exempt dividends have not already reduced a capital loss or an allowable capital loss under subsections 93(2) to 93(2.3) arising on other dispositions of property. The term "exempt dividend" is defined in subsection 93(3) of the Act and is modified consequential on the introduction of section 93.1 of the Act.

Related Provisions: 40(3) — Deemed gain where amounts to be deducted from ACB exceed cost plus amounts to be added to adjusted cost base; 40(3.3), (3.4) — Limitation on loss where share acquired by affiliated person; 87(2)(u)(ii) — Amalgamation; 93(3) — Exempt dividends; 93(4) — Loss on disposition of shares of foreign affiliate; 93.1(2) — Dividend on shares of foreign affiliate held by partnership; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: That portion of subsec. 93(2) following para. (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 69(2), applicable to the determination of losses arising in 1985 et seq., except that, in its application to such losses from dispositions occurring before July 13, 1990, para. (d) shall be read as follows:

(d) the total of all amounts in respect of exempt dividends received by the disposing corporation on the share at any time before the disposition.

That portion of subsec. 93(2) formerly read:

the amount of any capital loss of the disposing corporation from the disposition of the share shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of the capital loss therefrom otherwise determined exceeds the total of all amounts in respect of exempt dividends received by the disposing corporation on the share at any time before the disposition.

Proposed Addition — 93(2.1)–(2.3)

(2.1) Loss limitation — disposition of share by partnership — Where

(a) a corporation resident in Canada has an allowable capital loss from a disposition at any time by a partnership of a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "affiliate share"), or

(b) a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada has an allowable capital loss from a disposition at any time by a partnership of a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada that would not be excluded property of the affiliate if the affiliate owned the share immediately before it was disposed of (in this subsection referred to as the "affiliate share"), the amount of the allowable capital loss is deemed to be the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of the allowable capital loss determined without reference to this subsection,

B is 3/4 of the total of all amounts each of which was received before that time, in respect of an exempt dividend on the affiliate share or on a share for which the affiliate share was substituted, by

(a) the corporation resident in Canada,

(b) a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada,

(c) a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada, or

(d) a foreign affiliate of a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada, and

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section,) of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from a disposition at or before that time by a partnership of the affiliate share or a share for which the affiliate share was substituted, was reduced under this subsection in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is 3/4 of the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from another disposition at or before that time of the affiliate share or a share for which the affiliate share was substituted, was reduced under subsection (2) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is 3/4 of the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), from a disposition at or before that time by a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B of an interest in a partnership, was reduced under subsection (2.2) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B, and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from a disposition at or before that time by a partnership of an interest in another partnership, was reduced under subsection (2.3) in respect of exempt dividends referred to in the description of B.

Technical Notes: New subsection 93(2.1) of the Act applies where a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of such a corporation has an allowable capital loss from a partnership arising on the disposition by the partnership of a share of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada. Where the foreign affiliate has the allowable capital loss, the rule does not apply where that affiliate share would be excluded property of the disposing affiliate if the affiliate owned the share.

Where the rule applies, the allowable capital loss from the partnership arising on the disposition of the affiliate share is reduced by 3/4 of the exempt dividends received on the share by the particular corporation resident in Canada, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation, another corporation related to the particular corporation or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada that is related to the particular corporation, to the extent that those exempt dividends have not already reduced a capital loss or an allowable capital loss under subsections 93(2) to 93(2.3) arising on other dispositions of property. The term "exempt dividend" is defined in subsection 93(3) of the Act and is modified consequential on the introduction of section 93.1 of the Act.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(u)(ii) — Amalgamation; 93(3) — Exempt dividends; 93.1(2) — Dividend on shares of foreign affiliate held by partnership; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(2.2) Loss limitation — disposition of partnership interest — Where

(a) a corporation resident in Canada has a loss from the disposition by it at any time of an interest in a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "partnership interest"), which has a direct or indirect interest in shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as "affiliate shares"), or the amount of the loss is deemed to be the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of the loss determined without reference to this subsection,

B is the total of all amounts each of which was received before that time, in respect of an exempt dividend on affiliate shares or on shares for which affiliate shares were substituted, by

(a) the corporation resident in Canada,

(b) a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada,

(c) a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada, or

(d) a foreign affiliate of a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada, and

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), from another disposition at or before that time by a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B of affiliate shares or shares for which affiliate shares were substituted, was reduced under subsection (2) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is 4/3 of the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from another disposition at or before that time by a partnership of affiliate shares or shares for which affiliate shares were substituted, was reduced under subsection (2.1) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), from a disposition at or before that time by a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B of an interest in a partnership, was reduced under this subsection in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B, and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is 4/3 of the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from a disposition at or before that time by a partnership of an interest in another partnership, was reduced under subsection (2.3) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B.

Technical Notes: New subsection 93(2.2) of the Act applies where a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of such a corporation has a loss on the disposition of an interest in a partnership that has a direct or indirect interest in shares of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada. Where the foreign affiliate has the loss, the rule does not apply where those affiliate shares in which the partnership has an interest would be excluded property of the affiliate with the loss if the affiliate owned them immediately before the disposition.

Where the rule applies, the loss arising on the disposition of the partnership interest is reduced by the exempt dividends received before the disposition on the affiliate shares (in which the partnership has the interest) by the particular corporation resident in Canada, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation, another corporation related to the particular corporation or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada that is related to the particular corporation, to the extent that those exempt dividends have not already reduced a capital loss or an allowable capital loss under subsections 93(2) to 93(2.3) arising on other dispositions of property. The term exempt dividend is defined in subsection 93(3) of the Act and is modified consequential on the introduction of section 93.1 of the Act.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(u)(ii) — Amalgamation; 93(3) — Exempt dividends; 93.1(2) — Dividend on shares of foreign affiliate held by partnership; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(2.3) Loss limitation — disposition of partnership interest — Where

(a) corporation resident in Canada has an allowable capital loss from a partnership from a disposition at any time of an interest in another partnership that has a direct or indirect interest in shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as "affiliate shares"), or

(b) a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada has an allowable capital loss from a partnership from a disposition at any time by a partnership of an interest in another partnership which has a direct or indirect interest in shares of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada that would not be excluded property of the affiliate if the affiliate owned the shares immediately before the disposition (in this subsection referred to as "affiliate shares"), the amount of the allowable capital loss is deemed to be the amount determined by the formula

$$A - (B - C)$$

where

A is the amount of the allowable capital loss determined without reference to this subsection,

B is 3/4 of the total of all amounts each of which was received before that time, in respect of an exempt dividend on affiliate shares or on shares for which affiliate shares were substituted, by

(a) the corporation resident in Canada,

(b) a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada,

(c) a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada, or

(d) a foreign affiliate of a corporation related to the corporation resident in Canada, and

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is 3/4 of the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from another disposition at or before that time of affiliate shares or shares for which affiliate shares were substituted, was reduced under subsection (2) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from a disposition at or before that time by a partnership of affiliate shares or shares for which affiliate shares were substituted, was reduced under subsection (2.1) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B,

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is 3/4 of the amount by which a loss (determined without reference to this section), from a disposition at or before that time by a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B of an interest in a partnership, was reduced under subsection (2.2) in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B, and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which an allowable capital loss (determined without reference to this section), of a corporation or foreign affiliate described in the description of B from a disposition at or before that time by a partnership of an interest in another partnership, was reduced under this subsection in respect of the exempt dividends referred to in the description of B.

Technical Notes: New subsection 93(2.3) of the Act applies where a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of such a corporation has an allowable capital loss from a partnership arising on the disposition of an interest in a partnership where that partnership (the interest in which is disposed of) has a direct or indirect interest in shares of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada. Where the foreign affiliate has the allowable capital loss, the rule does not apply where the affiliate shares in which the partnership (the interest in which was disposed of) has the interest would be excluded property of the affiliate (with the allowable capital loss) if the affiliate had owned the shares.

Where the rule applies, the allowable capital loss from the partnership arising on the disposition of an interest in another partnership which has a direct or indirect interest in the affiliate shares is reduced by 3/4 of the exempt dividends received on the affiliate shares before the time of the disposition by the particular corporation resident in Canada, a foreign affiliate of the particular corporation, another corporation related to the particular corporation or a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada that is related to the particular corporation, to the extent that those exempt dividends have not already reduced a capital loss or an allowable capital loss under subsections 93(2) to 93(2.3) arising on other dispositions of property. The term exempt dividend is defined in subsection 93(3) of the Act and is modified consequential on the introduction of section 93.1 of the Act.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(u)(ii) — Amalgamation; 93(3) — Exempt dividends; 93.1(2) — Dividend on shares of foreign affiliate held by partnership; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 43(3), will add subsecs. 93(2.1) to (2.3), applicable to dispositions that occur after November 1999.

Proposed Amendment — 93(2.1)–(2.3)

Notice of Ways and Means Motion, federal budget, February 28, 2000: (9) That for the 2000 and subsequent taxation years,

. . . . .

(e) the rules for determining the capital gains deduction under section 110.6 of the Act and any other rules of determination under the Act take into account, where appropriate, the change in determination of a taxpayer's taxable capital gain and allowable capital loss from a disposition of a property.

[This is expected to affect 93(2.1)B and C and 93(2.3)B and C — ed.]

(3) Exempt dividends — For the purposes of subsection (2),

(a) a dividend received by a corporation resident in Canada is an exempt dividend to the extent of the amount in respect of the dividend that is deductible from the income of the corporation in computing its taxable income by virtue of paragraph 113(1)(a), (b) or (c); and

(b) a dividend received by a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada from another foreign affiliate of that corporation is an exempt dividend to the extent of the amount, if any, by which the portion of the dividend that was not prescribed to have been paid out of the pre-acquisition surplus of that other affiliate exceeds such portion of any income or profits tax paid by the first-mentioned affiliate as may reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of that portion of the dividend.

(3) Exempt dividends — For the purposes of subsections (2) to (2.3),

(a) a dividend received by a corporation resident in Canada is an exempt dividend to the extent of the amount in respect of the dividend that is deductible from the income of the corporation for the purpose of computing the taxable income of the corporation because of paragraph 113(1)(a), (b) or (c); and

(b) a dividend received by a particular foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada from another foreign affiliate of the corporation is an exempt dividend to the extent of the amount, if any, by which the portion of the dividend that was not prescribed to have been paid out of the pre-acquisition surplus of the other affiliate exceeds the total of such portion of the income or profits tax that can reasonably be considered to have been paid in respect of that portion of the dividend by the particular affiliate or by a partnership in which the particular affiliate had, at the time of the payment of the income or profits tax, a partnership interest, either directly or indirectly.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 43(4), will amend subsec. 93(3) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur after November 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 93(3) of the Act defines the term "exempt dividend" for the purpose of subsection 93(2) of the Act. A dividend received by a Canadian corporation is an exempt dividend to the extent it is deductible under paragraphs 113(1)(a), (b) or (c) of the Act. A dividend received by a foreign affiliate of a Canadian corporation is an exempt dividend to the extent that the portion of the dividend that was not paid out of pre-acquisition surplus exceeds the income or profits tax paid by the affiliate.

Subsection 93(3) is amended to also apply for the purposes of new subsections 93(2.1) to (2.3) of the Act. In addition, the subsection is amended to apply in respect of shares of foreign affiliates that are owed by partnerships. For information on the treatment of foreign affiliate shares owned by partnerships, see the commentary on new section 93.1.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 93(3)(a) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 58(2), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Regulations: 5900(1)(c) (amount prescribed to have been paid out of pre-acquisition surplus).

(4) Loss on disposition of shares of foreign affiliate — Where a taxpayer resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "vendor") has acquired shares of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "acquired affiliate") on the disposition of shares of any other foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (other than a disposition to which subsection 40(3.4) applies),

(a) the capital loss therefrom otherwise determined shall be deemed to be nil; and

(b) in computing the adjusted cost base to the vendor of all shares of any particular class of the capital stock of the acquired affiliate owned by the vendor immediately after the disposition, there shall be added an amount determined by the formula

$$(A - B) \times \frac{C}{D}$$

where

A is the cost amount to the vendor immediately before the disposition of the shares disposed of,

B is the total of

(i) the proceeds of disposition of the shares disposed of, and

(ii) the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph (2)(d) in computing losses of the vendor from the dispositions of the shares disposed of,

C is the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of that particular class owned by it at that time, and

D is the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of the capital stock of the acquired affiliate owned by it at that time.

Related Provisions: 93(2) — Loss limitation on disposition of share; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The opening words of subsec. 93(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 120, applicable, subject to s. 247 of 1998, c. 19 (grandfathering rule reproduced after s. 260), to dispositions of property that occur after April 26, 1995. The opening words formerly read:

(4) Where a taxpayer resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "vendor") has acquired shares of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "acquired affiliate") on the disposition of shares of any other foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (other than a disposition to which subsection 85(4) applies), the following rules apply:

Para. 93(4)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 69(3), applicable to dispositions of shares occurring after July 13, 1990. Para. 93(4)(b) formerly read:

(b) in computing the adjusted cost base to the vendor of all shares of any particular class of the capital stock of the acquired affiliate owned by it immediately after the disposition there shall be added the amount that is equal to that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the cost amount to it immediately before the disposition of the shares disposed of

exceeds

(ii) the proceeds of the disposition

that

(iii) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of that class owned by it at that time,

is of

(iv) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of the capital stock of the acquired affiliate owned by it at that time.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 93(4) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 58(3), applicable to 1972 et seq.

(5) Late filed elections — Where the election referred to in subsection (1) was not made on or before the day on or before which the election was required by that subsection to be made, the election shall be deemed to have been made on that day if, on or before the day that is 3 years after that day,

(a) the election is made in prescribed manner; and

(b) an estimate of the penalty in respect of that election is paid by the corporation when that election is made.

Pre-RSC History: That part of subsec. 93(5) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 29(1), to substitute "3" for "2", applicable after February 15, 1984.

Subsec. 93(5) added by 1979, c. 5, s. 31.

Regulations: 5902 (prescribed manner).

Forms: T2107: Election for a disposition of shares in a foreign affiliate.

(5.1) Special cases — Where, in the opinion of the Minister, the circumstances of a case are such that it would be just and equitable

(a) to permit an election under subsection (1) to be made after the day that is 3 years after the day on or before which the election was required by that subsection to be made, or

(b) to permit an election made under subsection (1) to be amended,

the election or amended election shall be deemed to have been made on the day on or before which the election was so required to be made if

(c) the election or amended election is made in prescribed form, and

(d) an estimate of the penalty in respect of the election or amended election is paid by the corporation when the election or amended election is made,

and where this subsection applies to the amendment of an election, that election shall be deemed not to have been effective.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 93(5.1) added by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 29(2), applicable after February 15, 1984.

Forms: T2107: Election for a disposition of shares in a foreign affiliate.

(6) Penalty for late filed election — For the purposes of this section, the penalty in respect of an election or amended election referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or (5.1)(c) is an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) ¼ of 1% of the amount designated in the election or amended election for each month or part of a month during the period commencing with the day on or before which the election is required by subsection (1) to be made and ending on the day the election is made, and

(b) an amount, not exceeding $8,000, equal to the product obtained by multiplying $100 by the number of months each of which is a month all or part of which is during the period referred to in paragraph (a).

Related Provisions: 93(7) — Assessment of penalty; 220(3.1) — Waiver of penalty by CCRA.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 93(6) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 29(2), to add reference to para. (5.1)(c), to add "or amended election" and to substitute para. (b) in its entirety, applicable after February 15, 1984. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) $2,500.

Subsec. 93(6) added by 1979, c. 5, s. 31.

(7) Unpaid balance of penalty — The Minister shall, with all due dispatch, examine each election and amended election referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or (5.1)(c), assess the penalty payable and send a notice of assessment to the corporation, and the corporation shall pay forthwith to the Receiver General the amount, if any, by which the penalty so assessed exceeds the total of all amounts previously paid on account of that penalty.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 93(7) substituted by 1984, c. 45, subsec. 29(2), to add reference to para. (5.1)(c) and to add "and amended election", applicable after February 15, 1984.

"Receiver General" substituted for "Receiver General of Canada" by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, s. 115.

Subsec. 93(7) added by 1979, c. 5, s. 31.

Proposed Addition — 93.1

93.1 (1) Shares held by a partnership — For the purpose of determining whether a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada for the purposes of subsections (2) and 20(12), sections 93 and 113 (and any regulations made for the purposes of those sections), section 95 (to the extent that that section is applied for the purposes of those provisions) and section 126, where at any time shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation are owned by a partnership or are deemed under this subsection to be owned by a partnership, each member of the partnership is deemed to own at that time that number of those shares that is equal to the proportion of all those shares that

(a) the fair market value of the member's interest in the partnership at that time

is of

(b) the fair market value of all members' interests in the partnership at that time.

Technical Notes: New subsection 93.1(1) of the Act applies for the purpose of determining whether a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada for the purposes of new subsection 93.1(2), subsection 20(12), sections 93 and 113 and any regulations made for the purposes of those sections and the rules in section 95 that are required to be applied to a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada in applying sections 93 and 113 of the Act and section 126.

For this purpose, new subsection 93.1(1) deems a member of a partnership to own its proportionate number of shares of a corporation held by a partnership. The number of shares owned by a member at any particular time is equal to the proportion of the total number of shares owned by the partnership that the fair market value of the member's interest in the partnership at that time is of the fair market value of all members' interests in the partnership at that time.

Subsection 93.1(1) applies at any time after November 30, 1999 in determining whether a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and, where the taxpayer elects in writing and files the election with Minister before 2002, the subsection also applies after 1972 and before December 1999 in determining whether a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer (other than for the purposes of subsection 20(12) and section 126 of the Act).

Regulations: 5905(14) (where number of shares deemed owned increases or decreases).

(2) Where dividends received by a partnership — Where at any time shares of a class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as "affiliate shares") are owned by a partnership and at that time the affiliate pays a dividend on affiliate shares to the partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "partnership dividend"),

(a) for the purposes of sections 93 and 113 and any regulations made for the purposes of those sections, each member of the partnership is deemed to have received the proportion of the partnership dividend that

(i) the fair market value of the member's interest in the partnership at that time

is of

(ii) the fair market value of all members' interests' in the partnership at that time;

(b) for the purposes of sections 93 and 113 and any regulations made for the purposes of those sections, the proportion of the partnership dividend deemed by paragraph (a) to have been received by a member of the partnership at that time is deemed to have been received by the member in equal proportions on each affiliate share that is property of the partnership at that time;

(c) for the purpose of applying section 113, in respect of the dividend referred to in paragraph (a), each affiliate share referred to in paragraph (b) is deemed to be owned by each member of the partnership; and

(d) notwithstanding paragraphs (a) to (c),

(i) where the corporation resident in Canada is a member of the partnership, the amount deductible by it under section 113 in respect of the dividend referred to in paragraph (a) shall not exceed the portion of the amount of the dividend included in its income pursuant to subsection 96(1), and

(ii) where another foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada is a member of the partnership, the amount included in that other affiliate's income in respect of the dividend referred to in paragraph (a) shall not exceed the amount that would be included in its income pursuant to subsection 96(1) in respect of the partnership dividend received by the partnership if the value for H in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) were nil and this Act were read without reference to this subsection.

Technical Notes: New subsection 93.1(2) of the Act applies where a partnership receives a dividend from a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada.

Paragraph 93.1(2)(a) provides that, for the purposes of sections 93 and 113 of the Act and any regulations made for the purposes of those sections, a member of a partnership is treated as having received its proportionate share of a dividend received by the partnership from a foreign affiliate of the member. That proportionate share is determined as that proportion of the partnership dividend that the fair market value of the member's interest in the partnership is of the fair market value of all members' interests in the partnership.

Paragraph 93.1(2)(b) provides that, for the purposes of sections 93 and 113 and any regulations made for the purposes of those sections, a dividend that is treated as having been received by a member of a partnership under paragraph 93.1(2)(a) is treated as having been received in equal proportions on each affiliate share held by the partnership at that time.

Paragraph 93.1(2)(c) provides that, for the purpose of section 113, each affiliate share referred to in paragraph 93.1(2)(b) is treated as having been owned by each member of the partnership.

Subparagraph 93.1(2)(d)(i) provides that, notwithstanding paragraphs 93.1(2)(a), (b) and (c), where a member of the partnership is a corporation resident in Canada, the maximum amount that the member may deduct under section 113 is restricted to the amount of the dividend received by the partnership that is included in its income under subsection 96(1) of the Act.

Subparagraph 93.1(2)(d)(ii) provides that, notwithstanding paragraphs 93.1(2)(a), (b) and (c), where the member is another foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada, the amount included in the other affiliate's income in respect of the dividend referred to in paragraph 93.1(2)(a) shall not exceed the amount that would have been included in the other affiliate's income under subsection 96(1) if the value of H in the formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) were nil and the Act were read without reference to subsection 93.1(2). In effect, the maximum amount that an affiliate can deduct in computing its foreign accrual property income in respect of the dividend referred to in paragraph 93.1(2)(a) is restricted to the amount of the dividend included in the affiliate's foreign accrual property income under subsection 96(1).

New subsection 93.1(2) applies to dividends received after November 30, 1999.

Related Provisions: 92(4)–(6) — Dividend from pre-acquisition surplus; 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"H — Exclusion from FAPI.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 44, will add s. 93.1, subsec. 93.1(1) applicable in determining whether a non-resident corporation is, at any time after November 1999, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and, where a taxpayer so elects and notifies the Minister of National Revenue in writing before 2002 of its election, that subsection also applies in determining (other than for the purposes of subsec. 20(12) and s. 126) whether a non-resident corporation is, at any time after 1972 and before December 1999, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer; subsec. 93.1(2) applicable in respect of dividends received after November 1999.

94. (1) Application of certain provisions to trusts not resident in Canada — Where,

(a) at any time in a taxation year of a trust that is not resident in Canada or that, but for paragraph (c), would not be so resident, a person beneficially interested in the trust (in this section referred to as a "beneficiary") was

(i) a person resident in Canada,

(ii) a corporation or trust with which a person resident in Canada was not dealing at arm's length, or

(iii) a controlled foreign affiliate of a person resident in Canada, and

(b) at any time in or before the taxation year of the trust,

(i) the trust, or a non-resident corporation that would, if the trust were resident in Canada, be a controlled foreign affiliate of the trust, has, other than in prescribed circumstances, acquired property, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, from

(A) a particular person who

(I) was the beneficiary referred to in paragraph (a), was related to that beneficiary or was the uncle, aunt, nephew or niece of that beneficiary,

(II) was resident in Canada at any time in the 18 month period before the end of that year or, in the case of a person who has ceased to exist, was resident in Canada at any time in the 18 month period before the person ceased to exist, and

(III) in the case of an individual, had before the end of that year been resident in Canada for a period of, or periods the total of which is, more than 60 months, or

(B) a trust or corporation that acquired the property, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, from a particular person described in clause (A) with whom it was not dealing at arm's length and the trust was not

(C) an inter vivos trust created at any time before 1960 by a person who at that time was a non-resident person,

(D) a testamentary trust that arose as a consequence of the death of an individual before 1976, or

(E) governed by a foreign retirement arrangement, or

(ii) all or any part of the interest of the beneficiary in the trust was acquired directly or indirectly by the beneficiary by way of

(A) purchase,

(B) gift, bequest or inheritance from a person referred to in clause (i)(A) or (B), or

(C) the exercise of a power of appointment by a person referred to in clause (i)(A) or (B), the following rules apply for that taxation year of the trust:

(c) where the amount of the income or capital of the trust to be distributed at any time to any beneficiary of the trust depends on the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, any discretionary power,

(i) the trust is deemed for the purposes of this Part and sections 233.3 and 233.4 to be a person resident in Canada no part of whose taxable income is exempt because of section 149 from Part I tax and whose taxable income for the taxation year is the total of

(A) the amount, if any, that would but for this subparagraph be its taxable income earned in Canada for that year,

(B) the amount that would, if it were a trust to which paragraph (d) applies, be its foreign accrual property income for that year, and

(C) the amount, if any, by which the amount required by section 91 to be included in computing its income for the year exceeds the amount deducted for that year by virtue of subsections 91(2), (4) and (5), and

(ii) for the purposes of section 126,

(A) the amounts referred to in clauses (i)(B) and (C) shall be deemed to be income of the trust from sources in the country other than Canada in which the trust would, but for subparagraph (i), be resident, and

(B) such part of any income or profits tax paid by the trust for the year (other than any tax paid by virtue of this section) that may reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of that income shall be deemed to be the non-business-income tax paid by the trust to the government of that country, and

Proposed Amendment — 94(1)(c)(i), (ii)

(i) the trust is deemed for the purposes of this Part and sections 233.3 and 233.4 to be a person resident in Canada no part of whose taxable income is exempt because of section 149 from tax under this Part and whose taxable income for the year is the amount, if any, by which the total of

(A) the amount, if any, that would but for this subparagraph be its taxable income earned in Canada for the year,

(B) the amount that would be its foreign accrual property income for the year if

(I) except for the purpose of applying subsections 104(4) to (5.2) to days after 1998 that are determined under subsection 104(4), the trust were a non-resident corporation all the shares of which were owned by a person who was resident in Canada,

(B) any income or profits tax paid by the trust for the year (other than any tax paid because of this section), to the extent that it can reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of that income, is deemed to be non-business income tax paid by the trust to the government of that country, and

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 45, will amend subparas. 94(1)(c)(i) and (ii) to read as above, applicable to 1999 et seq.

Technical Notes: Where certain conditions are met, a non-resident discretionary trust to which existing section 94 of the Act applies is generally treated as a trust resident in Canada for the purposes of Part I and sections 233.3 and 233.4 of the Act. Under existing subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i), the taxable income of such a trust is the total of its taxable income earned in Canada (computed on the assumption that the trust is non-resident) and two additional amounts. The first additional amount for a taxation year is described in clause 94(1)(c)(i)(B) as the amount that would be the trust's foreign accrual property income for the year if paragraph 94(1)(d) applied. Under clause 94(1)(c)(i)(C), the second additional amount for a taxation year is the net amount included under section 91 in computing the trust's income for the year.

Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(B) is amended so that the amount determined under that clause in respect of a trust for a taxation year is generally the trust's foreign accrual property income for the year, determined on the assumptions that the trust is a non-resident corporation and that all of the shares of the capital stock of that corporation are owned by a person resident in Canada. Exceptions to this general rule are described below.

Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(B) is also amended to clarify that the 21-year deemed disposition rule for trusts applies for the purpose of computing the amount determined under clause 94(1)(c)(i)(B), notwithstanding the fact that the rule applies to trusts and not to corporations. This clarification applies to disposition dates determined after 1998.

Subclauses 94(1)(c)(i)(B)(II) and (III) are introduced so that, after 1998, dividends from foreign affiliates, and taxable capital gains and allowable losses that relate to "excluded property" (as defined in subsection 95(1)), are included in the trust's foreign accrual property income determined under clause 94(1)(c)(i)(B). Because trust income can be distributed as trust capital, it is appropriate to remove the exclusions from foreign accrual property income for dividends and capital gains from excluded property.

Subclause 94(1)(c)(i)(B)(IV) is introduced so that section 94.1 is no longer relevant for the purposes of determining the amount under clause 94(1)(c)(i)(B). Instead, new clause 94(1)(c)(i)(D) adds the amount determined under that section in respect of a trust in computing the trust's taxable income under subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i).

Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(C) is amended to clarify that the second additional amount added in computing a trust's taxable income under paragraph 94(1)(c) is determined by subtracting the amounts deducted in computing income under subsections 91(2), (4) and (5) from the amount added in computing income under subsections 91(1) and (3). This amendment applies to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years.

Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E) (in conjunction with a change to the opening words of subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i)) is introduced to provide for a deduction in computing the taxable income for a taxation year of a trust under subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i). This deduction is equal to the amount, if any, by which the total of the amounts deducted under subsections 91(2), (4) and (5) in computing the trust's income for the year exceeds the total amount included in computing the trust's income for the year because of subsections 91(1) and (3). Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E) will apply, for example, where an amount was included in computing a trust's taxable income because of clause 94(1)(c)(i)(C) and there is subsequently a distribution of dividends to which that amount relates. Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E) is meant to avoid the double taxation of the same income that might otherwise arise. The example below illustrates the operation of clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E).

EXAMPLE

Trust X is a non-resident trust to which paragraph 94(1)(c) applies. Trust X owns 100% of the shares in Foreignco. In year 1, Foreignco's only income is $20,000 of interest income on government bonds. In year 2, Foreignco pays a dividend of $7,000 to Trust X. In year 3, Foreignco pays a dividend of $15,000 to Trust X. Foreignco had no other relevant income in years 2 and 3.

Results:

1. The taxable income of Trust X for year 1 is calculated under subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i) as follows:

- ADD the amount that would be Trust X's "foreign accrual property income" if a number of assumptions were made. Trust X's own foreign accrual property income for year 1 is nil. [Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(B), in conjunction with definition of "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1)]
- ADD the net amount required by section 91 to be included in Trust X's income. This amount is $20,000. [Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(C), in conjunction with subsection 91(1)]

As a result, the taxable income of Trust X for year 1 is $20,000.

2. The taxable income of Trust X for year 2 is calculated as follows:

- ADD the amount that would be Trust X's "foreign accrual property income" if a number of assumptions were made. Because of subclause 94(1)(c)(i)(B)(II), dividends received by affiliates are included in computing Trust X's foreign accrual property income for this purpose. Consequently, Trust X's "foreign accrual property income" is $7,000.
- SUBTRACT the net amount deducted under section 91 in computing the trust's income. [Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E)] The deduction available is equal to the lesser of the amount of the dividend ($7,000) and the net adjusted cost base adjustments ($20,000) up to the time the $10,000 dividend is paid. [Subsection 91(5)] Consequently, the full $7,000 is deducted because of clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E).

As a result, the taxable income of Trust X for year 2 is nil.

3. The taxable income of Trust X for year 3 is calculated as follows:

- ADD the amount that would be Trust X's "foreign accrual property income" if a number of assumptions were made. Because of subclause 94(1)(c)(i)(B)(II), dividends received by affiliates are included in computing Trust X's foreign accrual property income for this purpose. Consequently, Trust X's "foreign accrual property income" is $15,000.
- SUBTRACT the net amount deducted under section 91 in computing the trust's income. [Clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E)] The deduction available is equal to the lesser of the amount of the dividend ($15,000) and the net adjusted cost base adjustments ($20,000-$7,000) up to the time the $15,000 dividend is paid. [Subsection 91(5)] Consequently, $13,000 is deducted because of clause 94(1)(c)(i)(E).

As a result, the taxable income of Trust X for year 2 is $2,000.

These amendments come into effect in the manner indicated in the commentary above and apply to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years. However, as announced in the 1999 budget, further amendments to this section are contemplated.

Subparagraph 94(1)(c)(ii) of the Act is relevant for the purpose of determining the foreign tax credit of a trust to which paragraph 94(1)(c) applies. For this purpose, the trust's income is generally deemed to be from sources in the country in which the trust would be resident if that paragraph did not apply. However, subparagraph 94(1)(c)(ii) does not apply in connection with taxable income calculated under clause 94(1)(c)(i)(A) (taxable income earned in Canada).

Subparagraph 94(1)(c)(ii) is amended strictly to reflect the amendments to subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i). Under amended subparagraph 94(1)(c)(ii), the portion of the taxable income sourced for the purposes of the foreign tax credit is equal to amount that would be the trust's taxable income calculated under subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i) if the trust's taxable income earned in Canada were not taken into account.

This amendment applies to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years. However, as announced in the 1999 budget, further amendments to section 94 are contemplated.

(d) in any other case, for the purposes of subsections 91(1) to (4) and sections 95 and 233.4,

(i) the trust shall, with respect to any beneficiary under the trust the fair market value of whose beneficial interest in the trust is not less than 10% of the aggregate fair market value of all beneficial interests in the trust, be deemed to be a non-resident corporation that is controlled by the beneficiary,

(ii) the trust shall be deemed to be a non-resident corporation having a capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares, and

(iii) each beneficiary under the trust shall be deemed to own at any time the number of the issued shares that is equal to the proportion of 100 that

(A) the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust

is of

(B) the fair market value at that time of all beneficial interests in the trust.

Proposed Amendment — 94

Technical Notes: OVERVIEW

Existing Rules

Section 94 of the Act sets out rules that tax the passive income earned by certain non-resident trusts. Section 94 generally applies if a person resident in Canada has transferred or loaned property to a non-resident trust that has one or more beneficiaries who are resident in Canada.

Section 94 uses two different methods to impose tax, depending on whether or not the trust is discretionary. A discretionary trust is a trust under which a person has a discretionary power to determine the amount of the income or capital of the trust that one or more beneficiaries will receive.

If the non-resident trust is discretionary, paragraph 94(1)(c) deems the trust to be resident in Canada for the purposes of Part I of the Act and deems its income for tax purposes to be the total of its Canadian source income and its foreign accrual property income, if any. Each beneficiary is jointly and severally liable to pay the Canadian tax of the trust. However, the liability can be enforced against a particular beneficiary only to the extent that the beneficiary has received a distribution from the trust or proceeds from the sale of an interest in the trust.

If the non-resident trust is not a discretionary trust, paragraph 94(1)(d) provides that it is to be treated in much the same manner that a non-resident corporation is treated. If a Canadian resident beneficiary holds an interest in the trust with a fair market value equal to 10% or more of the total fair market value of all interests in the trust, the trust is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of the beneficiary. Consequently, the foreign accrual property income rules apply to the trust and the beneficiary, requiring the beneficiary to include a portion of the foreign accrual property income of the trust in income. On the other hand, beneficiaries that do not have 10% or greater interests in the trust may be subject to tax under the offshore investment fund rules in section 94.1. If section 94.1 does not apply, such beneficiaries are taxed only if trust income becomes payable to them in the year that it arises.

New Rules

New section 94 takes a different approach to the taxation of non-resident trusts (NRTs) that bears some similarity to the grantor trust approach used by the United States, New Zealand and Australia. In general, if a Canadian resident contributes property to a non-resident trust, the contributor, the non-resident trust and certain Canadian resident beneficiaries of the trust may all become liable to pay Canadian tax on the world-wide income of the trust.

Except as indicated otherwise, the amendments to section 94 apply to taxation years of trusts that begin after 2000. The table below briefly summarizes section 94 and related rules.

Issue	Summary	References
1. Which trusts are subject to the new NRT rules?	A. In general, a trust (other than an exempt foreign trust) will be subject to tax for a taxation year as a trust resident in Canada if a contribution was made to the trust by a person who is resident in Canada at the end of the year (other than a recent immigrant to Canada).	S. 94(3) "exempt foreign trust" — s. 94(1) "contribution" — s. 94(1) and (2) "resident contributor" — s. 94(1) As to 60-month test for new immigrants, see definition "resident contributor" in s. 94(1).
	B. In addition, a trust (other than an exempt foreign trust) will generally be subject to Canadian tax for a taxation year if • the contribution was made by a person when the person was resident in Canada (or within a 60-month period before the person became resident in Canada or within a 60-month period after the person ceased to be resident in Canada), • by the end of the year that person had been resident in Canada for more than 60 months, and • at the end of the year there is a person resident in Canada who is beneficially interested in the trust. Issue	Summary	References
2. Who is responsible for the tax payable an NRT?	The trust is required to pay tax. If it fails to do so, each contributor referred to in 1(A) and/or each beneficiary referred to in 1(B) is jointly and severally liable with the trust for the tax. However, the amount recoverable from a person who is simply a beneficiary is limited to benefits received by the beneficiary from the trust. Relief is also available in some cases for a contributor whose contribution to the trust is insignificant relative to other contributions made to the trust.	Joint liability: paragraph 94(3)(d) Relief from joint liability: s. 94(7) 10% and $10,000 tests for significant contribution: paragraph 94(7)(b).
3. Where the NRT rules do apply for a taxation year to a trust, how will the trust's tax liabilities be calculated?	A. Canadian rules apply to the trust as if the trust were resident in Canada throughout the year for the purpose of computing the trust's income.	s. 94(3)
	B. Explicit rule treats the trust as becoming resident in Canada, with resulting adjustment to cost amount of property under section 128.1.	s. 94(3)(c)
	C. Parts XII.2 and XIII do not apply to the trust. Explicit exemption from Part XIII tax on amounts distributed to the trust, although payer must still withhold.	s. 94(3)(a)(iii) and (4)(d)
	D. Flow-through of income to resident and non-resident beneficiaries permitted, subject to special rules in the event that Canadian-source income is distributed to non-residents.	s. 104(7.01) — special rules

94. Treatment of Trusts with Canadian Contributors — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"accounting profit" of a trust for a taxation year of the trust means

(a) where the trust prepares financial statements in accordance with accounting principles substantially similar to generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada, the trust's profit for the year (determined before taking into account income or profits tax) reflected in the trust's financial statements; and

(b) in any other case, the amount that would be the trust's total profit for the year (determined before taking into account income or profits tax) from businesses carried on by the trust, properties owned by the trust, or any combination of those businesses and properties, if that amount were calculated in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(1) of the Act defines a number of expressions that apply for the purpose of section 94.

The "accounting profit" of a trust for a taxation year refers to the trust's profit for the year (determined before taking into account income or profits tax) reflected in its financial statements, on the assumption that the financial statements were prepared in accordance with accounting principles substantially similar to generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada. Where such financial statements have not been prepared, a trust's "accounting profit" for a taxation year is the amount that would be the trust's total profit (determined before taking into account income or profits tax) for the year, from businesses carried on by the trust and properties owned by the trust, if that amount were calculated in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada.

This definition is used only in paragraph (d) of the definition "exempt foreign trust", as described in the commentary below.

"arm's length transfer" at any time by a person or partnership (in this definition referred to as the "transferor") in respect of a trust means a particular transfer or loan of property at that time by the transferor to a particular person or partnership (in this definition referred to as the "recipient") where

(a) one of the following applies, namely,

(i) in exchange for the particular transfer or loan, the recipient transfers or loans property, or becomes obligated to transfer or loan property, and it is reasonable to conclude, having regard only to the particular transfer or loan and the property transferred or loaned, or obligated to be transferred or loaned, by the recipient to the transferor in exchange, that

(A) the exchange is one that the transferor would have been willing to carry out if the transferor had dealt at arm's length with the recipient, and

(B) the terms and conditions made or imposed in respect of the exchange would have been acceptable to the transferor if the transferor had dealt at arm's length with the recipient,

(ii) the particular transfer or loan is a payment of interest, a dividend, rent, a royalty or any similar return on investment, or any substitute for such a return on investment, in respect of a particular property owned by the recipient immediately before that time, if the fair market value at that time of the property so transferred does not exceed the fair market value of property that the transferor would have been willing to transfer at that time in respect of the particular property to the recipient if the transferor had dealt at arm's length with the recipient,

(iii) the particular transfer or loan

(A) is in satisfaction of an obligation that arose because of a transfer to which subparagraph (i) applied, and

(B) is one that the transferor would have been willing to carry out if the transferor had dealt at arm's length with the recipient,

(iv) the particular transfer or loan was made in the ordinary course of the business of the transferor, or

(v) it is reasonable to conclude that none of the reasons for the particular transfer or loan was to permit or facilitate, directly or indirectly, the conferral, in the future, of a benefit in respect of the trust on

(A) the transferor,

(B) a descendant of the transferor, or

(C) any person with whom the transferor or descendant does not deal at arm's length; and

(b) it is reasonable to conclude that the reasons for which the property was transferred or loaned to the recipient did not include the relationship between the transferor and

(i) any person or partnership that was

(A) beneficially interested in the trust,

(B) a trustee of the trust,

(C) a person having influence over the operation of the trust or the enforcement of its terms, or

(D) a person having influence over the selection or appointment of any person or partnership referred to in any of clauses (A) to (C) or this clause, or

(ii) any group at least one of the members of which is described in subparagraph (i).

Technical Notes: An "arm's length transfer" does not result in any person or partnership being considered to be a "contributor" to a trust. Accordingly, subsection 94(3) does not apply to a non-resident trust as a consequence only of an arm's length transfer.

An "arm's length transfer" is, in general terms:

- a transfer or loan that is part of an arm's length exchange [Subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition.],
- an arm's length return on an investment, conferred by the entity in which the investment is made [Subparagraph (a)(ii) of the definition.],
- a repayment of an arm's length loan [Subparagraph (a)(iii) of the definition.],
- a transfer or loan made in the ordinary course of business [Subparagraph (a)(iv) of the definition.], or
- a transfer or loan that was not undertaken to allow for the conferral, in the future, of a benefit on the transferor, on a descendant of the transferor or on any person with whom the transferor or descendant does not deal at arm's length [Subparagraph (a)(v) of the definition.].

However, a transfer or loan qualifies as an "arm's length transfer" in respect of a trust only where it is reasonable to conclude that none of reasons for the transfer or loan included the relationship between the maker of the transfer or loan and any person or partnership that was

- beneficially interested in the trust,
- a trustee of the trust,
- a person having influence over the operation of the trust or the enforcement of its terms, or
- a person having influence over the selection or appointment of other persons so described.

It should be noted that, under amended subsection 233.2(4) and new subsection 233.2(4.1), an "arm's length transfer" covered by subparagraph (a)(v) of the definition cannot be used as a basis for an exemption from the reporting requirements under those subsections. Reporting requirements under those subsections are structured in this way so that claims for relief on the basis of paragraph (a)(v) of the definition "arm's length transfer" can be carefully scrutinized by the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA).

Reference should also be made to new subsection 94(2), which provides various rules that have the effect of broadening the meaning of a "transfer" of property.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 94(2) — Deemed transfers in various situations; 94(3) — No application to non-resident trust on arm's length transfer.

"connected contributor" to a trust at any time means a person (including any person who has ceased to exist) who is a contributor to the trust at that time, other than

(a) an individual (other than a trust) who was, at or before that time, resident in Canada for a period of, or periods the total of which is, not more than 60 months, and

(b) a person who would not be a contributor to the trust at that time if

(i) the transfers and loans referred to in paragraph (a) of the definition "contribution" made by the person at a non-resident time of the person were not taken into account,

(ii) the particular transfers and loans referred to in paragraph (b) of that definition made by the person at a non-resident time of the person were not taken into account, and

(iii) each obligation referred to in paragraph (c) of that definition arising at a non-resident time of the person were not taken into account, and, for the purpose of this definition, a "non-resident time" of a person means a particular time at which the person is non-resident, where the person was non-resident or not in existence throughout the period that began 60 months before the particular time (or, where the particular time is before June 23, 2000 or the trust arose on and as a consequence of the death of the person, 18 months before the particular time) and ends 60 months after the particular time.

Technical Notes: Where a person is a "connected contributor" to a trust, it can result in another person being a "resident beneficiary" under a non-resident trust. A "resident beneficiary" under a non-resident trust can, to an extent, be liable for the trust's income tax, as set out in greater detail on the commentary on subsections 94(3) and (7).

A "connected contributor" at any time is any person, living or deceased, who is a "contributor" to the trust (as defined in new subsection 94(1)) at that time, provided that the person:

- is not, or at the time of death was not, a recent immigrant to Canada (i.e., an individual who was resident in Canada for a period of, or periods the total of which is, not more than 60 months), or
- is not a person who is a "contributor" only because of one or more transactions that occurred at a "non-resident time" of the contributor.

For these purposes, a "non-resident time" is defined within the definition "connected contributor" as being a particular time at which a contributor is non-resident, provided that the contributor is also non-resident (or not in existence) throughout the period that began 60 months before the particular time and ends 60 months after the particular time. However, if the particular time occurs before June 23, 2000 or the trust arose on and as a consequence of the death of the person, the period begins 18 months (rather than 60 months) before the particular time, consistent with existing subclause 94(1)(b)(i)(A)(II).

"contribution" at any time to a trust by a particular person or partnership means

(a) a transfer or loan at that time of property to the trust by the particular person or partnership (other than an arm's length transfer);

(b) where a particular transfer or loan of property is made by the particular person or partnership (other than an arm's length transfer by the particular person or partnership in respect of the trust) as part of a series of transactions or events that includes another transfer or loan of a property that is made at that time to the trust by another person or partnership, that other transfer or loan to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to have been enabled by the particular transfer or loan; and

(c) where the particular person or partnership becomes obligated to make a particular transfer or loan (other than an arm's length transfer by the particular person or partnership in respect of the trust) as part of a series of transactions or events that includes a transfer or loan of a property that is made at that time by another person or partnership, that transfer or loan to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to have been enabled by that obligation.

Technical Notes: Where a "contribution" is made to a non-resident trust by a person, that person is a "contributor" who, in certain cases, can be jointly and severally liable under subsection 94(3) for the trust's income taxes.

A transferor is considered to make a "contribution" to a trust where a property is transferred or loaned to the trust and any one of three alternative sets of conditions is satisfied. The three sets of conditions are described below.

First, a transfer or loan of a particular property at any time to a trust is considered to be a contribution at that time by a person or partnership to a trust where:

- the particular property is, at that time, transferred, or loaned, directly to the trust by the person or partnership; and
- the transfer or loan is not an "arm's length transfer" (as described in the commentary above).

The second and third alternate sets of conditions deal with cases where a particular person or partnership can be viewed as indirectly contributing property to a trust because of a loan or transfer of property (or an obligation to transfer or loan property) to another person or partnership (other than the trust). In such circumstances, property contributed at a particular time in the same series of transactions and events by another person or partnership to a trust will be treated as having been contributed at the particular time by the particular person or partnership to the trust.

More specifically, the second alternate set of conditions deals with the case where a particular transfer or loan of a property (other than an arm's length transfer) is made by a particular person or partnership as part of a series of transactions or events that includes another transfer or loan of any property, to the particular trust, by another person or partnership. The other transfer or loan is a considered to be a "contribution" to the particular trust by the particular person or partnership to the extent that the other transfer or loan can reasonably be considered to have been enabled by the particular transfer or loan. The contribution is considered to be made at the time of the other transfer or loan.

The third alternate set of conditions deals with the case where a particular person or partnership becomes obligated to make a particular transfer or loan of a property (other than in an arm's length transfer) as part of a series of transactions or events that includes another transfer or loan of any property, to the particular trust, by another person or partnership. The other transfer or loan is considered to be a "contribution" by the particular person or partnership to the particular trust to the extent that the other transfer or loan can reasonably be considered to have been enabled by the particular person's obligation to make the particular loan or transfer. The contribution is considered to be made at the time of the other transfer or loan.

Under new subsection 94(2), there are a number of rules that have the effect of applying the definition "contribution" more broadly than would otherwise be the case. For example, the rendering of services is generally treated as a transfer of property. An obligation to render services is likewise treated as an obligation to transfer property. For more details, see the commentary on subsection 94(2).

As noted earlier, this definition applies to taxation years of trusts that begin after 2000, whether or not a relevant transfer or loan occurred before that time. However, in order to provide for transition between the existing and new rules, a contribution does not include:

- a payment to a trust before 2002 in satisfaction of any amount payable to the trust, or
- the repayment made before 2005, in accordance with terms of repayment established before June 23, 2000, to a trust of a loan made by the trust. (This exception is consistent with existing section 5909 of the Income Tax Regulations.)

"contributor" to a trust at any time means a person or partnership that, at or before that time, has made a contribution to the trust.

Technical Notes: A "contributor" to a trust is any person or partnership that has made a "contribution" to the trust. See, in this regard, the commentary on the definition "contribution". The definition "contributor" is significant primarily for the purposes of the definitions "resident contributor" and "connected contributor".

Reference should also be made in this context to new paragraphs 94(2)(k) to (o), under which "look-through" rules are provided to deal with cases where trusts, partnerships or corporations are contributors.

Related Provisions: 75(3)(c.2) — Reversionary trust rules do not apply to non-resident trust even with Canadian resident contributor; 233.2(4) — Annual information return by contributor to non-resident trust.

"exempt foreign trust" at a particular time means

(a) a non-resident trust, where

(i) each beneficiary of the trust at the particular time is

(A) an individual who, at the time that the trust was created, was, because mental or physical infirmity, dependent on an individual who is a contributor to the trust or on an individual related to such a contributor (which beneficiary is in this paragraph referred to as an "infirm beneficiary"), or

(B) a person who is entitled, only after the particular time, to receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the trust's income or capital,

(ii) at least one infirm beneficiary suffers at the particular time from a mental or physical infirmity that causes the beneficiary to be dependent on any person,

(iii) each infirm beneficiary is non-resident at any time in the trust's taxation year that includes the particular time (in this definition referred to as the trust's "current year"), and

(iv) each contribution to the trust made at or before the particular time can reasonably be considered to have been, at the time that the contribution was made, made to provide for the maintenance of an infirm beneficiary during the expected period of the beneficiary's infirmity;

(b) a non-resident trust, where

(i) the trust was created after the breakdown of a marriage or common-law partnership of two individuals to provide for the maintenance of a beneficiary under the trust who is a child of one of those individuals (which beneficiary is in this paragraph referred to as a "child beneficiary"),

(ii) each beneficiary of the trust at the particular time is

(A) a child beneficiary under 21 years of age at the particular time,

(B) a child beneficiary under 31 years of age at the particular time who is enroled at any time in the trust's current year at an educational institution that is described in clause (v)(A) or (B), or

(C) a person who is entitled, only after the particular time, to receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the trust's income or capital,

(iii) each child beneficiary is non-resident at any time in the trust's current year,

(iv) each contributor to the trust at the particular time was one of those individuals or a person related to one of those individuals, and

(v) each contribution to the trust, at the time that the contribution was made, was made to provide for the maintenance of a child beneficiary, while the child was either under 21 years of age, or was under 31 years of age and enroled at an educational institution located outside Canada that is

(A) a university, college or other educational institution that provides courses at a post-secondary school level, or

(B) an educational institution that provides courses that furnish a person with skills for, or improve a person's skills in, an occupation;

(c) a non-resident trust where

(i) at the particular time, the trust is an agency of the United Nations,

(ii) at the particular time, the trust owns and administers a university described in paragraph (f) of the definition "total charitable gifts" in subsection 118.1(1), or

(iii) at any time in the calendar year that includes the particular time or at any time in the preceding calendar year, Her Majesty in right of Canada has made a gift to the trust;

(d) a non-resident trust that has a taxation year that ends at or before the particular time where

(i) the trust was created exclusively for charitable purposes and has been operated, throughout the period that began at the time it was created and ends at the particular time, exclusively for charitable purposes,

(ii) where the particular time is more than 24 months after the day on which the trust was created, there is a group of at least 20 persons (other than trusts) at the particular time who are all contributors to the trust and who all deal with each other at arm's length,

(iii) the accounting profit of the trust for each such taxation year would, if the profit were not distributed and the laws described in subparagraph (iv) did not apply, be subject to an income or profits tax in a particular country other than Canada, and

(iv) for each such taxation year, the laws of the particular country exempted the trust from the payment of any income or profits tax to the government of that country in recognition of the charitable purposes for which the trust is operated;

(e) a non-resident trust that is, or but for any of paragraphs (a) to (n) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement" in subsection 248(1) would be, governed by a retirement compensation arrangement;

(f) a non-resident trust that is governed by a foreign retirement arrangement;

(g) a non-resident trust that is governed by an employees profit sharing plan;

(h) a non-resident trust that is a trust described in paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt trust" in subsection 233.2(1); or

(i) a prescribed trust.

Technical Notes: An "exempt foreign trust" includes a number of different types of non-resident trusts that are exempt from the application of new subsection 94(3). The expression refers to the following types of non-resident trusts:

- (a) a non-resident trust the current income (determined with reference to amended subsection 108(3)) or capital from which can be provided only to one or more physically or mentally infirm dependent individuals, provided that these individuals are non-resident and that any property settled on the trust could reasonably be considered, at the time it was settled, to be necessary for the maintenance of those individuals;
- (b) a non-resident trust created after the breakdown of a marriage or common-law partnership of two individuals, the current income (determined with reference to amended subsection 108(3)) or capital from which can be provided only to non-resident children of one of the individuals, if the children are under 21 years of age (or under 31 years of age and enrolled in a specified educational institution) and each "contribution" to the trust (as defined in subsection 94(1)) was to provide for the maintenance of those children;
- (c) certain non-resident trusts that could qualify under the definition "total charitable gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) as a recipient permitted for the purposes of the tax credit for charitable gifts;
- (d) certain non-resident trusts established exclusively for charitable purposes;
- (e) non-resident trusts set up to administer certain types of retirement or pension plans or arrangements;
- (f) a non-resident trust that is governed by a "foreign retirement arrangement", as defined in subsection 248(1);
- (g) a non-resident trust that is governed by an "employees profit sharing plan", as defined in subsection 248(1);
- (h) a non-resident trust that is described in paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt trust" in subsection 233.2(1) (i.e., certain foreign unit trusts which are dealt with under the foreign investment entity rules in new sections 94.1 and 94.2); and
- (i) a prescribed trust. (Presently, it is not anticipated that any trusts will be prescribed for this purpose.)

Related Provisions: 94(6) [proposed] — Becoming or ceasing to be an exempt foreign trust; 94.1(1)"foreign investment entity"(a) — Exclusion from foreign investment entity rules; 108(3) — Meaning of "income" of trust; 233.2(4)(a) — Exclusion from reporting requirements.

Information Circulars: 84-3R5: Gifts to certain charitable organizations outside Canada.

Regulations: The Department of Finance technical notes (June 22/00) state that it is not currently anticipated that any trusts will be prescribed under para. (h).

"resident beneficiary" at any time under a trust means a person resident in Canada where, at that time,

(a) there is a connected contributor to the trust; and

(b) the person is a beneficiary under the trust whose interest as a beneficiary under the trust is not solely contingent on the subsequent death of an individual who

(i) is related at that time to a contributor to the trust, or

(ii) would have been related at that time to a contributor to the trust if every individual who existed before that time had existed at that time.

Technical Notes: A "resident beneficiary" at a particular time under a trust is a person resident in Canada at the particular time, where:

- at the particular time, there is a "connected contributor" to the trust (as defined in new subsection 94(1)), and
- the person is a beneficiary under the trust and the person's interest in the trust is not solely contingent on the death of a individual who is related at that time to a contributor to the trust (or who would have been related at any earlier time to a contributor to the trust if the individual and every person related at the particular time to the individual had existed at that earlier time).

Under new subsection 94(3), a trust is generally treated as resident in Canada for a particular taxation year if there is a "resident beneficiary" under the trust at the end of the particular year. Under new paragraph 94(3)(d), each "resident beneficiary" can be jointly and severally liable with the trust for the trust's income tax liabilities for the particular year under the Act.

Related Provisions: 104(1.1.) — Restricted meaning of "beneficiary".

"resident contributor" to a trust at any time means a person who is, at that time, both resident in Canada and a contributor to the trust, but does not include an individual (other than a trust) who has not, at that time, been resident in Canada for a period of, or periods the total of which is, more than 60 months.

Technical Notes: A "resident contributor" at any time is a person resident in Canada at that time who is a "contributor" to the trust at that time. However, an exemption is provided in this context for new immigrants to Canada (i.e., individuals who have been resident in Canada for a period of, or periods the total of which is, 60 months or less).

Under new subsection 94(3), a trust is generally treated as resident in Canada for a particular taxation year if there is a "resident contributor" to the trust at the end of the particular year. Under new paragraph 94(3)(d), a "resident contributor" can be jointly and severally liable with the trust for the trust's income tax liabilities for the particular year under the Act.

(2) Rules of application — For the purposes of this section,

(a) property is deemed to be transferred by a person or partnership at any time to a trust where, because of a transfer or loan (other than an arm's length transfer) at that time of property to another person or partnership,

(i) the fair market value of one or more properties held at that time by the trust increases, or

(ii) a liability or potential liability of the trust decreases;

(b) property is deemed to be transferred by a particular person or partnership at any time to a trust where

(i) at that time, the trust holds property the fair market value of which is derived in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, from properties held by another person or partnership (in this paragraph referred to as the "recipient"),

(ii) property is transferred or loaned at that time by the particular person or partnership (in subparagraph (iii) referred to as the "transferor") to the recipient, and

(iii) it is reasonable to conclude that one of the reasons for which the property was transferred or loaned to the recipient included the relationship between the transferor and

(A) any person or partnership that was

(I) beneficially interested in the trust,

(II) a trustee of the trust,

(III) a person having influence over the operation of the trust or the enforcement of its terms, or

(IV) a person having influence over the selection or appointment of any person or partnership referred to in any of subclauses (I) to (III) or this subclause, or

(B) any group at least one of the members of which is described in clause (A);

(c) the fair market value, at the time of the transfer, of property deemed by paragraph (a) or (b) to have been transferred to the trust is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which

(i) the fair market value of a property of the trust increased at that time because of the other transfer or loan referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), or

(ii) a liability or potential liability of the trust decreased at that time because of the transfer or loan referred to in paragraph (a) or (b);

(d) where a property is acquired at any time by a person or partnership as a consequence of the death of an individual, the individual is deemed to have transferred, at that time, the property to the person or partnership;

(e) where, at any time, a person or partnership has given a guarantee on behalf of, or has provided any other financial assistance to, another person or partnership, the person or partnership is deemed to have transferred, at that time, property to that other person or partnership;

(f) where, at any time after June 22, 2000, a person or partnership renders (otherwise than in the person's capacity as an employee or in the person's or partnership's capacity as agent) any service to, for or on behalf of, another person or partnership (other than any service rendered to a trust that is related to the administration of the trust), the person or partnership is deemed to have transferred, at that time, property to that other person or partnership;

(g) where, at any time after June 22, 2000, a particular person or partnership acquires

(i) a share of the capital stock of a corporation from the corporation,

(ii) a beneficial interest in a trust (otherwise than as a consequence of a disposition of the interest by a beneficiary under the trust),

(iii) an interest in a partnership (otherwise than as a consequence of a disposition of the interest by a member of the partnership), or

(iv) indebtedness owing by a corporation, trust or partnership from the corporation, trust or partnership, the corporation, trust or partnership referred to in subparagraph (i), (ii), (iii) or (iv), as the case may be, is deemed to have transferred, at that time, the share, interest or debt to the particular person or partnership;

(h) where, at any time after June 22, 2000, a particular person or partnership grants to another person or partnership a right to acquire or to be loaned property, the particular person or partnership is deemed to have transferred property at that time to that other person or partnership;

(i) the fair market value of property deemed by paragraph (e), (f) or (h) to have been transferred is the fair market value, at the time of the transfer, of the assistance, service or right to which the property relates;

(j) for greater certainty, where at any time a particular person or partnership becomes obligated to do an act that would constitute the transfer of a property to another person or partnership if the act occurred, the particular person or partnership is deemed to have become obligated at that time to transfer property to that other person or partnership;

(k) where, at a particular time, a particular trust makes a contribution to another trust, the contribution is deemed to have been made jointly by the particular trust and by each person or partnership that, at the particular time, is a contributor to the particular trust;

(l) where a particular trust makes a contribution to another trust, the contribution is made at the direction, or with the concurrence, of another person and it is reasonable to conclude that one of the reasons the contribution is made to the other trust is to enable that other person to avoid liability under paragraph (3)(d) in respect of the other trust, the contribution is deemed to be made jointly by the particular trust and by that other person;

(m) where, at a particular time, a particular partnership makes a contribution to a trust, the contribution is deemed to have been made jointly by the particular partnership and by each person or partnership that, at the particular time, is a member of the particular partnership (other than a member of the particular partnership where, by operation of any law governing the partnership arrangement, the liability of the member as a member of the particular partnership is limited);

(n) where a partnership makes a contribution to a trust, the contribution is made at the direction, or with the concurrence, of another person and it is reasonable to conclude that one of the reasons the contribution is made to the trust is to enable that other person to avoid liability under paragraph (3)(d) in respect of the trust, the contribution is deemed to be made jointly by the partnership and by that other person;

(o) where a corporation makes a contribution to a trust, the contribution is made at the direction, or with the concurrence, of another person, and it is reasonable to conclude that one of the reasons the contribution is made to the trust is to enable that other person to avoid liability under paragraph (3)(d) in respect of the trust, the contribution is deemed to be made jointly by the corporation and by that other person; and

(p) subject to subsection (9), the fair market value of a contribution to a trust at the time it was made is deemed to be the fair market value, at the time of the contribution, of the property that was the subject of the contribution.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(2) of the Act sets out a number of rules for use in applying section 94. These rules are primarily relevant for the purposes of determining whether a transaction constitutes a "contribution" of property to a trust (as defined in subsection 94(1)). These rules are also relevant for the purposes of subsections 94(7) to (9) and the amended reporting rules in subsections 162(10.1) and 163(2.4) and section 233.2. These rules apply to taxation years of trusts that begin after 2000, but in some cases specified below relief is provided with regard to transactions or events that occur before June 23, 2000.

Paragraph 94(2)(a) deals with transfers or loans (other than a transfer or loan which is an "arm's length transfer" as defined in subsection 94(1)) that may be viewed as indirect transfers or loans of property to trusts, through transfers or loans to other persons or partnerships. A transfer or loan will be considered a direct transfer to a trust where, because of the transfer or loan to another person or partnership,

- the fair market value of one or more properties held by the trust increases, or
- a liability or potential liability of the trust decreases.

Paragraph 94(2)(b) deals with cases where a trust holds property the fair market value of which is derived from properties held by another person or partnership. Where this paragraph applies, property transferred or loaned to the other person or partnership is deemed to be transferred to the trust itself. Paragraph 94(2)(b) applies where it is reasonable to conclude that one of the reasons for the transfer or loan can reasonably be considered to be connected to the identity of the trust's beneficiaries or other specified persons.

Paragraph 94(2)(c) sets out a rule that applies for the purposes of determining the fair market value of property deemed to be transferred to a trust as a consequence of the application of paragraph 94(2)(a) or (b). This rule is relevant for the purposes of new subsections 94(7) and (8), as well as the penalty provisions for failure to report in subsections 162(10.1) and 163(2.4). The fair market value of the property deemed to have been transferred is considered to be equal to the amount by which the fair market value of the net assets of the trust increased (or the amount by which the liability or potential liability of the trust decreased) due to the transfer or loan that gave rise to the application of paragraph 94(2)(a) or (b).

Paragraph 94(2)(d) applies where property is acquired by a person or partnership as a consequence of the death of an individual. The deceased individual is deemed to have transferred the property to the person or partnership. The paragraph ensures that a person who was resident in Canada immediately before death is generally considered to be a "connected contributor" to the testamentary trust created as a consequence of the person's death. For more detail, see the definitions "connected contributor" and "resident beneficiary".

Paragraph 94(2)(e) deems a person or partnership that provides financial assistance to another person or partnership to have transferred property to that other person or partnership. Under paragraph 94(2)(i), the fair market value of the property deemed to have been transferred is considered to be equal to the fair market value of the assistance. A deemed transfer will be considered to be a contribution to a trust, by the person or partnership who gives the financial assistance, if the deemed transfer falls within the criteria of the definition "contribution" in subsection 94(1). In this regard, note that the definition contains an exception in respect of arm's length transfers.

Paragraph 94(2)(f) applies where services are rendered after June 22, 2000 to, for or on behalf of another person or partnership. In these circumstances, the party rendering the service is deemed to have transferred property to the other person or partnership. Paragraph 94(2)(f) contains an exception for services rendered in a person's capacity as agent or employee, in which case the paragraph will apply instead to the principal or employer of the agent or employee. Paragraph 94(2)(f) also contains an exception for services rendered to a trust that are related to the administration of the trust. Under paragraph 94(2)(i), the fair market value of the property deemed to have been transferred is considered to be equal to the fair market value of the services. A deemed transfer under paragraph 94(2)(f) will be considered a contribution to a trust, by the person or partnership who rendered the services, if the deemed transfer falls within the criteria of the definition "contribution" in subsection 94(1). In this regard, note that the definition contains an exception in respect of arm's length transfers.

Under paragraph 94(2)(g), a corporation is considered to transfer shares that it issues. Similar rules apply to trust and partnership interests, as well as to debt issued by any person or partnership. Paragraph 94(2)(g) applies to shares, debt and interests that are issued after June 22, 2000.

Paragraph 94(2)(h) deems a person or partnership that, after June 22, 2000, grants, to another person or partnership, a right to acquire or to be loaned property to have transferred property to that other person or partnership. Under paragraph 94(2)(i), the fair market value of the property deemed to have been transferred under paragraph 94(2)(h) is considered to be equal to the fair market value of the right.

As noted above, the fair market value of property deemed to have been transferred under paragraphs 94(2)(e), (f) or (h) is determined with reference to paragraph 94(2)(i). As is the case with a similar rule in paragraph 94(2)(c), paragraph 94(2)(i) is relevant for the purposes of new subsections 94(7) and (8), as well as the penalty provisions for failure to report in subsections 162(10.1) and 163(2.4).

Paragraph 94(2)(j) is included for greater certainty. It applies where a person or partnership becomes obligated to do an act (e.g., the rendering of a service) that would constitute the transfer of a property to another person or partnership if the act were to occur. Where this is the case, the person or partnership is deemed to become obligated to transfer property to the other person or partnership. This rule is relevant for the purposes of paragraph (c) of the definition "contribution" in subsection 94(1).

Paragraph 94(2)(k) applies where a particular trust makes a contribution to another trust. Where this is the case, the contribution is deemed to have been made jointly by the particular trust and each person or partnership who is a contributor to the particular trust.

Paragraph 94(2)(l) applies where a particular trust makes a contribution to another trust, the contribution is made at the direction (or with the concurrence) of another person and it is reasonable to consider that one of the reasons the contribution is made to the other trust is to enable that other person to avoid liability, as a resident contributor, under paragraph 94(3)(d) in respect of the other trust. In such a case, the contribution is deemed to have been made jointly by the particular trust and by that other person.

Paragraph 94(2)(m) applies where a partnership makes a contribution to a trust. Where this is the case, partnership members (other than limited partners) are considered to have made a contribution to the trust jointly with the partnership.

Paragraph 94(2)(n) applies where a partnership makes a contribution to a trust, the contribution is made at the direction (or with the concurrence) of another person and it is reasonable to consider that one of the reasons the contribution is made to the trust is to enable that other person to avoid liability, as a resident contributor, under paragraph 94(3)(d) in respect of the trust. In such a case, the contribution is deemed to have been made jointly by the partnership and by that other person. It should be noted that paragraph 94(2)(n) is not relevant to contributions made by a partnership at the direction (or with the concurrence) of a member of a partnership who is not a limited partner, given that paragraph 94(2)(m) also applies in this case.

Paragraph 94(2)(o) applies where a corporation makes a contribution to a trust, the contribution is made at the direction (or with the concurrence) of another person and it is reasonable to consider that one of the reasons the contribution is made to the trust is to enable that other person to avoid liability, as a resident contributor, under paragraph 94(3)(d) in respect of the trust. In such a case, the contribution is deemed to have been made jointly by the corporation and by that other person.

Paragraph 94(2)(p) provides that the fair market value of a contribution to a trust at the time it was made is deemed to be the fair market value of the property loaned or transferred that was the subject of the contribution. The rule is useful for the purposes of new subsections 94(7) and (8), as well as the reporting penalty provisions in amended subsections 162(10.1) and 163(2.4). The rule is relevant because a "contribution" is defined as being a transfer or loan, rather than as being the property that was the subject of the transfer or loan.

The examples below illustrate the operation of subsection 94(2) and the definition "contribution" in subsection 94(1).

Example 1

Donald is a long-term resident of Canada. In 2001, Donald pays higher than fair market value consideration for a property acquired from a corporation. A non-resident trust holds shares in the corporation. The fair market value of those shares increases because of the transaction.

Results

1. Under paragraph 94(2)(a), Donald is considered to have transferred property to the trust in these circumstances. The exception for "arm's length transfers" is not relevant.
2. As a consequence, Donald is considered to have made a "contribution" to the trust, which results in Donald being a "contributor" and a "resident contributor" to the trust.

Example 2

1. Lucie, who is a long-term resident of Canada, transfers property to Canco on condition that Canco direct Canco's wholly-owned foreign subsidiary (Foreignco-1) to transfer properties to another corporation (Foreignco-2) for consideration that is less than fair market value.
2. Shares of the capital stock of Foreignco-2 are held by a non-resident trust.
3. The fair market value of the Foreignco-2 shares increases as a result of the increase in the fair market value of the property owned by Foreignco-2.

Results

1. The transfers to Canco and to Foreignco-2 are part of the same series of transactions.
2. Because of paragraph 94(2)(a), the transfer to Foreignco-2 is considered to be a transfer by Foreignco-1 to the trust. The exception for "arm's length transfers" is not relevant.
3. As a consequence, Lucie is considered to have made a "contribution" to the trust under paragraph (b) of the definition "contribution" in subsection 94(1), which results in Lucie being a "contributor" and a "resident contributor" to the trust. Canco is also a "contributor" and a "resident contributor" to the trust.
4. Foreignco-1 is also a "contributor" to the trust, but this does not have any practical consequences because Foreignco-1 is non-resident.

(3) Liabilities of non-resident trust and others — Where a trust (other than an exempt foreign trust) is non-resident at the end of a taxation year of the trust and, at that time, there is a resident contributor to the trust or a resident beneficiary under the trust,

(a) subject to subsection (4), the trust is deemed to be resident in Canada throughout the year for the purposes of

(i) applying section 2 and computing the trust's income for the year,

(ii) applying subsection (5), clause 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B), the definition "non-resident entity" in subsection 94.1(1), subsections 104(13.1) to (29) and 107(5), section 115 and sections 233.3 and 233.4,

(iii) determining the liability of the trust for tax under Part XIII on amounts paid or credited to the trust, and

(iv) determining the rights and obligations of the trust under Divisions I and J;

(b) for the purposes of section 126

(i) the trust's income for the year (other than the portion of the income that, but for this subsection, would be the trust's taxable income earned in Canada) is deemed to be income of the trust from sources in the country other than Canada in which the trust would, but for this subsection, be resident, and

(ii) such part of any income or profits tax paid by the trust for the year (other than any tax paid because of this section) that can reasonably be regarded as having been paid in respect of the amount determined under subparagraph (i) is deemed to be the non-business-income tax paid by the trust to the government of that country;

(c) where the trust was non-resident throughout the preceding taxation year for the purpose of computing its income for that preceding year, for the purpose of subsection 128.1(1) the trust is deemed to have become resident in Canada immediately after the end of that preceding year; and

(d) subject to subsection (7),

(i) each person who at any time in the year is a resident contributor to the trust or a resident beneficiary under the trust shall have, jointly and severally with the trust and with each other such person, the rights and obligations of the trust in respect of the year under Divisions I and J and subsection 180.1(4), and

(ii) each such person shall be subject to the provisions of Part XV in respect of those rights and obligations.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(3) of the Act applies to a non-resident trust (other than an "exempt foreign trust", defined in subsection 94(1)) for a taxation year where, at the end of the year, there is a "resident contributor" to the trust or a "resident beneficiary" under the trust. All of these definitions are explained in detail in the commentary on new subsection 94(1).

Where subsection 94(3) applies to a non-resident trust for a taxation year, the trust is deemed to have been resident in Canada throughout the year for the purposes specified in the subsection. Except to the extent otherwise provided by subsection 94(4), a trust is deemed to be resident in Canada for a taxation year under subsection 94(3):

- for the purposes of applying sections 2 and 115 and computing the trust's income for the year — with the result that the trust is subject to tax under Parts I and I.1 on its worldwide income for the year (Note: These trusts are viewed as resident in Canada for the purposes of tax treaties whether or not they are also considered to be resident in another country. However, subsection 94(3) is structured so that there is no tax arising under the Act for a trust subject to subsection 94(3) in the event that the trust earns only foreign-source income and makes full current distributions of the income to non-resident beneficiaries.);
- for the purpose applying of subsection 94(5) — with the result that, as contemplated by subsection 94(5), the tax consequences under subsection 128.1(4) for a trust that ceases to be resident in Canada apply to the trust (See also the note on paragraph 94(3)(c), below.);
- for the purpose of applying clause 53(2)(h)(i.1)(b) — with the result that the adjusted cost base to a beneficiary of the beneficiary's interest in a trust to which this clause applies is computed in the same way as for interests in trusts resident in Canada;
- for the purpose of applying the definition "non-resident entity" in subsection 94.1(1) — with the result that a beneficiary's interest in the trust is not treated as an interest of a beneficiary in a foreign investment entity for the purposes of new sections 94.1 and 94.2;
- for the purposes of applying subsections 104(13.1) to (29) and 107(5) — with the result that the tax treatment of beneficiaries under the trust accords with the tax treatment available to beneficiaries under trusts that are resident in Canada;
- for the purposes of applying sections 233.3 and 233.4 — with the result that the trust is required to file information returns under sections 233.3 (information return on a foreign property holdings that cost in excess of $100,000) and 233.4 (information return on foreign affiliates);
- for the purpose of determining the liability of the trust for tax under Part XIII — with the result that the trust is exempt from Part XIII tax on amounts paid or credited to it; and
- for the purpose of determining the rights and obligations of the trust under sections 150 to 180 — with the result that various administrative provisions in the Act apply in the same way as to other trusts resident in Canada. These provisions include those with regard to the filing of returns, assessments, tax payments, arrears interest, refund interest, instalment interest, penalties, refunds and appeals.

Paragraph 94(3)(b) provides that a trust that is subject to subsection 94(3) is entitled to claim foreign tax credits against its Canadian income tax in accordance with the rules in section 126, except with regard to any taxable income earned in Canada (as would otherwise be determined under subsection 115(1)).

Paragraph 94(3)(c) clarifies that a non-resident trust that becomes subject to subsection 94(3) for a particular taxation year, after not being subject to either it or existing paragraph 94(1)(c) for the preceding year, is deemed to become resident in Canada at the beginning of the particular year. As a result, the cost amount of each of the properties (other than taxable Canadian properties) held by the trust at the beginning of the particular year is deemed by subsection 128.1(1) to be the fair market value of the property at the beginning of the particular year. Note, in this regard, that paragraph 94(3)(c) complements the rule in subsection 94(6) in the case where a non-resident trust ceases to be an "exempt foreign trust" (as defined in subsection 94(1)). In this case, subsection 94(6) establishes the beginning of a new "stub" taxation year to which subsection 94(3) may apply. If subsection 94(3) does apply for that "stub" year, subsection 128.1(1) would apply with regard to the properties (other than taxable Canadian properties) held by the trust at the beginning of that "stub" year.

Paragraph 94(3)(d) imposes liabilities for a taxation year on persons who, at the end of the year, are "resident contributors" or "resident beneficiaries". Where subsection 94(3) applies to a trust for a taxation year, each of these persons is jointly and severally liable with the trust in respect of the trust's obligations under sections 150 to 180, including its Part I.1 obligations that arise as a consequence of subsection 180.1(4). Typically, the most significant obligation in this context is the obligation to pay tax instalments pursuant to section 156. However, the extent of the joint liability imposed by paragraph 94(3)(d) is limited by new subsection 94(7) — which is explained in the commentary below.

Note, in particular, that subsection 94(3) does not result in the creation of any obligations for a trust that is subject to subsection 94(3) to withhold tax on distributions to non-resident beneficiaries under Part XIII or to pay any tax under Part XII.2. As noted above, one of the effects of subsection 94(3) is that the trust is not liable in connection with distributions of Canadian-source income to the non-resident trust. However, the rules in new subsection 104(7.01) are designed so that there will be a reasonable level of Part I tax in respect of Canadian-source income received by the trust in the event the trust also distributes income to non-resident beneficiaries.

Related Provisions: 75(3)(c.2) — Reversionary trust rules do not apply to non-resident trust; 94(4) [proposed] — Excluded provisions; 94(5) [proposed] — Trust deemed to cease being resident in Canada; 94(7) [proposed] — Limit to amount recoverable under 94(3)(d); 104(7.01) — Limit to trust's deduction under 104(6); 233.2(4) — Annual information return by contributor; 233.3(3) — Annual information return by holder of interest.

(4) Excluded provisions — Paragraph (3)(a) does not apply for the purposes of

(a) the definition "exempt foreign trust" in subsection (1);

(b) computing any income or loss from property, or any taxable capital gain or allowable loss, because of the application of subsection 75(2);

(c) paragraph 107.4(1)(c) (other than subparagraph 107.4(1)(c)(i)), paragraph (a) of the definition "mutual fund trust" in subsection 132(6), and subparagraph (f)(ii) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1); and

(d) determining the liability of a person that arises because of the application of section 215, except as the Minister otherwise permits in writing.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(4) of the Act provides that the rules in subsection 94(3) treating non-resident trusts as resident in Canada do not apply for certain limited purposes:

- the definition "exempt foreign trust" — thus ensuring that there is no circularity due to fact that the definition "exempt foreign trust" is used in subsection 94(3);
- computing income or loss from property, or any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss, because of the application of subsection 75(2) — thus providing that income generated from a property transferred by a non-resident trust to a reversionary trust is not attributed back if the non-resident trust is deemed to be resident in Canada under subsection 94(3);
- proposed paragraph 107.4(1)(c), other than subparagraph 107.4(1)(c)(i), and proposed subparagraph (f)(ii) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) [The measures were contained in a detailed Notice of Ways and Means Motion tabled on June 5, 2000.] — thus ensuring that proposed rules allowing in some cases for a rollover of property on transfers involving no change in beneficial ownership generally do not apply to transfers to a trust deemed to be resident in Canada by subsection 94(3); and
- paragraph (a) of the definition "mutual fund trust" in subsection 132(6) — a reference which makes it clear that a trust deemed to be resident in Canada by subsection 94(3) will not be treated as a mutual fund trust for any purpose.

Furthermore, except as otherwise permitted in writing by the Minister of National Revenue, subsection 94(3) does not relieve a payer of Canadian-source income the obligation to withhold under section 215 in connection with amounts received by a trust deemed to be resident of Canada by subsection 94(3). This is so even though such a trust is not liable for Part XIII tax on amounts paid or credited to it, because of the application of subparagraph 94(3)(a)(iii). The trust would be expected to apply for a refund of such tax, which would be given unless there are any outstanding liabilities of the trust with regard to Part I tax.

(5) Ceasing to reside in Canada — A trust is deemed to have ceased to be resident in Canada at any time where

(a) that time is in a particular period that, but for this subsection and subsection 128.1(4), would be a taxation year of the trust that immediately follows a taxation year of the trust throughout which the trust was resident in Canada because of the application of subsection (3);

(b) the trust is non-resident at the end of the particular period;

(c) there was a resident contributor to the trust, or a resident beneficiary under the trust, at the beginning of the particular period; and

(d) that time is the earliest time in the particular period at which there is neither a resident contributor to the trust nor a resident beneficiary under the trust.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(5) of the Act applies to a trust with regard to a particular period that (without reference to the combined application of subsections 94(5) and 128.1(4)) would be a taxation year of the trust that immediately follows a taxation year of the trust throughout which it is resident in Canada because of the application of subsection 94(3). If the trust is not resident in Canada at the end of the particular period (i.e., because the criteria in subsection 94(3) for deeming the trust to be resident in Canada are no longer satisfied), the trust is deemed to have ceased to reside in Canada at the earliest time in the particular period at which there is neither a "resident contributor" to the trust nor a "resident beneficiary" under the trust. These two definitions are explained in the commentary on subsection 94(1).

In such circumstances, the cessation of residence in Canada results in the application of paragraph 128.1(4)(a). As a consequence of that paragraph, a taxation year of the trust is considered to have ended immediately before the earliest time in the particular period described above. At the end of that taxation year, the criteria in subsection 94(3) are satisfied. Accordingly, the trust would be subject to tax under Parts I and I.1 on its world-wide income for that year because it is considered to be resident in Canada under subsection 94(3).

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada.

(6) Becoming or ceasing to be an exempt foreign trust — Where at any time a trust becomes or ceases to be an exempt foreign trust (otherwise than because of becoming resident in Canada),

(a) the trust's taxation year that would otherwise include that time is deemed to have ended immediately before that time and a new taxation year of the trust is deemed to have begun at that time; and

(b) for the purpose of determining the trust's fiscal period after that time, the trust is deemed not to have established a fiscal period before that time.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(6) of the Act generally provides that, if a trust becomes or ceases to be an exempt foreign trust at any time, the trust's taxation year is deemed to have ended immediately before that time, a new "stub" taxation year is deemed to have begun at that time and the trust is deemed not to have established a fiscal period before that time. However, subsection 94(6) does not apply where a trust ceases to be an exempt foreign trust because it becomes resident in Canada.

Subsection 94(3) may apply in respect of the later "stub" taxation year of the trust if the criteria set out in that subsection are satisfied at the end of that year. Where this is the case, the trust would be subject to tax under Parts I and I.1 on its world-wide income for that later "stub" year because it would be considered under subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for that year.

(7) Limit to amount recoverable — Notwithstanding subsection (3), the amount recoverable under paragraph (3)(d) at any time from a person in respect of a trust and a particular taxation year of the trust shall not exceed the recovery limit at that time of the person in respect of the trust and the particular year where

(a) except where subparagraph (b)(ii) would apply if the portion of that subparagraph after clause (b)(ii)(B) were read as "is not more than $10,000", the person has filed on a timely basis under section 233.2 all information returns required to be filed by the person before that time in respect of the trust (or within such later period as is acceptable to the Minister);

(b) either

(i) the person is liable under paragraph (3)(d) in respect of the trust and the particular year solely because the person was a resident beneficiary under the trust at the end of the particular year, or

(ii) at the end of the particular year, the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the time it was made, of a contribution to the trust before the end of the particular year by

(A) the person, or

(B) another person not dealing at arm's length with the person, is not more than the greater of $10,000 and 10% of the total of all amounts each of which was the fair market value, at the time it was made, of a contribution to the trust before the end of the particular year; and

(c) it is reasonable to conclude that each transaction or event that occurred before the end of the particular year at the direction of, or with the concurrence of, the person satisfied the following conditions:

(i) none of the purposes of the transaction or event was to enable the person to minimize liability under paragraph (3)(d) in respect of the trust, and

(ii) the transaction or event was not part of a series of transactions or events any of the purposes of which was to enable the person to minimize liability under paragraph (3)(d) in respect of the trust.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(7) of the Act allows for a limitation of the amount that may be recovered from a person who would otherwise be jointly and severally liable for the entire amount of the trust's tax obligations under the Act. Subsection 94(7) applies to a person in respect of a particular taxation year of a trust where three conditions are satisfied.

The first condition is that the person must have filed on a timely basis all information returns required to be filed by the person in respect of the trust under section 233.2 (or within such later period as is acceptable to the Minister of National Revenue). [Paragraph 94(7)(a).] However, the first condition need not be satisfied if the second condition (below) is satisfied because of the $10,000 contribution test referred to below.

The second condition is satisfied in respect of a particular taxation year of the trust:

- where the person is jointly and severally liable with the trust only because the person was a "resident beneficiary" under the trust at the end of the particular year. [Subparagraph 94(7)(b)(i).] or
- where, at the end of the particular year, the total fair market value (determined with reference to paragraphs 94(2)(c), (i) and (p) and subsection 94(9)) of contributions made to the trust by the person (or another person not dealing at arm's length with the person) is not more than the greater of $10,000 and 10% of the total fair market value of all contributions to the trust. [Subparagraph 94(7)(b)(ii).]

The third condition is satisfied in respect of a person and a particular taxation year of the trust where it is reasonable to conclude that each transaction or event that occurred before the end of the particular year at the direction of, or with the concurrence of, the person satisfied the following conditions:

- none of the purposes of the transaction or event was to enable the person to minimize liability under paragraph 94(3)(d) in respect of the trust. [Subparagraph 94(7)(c)(i).] and
- the transaction or event was not part of a series of transactions or events any of the purposes of which was to enable the person to minimize liability under paragraph 94(3)(d) in respect of the trust. [Subparagraph 94(7)(c)(ii).]

There are a number of transactions or events, or series of transactions or events, which may result in a failure to satisfy the third condition. For example, an artificial dilution of a person's relative contribution in the trust (i.e., below the 10% level) could well be impugned. Likewise, corporate distributions that have the effect of minimizing the impact of the three-year rule described in subsection 94(9) could also be offensive for these purposes.

Reference should be made in this context to the definition "contribution" in subsection 94(1), as well as to related rules in subsection 94(2).

Where subsection 94(7) applies to a person in respect of a taxation year of a trust, the amount recoverable at any time from the person in respect of the year is limited to the person's "recovery limit" in respect of the trust and the year. Under subsection 94(8), the amount of the recovery limit at any time is calculated as follows:

- ADD amounts payable and amounts previously paid by the trust to the person in respect of the person's beneficial interest in the trust;
- ADD previous proceeds from the disposition of the person's interest in the trust, not otherwise taken into account above;
- ADD the fair market value of benefits conferred by the trust on the person, not otherwise taken into account above;
- ADD the total fair market value (determined with reference to paragraphs 94(2)(c), (i) and (p) and subsection 94(9)) of contributions made to the trust by the person, to the extent that this amount exceeds the total of the first three amounts; and
- SUBTRACT previous recoveries by the CCRA under subsection 94(3) from the person in respect of the trust and the year or a preceding taxation year of the trust.

As indicated above, subsection 94(9) affects the calculation of the fair market value of a "contribution" to a trust. It applies where the contributed property is a share, a right to acquire a share, or other property primarily deriving its value from a share or a right to acquire a share.

For the purpose of determining whether the "recovery limit" limitation applies to a contributor to a trust in respect of a transfer to the trust and of determining the amount of the "recovery limit", the fair market value of contributed property is deemed by subsection 94(9) to be the greater of:

- its fair market value, otherwise determined, at the time it was transferred (see in this regard paragraph 94(2)(p)); and
- its fair market value (or the fair market value of substituted property) at the end of the third calendar year ending after its transfer to the trust.

Subsection 94(9) is intended to allow for a reasonable opportunity for recovery of tax by the CCRA in the context of a series of transactions involving the transfer of shares or similar property. For example, an estate freeze might occur under which common shares with a nominal initial fair market value are transferred directly or indirectly to a non-resident trust. In these circumstances, it would be inappropriate to limit a recovery of tax to the initial fair market value of the shares.

Related Provisions: 94(8) [proposed] — Recovery limit; 94(9) [proposed] — Determination of fair market value.

(8) Recovery limit — For the purpose of subsection (7), the recovery limit at a particular time of a person in respect of a trust and a particular taxation year of the trust is the amount, if any, by which the greater of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an amount paid before the particular time to the person by the trust because of the interest of the person as a beneficiary under the trust,

(ii) an amount the payment of which by the trust the person is at the particular time entitled to enforce because of the interest of the person as a beneficiary under the trust,

(iii) an amount (other than an amount described in subparagraph (i)) received before the particular time by the person on the disposition of an interest as a beneficiary under the trust, or

(iv) the fair market value of a benefit received or enjoyed by the person from or under the trust (other than a benefit described in any of subparagraphs (i) to (iii)), and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the time it was made, of a contribution to the trust before the particular time by the person,

exceeds

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount recovered before the particular time from the person in connection with a liability of the person arising under subsection (3) in respect of the trust and the particular year or a preceding taxation year of the trust.

Technical Notes: See under 94(7).

Related Provisions: 94(9) [proposed] — Determination of fair market value.

(9) Determination of fair market value-special case — For the purposes of applying subparagraph (7)(b)(ii) and determining the recovery limit under subsection (8), where a contribution is made at any time by a person or partnership to a trust as a consequence of a transaction that is, or as a consequence of a series of transactions or events that includes, the transfer at that time to the trust of a particular property that is a share, a right to acquire a share, or other property primarily deriving its value from a share or a right to acquire a share, the fair market value of the contribution at the time it is made is deemed to be the greater of

(a) the fair market value of the contribution at that time, determined without reference to this subsection, and

(b) the fair market value of the particular property, or property substituted for the particular property, at the end of the third calendar year that ends after that time.

Technical Notes: See under 94(7).

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, s. 10, will amend s. 94 to read as above, applicable to taxation years of trusts that begin after 2000, except that the definition "contribution" in subsec. 94(1) shall not apply to

(a) a payment made to a trust before 2002 in satisfaction of any amount payable to the trust; or

(b) a repayment made before 2005, in accordance with terms of repayment established before June 23, 2000, to a trust of a loan made by the trust.

Notice of Ways and Means Motion, federal budget, February 16, 1999: Non-resident trusts and foreign-based investment funds

(8) That the provisions of the Act governing the taxation of

(a) trust beneficiaries and non-resident trusts, and

(b) taxpayers resident in Canada who hold interests in foreign-based investment funds

be modified in accordance with proposals described in the budget documents tabled by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons on February 16, 1999.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, February 16, 1999: Taxation of trusts — Background

Trusts that are resident in Canada are subject to tax in Canada annually on their undistributed income.

Beneficiaries of resident trusts are taxable on distributions received from such trusts, to the extent that the distributions are made out of the income of the trust. Distributions made out of the capital of the trust are tax-free. As a result, the Canadian tax base is protected.

Generally, non-resident trusts are not taxable in Canada and income can be accumulated in such trusts on a tax-deferred basis. When such trusts pay little or no foreign tax on their accumulated income and capital gains, taxpayers making use of such trusts may benefit either from a deferral of tax or complete avoidance of tax. Avoidance occurs where the accumulated income is transformed into the capital of the trust, which is distributed to the Canadian beneficiaries tax-free.

Issue

The anti-avoidance rules in the Act attempt to tax income earned by non-resident trusts in certain circumstances in order to ensure that they are not used to defer Canadian tax on the income accumulating in the trusts. Current rules apply only to non-resident trusts with a Canadian beneficiary. However, these rules are not fully effective and relatively little of such income is taxed in Canada.

Canadian residents are able to transfer funds to non-resident trusts under circumstances designed to circumvent the application of existing anti-avoidance rules. The trust regimes in several tax-haven jurisdictions have been specifically modified in an attempt to permit Canadians to avoid the application of the anti-avoidance rules. A feature of such schemes is to disguise the fact that the non-resident trust has a Canadian resident beneficiary. A number of tax-haven jurisdictions have modified their trust laws so that no beneficiaries need to be designated, thus facilitating tax planning by Canadians in order to defer the taxation of the income accumulating in the non-resident trust. Arrangements between the Canadian transferors and the trustee ensure that the Canadian transferors retain effective control of the trust, or are able to designate who may ultimately receive capital of the trust, including its accumulated income.

Non-resident trusts can therefore offer higher-income Canadians the opportunity to defer or avoid Canadian tax on investment income that would otherwise be taxable in Canada.

[See also the portions reproduced under 94.1(1) — ed.]

Consultations will also be initiated on the following proposed modifications to the tax rules governing non-resident trusts:

- That where a Canadian resident transfers or loans property to a non-resident trust, the trust be treated as being resident in Canada and be taxed on all of its undistributed income, subject to a number of exceptions noted below. The Canadian resident transferor would be jointly (with the trust) liable for tax. Where a foreign income tax is imposed in respect of the undistributed income of the trust, a foreign tax credit would be provided. The proposed rules would apply whether or not the trust has a Canadian-resident beneficiary, since in practice it may not be possible to determine whether the property in the trust will be distributed to Canadian beneficiaries.
- That the proposed changes also deal with the distributions from trusts. Distributions out of current income of the trust would be taxed in the hands of the beneficiaries. As well, distributions out of any previously untaxed accumulated income of the trust would be subject to tax.
- That the following trusts be excluded from the application of the proposed rules:
  - trusts resident in the United States and subject to United States tax provisions;
  - non-resident trusts set up prior to immigrants' arrival in Canada, for a five-year period after immigration; and
  - non-resident trusts set up for the benefit of individuals with disabilities or children of divorced parents where the trust and beneficiaries are resident within the same country.
- Additional exceptions could be contemplated to remove from the rules non-resident trusts that are clearly not used to avoid or defer Canadian tax, such as bona fide foreign charitable trusts.
- The proposed rules would apply to any taxation year commencing after 1999, with respect to non-resident trusts to which a Canadian resident transfers or loans property on or after February 16, 1999, subject to the exceptions noted above. Other non-resident trusts to which a transfer or a loan of property was made by a Canadian resident before February 16, 1999, would be subject to the proposed rules for taxation years commencing after 2000.

The proposed changes are consistent with Revenue Canada devoting more resources to the audit of taxpayers whose investment activities extend beyond Canada.

Further details on the proposed legislative changes will be released soon to enhance the consultation process.

Department of Finance news release, November 30, 1999: Update on Proposals for the Taxation of Non-Resident Trusts and Foreign Investment Funds

The February 1999 budget announced that consultations would be initiated on proposed new approaches for the taxation of non-resident 'family' trusts (NRTs) and foreign investment funds (FIFs).

The proposed approach for NRTs generally provides for them to be treated as resident in Canada during the period in which a contributor to the NRT was resident in Canada. The contributor would, in these circumstances, be jointly liable with the NRT for the NRT's resulting Canadian income tax liability on its worldwide income.

The proposed approach for FIFs provides for an annual allocation of a FIF's income to a Canadian unitholder. If insufficient information is available for a unitholder to adopt this approach, the unitholder is to be taxed on an annual basis on any increases in the fair market value of the unitholder's interest in the FIF.

The February 1999 budget also proposed that distributions from foreign trusts would generally be subject to an additional tax to the extent that the distributions represented income that had not been subject to Canadian income tax, and that the proposals would not apply to FIFs and NRTs based in the United States.

Further to consultations on these proposals and additional analysis within the Department, the following modifications to the package are proposed:

1. The additional tax on distributions from foreign trusts will not be implemented. The implementation of this tax would have raised concerns about fairness, double taxation and complexity. The strengthened taxation rules proposed for NRTs and FIFs will ensure that Canadian tax will generally be exigible whenever Canadian residents contribute to these vehicles.

2. The administrative advantages of an exemption for NRTs and FIFs based in the United States are reduced because of the elimination of the additional tax on distributions from foreign trusts. Moreover, there were concerns that this exemption would allow for structures that could have undermined the effectiveness of the rules. Consequently, a proposed exemption from the new rules for NRTs and FIFs based in the United States will not be implemented.

3. The proposed new rules for NRTs will apply in all cases to NRT taxation years that begin after 2000. The proposed rules for FIFs will apply in all cases to taxation years of Canadian investors that begin after 2000.

One technical question that has been frequently raised is that of the application of the five-year exemption under proposed rules for NRTs to trusts established after an emigrant becomes resident in Canada. It is proposed that this exemption be structured much like it is under the existing law, so that it is not restricted to trusts established before an emigrant becomes resident in Canada.

It is anticipated that draft legislation on NRTs and FIFs will be released early in 2000 in order to permit an additional period of consultation before it is incorporated in a bill.

94.1 (1) Offshore investment fund property — Where in a taxation year a taxpayer, other than a non-resident-owned investment corporation, holds or has an interest in property (in this section referred to as an "offshore investment fund property")

(a) that is a share of the capital stock of, an interest in, or a debt of, a non-resident entity (other than a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or a prescribed non-resident entity) or an interest in or a right or option to acquire such a share, interest or debt, and

(b) that may reasonably be considered to derive its value, directly or indirectly, primarily from portfolio investments of that or any other non-resident entity in

(i) shares of the capital stock of one or more corporations,

(ii) indebtedness or annuities,

(iii) interests in one or more corporations, trusts, partnerships, organizations, funds or entities,

(iv) commodities,

(v) real estate,

(vi) Canadian or foreign resource properties,

(vii) currency of a country other than Canada,

(viii) rights or options to acquire or dispose of any of the foregoing, or

(ix) any combination of the foregoing, and it may reasonably be concluded, having regard to all the circumstances, including

(c) the nature, organization and operation of any non-resident entity and the form of, and the terms and conditions governing, the taxpayer's interest in, or connection with, any non-resident entity,

(d) the extent to which any income, profits and gains that may reasonably be considered to be earned or accrued, whether directly or indirectly, for the benefit of any non-resident entity are subject to an income or profits tax that is significantly less than the income tax that would be applicable to such income, profits and gains if they were earned directly by the taxpayer, and

(e) the extent to which the income, profits and gains of any non-resident entity for any fiscal period are distributed in that or the immediately following fiscal period, that one of the main reasons for the taxpayer acquiring, holding or having the interest in such property was to derive a benefit from portfolio investments in assets described in any of subparagraphs (b)(i) to (ix) in such a manner that the taxes, if any, on the income, profits and gains from such assets for any particular year are significantly less than the tax that would have been applicable under this Part if the income, profits and gains had been earned directly by the taxpayer, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the amount, if any, by which

(f) the total of all amounts each of which is the product obtained when

(i) the designated cost to the taxpayer of the offshore investment fund property at the end of a month in the year

is multiplied by

(ii) the quotient obtained when the prescribed rate of interest for the period including that month is divided by 12

exceeds

(g) the taxpayer's income for the year (other than a capital gain) from the offshore investment fund property determined without reference to this subsection.

Proposed Amendment — Foreign-Based Investment Funds

Notice of Ways and Means Motion, federal budget, February 16, 1999: Non-resident trusts and foreign-based investment funds

(8) That the provisions of the Act governing the taxation of

(a) trust beneficiaries and non-resident trusts, and

(b) taxpayers resident in Canada who hold interests in foreign-based investment funds

be modified in accordance with proposals described in the budget documents tabled by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons on February 16, 1999.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, February 16, 1999: Non-resident trust and foreign-based investment fund rules

Canadians have significantly increased their holdings of investments in foreign countries over the past ten years. This reflects the globalization of capital markets and recognizes the benefits of portfolio diversification. However, tax planning techniques have developed to create advantages from using foreign-based investment funds and non-resident trusts in comparison with Canadian-based investment vehicles.

The Income Tax Act contains provisions that are designed to prevent the use by taxpayers of foreign-based investment funds and non-resident trusts to avoid Canadian tax. The purpose of the rules is to ensure that an appropriate amount of Canadian tax is paid on the foreign investment income earned by taxpayers through such vehicles in order to provide a level playing field with Canadian-based investment vehicles.

There is growing evidence that the objectives of the current provisions of the Act are not being fully met and that high-income individuals are able, in some cases, to avoid Canadian tax by investing in foreign-based investment funds and by contributing property to non-resident trusts. Such an outcome is inconsistent with a fair and neutral tax system, erodes the Canadian tax base and is contrary to the policy intent of the current rules.

Background

Canadian investment funds are taxed annually on the income and capital gains accumulated in the funds but not allocated to investors. Investors in such funds are taxed annually on the income and capital gains of the funds allocated to them, as well as on any taxable capital gains arising on the disposition of their interest in the fund. As a result, the Canadian tax base is protected.

Investment funds located outside Canada are generally not subject to tax in Canada. Where such funds face little or no tax in their country of residence, Canadian investors holding interests in such vehicles may benefit from a significant deferral of tax on income and realized capital gains retained in the funds over the years. Furthermore, on the disposition of their interest in a foreign- based investment fund, investors may also be able to convert ordinary income to capital gains, which are taxed at a lower rate. These tax advantages have resulted in a growing number of Canadians investing in foreign-based funds.

Issue

The Income Tax Act contains rules that attempt to eliminate these tax advantages. Where a Canadian makes an investment in a foreign-based investment fund and one of the main reasons for acquiring, holding or having the interest in such property is to avoid Canadian tax, a notional annual allocation of income is imputed to the taxpayer and subject to tax. This notional amount is determined by multiplying the cost of the taxpayer's interest in the fund by a prescribed interest rate.

The current provision, however, has rarely been applied. Revenue Canada has had difficulty in enforcing this provision because of the frequent lack of information and the challenge of establishing that the interest in the foreign-based investment fund was acquired primarily to avoid Canadian tax. Although the provision may have been effective when first introduced in 1984, its impact has weakened over the years. When the provision has been applied, it has been criticized as subjecting to tax an arbitrary amount that may bear no relationship to the actual income accruing in the fund.

These deficiencies and the resulting erosion of the Canadian tax base necessitate the actions that the government is proposing in this budget.

[See also portions reproduced under 94(1) — ed.]

Proposal

The budget sets forth an approach to address the deficiencies in the current rules governing foreign-based investment funds and non-resident trusts. The objective of the proposals is to enhance fairness in the tax system in relation to the taxation of income earned from investing in foreign-based investment funds and contributing property to non-resident trusts on the one hand, and income earned from investing in similar entities resident in Canada. These proposals would not prevent Canadians from investing in foreign-based investment funds or from contributing property to non-resident trusts, but are intended to ensure that there is no tax advantage in doing so.

Consultations will be initiated on the following proposed modifications to the tax rules governing foreign-based investment funds:

- That the proposed rules apply to interests in a foreign-based investment fund, subject to a number of exceptions noted below. Taxpayers would be subject, annually, to tax on their pro-rata share of all the undistributed income of the foreign-based investment fund where they have access to sufficient information about the income of the fund (the income accrual approach that applies in respect of controlled foreign affiliates of Canadian taxpayers), subject to a foreign tax credit for foreign income taxes paid by the fund. Alternatively, taxpayers would be required to add to or deduct from their income, as the case may be, the annual increase or decrease in the market value of their interest in the fund (the "mark-to-market" approach). These rules would replace the tax motivation test that "one of the main reasons for the taxpayer acquiring, holding or having an interest in a foreign-based investment fund was to avoid Canadian taxation". The rules would not apply where the foreign-based investment fund annually distributes or allocates to Canadian investors all of the fund's income to which those investors are entitled.
- That a foreign-based investment fund be defined as any non-resident corporation, trust, fund or other entity where more than 50 per cent of the cost of the entity's assets are investment properties. Look-through rules would apply in respect of significant investments in other entities for the purpose of making this determination. Where trusts are subject to the proposed non-resident trust rules, such trusts would not be subject to these rules.
- That investment funds situated in the United States not be subject to these rules since tax avoidance and deferral opportunities are not a concern through the use of such vehicles.
- That a five-year exception for temporary residents and new immigrants apply. Additional exemptions could be contemplated to remove from the rules foreign- based investment funds that are clearly not used to avoid or defer Canadian tax.
- That the proposed rules apply to any taxation year commencing after 1999, with respect to any interest in a foreign-based investment fund (in which the taxpayer does not already own an interest) not covered by the exceptions, acquired by a Canadian resident on or after February 16, 1999. All interests in any foreign-based investment fund not covered by the exceptions would be subject to the proposed rules for taxation years commencing after 2000.

Related Provisions: 53(1)(m) — Addition to ACB; 94(1)(c)(i)(D) — Income under 94.1 included in income of offshore trust; 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"C — Application to determination of FAPI.

Pre-RSC History: Subpara. 94.1(1)(f)(ii) amended by 1985, c. 45, s. 46, to substitute "prescribed rate of interest" for "rate of interest prescribed for the purpose of subsection 161(1)".

Regulations: 4301(c) (prescribed rate of interest for 94.1(1)(f)(ii)); to date, no prescribed non-resident entities prescribed for 94.1(1)(a).

(2) Definitions — In this section,

"designated cost" to a taxpayer at any time in a taxation year of an offshore investment fund property that the taxpayer holds or has an interest in means the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B + C + D$$

where

A is the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at that time (determined without reference to paragraphs 53(1)(m) and (q), subparagraph 53(2)(c)(i.3), paragraphs 53(2)(g) and (g.1) and section 143.2),

B is, where an additional amount has been made available by a person to another person after 1984 and before that time, whether by way of gift, loan, payment for a share, transfer of property at less than its fair market value or otherwise, in circumstances such that it may reasonably be concluded that one of the main reasons for so making the additional amount available to the other person was to increase the value of the property, the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which such an additional amount exceeds any increase in the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property by virtue of that additional amount,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in respect of the offshore investment fund property by virtue of this section in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year, and

D is

(a) where the taxpayer has held or has had the interest in the property at all times since the end of 1984, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at the end of 1984 exceeds the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at the end of 1984, or

(b) in any other case, the total of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at the particular time the taxpayer acquired the property exceeds the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at the particular time, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would have been included in respect of the property because of this section in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that began before June 20, 1996 if the cost to the taxpayer of the property were equal to the fair market value of the property at the particular time

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was included in respect of the property because of this section in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that began before June 20, 1996, except that the designated cost of an offshore investment fund property that is a prescribed offshore investment fund property is nil;

History: The description of A in the definition "designated cost" in subsec. 94.1(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 121(1), applicable after September 26, 1994, except that as it applies to taxation years that ended before April 27, 1995, the description of A shall be read as follows:

A is the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at that time (determined without reference to paragraph 53(1)(m), subparagraph 53(2)(c)(i.3) and section 143.2),

The description formerly read:

A is the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at that time (determined without reference to paragraph 53(1)(m)),

The description of D in the definition "designated cost" in subsec. 94.1(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 121(2), applicable to taxation years that begin after June 20, 1996. The description formerly read:

D is, where the taxpayer held or had the interest in the property at the end of 1984, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at that time,

Pre-RSC History: The definition "designated cost" was para. 94.1(2)(a). It contained descriptive subparagraphs instead of the present formula. The pre-R.S.C. version read:

(a) "designated cost" — "designated cost" to a taxpayer at any time in a taxation year of an offshore investment fund property that he holds or has an interest in means the aggregate of

(i) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at that time (determined without reference to paragraph 53(1)(m)),

(ii) where an additional amount has been made available by a person to another person after 1984 and before that time, whether by way of gift, loan, payment for a share, transfer of property at less than its fair market value or otherwise, in circumstances such that it may reasonably be concluded that one of the main reasons for so making the additional amount available to the other person was to increase the value of the property, the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which such an additional amount exceeds any increase in the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property by virtue of that additional amount,

(iii) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is an amount included in respect of the offshore investment fund property by virtue of this section in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year, and

(iv) where the taxpayer held or had the interest in the property at the end of 1984, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds the cost amount to the taxpayer of the property at that time, except that the designated cost of an offshore investment fund property that is a prescribed offshore investment fund property is nil; and Regulations: 6900 (prescribed offshore investment fund property).

"non-resident entity" means a corporation that is not resident in Canada, a partnership, organization, fund or entity that is not resident or is not situated in Canada or a trust with respect to which the rules in paragraph 94(1)(c) or (d) apply.

Pre-RSC History: The definition "non-resident entity" was para. 94.1(2)(b).

(3) Interpretation — Where subsection (1) is applied with respect to an offshore investment fund property that was

(a) held by the taxpayer on February 15, 1984,

(b) received as a stock dividend in respect of a share of the capital stock of a non-resident entity held by the taxpayer on February 15, 1984,

(c) received as a stock dividend in respect of a share of the capital stock of a non-resident entity that the taxpayer had previously received as described in paragraph (b), or

(d) substituted for a property held by the taxpayer on February 15, 1984 pursuant to an arrangement that existed on that date, the reference to "1984" in the descriptions of B and D in the definition "designated cost" in subsection (2) shall be read as a reference to "1985".

Origin of subsec. 94.1(3): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the application rule in 1984, c. 45, s. 30, as amended by 1985, c. 45, s. 148).

Proposed Amendment — 94.1, 94.2, 94.3

Technical Notes: Existing section 94.1 of the Act applies where a taxpayer has invested in an offshore investment fund and one of the main reasons for the investment is to reduce or defer the tax liability that would have applied to the income generated from the underlying assets of the fund if such income had been earned directly by the taxpayer. In these circumstances, existing section 94.1 generally requires an amount to be included in computing the taxpayer's income from the investment. This amount is determined, in general terms, by multiplying the cost amount of the taxpayer's investment by a factor based on interest rates prescribed under Part XLIII of the Regulations.

Section 94.1 is replaced by provisions in new sections 94.1 to 94.3, which contain rules governing the tax treatment of interests in foreign investment entities (FIEs). Under the new rules, a taxpayer's investment motives are no longer relevant. In computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year, where a taxpayer so elects and has sufficient information to comply, new section 94.1 generally requires the inclusion of the taxpayer's share of FIE income for each FIE taxation year that ends in the taxpayer's taxation year. New section 94.2 applies in place of the rules in section 94.1 in all other cases. Under section 94.2, a taxpayer takes into account the annual increase or decrease in the fair market value of the taxpayer's interest in an FIE in computing the taxpayer's income from the FIE. Section 94.3 is designed to prevent double taxation with respect to amounts included in income under sections 94.1 and 94.2.

New section 94.1 applies to taxation years of Canadian investors that begin after 2000.

The table below provides an overview of new sections 94.1 to 94.3 and related provisions.

Issue	Summary	References
1. Which taxpayers are subject to the new FIE rules?	A. All taxpayers, except exempt taxpayers. Except as indicated in (C), below, FIE rules do not apply to non-resident taxpayers.	S. 94.1(2) to (4) and 94.2(3) and (4). "Exempt taxpayer" (s. 94.1(1)). Non-resident taxpayers: see also s. 94.1(3) and 94.2(5).
	B. Partnerships with members resident in Canada must allocate FIE income to those members.	Existing section 96, including exception in s. 96(1.9). See also s. 94.2(6) for application to cases where partnership members become resident in Canada.
	C. Controlled foreign affiliates.	New s. 95(2)(g.2).
2. What property is subject to the new FIE rules?	A. Participating interests (other than exempt interests) in foreign investment entities. However, if no taxation year of an FIE has ended before the end of the taxpayer's taxation year, the FIE rules do not apply to the taxpayer for the taxpayer's year in respect of the FIE.	S. 94.1(2). The following definitions in s. 94.1(1): "entity", "non-resident entity", "foreign investment entity", "exempt interest" and "participating interest".

Issue	Summary	References
	B. Where property described in (A) is a right to acquire property or is not capital property, it is not subject to section 94.1 but it is subject to s. 94.2.	S. 94.1(4) and 94.2(3).
	C. Interests in non-resident entities, where those interests track returns in respect of investment property. This property is subject only to s. 94.2, not to s. 94.1.	S. 94.2(9). See also amended s. 91(1).
	D. Interests in certain foreign insurance policies. This property is subject only to s. 94.2, not s. 94.1.	S. 94.2(10).
3. What is the difference in the tax treatment of FIE interests between s. 94.1 and s. 94.2?	A. Section 94.1. Taxes only investor's "share" of FIE's income (e.g., does not include FIE's share of unrealized gains).	S. 94.1(3).
	B. Section 94.2. Full appreciation/decline in fair market value recognized on an annual basis.	S. 94.2(4)
4. How will foreign affiliates of taxpayers resident in Canada be treated under new FIE rules?	Subject to s. 94.2(9) (tracked interests), a taxpayer's share of the capital stock of a controlled foreign affiliate is exempt from the new FIE rules. In certain cases, a taxpayer can elect to have a foreign affiliate treated as a controlled foreign affiliate.	Paragraph (a) of the definition "exempt interest". S. 94.1(12).
5. If a non-resident corporation that is an FIE pays out dividends, how are these dividends taxed?	A. General principle: existing rules apply.	Existing s. 90 and 113.
	B. Relief provided to prevent double taxation. This relief extends to taxable distribution from other FIEs (e.g., trusts).	S. 94.3.
	C. Special rules in the event that the dividends paid to another FIE.	S. 94.1(5)A(g).
6. In what circumstances is a taxpayer subject to sections 94.1 and 94.2, respectively?	A. S. 94.2 rule applies, except as expressly provided otherwise.	S. 94.1(2) to (4) and s. 94.1(3).
	B. Election to use s. 94.1 available.	S. 94.1(4)
	C. Requirement to use s. 94.2 where insufficient information to use s. 94.1.	S. 94.1(17)
	D. Requirement for FIEs to calculate own income with reference to s. 94.2.	S. 94.1(4)(e)
	E. Requirement to use s. 94.2 in the case of properties described in 2(B), (C) and (D), above.	See references in 2(B), (C) and (D).

The table above reflects two main variations from the outline of the proposals put forward for consultation for foreign investment funds in the 1999 budget papers and the November 30, 1999 press release issued by the Minister of Finance. First, in recognition of the complexity associated with proposed section 94.1 and the likelihood that most investors will not have sufficient information to comply with the section, the simpler mark-to-market regime has been made the "default" regime. Second, there is no exemption provided for foreign investment funds that distribute their income annually for the following reasons:

- these distributions may not necessarily be subject to immediate Canadian income tax;
- such an exemption could inappropriately allow for the use of tiered structures under which a fund that distributes annually itself invests, directly or indirectly, in a foreign investment fund that does not distribute annually; and
- to provide equality of treatment between domestic and foreign investment funds, it would be necessary to use income for Canadian tax purposes for the purpose of such an exemption.

However, income of this nature is not generally calculated by foreign investment funds and would not normally be known by investors.

94.1 Foreign Investment Entities — Accrual Treatment — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section and sections 94.2 and 94.3.

"carrying value" at any time of property of an entity means

(a) where a balance sheet of the entity is prepared as of that time in accordance with accounting principles substantially similar to generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada, the balance sheet is distributed not later than three months after that time to holders of participating interests in the entity at that time and the property is valued in the balance sheet, the amount at which the property is valued in the balance sheet; and

(b) in any other case, the amount at which the property would be valued for the purpose of the entity's balance sheet as of that time if a balance sheet of the entity were prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada at that time.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.1(1) of the Act defines a number of expressions for the purpose of section 94.1. These definitions are also relevant for the purposes of sections 94.2 and 94.3.

The "carrying value" of a property held by an entity at any time is the amount at which the property is valued as of that time for the purpose of the entity's balance sheet, except where

- the balance sheet was not prepared in accordance with accounting principles similar to generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada, or
- the balance sheet was not distributed within 3 months after that time.

The carrying value of a property is generally expected to be either the historical cost of the property or the fair market value of the property. In the event that a qualifying balance sheet is not prepared or distributed on a timely basis or the property is not expressly valued, a property's carrying value is the amount at which the property would have been valued using generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada.

The carrying value of property is relevant primarily for the purpose of determining whether a non-resident entity is an FIE. This determination is made at the end of the entity's taxation year. (For further detail, see the commentary on the definition "foreign investment entity".) However, it should be noted that the look-through rule in subsection 94.1(10) can affect the properties considered to be owned by an entity and the carrying values of the entity's properties. This look-through rule applies where the entity has a "significant interest" (defined in subsection 94.1(11)) in a corporation, partnership, or trust. For the purposes of the look-through rule, the time at which the determination of carrying value is made is the end of the taxation year of the first tier non-resident entity (whether or not lower tier entities share the same taxation year).

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 94.1(10) — Deemed carrying value.

"entity" includes a trust, a corporation, an organization and a fund, but does not include a partnership unless a contrary intent is evident.

Technical Notes: An entity includes a trust, a corporation, an organization and a fund. Subject to the comments below, it does not include a partnership. The new rules are designed so that, in the case of partnerships, members' shares of incomes and losses are allocated in accordance with section 96 (including new subsection 96(1.9), described in the commentary below).

An "entity" does, however, include a partnership to the extent that this intent is evident in section 94.1. The intent is evident in the definition "carrying value" and paragraph 94.1(10)(c), as it may be necessary to determine the carrying value of the assets of a partnership because of the operation of subsection 94.1(10).

"excluded investment business" of a corporation in a period means an investment business of the corporation in the period where, throughout the part of the period during which the business was carried on, all or substantially all of the corporation's assets used or held in the business are participating interests or debt issued by one or more other corporations

(a) each of which is related to the corporation or is a corporation in which the corporation has a significant interest; and

(b) the principal business carried on by each of which in the period is not an investment business.

Technical Notes: An "excluded investment business" is a type of "investment business" (as described in the commentary below) that is provided favourable tax treatment. The favourable treatment arises because of the reference to "excluded investment business" in the definition "qualifying corporation". A publicly traded share issued by a "qualifying corporation" is generally an "exempt interest" to which the FIE regime in sections 94.1 and 94.2 does not apply. In addition, there is a reference to an "excluded investment business" in subsection 94.1(12) which permits an election to be made by a taxpayer to treat a foreign affiliate principally carrying on an excluded investment business as a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

In general terms, an "excluded investment business" is a business of a corporation in which it finances the operations of related corporations that do not carry on investment businesses. Thus, an "excluded investment business" has a substantial link to active businesses (or, more precisely, to businesses that are not investment businesses).

More specifically, an "excluded investment business" of a particular corporation in a period is defined as an "investment business" of the particular corporation in the period where, throughout the part of the period throughout which the business was carried on, all or substantially all of the particular corporation's assets used or held in the business are participating interests or debt issued by one or more corporations:

- related to the particular corporation (or in which the particular corporation has a "significant interest", as defined in subsection 94.1(11)), and
- the principal businesses of which are not investment businesses.

Related Provisions: 94.1(11) — Significant interest.

"exempt interest" of a taxpayer in a foreign investment entity at any time means

(a) a participating interest held by the taxpayer at that time in a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer;

(b) property held by the taxpayer at that time that is a share of a class of the capital stock of a particular corporation or a right to acquire a share of the class, where

(i) the class is, throughout the part of the taxpayer's taxation year that includes that time (which year is in this definition referred to as the "relevant year") during which shares of the class (or rights to acquire shares of the class) are held by the taxpayer, widely-held, actively traded on a regular basis and listed on a prescribed stock exchange, and

(ii) either

(A) the particular corporation's principal business was not an investment business in the period referred to in subparagraph (i), or

(B) the particular corporation is a qualifying corporation in the period referred to in subparagraph (i);

(c) where the taxpayer is a financial institution (within the meaning assigned by subsection 142.2(1)) in the relevant year, a participating interest that is a mark-to-market property (within the meaning assigned by subsection 142.2(1)) for that year; and

(d) a participating interest of the taxpayer in a testamentary trust that, before that time, has never been acquired for consideration.

Technical Notes: An "exempt interest" of a taxpayer in an FIE is each of the following properties:

- a participating interest held by the taxpayer in a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (including an affiliate that is a controlled foreign affiliate because of an election under new subsection 94.1(12)),
- as described in greater detail below, certain shares and options in respect of publicly traded corporations,
- where the taxpayer is a financial institution (as defined in subsection 142.2(1)), a participating interest held by the taxpayer that is mark-to-market property (as defined in that same subsection), and
- a participating interest in a testamentary trust, provided the interest has not been acquired for consideration.

The rules in sections 94.1 and 94.2 generally do not apply in respect of "exempt interests". In most cases, the time of determination for whether a property is an "exempt interest" in an entity is the end of a taxation year of the entity. See, in this regard, subsection 94.1(2).

As noted above, an exempt interest includes certain shares and options with respect to publicly traded FIEs. Given the definition "foreign investment entity", most non-resident financial institutions and real estate development companies, and some resource companies, are expected to be classified as FIEs. Consequently, shares issued by these entities (as well as options in respect of these shares) would be subject to the rules in section 94.1 or 94.2 if it were not for the definition "exempt interest". Under paragraph (b) of the definition "exempt interest", the FIE rules will not apply to a taxpayer's shares and rights to acquire shares of a class of the capital stock of a non-resident corporation held during a taxation year of the taxpayer where, in the period in the year during which the property was held:

- the class is widely held, actively traded and listed on a prescribed stock exchange (note: stock exchanges listed in section 3200 or 3201 of the Regulations are to be prescribed for this purpose), and
- either
  - — the corporation's principal business was not an investment business (as defined in subsection 94.1(1) and described in the commentary below) in the period, or
  - — the corporation is a qualifying corporation in the period. (See commentary below on the definition "qualifying corporation".)

Related Provisions: 95(2)(g.2)(viii)(A) — Application to FAPI rules.

"exempt taxpayer" for a taxation year means

(a) an individual (other than a trust) who, before the end of the year, was resident in Canada for a period of, or periods the total of which is, not more than 60 months, but not including an individual who, before the end of the year, was never non-resident; and

(b) an entity the taxable income of which for a period any part of which occurs in the year is exempt from tax under this Part because of subsection 149(1) (otherwise than because of paragraph 149(1)(q.1), (t) or (z)).

Technical Notes: An individual is an "exempt taxpayer" for a taxation year where the individual, before the end of the year, was a resident of Canada for a period of, or periods the total of which is, 60 months or less. (Children who have always been resident in Canada cannot fall within the 60-month exception.)

The rules in new sections 94.1 and 94.2 do not apply in respect of periods during which a taxpayer qualifies as an exempt taxpayer, due to the reference to exempt taxpayers in paragraph 94.1(2)(a) and subsections 94.2(9) and (10). The 60-month exemption for new immigrants to Canada is similar to an exemption in the rules for non-resident trusts in existing section 94.

Tax-exempt entities to which subsection 149(1) applies are also included as exempt taxpayers. However, this inclusion does not apply to retirement compensation arrangements and qualifying environmental trusts for which alternative income tax rules are provided under Parts XI.3 and XII.4. The inclusion also does not apply to insurers to which paragraph 149(1)(t) applies, given the taxability of those insurers pursuant to subsection 149(4.1).

The express reference to tax-exempt entities is generally of significance for the purposes of calculating Part I tax only in the context of the narrow circumstances to which new subsection 94.2(16) applies. That subsection contemplates a case where a taxpayer ceases to be an "exempt taxpayer" and subsequently becomes an "exempt taxpayer". However, the reference to tax-exempt entities may also be of significance in the context of Part XI (foreign property limits), given that the application of sections 94.1 and 94.2 has an impact on the cost amount of participating interests in FIEs.

Related Provisions: 94.2(16) — Fresh start on change of status; 96(1.9) — Where exempt taxpayer is member of partnership.

"foreign bank" has the same meaning as in subsection 95(1).

Technical Notes: The definition "foreign bank" has the same meaning as in subsection 95(1). The expression is used in the definition "investment business".

"foreign investment entity" at any time means a non-resident entity at that time except where, at the end of its taxation year that includes that time,

(a) the entity would be an exempt foreign trust (within the meaning assigned by subsection 94(1)) if the definition "exempt trust" in subsection 233.2(1) were read without reference to paragraph (c) of that definition;

(b) the entity is

(i) a personal trust, and

(ii) not a non-discretionary trust; or

(c) the carrying value of all of the entity's investment property is not more than one-half of the carrying value of all of the entity's property.

Technical Notes: The new tax regime for FIEs in sections 94.1 and 94.2 generally applies only to participating interests in a foreign entity that is a "foreign investment entity".

A non-resident entity is generally a "foreign investment entity" throughout one of its taxation years where the total carrying value of its investment property is greater than 50% of the total carrying value of all of its property at the end of the year. In making this determination, the entity's property must be identified as either investment property or other property and it must be assigned a carrying value.

A foreign investment entity does not, however, include:

- an "exempt foreign trust" under subsection 94(1) (other than a widely-held mutual fund trust referred to in paragraph (c) of the definition "exempt trust" in existing subsection 233.2(1)), or
- a discretionary personal trust (or, more precisely, a trust that is not a "non-discretionary trust").

For more detail, see the commentary on the expressions "entity", "non-resident entity", "investment property" and "carrying value" in subsection 94.1(1). "Non-discretionary trust" is newly defined in subsection 248(1), with reference to the definition of the same expression in subsection 17(15).

Special rules in subsections 94.1(10) and (13) generally limit the circumstances in which a non-resident entity falls within the definition "foreign investment entity".

Related Provisions: 94.1(13) — Exception for qualifying dispositions and issues.

"investment business" of an entity in a period means a business carried on by the entity at any time in the period the principal purpose of which is to derive income from property (including interest, dividends, rents, royalties or any similar return on investment or any substitute for such a return), income from the insurance or reinsurance of risks, income from the factoring of trade accounts receivable, or profits from the disposition of indebtedness or properties described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) or (f) to (l) of the definition "investment property", unless it is established that, throughout the part of the period during which the business was carried on by the entity, the business (other than any business conducted principally with persons with whom the entity does not deal at arm's length) is

(a) a business carried on by the entity as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union or an insurance corporation, the activities of which are regulated under the laws of the country in which the business is principally carried on;

(b) the development of real estate for sale;

(c) the rental of real estate held by the entity if the management, maintenance, and other services in respect of the real estate are provided principally by the employees of the entity or of a corporation related to it; or

(d) the development of foreign resource property.

Technical Notes: The expression "investment business" is used in the definitions "exempt interest" and "investment property", as well as in subsection 94.1(12) (election to be a controlled foreign affiliate). The definition "investment business" is similar to the definition of the same expression in existing subsection 95(1). Note, however, that in this definition:

- there is no exception for traders and dealers in securities or for the lending of money, the leasing or licensing of property or the insurance or reinsurance of risks;
- there is a greater accommodation of real estate businesses and businesses involved in the development of foreign resource properties;
- there is no explicit requirement for a specific number of full-time employees for the exceptions to the definition to apply; and
- the supporting definitions and rules contained in subsections 95(1) to (2.4) are not relevant.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

"investment property" of an entity includes property that is

(a) a share of the capital stock of a corporation;

(b) an interest in a partnership;

(c) an interest in a trust;

(d) an interest in any other entity;

(e) indebtedness, other than accounts receivable that arose from the sale of tangible property or services in the ordinary course of a business of the entity that is not an investment business;

(f) an annuity;

(g) a commodity or commodity future purchased or sold, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, on a commodities or commodities futures exchange (except a commodity manufactured, produced, grown, extracted or processed by the entity or a person to whom the entity is related, otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b), or a commodity future in respect of such a commodity);

(h) real estate;

(i) a Canadian resource property or foreign resource property;

(j) currency;

(k) a derivative financial product (other than a commodity future to which the exception in paragraph (g) applies); or

(l) an interest, option, or right in respect of property included in any of paragraphs (a) to (k).

Technical Notes: The expression "investment property" includes a list of specified properties. Most of the specified properties (e.g., shares, partnership interests, real estate and resource properties) are also specified in the definition of the same expression in subsection 95(1). In addition to the properties also specified in the definition in subsection 95(1), "investment property" held by a particular entity includes:

- an interest in an organization, fund or other entity;
- most derivative financial products; and
- interests, options and rights in respect of the above properties.

It should be noted, however, that "investment property" in subsection 94.1(1) does not include accounts receivable that arise from the sale of tangible property or services in the ordinary course of a business (other than an "investment business", described above).

The definition is primarily relevant for purposes of the determining whether a non-resident entity is a "foreign investment entity".

"non-resident entity" at any time means

(a) a corporation or trust that is non-resident at that time; and

(b) any entity (other than a corporation or trust)

(i) organized under the laws of a jurisdiction outside Canada, or

(ii) the governance of which is provided at that time under the laws of a jurisdiction outside Canada.

Technical Notes: One of the requirements for an entity to be an FIE to which sections 94.1 and 94.2 apply is that the entity must be a "non-resident entity".

In addition to non-resident corporations and trusts, a "non-resident entity" includes any other type of entity

- organized under the laws of a jurisdiction outside Canada, or
- the governance of which is provided under the laws of a jurisdiction outside Canada.

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada.

"participating interest" in an entity means

(a) where the entity is a corporation,

(i) a share of the capital stock of the corporation, and

(ii) a right to acquire a share of the capital stock of the corporation;

(b) where the entity is a trust,

(i) a beneficial interest in the trust, and

(ii) a right to acquire a beneficial interest in the trust; and

(c) in any other case, an interest in the entity or a right to acquire an interest in the entity.

Technical Notes: A "participating interest" in an entity means a share of the capital stock of, or an interest in, the entity. It also includes a right to acquire such a share or interest. Section 94.1 or 94.2 generally applies to a taxpayer in respect of a participating interest in an FIE that is not an "exempt interest" of the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 94.2(12) — Cost of participating interest.

"qualifying corporation" in a period means a particular corporation all or substantially all of the assets of which are, throughout the period, any combination of

(a) properties (other than investment properties); and

(b) shares and debt issued by one or more other corporations each of which

(i) is, at any time in the period, a corporation all of the shares of which (other than directors' qualifying shares) are held by

(A) the particular corporation,

(B) a corporation related to the particular corporation, or

(C) any combination of corporations described in clauses (A) and (B), and

(ii) is either

(A) a corporation the principal business of which throughout the period is

(I) an excluded investment business, or

(II) a business that is not an investment business, or

(B) a qualifying corporation in the period.

Technical Notes: Shares issued by a qualifying corporation are generally exempt from the FIE regime in sections 94.1 and 94.2 because of the definition "exempt interest" (described in the commentary above), provided the shares are widely-held, actively traded and listed on a prescribed stock exchange.

In general terms, a "qualifying corporation" is a corporation that (directly or indirectly) finances the active business operations of related corporations.

More specifically, a "qualifying corporation" in a period is defined as a particular corporation all or substantially all of the assets of which are, throughout the period, any combination of:

- properties (other than investment properties), and
- shares or debt issued by one or more other corporations each of which
  - — is, at any time in the period, a corporation all of the shares of which (other than directors' qualifying shares) are held by any combination of the particular corporation and related corporations, and
  - — either
    - — has as its principal business an excluded investment business or a business (other than an investment business), or
    - — is itself a qualifying corporation in the period.

Reference should also be made to the commentary on the definition "excluded investment business".

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 94.1(1)"exempt interest"(b)(ii)(B) — Share of qualifying corporation can be exempt interest.

"taxation year" of a non-resident entity means

(a) in the case of a corporation the accounts of which have ordinarily been made up for a period not exceeding 53 weeks, that period; and

(b) in any other case, a calendar year.

Technical Notes: The "taxation year" of a non-resident entity is a calendar year. However, if the entity is a corporation, its taxation year is the period, not exceeding 53 weeks, for which its accounts are ordinarily made up.

(2) Conditions for application of tax regime for foreign investment entities — This subsection applies to a taxpayer for a particular taxation year in respect of a participating interest held in the particular year by the taxpayer in a non-resident entity where

(a) the taxpayer is not an exempt taxpayer for the particular year;

(b) a taxation year of the entity ended at or before the end of the particular year;

(c) at the end of the latest of the entity's taxation years referred to in paragraph (b), the entity was a foreign investment entity;

(d) if the interest or identical property to the interest was held by the taxpayer at the end of the latest of the entity's taxation years referred to in paragraph (b), none of the interest and each identical property was, at the end of that year, an exempt interest in respect of the taxpayer; and

(e) if neither the interest nor identical property to the interest was held by the taxpayer at the end of the latest of the entity's taxation years referred to in paragraph (b), none of the interest and each identical property was, at the latest time in the particular year at which the interest or identical property was held by the taxpayer, an exempt interest in respect of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.1(2) of the Act sets out the common conditions for the application of the FIE rules in section 94.1(3) (accrual regime) and 94.2(4) (mark-to-market regime). For the accrual or mark-to-market regimes to apply to a taxpayer for a particular taxation year in respect of a participating interest held in the particular year by the taxpayer in a non-resident entity, all of the following conditions set out in subsection 94.1(2) must be satisfied:

- the taxpayer is not an "exempt taxpayer" for the particular year; [Paragraph 94.12(2)(a).]
- a taxation year of the entity ended at or before the end of the particular year and, at the end of the latest such taxation year of the entity, the entity was an FIE; [Paragraphs 94.1(2)(b) and (c).]
- where the interest or identical property to the interest was held by the taxpayer at the end of the latest such year, the interest or the identical property was not an "exempt interest" in respect of the taxpayer; [Paragraph 94.1(2)(d).] and
- where neither the interest nor identical property to the interest were held by the taxpayer at the end of the latest such year, the interest and each identical property was not an exempt interest while held in the particular year by the taxpayer. [Paragraph 94.1(2)(e).]

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 95(2)(g.2) — Application to FAPI rules.

(3) Income inclusion and deduction — Subject to subsection (4), where, at any time in a particular taxation year of a taxpayer, the taxpayer holds a participating interest, or two or more identical participating interests, in a non-resident entity and subsection (2) applies to the taxpayer for the particular year in respect of those interests, in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year in respect of such of those interests that are held by the taxpayer at the end of a taxation year of the entity (in this subsection referred to as the "relevant interests") that ends in the particular year, except where the taxpayer is non-resident at the end of the entity's year,

(a) there shall be added the positive amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$A - B - C - D$$

where

A is the taxpayer's income allocation in respect of the relevant interests for the entity's year,

B is the taxpayer's loss allocation in respect of the relevant interests for the entity's year,

C is the specified tax allocation of the taxpayer for the entity's year in respect of the relevant interests, and

D is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount determined in respect of the taxpayer under subparagraph (b)(i) for the preceding taxation year of the entity in respect of the relevant interests or identical properties

exceeds

(ii) the amount determined for that preceding year in respect of the taxpayer under subparagraph (b)(ii) in respect of the relevant interests or identical properties; and

(b) there may be deducted the lesser of

(i) the absolute value of the negative amount, if any, determined by the formula in paragraph (a) in respect of the relevant interests for the entity's year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount added under paragraph (a) in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the relevant interests or identical properties for a preceding taxation year of the entity

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under this paragraph in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the relevant interests or identical properties for a preceding taxation year of the entity.

Technical Notes: Where the accrual regime does apply to a taxpayer for a particular taxation year in connection with one or more of a taxpayer's identical participating interests in a non-resident entity, subsection 94.1(3) provides:

- The taxpayer's "income allocation" in respect of those interests for a taxation year of the entity ending in the particular year is added in computing the amount included in the taxpayer's income under subsection 94.1(3), to the extent that the taxpayer held those interests at the end of the entity's year. (However, in order to clarify the application of section 114 to part-year residents and to ensure that section 94.1 does not affect the taxability of non-resident taxpayers, subsection 94.1(3) does not apply to a taxpayer for a taxation year in respect of an FIE's taxation year that ends in the taxpayer's year where the taxpayer is not resident in Canada at the end of the FIE's year.)
- The taxpayer's "loss allocation" in respect of those participating interests is deductible to the extent that there has previously been a net cumulative positive balance determined under subsection 94.1(3) in respect of the taxpayer for such property in respect of preceding taxation years of the entity. An unused loss allocation is carried forward to offset the total amount otherwise required to be computing the taxpayer's income under subsection 94.1(3) in respect of identical participating interests for a subsequent taxation year of the entity.
- A taxpayer's specified tax allocation in respect of the entity's year is treated in the same way as a loss allocation. However, unlike a loss allocation, a specified tax allocation can arise for the same entity's year as an income allocation. Where this is the case, the specified tax allocation can directly offset the income allocation. A taxpayer's specified tax allocation, as determined under subsection 94.1(8), represents the taxpayer's grossed-up share or income of profits tax paid by the entity in the year on account of a liability for income or profits tax for the entity's year or an earlier year of the entity. The taxpayer's share of taxes in respect of the liability year is determined with reference to the taxpayer's position in the entity at the end of the liability year.

The examples after the commentary on subsections 94.1(5) and (6) illustrate the operation of subsection 94.1(3).

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 94.1(4) — Exceptions; 94.1(5) — Income allocation; 94.1(7) — Loss allocation; 94.1(8) — Specified tax allocation; 94.3(2)(a)(ii) — Prevention of double taxation; 95(2)(g.2) — Application to FAPI rules; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(4) Exceptions — Subsection (3) applies to a taxpayer for a taxation year in respect of a participating interest held in the year by the taxpayer in a non-resident entity only where

(a) the taxpayer so elects in respect of the interest in prescribed form and files the election with the Minister not later than the taxpayer's filing-due date for the year;

(b) the taxpayer filed an election under paragraph (a) in respect of the interest (or property identical to it) for each preceding taxation year that began after 2000 and in which the interest or the identical property was held by the taxpayer;

(c) subsection (17) does not apply to the taxpayer for the year in respect of the interest;

(d) subsection 94.2(3) does not, because of subsection 94.2(9), apply to the taxpayer for the year or a preceding taxation year in respect of the interest or identical property to the interest;

(e) the taxpayer is not a foreign investment entity;

(f) the interest is not a right to acquire

(i) shares of the capital stock of the entity, or

(ii) an interest in the entity; and

(g) the interest would, if this Act were read without reference to subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3) and section 94.2, be capital property.

Technical Notes: Notwithstanding the above, the mark-to-market regime, rather than the accrual regime, applies where the exceptions under subsection 94.1(4) apply. Subsection 94.1(4) provides that the accrual regime applies only to capital property and only where an election to use the accrual regime has been made at the earliest opportunity. Moreover, the accrual regime does not apply to a taxpayer for a taxation year in respect of a participating interest in a non-resident entity in the following cases:

- where section 94.1 does not apply because of the operation of subsection 94.1(17) (insufficient information),
- where, because of subsection 94.2(9) (tracked interests), subsection 94.2(3) applies or has applied to the taxpayer in respect of the interest or identical property,
- where the taxpayer is itself an FIE, [See commentary on paragraph 94.1(5)A(a) for more detail.] or
- where the interest is an option or similar right to acquire.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(g.2)(ix) — Application to FAPI rules; 96(3) — Election by members of partnership.

(5) Income allocation — For the purpose of subsection (3), the income allocation of a particular taxpayer in respect of a participating interest, or two or more identical participating interests, of the particular taxpayer in a foreign investment entity for a particular taxation year of the entity is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount that would be the income of the entity for the particular year if

(a) except for the purposes of section 91, paragraph (4)(e), subsection 107.4(1) and paragraph (f) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), the entity had been a taxpayer resident in Canada throughout the entity's existence,

(b) each property held by the entity at the beginning of the entity's fresh start year in respect of the particular taxpayer had been

(i) disposed of by the entity immediately before that time for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time, and

(ii) reacquired by the entity at that time at a cost equal to that fair market value,

(c) for the entity's fresh start year in respect of the particular taxpayer and for each following taxation year of the entity, each deduction in computing the entity's income that is contingent on a claim by the entity had been claimed by the entity to the extent, and only to the extent, designated by the particular taxpayer in prescribed form filed with the Minister with the particular taxpayer's return of income for the particular taxpayer's taxation year in which that fresh start year or the following year, as the case may be, ends,

(d) the entity had deducted the greatest amounts that it could have claimed or deducted as a reserve under sections 20, 138 and 140 for its taxation year that precedes its fresh start year in respect of the particular taxpayer,

(e) for the purposes of applying sections 37, 65 to 66.4 and 66.7, the entity had not existed before the entity's fresh start year in respect of the particular taxpayer,

(f) this Act were read without reference to subsections 20(11) and (12) and 104(4) to (6),

(g) where the particular taxpayer is a corporation resident in Canada, dividends received by the entity in the particular year from a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer were included in computing the income of the entity for the particular year only where

(i) the particular taxpayer did not have a qualifying interest (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 95(2)(m)) in the affiliate at the time the dividends were received, or

(ii) taking into account the application of paragraphs (a) and (i), subsection 94.2(4) applied for the purpose of computing the entity's income for the particular year in respect of the entity's participating interest in the affiliate,

(h) where the entity holds at any time in the particular year a participating interest in a non-resident entity, the description of D in paragraph 94.2(4)(a) did not apply in respect of that interest, and

(i) the words "controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer" in paragraph (a) of the definition "exempt interest" referred to a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer and not to a controlled foreign affiliate of the entity;

B is the fair market value of those interests at the end of the particular year; and

C is the fair market value of all participating interests in the entity (other than rights to acquire shares of the capital stock of, or interests in, the entity) at the end of the year.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.1(5) of the Act provides for the calculation of a taxpayer's income allocation in respect of participating interests in an FIE. A taxpayer's income allocation in respect of one or more identical participating interest in an FIE held by the taxpayer at the end of the FIE's taxation year is included in computing the taxpayer's income under subsection 94.1(3). In general terms, a taxpayer's income allocation in respect of participating interests in an FIE is the proportion of the FIE's income for a taxation year that the fair market value of those interests is of the fair market value of all participating interests in the FIE.

The calculation of a taxpayer's income allocation in respect of an FIE depends on a calculation of income for the FIE in accordance with rules set out in paragraphs 94.1(5)A(a) to (i). The calculation for a particular taxpayer generally only takes into account an FIE's taxation years that end after the particular taxpayer first holds a participating interest in the FIE in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins after 2000. The first such FIE taxation year in respect of a taxpayer is defined in subsection 94.1(6) as the "fresh start year" of the FIE in respect of the taxpayer. This permits taxpayers to make independent calculations of an FIE's income for the purpose of determining income allocations under section 94.1.

The special rules that apply in calculating an FIE's income in respect of an investor taxpayer for the FIE's fresh start year and subsequent years are as follows:

- Subject to three exceptions, the FIE is generally treated as having been a taxpayer resident of Canada throughout its existence. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(a).] First, this rule does not apply for the purposes of proposed subsection 107.4(1) or proposed paragraph (f) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1). [Proposed section 107.4 and a new definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) are contained in a detailed Notice of Ways and Means Motion tabled on June 5, 2000.] with the result that property that is transferred to the FIE without there being any change in the beneficial ownership of the property is considered to have been transferred to the FIE under subsection 69(1) at the fair market value of the property. Second, this rule does not apply for the purposes of section 91 with the result that the FIE will not itself be required to include an amount in respect of foreign accrual property income in computing the FIE's income. Third, this rule does not apply for the purposes of paragraph 94.1(4)(e) with the result that section 94.2 (rather that section 94.1) potentially applies in the event that the FIE owns a participating interest in another FIE.
- Each property held by the FIE at the beginning of the fresh start year is deemed to have been disposed of for its fair market value immediately before that time and reacquired for the same amount at that time. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(b). Compare paragraph 149(10)(b).]
- Each discretionary deduction permitted in computing the FIE's income for the FIE's fresh start year and subsequent taxation years is deemed to have been claimed to the extent designated by the investor taxpayer. Thus, in calculating an income allocation in respect of the FIE, the investor taxpayer will be permitted to claim deductions such as capital cost allowance. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(c).]
- The FIE is assumed to have deducted the greatest amounts permissible, for its taxation year preceding the fresh start year, under sections 20, 138 and 140. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(d). Compare paragraph 149(10)(a.1).] These amounts are added in computing the FIE's income for the fresh start year, but appropriate deductions under these sections can be claimed for the fresh start year and subsequent taxation years. In the context of the reserve for life insurers under subsection 138(3), it is intended to amend paragraph (c) of the definition "reported reserve" in subsection 1408(1) of the Regulations so that the FIE can have a "reported reserve".

- The FIE is deemed not to have been in existence before the fresh start year for the purposes of sections 37, 65 to 66.4 and 66.7. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(e). Compare paragraph 149(10)(c).] As a consequence, the scientific research and resource expenditure pools to which these sections refer are ignored, to the extent that these pools were generated before the fresh start year.
- The FIE is not permitted to deduct any amount under subsection 20(11) or (12) in respect of its foreign tax. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(f).] However, foreign tax will be taken into account because the FIE's specified tax allocation (as determined under new subsection 94.1(8)) can offset amounts otherwise included in income under subsection 94.1(3).
- If the FIE is a trust, no amount is considered deductible under subsection 104(6) in determining its income for the year. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(f).] Double taxation for the investor taxpayer is avoided through the application of new subsection 94.3(2). In addition, no deemed disposition day under subsection 104(4) is determined in respect of the trust, whether or not the FIE falls outside the restricted meaning of "trust" for this purpose under subsection 108(1).
- If the investor taxpayer is a corporation resident in Canada and the FIE is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, any dividends received by the FIE from a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest (as determined under paragraph 95(2)(m)) are not included in the FIE's income. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(g).] Note, that this rule does not apply in the event that the FIE's interest in the foreign affiliate is subject to the mark-to-market regime in subsection 94.2(4). However, an income inclusion resulting from the application of subsection 94.2(4) for the FIE in some cases can, however, be offset by the deduction provided under new subsection 94.3(2).
- Where the FIE has an interest in another FIE, there is no "deferral amount" taken into account in computing the FIE's income pursuant to new subsection 94.2(4). [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(h).] (The fresh start rule described above eliminates the need for a "deferral amount".)
- Participating interests in controlled foreign affiliates of the investor taxpayer (rather than controlled foreign affiliates of the FIE) are treated as "exempt interests" of the FIE. [Paragraph 94.1(5)A(i).]

A taxpayer's income allocation in respect of a participating interest in a FIE is the proportion of an entity's income for a taxation year (determined in accordance with the special rules detailed above) that the fair market value at the end of the year of the participating interest is of the fair market value at that time of all participating interests in the entity (other than rights to acquire shares of the capital stock of, or to acquire interests in, the entity).

For further details, see the related commentary on the expressions "foreign investment entity", "exempt interest" in subsection 94.1(1), as well as the commentary on subsection 94.1(5) (income allocation), subsection 94.1(7) (loss allocation) and subsection 94.1(8) (specified tax allocation).

The examples below illustrate the operation of subsections 94.1(3) and (5). It should be noted in this context that any negative amount otherwise resulting from the formula in paragraph 94.1(3)(a) is deemed to be nil as a result of the application of section 257.

Example 1

Canco owns shares in the capital stock of FIE-1, which like Canco has a calendar taxation year. Canco's income (loss) allocations for 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004 and 2005 are (100), 25, 90, (20) and 50, respectively.

Results

1. The amount included under subsection 94.1(3) in Canco's income for 2001 is nil (B = 100). The amount determined under subparagraph 94.1(3)(b)(i) for 2001 is 100, which can be carried forward to 2002.
2. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2002 is nil (A = 25, D = 100). The amount determined under subparagraph 94.1(3)(b)(i) for 2002 is 75, which can be carried forward to 2003.
3. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2003 is 15 (A = 90, D = 75). The amount determined under subparagraph 94.1(3)(b)(i) for 2003 is nil.
4. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2004 is nil (B = 20, D = 0). The amount deductible under paragraph 94.1(3)(b) is 15 (= the lesser of 20 and 15). The remaining $5 unused loss allocation can be carried forward to 2005.
5. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2005 is $45 (A = 50, D = 5).

Example 2

Canco owns shares in the capital stock of FIE-1, which like Canco has a calendar taxation year. Canco's income (loss) allocations for 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004 and 2005 are: (100), (125), (175), 300 and 150.

Results

1. The amount included under subsection 94.1(3) in Canco's income for 2001 is nil (B = 100). The amount determined under subparagraph 94.1(3)(b)(i) for 2001 is 100 (= B), which can be carried forward to 2002.
2. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2002 is nil (B = 125, D = 100). The amount determined under subparagraph 94.1(3)(b)(i) for 2002 is 225 (= B+D), which can be carried forward to 2003.
3. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2003 is nil (B = 175, D = 225). The amount determined under subparagraph 94.1(3)(b)(i) for 2003 is 400 (= B+D).
4. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2004 is nil (A = 300, D = 400). The amount deductible under paragraph 94.1(3)(b) is nil (= the lesser of 100 and nil). The remaining $100 unused loss allocation (= D – A) can be carried forward to 2005.
5. The amount included under paragraph 94.1(3)(a) in Canco's income for 2005 is $50 (A = 150, D = 100).

Example 3

1. Canco, FIE-1 and ABC Inc. each have taxation years that coincide with calendar years and each issue only one class of shares.
2. Canco is a corporation resident in Canada that holds 20% of the shares of the capital stock of an FIE (FIE-1).
3. FIE-1 owns 75% of the shares of the capital stock of ABC Inc.
4. ABC Inc. is not an FIE, but would be a controlled foreign affiliate of FIE-1 if FIE-1 were resident in Canada. Although ABC Inc. is a foreign affiliate of Canco, it is not a controlled foreign affiliate of Canco.
5. FIE-1 earns $5,000 in interest income in 2001. It also receives a dividend of $1,000 from ABC Inc.
6. The fair market value of FIE-1's shares in ABC Inc. increases by $6,500 in 2001. This increase in value ignores the $1,000 dividend paid from ABC Inc. (i.e., the increase in value would have been about $1,000 higher if no such dividends had been paid).

Results

1. Under subsection 94.1(3), Canco is required to include in computing income its income allocation in respect of its shares in the capital stock of FIE-1. For this purpose, FIE-1's income is generally computed as if FIE-1 were resident in Canada.
2. FIE-1's income includes the $5,000 of interest income (as per paragraph 12(1)(c)). However, the $1,000 dividend from ABC Inc. is disregarded because of paragraph 94.1(5)A(g). Because of the reference to section 91 in paragraph 94.1(5)A(a), it is not necessary to make any foreign accrual property income calculation in respect of ABC Inc.
3. Canco must therefore include $1,000 (i.e., 20% × $5,000) in computing its income by virtue of subsection 94.1(3).

Example 4

Same facts as in example 3, except that ABC Inc. is itself an FIE.

Results

1. The mark-to-market rules in section 94.2 will apply in the calculation of FIE-1's income in respect of its interest in ABC Inc.. See, in this regard, paragraph 94.1(4)(e).
2. For the purpose of computing Canco's income allocation in respect of its shares in FIE-1, FIE-1's income would include the $5,000 of interest (as per example 3), but not include any share of foreign accrual property income (as per example 3). However, FIE-1's income would include the $1,000 dividend paid in addition to its gain determined under subsection 94.2(4) in respect of its participating interest in ABC Inc. This gain so determined is $7,500, which is equal to the $6,500 increase in the value of shares plus the $1,000 dividend paid. However, for the purposes of computing Canco's income allocation, a deduction for the $1,000 dividend is permitted for FIE-1 because subsection 94.3(2) would have permitted the deduction if FIE-1 had been resident in Canada.
3. Consequently, Canco's income allocation in respect of its shares of the capital stock of FIE-1 is equal to $2,500 [i.e., ($5,000 + $7,500 + $1,000 – $1,000) × 20%)]. This amount is required to be included in computing Canco's income under subsection 94.1(3).

Related Provisions: 94.1(6) — Fresh start year; 95(2)(g.2) — Application to FAPI rules; 96(3) — Election by members of partnership.

(6) Fresh start year — For the purpose of subsection (5), the fresh start year of a foreign investment entity in respect of a taxpayer is the first taxation year of the entity

(a) that ends in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins after 2000; and

(b) any time in which the taxpayer holds a participating interest in the entity.

Technical Notes: See under 94.1(5).

(7) Loss allocation — For the purpose of subsection (3), the loss allocation of a taxpayer in respect of a participating interest, or two or more identical participating interests, of the taxpayer in a foreign investment entity for a taxation year of the entity is the amount that would, if paragraphs (a) to (i) of the description of A in subsection (4) applied, be determined by the formula

$$(A - B) \times \frac{C}{D}$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is a loss of the entity for the year from business or property;

B is the amount determined under paragraph 3(c) in respect of the entity for the year;

C is the fair market value of those interests at the end of the year; and

D is the fair market value of all participating interests in the entity (other than rights to acquire shares of the capital stock of, or interests in, the entity) at the end of the year.

Technical Notes: A taxpayer's "loss allocation" in respect of the taxpayer's participating interest in an entity is relevant for the purposes of determining the amounts deductible and included in computing income under new subsection 94.1(3) of the Act. In general, a taxpayer's loss allocation in respect of an FIE is the proportion of the FIE's net loss for the year that the fair market value of the taxpayer's participating interest in the FIE is of the fair market value of all participating interests in the FIE. More specifically, a taxpayer's loss allocation in respect of a participating interest of a taxpayer in an entity for a taxation year of the entity is determined as follows:

- ADD the entity's total losses for the year from businesses and properties,
- SUBTRACT the amount determined under paragraph 3(c) for the entity for the year (i.e., the total amount of its income from business and property and taxable capital gains in excess of allowable capital losses for the year), and
- MULTIPLY any positive remainder by the percentage that the fair market value of the interest represents of the fair market value of all participating interests in the entity (other than rights to acquire participating interests).

The determination of a taxpayer's loss allocation is subject to the same special rules that apply for the purposes of computing a taxpayer's income allocation under subsection 94.1(5) (e.g., the entity is generally deemed to be resident in Canada).

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(8) Specified tax allocation — For the purpose of subsection (3), the specified tax allocation of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year of a non-resident entity in respect of a participating interest, or two or more identical participating interests, held by the taxpayer at the end of the particular year is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount determined, in respect of a taxation year of the entity (in this subsection referred to as the "liability year") that is the particular year or a preceding taxation year, by the formula

$$A \times (B/C) \times D$$

where

A is

(a) where the liability year ends in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins after 2000, the income or profits tax paid in the particular year by the particular entity for the liability year, and

(b) in any other case, nil;

B is

(a) where the taxpayer did not hold those interests or identical properties at the end of the liability year, nil, and

(b) in any other case, the total fair market value of those interests and identical properties that are held by the taxpayer at the end of the liability year;

C is the fair market value of all participating interests in the entity (other than rights to acquire shares of the capital stock of, or interests in, the entity) at the end of the liability year; and

D is the taxpayer's relevant tax factor (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1)) for the particular year.

Technical Notes: Under new subsection 94.1(3) of the Act, a taxpayer is entitled to deduct the taxpayer's specified tax allocation in computing income, provided that sufficient amounts are otherwise included under subsection 94.1(3) in computing the taxpayer's income.

A taxpayer's specified tax allocation for an entity's taxation year in respect of a participating interest in an entity is determined under subsection 94.1(8). It represents the total of the taxpayer's shares of "grossed-up" taxes paid by the entity in the entity's year in respect of the entity's liability for income or profits taxes for the entity's year and preceding taxation years of the entity. The taxpayer's share is based on the taxpayer's percentage fair market value interest in the entity at the end of each of the entity's taxation years to which the tax liability relates. The gross-up available to a taxpayer is equal to 163% for corporations and 100% for individuals, as a result of the taxpayer's share of income profits being multiplied by the relevant tax factor (2.63 for corporations and 2 for individuals).

Income or profits tax is normally expected to be tax that is paid by an entity to a foreign government. However, it could also include income tax paid to the government of Canada or a province with respect to income earned by the entity from Canadian sources. In each case, only income or profits tax payable for taxation years of entities that end in a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins after 2000 is taken into account.

The example below illustrates the operation of subsections 94.1(3) and (8).

Example

In 1998, Mireille (a resident of Canada) purchased a 30% participating interest in an entity (FIE-1) that is an FIE. The rate of foreign tax applicable to FIE-1's income is 20%. FIE-1's taxation years coincide with calendar years. For the purposes of computing Mireille's income allocation and loss allocation in respect of the interest, the income (loss) and the foreign tax of FIE-1 for taxation years 2001 to 2004 are as follows:

Year	2001	2002	2003	2004	Total
Income (loss)	$ 100,000	(120,000)	$95,000	$130,000	$205,000
*Foreign tax paid	$20,000	Nil	Nil	$21,000	$41,000

Notes:

* Assume foreign tax paid in the same taxation year as liability arose.

 Assume that an equivalent amount is carried forward under the laws of the relevant foreign jurisdiction to reduce FIE-1's tax liabilities after 2002.

Results

Mireille's income allocations, loss allocations and specified tax allocations are shown in the table below, as are the resulting income inclusions and deductions under subsection 94.1(3). The specified tax allocations in the table below are obtained by multiplying the related figures in the above table by 30% (Mireille's percentage interest) and 2 (specified tax factor for Mireille). For example, for 2001 Mireille's specified tax allocation is $12,000 ($20,000 × 30% × 2).

Year	2001	2002	2003	2004
A. Income allocation	$30,000	nil	$28,500	$39,000
B. Specified tax allocation	$12,000	nil	nil	$12,600
C. Loss allocation (used)	nil	$18,000	nil	nil
D. Carry-forward offset used	nil	nil	$18,000	nil
E. Loss allocation/ tax allocation to carryforward	nil	$18,000	nil	nil
Amount included in income under subsection 94.1(3) (A - B - C - D)	$18,000	nil	$10,500	$26,400
Amount deducted in computing income under subsection 94.1(3) (D + C + B – A)	nil	$18,000	nil	nil

(9) Adjusted cost base — In computing the adjusted cost base to a taxpayer of a participating interest in an entity at and after the end of a taxation year of the entity,

(a) there shall be added the amount, if any, added under subsection (3) in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the interest for the entity's year (or that would have been so added if this Act were read without reference to subsection 56(4.1) and sections 74.1 to 75); and

(b) there shall be deducted the amount, if any, deducted under subsection (3) in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the interest for the entity's year (or that would have been so deducted if this Act were read without reference to subsection 56(4.1) and sections 74.1 to 75).

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.1(9) of the Act provides for adjustments to the adjusted cost base (ACB) of a participating interest in an entity held by a taxpayer.

Paragraph 94.1(9)(a) provides for an addition to the ACB of a participating interest held by a taxpayer at the end of a taxation year of the entity, in respect of an amount included in computing the taxpayer's income under subsection 94.1(3) in respect of the interest and the year. Conversely, paragraph 94.1(9)(b) provides for a reduction to the ACB of a participating interest held by a taxpayer at the end of a taxation year of the entity, in respect of amounts deducted in computing the taxpayer's income under subsection 94.1(3) in respect of the interest and the year.

Related Provisions: 53(1)(m.1) — Addition to adjusted cost base; 53(2)(w) — Deduction from adjusted cost base; 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(10) Property deemed owned by an entity — Where at any time a particular entity has a significant interest in a corporation, a partnership or a non-discretionary trust, for the purposes of this section and section 94.2,

(a) the carrying value at that time of each participating interest held at that time by the particular entity in the corporation, partnership or trust (and of each debt owing to the particular entity by the corporation, partnership or trust that is investment property of the particular entity) is deemed to be nil;

(b) the property owned at that time by the corporation is deemed to be owned at that time by the particular entity and to have a carrying value at that time equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B/C$$

where

A is the carrying value of the property to the corporation at that time,

B B is the total of

(i) the fair market value at that time of the shares of the corporation owned at that time by the particular entity, and

(ii) the fair market value at that time of debts (other than debts that are not investment properties) owing at that time to the particular entity by the corporation, and

C is the total of

(i) the fair market value at that time of all the issued shares of the corporation outstanding at that time, and

(ii) the fair market value at that time of debts owing at that time by the corporation (other than debts that are not investment properties);

(c) the property owned at that time by the partnership is deemed to be owned at that time by the particular entity and to have a carrying value at that time equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$D \times E/F$$

where

D is the carrying value of the property to the partnership at that time,

E is the total of

(i) the fair market value of the interests in the partnership owned at that time by the particular entity, and

(ii) the fair market value of debts (other than debts that are not investment properties) owing at that time to the particular entity by the partnership, and

F is the total of

(i) the fair market value at that time of all interests in the partnership, and

(ii) the fair market value at that time of debts owing by the partnership (other than debts that are not investment property); and

(d) the property owned at that time by the trust is deemed to be owned at that time by the particular entity and to have a carrying value at that time equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$G \times H/I$$

where

G is the carrying value of the property to the trust at that time,

H is the total of

(i) the fair market value of the interests in the trust owned at that time by the particular entity, and

(ii) the fair market value of debts (other than debts that are not investment properties) owing at that time to the particular entity by the trust, and

I is the total of

(i) the fair market value at that time of all interests in the trust, and

(ii) the fair market value at that time of debts owing by the trust (other than debts that are not investment properties).

Technical Notes: New subsections 94.1(10) and (11) of the Act are relevant in determining whether a non-resident entity is an FIE. A non-resident entity is generally an FIE at any time if the carrying value of all of the entity's "investment property" is more than 50% of the "carrying value" of all its property at the end of the entity's taxation year that includes that time.

Where at any time an entity has a "significant interest" (as described below) in a corporation, partnership or non-discretionary trust, in determining the carrying value at that time of the entity's property, the carrying values of the entity's "participating interests" (as described in the commentary above) in the corporation, trust or partnership are deemed to be nil. Debt that is investment property (and that is owing to the entity by the corporation, partnership or trust) is also deemed to have a carrying value to the entity of nil. Instead, the entity is deemed to own the property of the corporation, trust or partnership. Each such property is deemed to have a carrying value to the entity based on the product of the property's carrying value to the corporation, trust or partnership and a percentage based on:

- the entity's percentage relative ownership (determined with reference to fair market value) of shares or interests in the corporation, partnership or trust, as the case may be, and
- the entity's percentage relative ownership (determined with reference to fair market value) in debt issued by the corporation, partnership or trust (other than debts that are not investment property), as the case may be.

Subsection 94.1(10) is intended to operate on an iterative basis. Thus, if there are tiers of entities each of which has a significant interest in the other, the intended effect of subsection 94.1(10) is to deem higher tier entities to own properties of lower tier entities on an iterative basis. For example, assume a non-resident entity (Foreignco-1) owns 100% of the shares in Foreignco-2 which in turn only owns 100% of shares in Foreignco-3 and that Foreignco-1, Foreignco-2 and Foreignco-3 have identical taxation year ends. The carrying values from properties in Foreignco-3 would, under subsection 94.1(10), become the carrying values of properties in Foreignco-2. Because subsection 94.1(10) operates on an iterative basis, the carrying value of those properties would be considered to be the carrying values of properties held by Foreignco-1.

Related Provisions: 94.1(11) — Significant interest; 94.2(2)(b) — Application of rule to s. 94.2; 94.2(9) — Tracked interests.

(11) Significant interest in an entity — For the purposes of subsection (10) and section 94.2, an entity has a significant interest in

(a) a corporation at any time if at that time the entity holds shares of the capital stock of the corporation

(i) that would give the entity 25% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation, and

(ii) having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the corporation;

(b) a partnership at any time if at that time the entity holds an interest in the partnership having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all interests in the partnership; and

(c) a non-discretionary trust at any time if at that time the entity holds interests in the trust having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all interests in the trust.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.1(11) sets out the circumstances in which an entity is considered to have a "significant interest" in a corporation, partnership or non-discretionary trust for the purposes of subsection 94.1(10). An entity is considered to have a significant interest in a corporation, partnership, or non-discretionary trust where it holds shares or interests in the corporation, partnership or trust that have a fair market value equal to 25% or more of the fair market value of all the shares or interests in the corporation, partnership or trust and, in the case of a corporation the entity has shares entitling the entity to cast at least 25% of votes at an annual shareholders' meeting of the corporation.

The example below illustrates the operation of subsection 94.1(10).

Example

1. Jean, who resides in Canada, holds a participating interest in Foreignco, a non-resident corporation that is not a controlled foreign affiliate of Jean. Foreignco's principal activity is the carrying on of investment activities on behalf of its shareholders. Foreignco prepares its financial statements in accordance with accounting principles substantially similar to generally accepted accounting principles used in Canada.
2. The carrying values of Foreignco's assets at the end of its taxation year ending in the taxpayer's year are as follows:

guaranteed investment certificate	$10,000
shares of XYZ Inc. in which Foreignco has a significant interest	$20,000 shares of ABC Inc. in which Foreignco does not have a significant interest	$ 5,000
cash	$ 4,000
Total assets	$39,000

3. XYZ Inc. owns assets at that time that are used in the course of carrying on an active business, with a carrying value of $80,000. It also has investment property with a carrying value of $15,000.
4. The fair market value of the shares of XYZ Inc. held by Foreignco is $40,000 while the fair market value of all the issued and outstanding shares of XYZ Inc. is $100,000 at that time.

Results

1. The guaranteed investment certificate, cash, and the shares of XYZ Inc. and ABC Inc. are all investment property by virtue of the definition "investment property" in subsection 94.1(1).
2. However, since Foreignco owns a significant interest in XYZ Inc., the special look-through rule in new subsection 94.1(10) applies. Under this look-through rule the carrying value of Foreignco's shares in XYZ Inc. is deemed to be nil. Instead, Foreignco is deemed to own the property that XYZ Inc. owns.
3. The carrying value of the XYZ property deemed to be owned by Foreignco is 40% of its carrying value to XYZ, since Foreignco's percentage ownership of shares is 40%.
4. Consequently, the carrying values of the investment property of Foreignco are:

guaranteed investment certificate	$10,000
shares of XYZ Inc.	nil shares of ABC Inc.	$ 5,000
cash	$ 4,000
investment property of XYZ Inc. (40% of $15,000)	$ 6,000
Total	$25,000

5. The total carrying value of the assets of Foreignco is:

Investment property (see above)	$ 25,000
assets of XYZ Inc. (other than investment property) (40% of $80,000)	$ 32,000
Total	$ 57,000

6. As a result, Foreignco is not an FIE because less than 50% of the carrying value of its property is investment property.

(12) Entity treated as controlled foreign affiliate — Where

(a) at a particular time in a particular taxation year of a taxpayer, the taxpayer, or a particular controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, holds a participating interest in a non-resident entity,

(b) a taxation year of the entity ends at or before the end of the particular year,

(c) the principal business of the entity in the particular year is an excluded investment business or a business that is not an investment business,

(d) the entity is, at the end of the particular year, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest (as defined in paragraph 95(2)(m)),

(e) the taxpayer elects in prescribed form in the taxpayer's return of income for the particular year, and

(f) the taxpayer has not elected under this subsection in respect of the entity for any taxation year of the taxpayer that precedes the particular year, subject to subsection (17), the entity is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer throughout the period

(g) that begins at the earliest time in the particular year at which the entity is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, and

(h) that ends at the earlier of

(i) the earliest subsequent time at which the entity is not a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, and

(ii) the end of the first subsequent taxation year of the taxpayer in which the principal business of the entity is an investment business (other than an excluded investment business).

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.1(12) of the Act permits a taxpayer to make an irrevocable election to treat its foreign affiliate (including an affiliate the shares which are held by the taxpayer's controlled foreign affiliate) as a controlled foreign affiliate for a particular taxation year and subsequent taxation years. This one-time election is available only if:

- a taxation year of the affiliate ends at or before the end of the particular year,
- the taxpayer has a "qualifying interest" (as defined in paragraph 95(2)(m)) in the affiliate, and
- the principal business of the affiliate is an excluded investment business or a business that is not an investment business (as defined in subsection 94.1(1)).

The election must be made in prescribed form in the taxpayer's tax return for the year. However, under subsection 94.1(17), the election may be rendered invalid in the event that the taxpayer cannot provide sufficient information to the Minister of National Revenue for the Minister to be able to determine amounts required to be included in the taxpayer's income under section 91. In addition, the election no longer has any effect if the corporation ceases to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or once the entity's principal business is an investment business (other than an excluded investment business).

In the period during which such an election is effective, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. As a result, a share issued by the affiliate to the taxpayer would be an "exempt interest" under the definition in subsection 94.1(1). Sections 94.1 and 94.2 generally would not apply to the taxpayer's participating interest in the affiliate. However, the foreign accrual property income (FAPI) rules would apply and the taxpayer would be required to include in income under section 91 a percentage of any FAPI derived by the affiliate in the year. Notwithstanding an election under subsection 94.1(12), section 94.2 may still apply in the event that a taxpayer's interest in a controlled foreign affiliate is a tracked interest to which subsection 94.2(9) applies.

Related Provisions: 17(15) — Subsec. 94.1(12) ignored for CFA definition under s .17; 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 94.1(16), (17) — Where demand for information not satisfied;

95(1)"controlled foreign affiliate" — CFA under 94.1(12) is a CFA for ss. 90–95; 96(3) — Election by members of partnership.

(13) Exception for qualifying dispositions and issues — For the purpose of determining whether an entity is a foreign investment entity at the end of a taxation year of the entity in which a qualifying disposition of that or another entity, or a qualifying issue of that or another entity, occurred, each investment property received by either entity as consideration for the qualifying disposition or the qualifying issue, and investment property substituted therefor, is deemed to have a carrying value of nil.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.1(13) of the Act provides a special rule under which investment property is deemed to have a carrying value of nil.

Subsection 94.1(13) applies where there is a "qualifying disposition" (as defined in subsection 94.1(14)) or a "qualifying issue" (as defined in subsection 94.1(15)).

Related Provisions: 94.1(14) — Qualifying disposition; 94.1(15) — Qualifying issue.

(14) Qualifying disposition — For the purpose of subsection (13), a qualifying disposition of an entity is a transaction or part of a series of transactions or events as a consequence of which the entity disposes, to a person with whom the entity deals at arm's length, of all or substantially all of the assets used or held for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business (other than an investment business) carried on by it.

Technical Notes: A "qualifying disposition" of an entity occurs where the entity disposes of all or substantially all of its assets used or held in a business (other than an investment business, as defined in the commentary above) in an arm's length transaction, either in a single transaction or as part of a series of transactions or events.

(15) Qualifying issue — For the purpose of subsection (13), a qualifying issue of an entity is an issue by the entity of a debt of, or a participating interest in, the entity to a person or partnership, otherwise than as part of a series of transactions or events that includes the disposition of a debt of, or a participating interest in, the entity (or another entity with which the entity does not deal at arm's length) by

(a) the person or partnership (or another person or partnership with which the person or partnership does not deal at arm's length);

(b) a trust in which the person or partnership (or another person or partnership with which the person or partnership does not deal at arm's length) is beneficially interested; or

(c) a partnership in which the person or partnership (or another person or partnership with which the person or partnership does not deal at arm's length) has a direct or indirect interest.

Technical Notes: A "qualifying issue" of an entity is essentially an issue to a person or partnership of a debt or participating interest, but with the qualification that a qualifying issue does not arise if the issue is part of a series of transactions or events that also includes the disposition of a debt or participating interest in the entity (or another non-arm's length entity) by the same person or partnership (or certain other non-arm's length parties). This qualification is meant to prevent the circular flow of funds from and to an entity giving rise to a "qualifying issue".

Where an entity has a "qualifying disposition" or "qualifying issue", the consideration received by the entity (cash, shares, and debt) will in most cases be "investment property", as defined in subsection 94.1(1). As a result, the entity (or another entity that has a significant interest in the entity) might otherwise become an FIE. To allow a potential grace period before an entity is classified as an FIE, investment property received as consideration received on the sale of the business or on a qualifying issue (and each investment property substituted for the investment property so received) is deemed, at the end of the taxation year in which the qualifying disposition or qualifying issue took place, to have a carrying value of nil.

(16) Demand for information — Subsection (17) applies to a taxpayer for a taxation year of the taxpayer where

(a) the Minister demands, in writing, from the taxpayer additional information for the purpose of enabling the Minister to make a determination of an amount that, but for subsection (17), would be required to be added or deducted (otherwise than under subsection 104(13)) in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year

(i) because of the application of section 91 and an election under subsection (12), or

(ii) because of the application of subsection (3) to a participating interest in an entity; and

(b) sufficient information to make the determination is not delivered to the Minister within 60 days (or within such longer period as is acceptable to the Minister) after the Minister sends the demand.

Technical Notes: New subsections 94.1(16) and (17) of the Act provide for the application of the mark-to-market rules in section 94.2 to a participating interest in an FIE, if insufficient information is available to determine amounts required to be added or deducted in a taxpayer's income in respect of the interest under subsection 94.1(3). The information required for this purpose would include a calculation of taxable capital gains from dispositions, calculated in Canadian dollars and with reference to the assumptions for the calculation of income set out in subsection 94.1(5).

If this information is not made available to the Minister on a timely basis on demand in respect of a participating interest in an entity, subsection 94.1(17) effectively provides that the rules in section 94.2, rather than the rules in section 94.1, apply in respect of the entity.

Similar rules apply in the event that insufficient information is provided to enable the appropriate calculation of a taxpayer's income arising from an election under subsection 94.1(12). The latter election would otherwise permit an affiliate to be treated as a controlled foreign affiliate. If insufficient information is provided in this context, the mark-to-market rules in section 94.2 will generally apply to the taxpayer if the affiliate is an FIE.

(17) Effect of insufficient information — Where this subsection applies to a taxpayer for a taxation year because of subsection (16), for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income for the year and following taxation years,

(a) where paragraph (16)(a) applies because of subparagraph (16)(a)(i),

(i) the election referred to in that subparagraph is deemed not to have been made, and

(ii) subsection (3) shall not apply in respect of the foreign affiliate that was the subject of the election; and

(b) where paragraph (16)(a) applies because of subparagraph (16)(a)(ii), subsection (3) shall not apply in respect of the entity referred to in that subparagraph.

Technical Notes: See under 94.1(16).

94.2 Foreign Investment Entities — Mark-to-market — (1) Definitions — In this section,

(a) the definitions in subsection 94.1(1) apply;

(b) subject to subsections (6) and (13) to (17), "deferral amount" of a taxpayer in respect of a participating interest in an entity means the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$A \times (B - C)$$

where

A is

(i) if on June 22, 2000 the interest was capital property held by the taxpayer, 2/3, and

(ii) in any other case, 1,

B is

(i) the fair market value of the interest at the first time in a particular taxation year of the taxpayer at which the taxpayer was resident in Canada where

(A) the taxpayer held the interest at the end of the preceding taxation year,

(B) at the end of that preceding year, the taxpayer was resident in Canada or the interest was taxable Canadian property,

(C) subsection (4) did not apply to the taxpayer for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the interest for any preceding taxation year, and

(D) subsection (4) applies to the taxpayer for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the interest for the particular year, and

(ii) nil in any other case, and

C is

(i) if subparagraph (i) of the description of B applies in respect of the interest, the cost amount of the property immediately before the first time in the particular year at which the taxpayer was resident in Canada, and

(ii) nil in any other case; and

Related Provisions [para. 94.2(1)(b)]: 94.2(16)(c) — Deferral amount on fresh start re tax-exempt entity; 94.2(17) — Deferral amount on superficial disposition.

(c) "gross-up factor" for a deferral amount is

(i) if the amount determined for A in respect of the deferral amount is 2/3, 3/2, and

(ii) in any other case, 1.

Technical Notes: New section 94.2 of the Act sets out new rules for the taxation of interests in FIEs.

Except as otherwise indicated, section 94.2 applies to taxation years of investors that begin after 2000.

New subsection 94.2(1) of the Act provides that the definitions in subsection 94.1(1) apply for the purposes of section 94.2.

Subsection 94.2(1) also sets out the definitions "deferral amount" and "gross-up factor".

The deferral amount of a taxpayer generally represents the gain or loss (or, in the event that the interest was capital property held by the taxpayer on June 22, 2000, two-thirds of the gain or loss) in respect of the interest accrued to the time when the interest first became subject to the operation of the rules in section 94.2. The expression "deferral amount" in respect of a participating interest in an entity applies principally for the purpose of determining the value of D in the formula set out in subsection 94.2(4). Subsection 94.2(4) generally provides for the recognition of a deferral amount in respect of a participating interest on the disposition of the interest. Because of subsection 94.2(2), identical participating interests are considered to be disposed of in the order in which they were acquired.

For participating interests in FIEs acquired after 2000, each deferral amount will be nil in the typical cases where the rules in section 94.2 apply to a taxpayer's interest in an FIE for the year in which the interests were acquired.

The deferral amount is calculated, in conjunction with subsections 94.2(5) and subsection 128.1(4), so that gains and losses accruing while a taxpayer is not resident in Canada are ignored for the purposes of section 94.2, except in the unusual case where an interest in an FIE is taxable Canadian property.

Additional rules affecting the calculation of the deferral amount are contained in subsections 94.2(6) and (13) to (17), as described in the commentary below.

The "gross-up factor" for a deferral amount is 1, except where the 2/3 factor is relevant in computing the deferral amount. In the latter case, the "gross-up factor" is the reciprocal of the 2/3 factor (i.e., 3/2). For detail on the relevance of this definition, see the commentary on subsection 94.2(11).

(2) Rules of application — For the purposes of this section

(a) identical participating interests held by a taxpayer are deemed to be disposed of in the order in which they were acquired by the taxpayer, determined without reference to any other provision of this Act; and

(b) subsections 94.1(10) and (11) apply.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(2) of the Act provides rules of application for the purpose of section 94.2.

Paragraph 94.2(2)(a) provides that identical properties held by a taxpayer are deemed to be disposed of in the order in which they were acquired by the taxpayer. For this purpose, paragraph 94.2(2)(a) makes it clear that the various acquisitions that are deemed to occur under the Act (e.g., section 47) are not to be taken into account. This measure is relevant primarily for the purpose of determining the amount added or deducted from a taxpayer's income under subsection 94.2(4), especially with reference to the "deferral amount" referred to in the description of D in paragraph 94.2(4)(a).

Paragraph 94.2(2)(b) provides that the rules in subsections 94.1(10) and (11) (look-through rule for significant interests) also apply for the purposes of section 94.2. This measure is significant for the purposes of applying subsection 94.2(9) (tracked interests).

Related Provisions: 94.3(1) — Rule in 94.2(2)(a) applies to s. 94.3; 95(2)(g.2)(xi), (xii) — Application to FAPI rules; 104(4.1) — Mark-to-market property can be capital property for trust's 21-year deemed disposition.

(3) Where mark-to-market method applies — Subject to paragraph (5)(b), this subsection applies to a taxpayer throughout a taxation year in respect of a participating interest held in the year by the taxpayer in a non-resident entity where

(a) subsection (9) or (10) applies to the taxpayer for the year in respect of the interest; or

(b) both

(i) subsection 94.1(2) applies to the taxpayer for the year in respect of the interest, and

(ii) because of subsection 94.1(4), subsection 94.1(3) does not apply to the taxpayer for the year in respect of the interest.

Technical Notes: Subsection 94.2(3) of the Act sets out those circumstances where, subject to paragraph 94.2(5)(b), subsection 94.2(3) applies to a taxpayer in respect of a participating interest in a non-resident entity. For the mark-to-market regime in subsection 94.2(4) to apply for a taxation year, subsection 94.2(3) must apply for the year.

For subsection 94.2(3) to apply to a taxpayer throughout a taxation year in respect of a participating interest in a non-resident entity, either:

- Subsection 94.1(2) applies to the taxpayer for the year in respect of the interest, but not result in the application of the accrual regime under subsection 94.1(3) because of the application of subsection 94.1(4). (For details, see the commentary on subsections 94.1(2) and (4).); or
- Subsections 94.2(9) (tracked interests) or 94.2(10) (foreign insurance policies) apply to the taxpayer for the year in respect of the interest.

Where subsection 94.2(3) applies to a participating interest in an FIE, paragraph 94.2(4)(a) requires a taxpayer to include in computing income, in respect of the interest, any positive amount resulting from the operation of the formula set out in paragraph 94.2(4)(a). Under paragraph 94.2(4)(b), the absolute value of any negative amount resulting from the operation of the same formula may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income. (Note, however, that losses in respect of foreign insurance polices are denied because of subparagraph 94.2(4)(b)(i). Instead, as described below, the denied losses are carried forward to offset later income inclusions.)

The amount determined under the formula for a taxpayer's taxation year in respect of a participating interest in an FIE is computed as follows:

- [A] ADD the proceeds of disposition in the year from any disposition by the taxpayer in the year of the interest (other than a disposition arising from the application of subsection 128.1(4) or 149(10), given that the value of B would take into account the fair market value of the interest at the time of such deemed dispositions);
- [B] where the taxpayer held the interest at the end of the year, ADD the fair market value of the interest at that time (determined before taking into account the FIE's liability in respect of any amount payable from the FIE in respect of the interest);
- [C] ADD the total payments received by the taxpayer in the year from the FIE, other than payments included in the value of A;
- [D] where the taxpayer so elects for a year during which the taxpayer did not dispose of the interest, ADD any positive deferral amount in respect of the interest;
- [D] where the taxpayer disposed of the interest in the year and the election referred to above has not been previously made, ADD the deferral amount in respect of the interest; [The value of D will reduce the amount determined under the formula in the event that the deferral amount is a negative amount.]
- [E] SUBTRACT the cost of the interest on any acquisition in the year of the interest (disregarding acquisitions arising because of the application of subsection 128.1(4) or 149(10), given that these acquisitions are taken into account in the value of F);
- [F] where the taxpayer held the interest at the beginning of the year, SUBTRACT the fair market value of the interest; and
- [G] in the case of a foreign insurance policy to which subsection 94.2(3) applies because of the operation of new subsection 94.2(10), SUBTRACT any loss denied for the preceding year because of the operation of subparagraph 94.2(4)(b)(i).

Ignoring the descriptions of D and G, the formula in paragraph 94.2(4)(a) in effect determines the net increase or decrease in the fair market value of a taxpayer's participating interest in an FIE for a taxation year.

The value of D represents a taxpayer's accrued gain or loss when a participating interest first becomes subject to section 94.2. The amount of this accrued gain or loss (or two-thirds of it, in the event so provided in the definition "deferral amount" in paragraph 94.2(1)(b)) is included in computing income under the description of D, but only for the taxation year in which the interest is disposed of unless the taxpayer elects for earlier recognition of a positive deferral amount. (An earlier recognition of a positive deferral amount may be beneficial for a taxpayer, particularly where section 94.3 applies.) Where the taxpayer is a trust, a disposition may occur as a consequence of the application of the 21-year deemed disposition rule. See, in this regard, new subsection 104(4.1).

Related Provisions: 39(1)(a)(ii.3) — Property excluded from capital gain calculation; 70(3.1) — Property excluded from "rights or things" calculation on death; 70(5.2)(e) — Deemed disposition on death; 85(1.1)(g)(ii.1) — Property excluded from s. 85 rollover eligibility; 94.2(4) — Application of mark-to-market rule; 94.2(9) — Tracked interests; 94.2(10) — Treatment of foreign insurance policies; 104(4.1) — Mark-to-market property can be capital property for trust's 21-year deemed disposition; 248(1)"inventory" — Property under 94.2(3) excluded from definition of inventory.

(4) Mark-to-market — Where subsection (3) applies to a taxpayer throughout a taxation year in respect of a participating interest in a non-resident entity, in computing the taxpayer's income for the year in respect of the interest

(a) there shall be added the positive amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's proceeds from a disposition of the interest in the year (other than a disposition deemed to arise because of subsection 128.1(4) or 149(10)),

B is

(i) if the taxpayer held the interest at the end of the year, the fair market value of the interest at that time (determined before taking into account any amount payable at the end of the year from the entity in respect of the interest), and

(ii) in any other case, nil,

C is the total of all amounts (other than an amount to which the description of A applies) received by the taxpayer in the year from the entity in respect of the interest,

D is

(i) the taxpayer's deferral amount in respect of the interest, if

(A) the deferral amount is a positive amount,

(B) the interest was not disposed of by the taxpayer in the year, and

(C) the taxpayer elects in respect of the interest in prescribed form filed with the Minister not later than the taxpayer's filing-due date for the year,

(ii) the taxpayer's deferral amount in respect of the interest if

(A) the taxpayer disposed of the interest in the year, and

(B) no election was made under subparagraph (i) in respect of the interest by the taxpayer for a preceding taxation year, and

(iii) in any other case, nil,

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the cost at which the taxpayer acquired the interest in the year (otherwise than because of an acquisition deemed to arise because of subsection 128.1(4) or 149(10)),

F is

(i) if the taxpayer held the interest at the beginning of the year, the fair market value of the interest at that time (determined before taking into account any amount payable at that time from the entity in respect of the interest), and

(ii) in any other case, nil, and

G is

(i) if the interest was deemed by paragraph (10)(a) to be a participating interest in an entity for the preceding taxation year of the taxpayer, the amount that would be deductible under paragraph (b) in computing the taxpayer's income for that preceding year in respect of the interest if this subsection were read without reference to subparagraph (b)(i), and

(ii) in any other case, nil; and

(b) there may be deducted

(i) if the interest was deemed by paragraph (10)(a) to be a participating interest in an entity for the year, nil, and

(ii) in any other case, the absolute value of the negative amount, if any, determined by the formula in paragraph (a).

Technical Notes: The example below illustrates the operation of subsection 94.2(4).

Example

1. Leonard acquires a 1% interest in ABC Inc. in 1999 for $500. On June 22, 2000, it is capital property to Leonard. ABC Inc. is not an FIE in respect of the taxpayer at any time before 2003.
2. ABC Inc. becomes an FIE during 2003 and Leonard does not elect under subsection 94.1(4) to have the rules in section 94.1 apply. Leonard's interest in ABC Inc. does not qualify as an "exempt interest".
3. The fair market values of Leonard's participating interest at the beginning and at the end of year 2003 are $800 and $1,000 respectively.
4. Leonard disposes of his shares just before the end of 2004 for $1,200. ABC Inc. does not make any distributions to Leonard during his period of ownership.

Results

1. No amount is included in Leonard's income for 2001 and 2002 under either section 94.1 or 94.2. For 2003, Leonard is required to include $200 in income under the formula in paragraph 94.2(4)(a).
2. The $200 inclusion is determined as follows:
   - "A" is nil, since no participating interest in ABC Inc. is disposed of in 2003,
   - "B" is $1,000, the fair market value of the participating interest at the end of 2003,
   - "C" is nil since no payments are received in 2003,
   - "D" is nil since no participating interest is disposed of in 2003 and no election was otherwise made,
   - "E" is nil since no participating interest in ABC Inc. is acquired in 2003, and
   - "F" is $800, the fair market value of the participating interest at the beginning of 2003.
3. Although Leonard's participating interest has appreciated by $500 since the time of its acquisition, only $200 is required to be included in income under section 94.2 for 2003.
4. For 2004, the amount included in income under subsection 94.2(4) is $400, computed as follows:
   - "A" is $1,200, the proceeds of disposition of the participating interest,
   - "B" is nil since Leonard does not own any participating interest in ABC Inc. at the end of 2004,
   - "C" is nil since no payments or distributions were received in 2004,
   - "D" is $200, the deferral amount in respect of the interest — the "deferral amount" is two-thirds [The two-third factor applies because Leonard's interest in ABC Inc. is capital property held by Leonard on June 22, 2000.] of the amount by which $800 (the fair market value of the interest at the beginning of 2003 which is the first year in respect of which section 94.2 applies to the interest) exceeds $500 (the cost amount of the interest),
   - "E" is nil since no participating interest in ABC Inc. is acquired in 2004, and
   - "F" is $1,000, the fair market value of the participating interest at the beginning of 2004.

(5) Non-resident periods excluded — Where a taxpayer is non-resident at any time in a taxation year

(a) for the purpose of subsection (4) (other than the description of D in paragraph (4)(a)), the year is deemed to be the period, if any, that begins at the first time in the year at which the taxpayer is resident in Canada and ends at the last time in the year at which the taxpayer is resident in Canada;

(b) except for the purposes of subsection (4) and paragraph (c), subsection (3) does not apply to the taxpayer at that time; and

(c) if the taxpayer is an individual who was non-resident throughout a particular period that is within the period described in paragraph (a), at any time in the particular period, the individual holds a participating interest in a non-resident entity and subsection (3) applies to the individual throughout the particular period in respect of the interest,

(i) for the purposes of section 114, the income or loss of the individual in respect of the interest for the particular period shall be determined without reference to this section, and

(ii) in computing the amount determined under paragraph 114(a) in respect of the individual for the year

(A) there shall be deducted any amount that would be included under paragraph (4)(a) in computing the individual's income in respect of the interest for the particular period if

(I) the value of D in paragraph (4)(a) were nil, and

(II) the particular period were a taxation year, and

(B) there shall be added any amount that would be deductible under paragraph (4)(b) in computing the individual's income in respect of the interest for the particular period if

(I) the value of D in paragraph (4)(a) were nil, and

(II) the particular period were a taxation year.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(5) of the Act provides special rules dealing with the application of section 94.2 for a taxation year to persons who are not resident in Canada throughout the year.

Under paragraph 94.2(5)(a), the amounts determined under section 94.2 are generally determined as if the taxation year of such a taxpayer excludes the period in the year during which the taxpayer is not resident in Canada. This rule, in conjunction with section 128.1, generally ensures that the increases and decreases in fair market values that are relevant in determining income inclusions and deductions under section 94.2 are the increases and decreases occurring while the taxpayer is resident in Canada. However, this rule does not affect the calculation of the taxpayer's deferral amount: paragraph 94.2(1)(b) (in conjunction with subsection 128.1(1)) already ensures that gains or losses accruing prior to becoming resident in Canada are not taken into account for the purposes of computing a taxpayer's deferral amount in respect of a participating interest in an FIE, except in the unusual case where the FIE interest is taxable Canadian property.

Paragraph 94.2(5)(a) also ensures that subsection 94.2(4) does not apply to a taxpayer for a taxation year throughout which the taxpayer is not resident in Canada.

Under paragraph 94.2(5)(b), subsection 94.2(3) generally does not apply to a taxpayer at a particular time if the taxpayer is not resident in Canada at the particular time. This has relevance for the purposes of a number of new provisions, including subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3). This subparagraph has the effect of excluding, from a taxpayer's capital property, a property in respect of which subsection 94.2(3) applies and is intended to ensure that there is no double taxation with respect to the same economic gain. Paragraph 94.2(5)(b) thus ensures that a non-resident taxpayer cannot claim that a taxable Canadian property consisting of an FIE interest is not capital property on the basis of subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3). (Note: non-resident taxpayers are generally subject to tax on taxable capital gains from their dispositions of taxable Canadian properties.)

Paragraph 94.2(5)(c) applies in the unusual case where an individual changes his or her Canadian residence status more than once in the same calendar year. For example, an individual might leave Canada near the beginning of a calendar year but return later in the same year. In the event that such an individual is considered not to reside in Canada during a period in the calendar year, the individual's period of non-residence would be included within the individual's taxation year and the rule in paragraph 94.2(5)(a) would have no effect. In order to not tax gains accrued while an individual was non-resident and to not provide relief for losses accrued during the same period, paragraph 94.2(5)(c) provides:

- for the purposes of section 114, the individual's income or loss from the individual's period of non-residence is determined without reference to section 94.2, and
- in computing the individual's taxable income under section 114,
  - — there is deducted the fair market value appreciation of an interest in an FIE to which subsection 94.2(4) applies during the non-resident period (this fair market value appreciation would be reflected in the amount determined under subsection 94.2(4) in computing the taxpayer's income), and
  - — there is added the fair market value decline of an interest in an FIE to which subsection 94.2(4) applies during the non-resident period (this fair market value decline would be reflected in the amount determined under subsection 94.2(4) in computing the taxpayer's income).

The example below illustrates the operation of paragraph 94.2(5)(c).

Example

Bernard emigrates from Canada on February 1, 2001 in order to start permanent employment elsewhere. After the position does not work out, he returns to Canada on December 1, 2001. Bernard owns an interest in an FIE to which section 94.2 applies. The fair market value of the interest in 2001 is $100 (January 1, 2001), $105 (February 1, 2001), $108 (December 1, 2001) and $107 (December 31, 2001). It is assumed that Bernard establishes that he did not reside in Canada from February 1, 2001 to December 1, 2001.

Results

1. Under section 94.2(4), the amount included in computing Bernard's income for 2001 is equal to $7 (B = 107, F = 100).
2. Paragraph 94.2(5)(c) permits a deduction for the purposes of paragraph 114(a) equal to $3 (i.e., $108 – $105) equal to the appreciation in the fair market value of the interest while Bernard was not resident in Canada. As a consequence, Bernard's taxable income in respect of the FIE interest for 2001 is equal to $4 (i.e., $7 minus $3).

(6) Foreign partnership — member becoming resident — Where, at a particular time in a fiscal period of a partnership, a person resident in Canada becomes a member of the partnership, or a person who is a member of the partnership becomes resident in Canada and immediately before the particular time no member of the partnership is resident in Canada,

(a) all amounts determined under this section shall be determined as if that period began at the first time in that period at which a member of the partnership was resident in Canada;

(b) for the purpose of the definition "deferral amount" in paragraph (1)(b), as it applies in respect of dispositions that occur after the particular time and before the first subsequent time to which this subsection applies in respect of the partnership, subsection (4) is deemed not to have applied to the partnership for any preceding fiscal period; and

(c) where, but for this paragraph, a negative deferral amount would be determined in respect of a participating interest held by the partnership immediately before the particular time, the deferral amount in respect of the interest is deemed to be nil.

Technical Notes: New subsections 94.2(6) to (8) of the Act provide special rules for partnerships having non-resident members. These subsections are analogous to rules in existing subsections 96(8) and (9) and are designed, in general terms, to prevent partnership losses that accrue while no partnership member is resident in Canada from being used in Canada. A further rule for partnership members is set out in new subsection 96(1.9).

More specifically, subsection 94.2(6) applies where a partnership begins to have members who reside in Canada. Under subsection 94.2(7), a corresponding rule applies in a similar fashion where a partnership ceases to have members who reside in Canada. In either case, for the purposes of determining amounts under section 94.2 portions of the fiscal period of the partnership in which no member is resident in Canada will generally be disregarded.

Where subsection 94.2(6) applies to a partnership at any time, the deferral amount for an FIE interest held by the partnership immediately before that time is computed with reference to the fair market value and the cost amount of the interest. However, if a negative deferral amount is otherwise determined with respect to the interest, the deferral amount is deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 94.2(8) — Application — anti-avoidance and partnership look-through rules.

(7) Foreign partnership — members ceasing to be resident — Where, at a particular time in a fiscal period of a partnership, a person resident in Canada ceases to be a member of the partnership, or a person who is a member of the partnership ceases to be resident in Canada and immediately after the particular time no member of the partnership is resident in Canada, all amounts determined under this section shall be determined as if that period ended at the last time in that period at which a member of the partnership was resident in Canada.

Technical Notes: As a consequence of subsections 94.2(6) and (7), amounts added or deductible under subsection 94.2(4) for a partnership in respect of an FIE interest will generally reflect increases or decreases in fair market value while the partnership has members resident in Canada. However, once the interest is disposed of, an amount reflecting gains accruing before any member became resident in Canada will be recognized because of the application of subsection 94.2(4).

Related Provisions: 94.2(8) — Application — anti-avoidance and partnership look-through rules.

(8) Application of subsecs. (6) and (7) — For the purposes of applying subsections (6) and (7) and this subsection,

(a) where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that a member of a partnership is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of subsection (6) or (7), the member is deemed not to be resident in Canada; and

(b) where a particular partnership is a member of another partnership at any time,

(i) each person or partnership that is at that time a member of the particular partnership is deemed to be a member of the other partnership at that time,

(ii) each person or partnership that becomes at that time a member of the particular partnership is deemed to become a member of the other partnership at that time, and

(iii) each person or partnership that ceases at that time to be a member of the particular partnership is deemed to cease to be a member of the other partnership at that time.

Technical Notes: Subsection 94.2(8) contains an anti-avoidance rule, which is aimed at preventing the insertion of nominal Canadian resident partners for tax planning purposes. This rule is parallel to the rule in existing subsection 96(9).

Subsection 94.2(8) also contains a look-through rule. It allows for the look-through of one or more tiers of partnerships for the purposes of determining whether a person is a member of a partnership.

Related Provisions: 96(9) — Parallel rule for foreign partnerships.

(9) Tracked interests — Subject to paragraph (5)(b), subsection (3) applies to a taxpayer throughout a particular taxation year of the taxpayer in respect of a participating interest in a non-resident entity where

(a) the taxpayer holds the interest at any time in the particular year;

(b) a taxation year of the entity ends at or before the end of the particular year;

(c) the taxpayer is not an exempt taxpayer for the particular year;

(d) the entitlement to receive payments from the entity in respect of the interest (or its fair market value) is determined primarily by reference to production, revenue, profit or cash flow from, the fair market value or the use of, or any similar criterion in respect of, a property or group of properties (each of which is referred to in paragraphs (e) and (f) as a "tracked property");

(e) at the end of the latest of the entity's taxation years described in paragraph (b), the tracked properties

(i) are not all of the properties that would be owned by the entity if this Act were read without reference to subsection 94.1(10), or

(ii) include properties that would not be owned by the entity if this Act were read without reference to subsection 94.1(10); and

(f) either

(i) at the end of the latest of the entity's taxation years described in paragraph (b), the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) the carrying value of an investment property that is a tracked property owned at the end of that year by the entity, or

(B) an amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to paragraph 94.1(10)(a), be the carrying value of a tracked property that is

(I) owned at the end of the year by the entity,

(II) deemed by paragraph 94.1(10)(a) to have a carrying value of nil, and

(III) either a participating interest in a foreign investment entity or indebtedness owing by a foreign investment entity, exceeds one-half of the total of

(C) all amounts each of which is the entity's carrying value of a tracked property owned by it at the end of that year, and

(D) the carrying value (determined without reference to paragraph 94.1(10)(a)) of a tracked property to which subclauses (B)(I) to (III) apply, or

(ii) at the end of the latest of the entity's taxation years described in paragraph (b)

(A) the entity, or another non-resident entity, owns an investment property (other than a tracked property owned by the entity), and

(B) it is reasonable to conclude that the production, revenue, profit or cash flow from the investment property, the increase in the fair market value of the investment property, or any other return on the investment property based on a similar criterion, is intended to enable the entity to satisfy all or part of an entitlement referred to in paragraph (d).

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(9) of the Act is an anti-avoidance rule intended to prevent the circumvention of sections 94.1 and 94.2 through the creation of "tracked interests" in entities that are not FIEs or through the creation of an interest in an FIE that would otherwise be an "exempt interest". Where subsection 94.2(9) applies with regard to a "tracked interest" for a taxation year, the mark-to-market regime in section 94.2(4) applies to a taxpayer for that year.

A participating interest held by a taxpayer in a particular non-resident entity in a taxation year is a "tracked interest" in the particular entity for a particular taxation year of the taxpayer where:

- a taxation year of the particular entity ended at or before the end of the particular year (the latest of which taxation years is referred to below as the "specified year"); [Paragraph 94.2(9)(b).]
- the taxpayer is not an exempt taxpayer for the particular year (see commentary on definition "exempt taxpayer" in subsection 94.1(1)); [Paragraph 94.2(9)(c).]
- the entitlement to receive payments from the particular entity in respect of the participating interest (or its fair market value) is determined primarily by reference to production, revenue, profit or cash flow from, the fair market value or the use of, or any other similar criterion in respect of, a property or group of properties (referred to below as the "tracked properties"); [Paragraph 94.2(9)(d).]
- in the event that all of the tracked properties are properties owned by the particular entity, they do not comprise the totality of the entity's properties. [Paragraph 94.2(9)(e).] (Note: the deemed ownership rule in subsection 94.1(10) is ignored for the purpose of determining whether this condition is satisfied.);
- either
  - — the entity (or any other non-resident entity) owns an investment property (other than a tracked property owned by the entity) and it is reasonable to conclude that the production, revenue, profit or cash flow from that investment property, the increase in the fair market value of that investment property or any other return based on a similar criterion is intended to enable the entity to satisfy all or part of an entitlement in respect of a tracked interest, [Paragraph 94.2(9)(f)(ii).]] or
  - — in general terms, the total carrying value of investment property owned by the entity that is included in the tracked properties is more than one-half of the total carrying value of all property owned by the entity that is included in the tracked properties. [Paragraph 94.2(9)(f)(i).]

More specifically, for the purpose of determining the above totals, the carrying value of investment property owned by an entity included in the tracked properties as of the end of the specified year is determined as follows:

- ADD the carrying value of investment property included in the tracked properties and owned by the particular entity (determined with reference to the definition "investment property" and the deemed ownership rule in subsection 94.1(10)); and
- ADD the carrying value (determined without reference to subsection 94.1(10)) of specified investment property owned by the particular entity and included in the tracked properties. The investment property so specified is the property that would otherwise have a deemed cost of nil under paragraph 94.1(10)(a) and that is either a participating interest in an FIE or indebtedness owing by an FIE. (The specified investment property represents debt or equity interests in entities in which the particular entity has a "significant interest", as defined by subsection 94.1(11).)

For the same purpose, the total carrying value of the total property included in the tracked properties is determined as of the end of the specified taxation year of the particular entity in the following manner:

- ADD the carrying value of each property owned by the particular entity that is included in the tracked properties. (This determination is made with reference to the look-through rule in subsection 94.1(10).); and
- ADD the carrying value (determined without reference to subsection 94.1(10)) of specified investment property referred to above.

It should be noted that tracked properties can include any property, whether or not owned by a taxpayer or a related group of which the taxpayer is a part. For example, if the fair market value of shares issued by a non-resident entity is tracked to the world-wide price of gold bullion, the tracked properties in question would be the world-wide supply of gold bullion. Whether subsection 94.2(9) applies or not in this case would typically depend on whether subparagraph 94.2(9)(f)(ii) applies to the non-resident entity.

It should also be noted that there is no exemption under subsection 94.2(9) with regard to an "exempt interest" (as defined in subsection 94.1(1)) in a non-resident entity. Thus, the mark-to-market rules can apply to a taxpayer in respect of shares of the capital stock of a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

(10) Treatment of foreign insurance policies — Where, in a particular taxation year of a taxpayer (other than an exempt taxpayer for the particular year), the taxpayer holds a particular interest in an insurance policy that was neither issued in the course of carrying on an insurance business in Canada, the income from which is subject to tax under this Part, nor entered into solely in respect of risks that relate to activities occurring outside Canada or losses in respect of tangible property ordinarily situated outside Canada,

(a) subject to paragraph (b),

(i) for the purposes of applying subsections (3) and (4) and paragraph (d.1) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsection 233.3(1) to the taxpayer in respect of the particular interest for the particular year,

(A) the particular interest is deemed at each time throughout the particular year that it is held by the taxpayer to be a participating interest in a non-resident entity,

(B) subject to paragraph (5)(b), subsection (3) is deemed to apply to the taxpayer throughout the particular year in respect of the particular interest, and

(C) the value of D in paragraph (4)(a) is deemed to be nil, and

(ii) section 12.2, paragraphs 56(1)(d) and (j) and 60(a) and (s) and sections 138 and 138.1 do not apply in respect of the particular interest for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income for the year;

(b) paragraph (a) does not apply to an individual for a taxation year in respect of a policy an interest in which was acquired by the individual more than five years before the individual became resident in Canada unless, after the day that is five years before the day that the individual became resident in Canada, the individual paid premiums in respect of the policy that are in excess of the level that can reasonably be considered to have been contemplated at the time the first interest in the policy was acquired;

(c) an interest in an insurance policy is deemed to have been disposed of by a person at the end of a taxation year of the person for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time where

(i) paragraph (a) did not apply to the person in respect of the interest for the year,

(ii) the person held the interest at the end of the year, and

(iii) paragraph (a) applies to the person in respect of the interest for the person's following taxation year;

(d) an interest in an insurance policy is deemed to have been acquired by a person at the beginning of a taxation year of the person at a cost equal to its fair market value at that time where

(i) paragraph (a) does not apply to the person in respect of the interest for the year,

(ii) the person held the interest at the beginning of the year, and

(iii) paragraph (a) applied to the person in respect of the interest for the person's preceding taxation year; and

(e) for the purposes of this subsection and subsection (4), the fair market value of an interest in an insurance policy, the proceeds of disposition of an interest in an insurance policy and amounts paid to a beneficiary in respect of an interest in an insurance policy shall each be determined without reference to benefits paid, payable or anticipated to be payable, under the policy as a consequence only of a death, sickness, disability or prescribed event.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(10) of the Act sets out the treatment under section 94.2 of an interest in a foreign insurance policy. For this purpose, a foreign insurance policy is one that is neither

- issued by an insurer in the course of carrying on business in Canada the income from which is subject to tax under Part I, nor
- entered into solely in respect of risks that relate to activities occurring outside Canada or losses in respect of tangible property ordinarily situated outside Canada.

Paragraph 94.2(10)(a) generally provides that, where a taxpayer (other than an exempt taxpayer) holds an interest in such an insurance policy, for the purposes of subsections 94.2(3) and (4) (and a corresponding foreign property reporting rule in subsection 233.3(1)) the particular interest is deemed to be a participating interest in a non-resident entity to which the mark-to-market rules in subsection 94.2(4) apply. However, the mark-to-market regime under subsection 94.2(4) applies differently to insurance policies in two respects. First, no deferral amount is calculated with regard to insurance policies. Second, losses are not deductible, but instead can be used to offset future income amounts otherwise arising under subsection 94.2(4). (As to the treatment of losses, see the commentary on subsection 94.2(4).) Paragraph 94.2(10)(a) also provides that, where the mark-to-market rules apply to an insurance policy, the other rules in the Act with regard to the taxation of insurance products do not apply.

Under paragraph 94.2(10)(b), paragraph 94.2(10)(a) does not apply in connection with a policy an interest in which was acquired more than five years before a taxpayer became resident in Canada. However, this exception does not apply if premiums in excess of the level originally contemplated under the policy have been paid within 5 years of the policyholder becoming resident in Canada or while the policyholder was resident in Canada.

In the event that an insurance policy is subject to paragraph 94.2(10)(a) for one taxation year but not subject to that paragraph for the preceding year, paragraph 94.2(10)(c) provides that the taxpayer is deemed, at the end of the preceding year, to have disposed of the taxpayer's interest in the insurance policy at its fair market value (determined with reference to paragraph 94.2(10)(e)).

In the event that an insurance policy is subject to paragraph 94.2(10)(a) for one taxation year but not subject to that paragraph for the following year, paragraph 94.2(10)(d) provides that the taxpayer is deemed, at the beginning of the following year, to have acquired the taxpayer's interest in the insurance policy at its fair market value (determined with reference to paragraph 94.2(10)(e)).

Paragraph 94.2(10)(e) provides that the fair market value of an interest in an insurance policy and other relevant amounts are determined without reference to benefits paid, payable and anticipated to be payable under the policy only as a consequence of a death, sickness, disability or other prescribed event. (Note: Presently, it is not anticipated that events will be prescribed for this purpose.)

Example

Assume that David, a long-term resident of Canada, pays premiums of $10,000 to an offshore insurer for a life insurance policy. The policy's cash surrender value is $9,000 and $10,700 at the end of 2002 and 2003 (respectively).

Results

1. For 2002, no amount is determined under paragraph 94.2(4)(a) because the cost of the policy exceeds the fair market value at the end of 2002.
2. No loss is permitted to be claimed under paragraph 94.2(4)(b). The amount of the denied loss is equal to $1,000.
3. For 2003, the amount included in income under paragraph 94.2(4)(a) is $700 (= $10,700 ("B"), minus $9,000 ("F"), minus $1,000 ("G")).
4. It should be noted, however, that it is possible that the fair market value could be higher that a policy's cash surrender value. This might be the case, for example, if cash surrender values under a policy were not provided on a consistent basis over time. If this were the case, the fair market value of a policy would be a question of fact.

Subsection 94.2(10), unlike the rest of section 94.2, is to apply to taxation years that begin after 2001.

Related Provisions: 233.3(1)"specified foreign property"(d.1) — Annual information reporting re interest in insurance policy.

(11) Change of status of entity — Where a participating interest is held by a taxpayer at the beginning of a taxation year, subsection (4) applied for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the interest for the preceding taxation year and that subsection does not apply for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income in respect of the interest for the year (otherwise than because the taxpayer became an exempt taxpayer or ceased to reside in Canada),

(a) subject to paragraph (c), the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the interest at the beginning of the year at a cost equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) where the interest is capital property at the beginning of the year, in computing the adjusted cost base after that time to the taxpayer of the interest

(i) except where the taxpayer has made an election in respect of the interest under clause (i)(C) of the description of D in paragraph (4)(a), there shall be deducted the product of any positive deferral amount in respect of the interest and the gross-up factor for the deferral amount, and

(ii) there shall be added the product of the absolute value of any negative deferral amount in respect of the interest and the gross-up factor for the deferral amount; and

(c) where paragraph (b) does not apply,

(i) except where the taxpayer has made an election in respect of the interest under clause (i)(C) of the description of D in paragraph (4)(a), there shall be deducted in computing the cost to the taxpayer of the interest the lesser of

(A) the product of any positive deferral amount in respect of the interest and the gross-up factor for the deferral amount, and

(B) the cost to the taxpayer of the interest, determined without reference to this subparagraph,

(ii) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year in respect of the interest the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount determined under clause (i)(A) in respect of the interest

exceeds

(B) the amount determined under clause (i)(B) in respect of the interest, and

(iii) there shall be added in computing the cost to the taxpayer of the interest the product of the absolute value of any negative deferral amount in respect of the interest and the gross-up factor for the deferral amount.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(11) of the Act sets out rules that apply where a taxpayer holding a participating interest in an entity was subject to subsection 94.2(4) for a taxation year but is not subject, in respect of the interest, to subsection 94.2(4) for the following taxation year (otherwise than because the taxpayer ceased to reside in Canada or became an "exempt taxpayer", as defined in subsection 94.1(1)).

Where subsection 94.2(11) applies, the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the particular interest at the beginning of the following taxation year at a cost equal to the fair market value of the particular interest at that time.

The subsection could apply, for example, where a taxpayer holds a share of the capital stock of a non-resident corporation and the share is not an "exempt interest", as defined in subsection 94.1(1). Assume that the taxpayer made no election under subsection 94.1(4) for section 94.1 to apply. If the entity subsequently becomes a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, subsection 94.2(4) would cease to apply.

Since the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at its fair market value at the beginning of the following year, all increases and decreases in the value of the interest from the time of its acquisition are reflected in the taxpayer's cost of the interest for tax purposes. However, only the gain or loss accruing while it was subject to subsection 94.2(4) has been brought into income. The gain or loss in value for the period from the time of acquisition to the time it became subject to subsection 94.2(4) has not been taken into consideration for tax purposes.

Accordingly, paragraph 94.2(10)(b) provides for a negative or positive adjustment to the adjusted cost base (ACB) of a participating interest held as capital property. Any positive "deferral amount" (as defined in subsection 94.2(1)) in respect of the interest is deducted in computing the ACB of the interest, but the deduction is grossed-up by one-half in the event that the deferral amount was calculated with reference to two-thirds of the accrued gains. The ACB deduction does not, however, apply in the event that a positive deferral amount has already been taken into account because of an election under the description of D in paragraph 94.2(4)(a). The absolute value of any negative deferral amount (or three-halves of it where the 2/3 factor was used in computing the negative deferral amount) is added in computing the ACB of the interest. Where capital property is not involved, a corresponding decrease or increase in cost (rather than adjusted cost basis) is provided under paragraph 94.2(11)(c). To the extent that the decrease would otherwise result in a negative cost, the decrease is brought into the taxpayer's income under paragraph 94.2(11)(c).

Related Provisions: 53(1)(m.1) — Addition to adjusted cost base; 53(2)(w) — Deduction from adjusted cost base; 94.2(14) — Fresh start re change of status of entity.

(12) Cost of participating interest — Where a taxpayer's participating interest in a non-resident entity is disposed of by the taxpayer at a particular time in a taxation year and subsection (4) applies for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income for the year in respect of the interest, for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's cost of the interest immediately before the particular time

(a) if the interest was held by the taxpayer at the beginning of the year, its cost to the taxpayer immediately before the particular time is deemed to be equal to the fair market value of the interest at the beginning of the year; and

(b) in any other case, its cost to the taxpayer immediately before the particular time is deemed to be equal to the amount that would be its cost to the taxpayer at the particular time if this Act were read without reference to this section (other than subsection (2)).

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(12) of the Act provides a rule for determining the cost at a particular time of a participating interest in an entity for a taxation year in the event that the interest is disposed of by the taxpayer in the year.

The cost to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition of the property is deemed to be its fair market value at the beginning of the taxpayer's taxation year. In the event that the property was not held by the taxpayer at that time, its cost immediately before the disposition is its cost determined without reference to subsections 94.2(4) and (12). In identifying property for these purposes, identical properties of a taxpayer are considered to be disposed of on a "first in, first out" basis, as a consequence of the application of subsection 94.2(2).

Under new paragraph (c.2) of the definition "cost amount" in subsection 248(1), the cost determined at a particular time for a property under subsection 94.2 (12) is also the "cost amount" of the property at the particular time.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"cost amount"(c.2) — Cost amount applies for entire Act.

(13) Deferral amount where same interest reacquired — Subject to subsections (14) to (17), where a taxpayer disposes of a participating interest in an entity at any time in a taxation year of the taxpayer and subsection (4) applies for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income for the year in respect of the interest, for the purpose of applying subsection (4) to dispositions after that time the deferral amount of the taxpayer in respect of the interest is nil.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(13) of the Act generally provides that a "deferral amount" in respect of a property of a taxpayer is deemed to be nil, after the property has been disposed of by the taxpayer at a time when the mark-to-market rules in subsection 94.2(4) applied to the property. This is of relevance to property that is reacquired by a taxpayer. However, subsection 94.2(13) is subject to rules in subsections 94.2(14) to (17).

It should be noted that identical properties of a taxpayer are considered to be disposed of on a "first in, first out" basis as a consequence of the application of subsection 94.2(2).

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(14) Fresh start re change of status of entity — Where a participating interest is deemed by paragraph (11)(a) to have been acquired at a particular time by a taxpayer, for the purpose of applying subsection (4) to a subsequent disposition of the interest and a subsequent election in respect of the interest under clause (i)(C) of the description of D in paragraph (4)(a), the deferral amount of the taxpayer in respect of the interest shall

(a) for the purpose of clause (i)(C) of the description of B in the definition "deferral amount" in paragraph (1)(b), be determined as if subsection (4) had not applied to the taxpayer in respect of the interest for taxation years that began before the particular time; and

(b) be determined without reference to the application of subsection (13) with regard to dispositions that occurred before the particular time.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(14) of the Act covers the case where a taxpayer's participating interest in an entity was initially subject to the rules in subsection 94.2(4) and ceases to be subject to those rules (otherwise than because of the taxpayer having become an "exempt taxpayer"). For example, subsection 94.2(14) could apply where an entity loses its status as an FIE.

In these circumstances, the deferral amount in respect of the participating interest is determined without reference to the past application of subsections 94.2(4) and (13). This rule is relevant only in the event that the same participating interest of the taxpayer again becomes subject to the rules in subsection 94.2(4).

Parallel "fresh start" rules are contained in subsection 94.2(15) and (16). All of these "fresh start" rules are expected to be only rarely invoked, given that more than one change in status of an investment or a taxpayer is required for the rules to become relevant. For further detail on the "deferral amount" defined in subsection 94.2(1), see the commentary on that definition.

(15) Fresh start after emigration of taxpayer — Where a taxpayer ceases at a particular time to be resident in Canada, for the purpose of applying subsection (4) to dispositions, and elections under clause (i)(C) of the description of D in paragraph (4)(a), that occur or that are made after the particular time, the deferral amount in respect of the taxpayer's participating interests shall

(a) for the purpose of clause (i)(C) of the description of B in the definition "deferral amount" in paragraph (1)(b), be determined as if subsection (4) had not applied to the taxpayer in respect of participating interests for taxation years that began before the particular time; and

(b) be determined without reference to the application of subsection (13) with regard to dispositions that occurred before the particular time.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(15) of the Act affects the calculation of the "deferral amount" in respect of a participating interest in an entity for a taxpayer who has ceased to reside in Canada. It is relevant in the event that, at a subsequent time, the taxpayer becomes resident in Canada again.

In these circumstances, the deferral amounts in respect of the taxpayer's FIE interests are determined without reference to the past application of subsections 94.2(4) and (13).

For further context, see the commentary above on the related fresh start rule in subsection 94.2(14).

(16) Fresh start re change of status of tax-exempt entity — Where

(a) a taxpayer was not an exempt taxpayer for a particular taxation year, and

(b) the taxpayer is an exempt taxpayer for the following taxation year because of the application of paragraph (b) of the definition "exempt taxpayer" in subsection 94.1(1), for the purpose of applying subsection (4) to dispositions, and elections under clause (i)(C) of the description of D in paragraph (4)(a), that occur or that are made after that following year, the deferral amount in respect of the taxpayer's participating interests shall

(c) for the purpose of clause (i)(C) of the description of B in the definition "deferral amount" in paragraph (1)(b), be determined as if subsection (4) had not applied to the taxpayer in respect of participating interests for taxation years that ended before that following year, and

(d) be determined without reference to the application of subsection (13) with regard to dispositions that occurred before that following year.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(16) of the Act affects the calculation of the "deferral amount" in respect of an interest in an entity for a taxpayer that initially was not an "exempt taxpayer" under paragraph (b) of that definition and then subsequently both obtains and loses that status.

In these circumstances, the deferral amounts in respect of the FIE interests of the taxpayer are determined without reference to the past application of subsections 94.2(4) and (13).

For further context, see the commentary on the related fresh start rule in subsection 94.2(14). In addition, it should be noted that amended subsection 149(10) applies to changes of tax-exempt status for taxpayers that are corporations. Where subsection 149(10) applies, the rules in subsection 94.2(16) do not apply.

(17) Superficial dispositions — Where a taxpayer disposes of a particular participating interest in an entity, the deferral amount in respect of the particular interest would otherwise be a negative amount and the disposition would, if the particular interest were a capital property and a loss arose on the disposition, give rise to a superficial loss (within the meaning that would be assigned by section 54 if the definition "superficial loss" in that section were read without the reference to subsection 40(3.4) in paragraph (h) of that definition),

(a) except for the purpose of applying paragraph (b) in respect of the disposition, the deferral amount of the taxpayer in respect of the particular interest is deemed to be nil; and

(b) the deferral amount of the taxpayer in respect of the property that would be the substituted property referred to in that definition if the assumptions described in this subsection applied is deemed to be equal to the deferral amount of the taxpayer in respect of the particular interest.

Technical Notes: New subsection 94.2(17) of the Act applies where a taxpayer disposes of a participating interest in an entity in respect of which a negative amount is determined under the description of D in the formula in subsection 94.2(4). This would be the case where there is a negative deferral amount associated with the interest. In these circumstances, the deferral amount is instead generally deemed to be nil if, during the period beginning 30 days before the disposition and ending 30 days after the disposition, identical property is acquired by the taxpayer or certain related persons.

Subsection 94.2(17) operates in a manner similar to the "superficial loss" rules for capital properties and is intended to prevent the premature realization of losses in respect of a property in which a taxpayer effectively retains an economic interest. "Superficial loss" has the same meaning as assigned in section 54, except that the definition for the purposes of subsection 94.2(17) does not contain the exception for transactions covered by subsection 40(3.4).

Property substituted for the particular property is, in these circumstances, considered to have the deferral amount associated with the property disposed of.

94.3 (1) Definitions and rules of application — The definitions in subsection 94.1(1), and paragraph 94.2(2)(a), apply in this section.

(2) Prevention of double taxation — Where at a particular time in a taxation year a taxpayer resident in Canada receives or becomes entitled to receive a payment from an entity in respect of a participating interest in the entity,

(a) there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount included (otherwise than because of subsection 94.2(4)) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year in respect of the payment,

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible

(I) under subsection 91(5) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year in respect of the payment, or

(II) under section 113 in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the year in respect of the payment, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount added under subsection 94.1(3) or 94.2(4), in respect of the interest, in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year

exceeds the total of

(B) all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 94.1(3) or subsection 94.2(4), in respect of the interest, in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(C) all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under this paragraph, in respect of the interest, in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of a payment in respect of the interest that was received or became receivable before the particular time; and

(b) if the interest is capital property at the particular time, in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest after the particular time there shall be deducted the amount deducted under paragraph (a) in computing the taxpayer's income.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(w) — Deduction from adjusted cost base; 87(2)(j.95) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

Definitions [s. 94.3]: "adjusted cost base" — 54, 248(1); "amount" — 248(1); "capital property" — 54, 248(1); "entity", "participating interest" — 94.1(1), 94.3(1); "resident in Canada" — 250; "taxable income" — 248(1); "taxation year" — 94.1(1), 94.3(1), 249; "taxpayer" — 248(1).

Technical Notes: Where a taxpayer resident in Canada has received a payment (a dividend, for example) in respect of a participating interest in an entity held by the taxpayer (otherwise than as consideration for the disposition of the interest), new section 94.3 of the Act permits a deduction designed to offset any net income inclusion resulting from the payment. The permitted deduction for a taxation year is equal to the lesser of:

- the amount included (otherwise than because of subsection 94.2(4)) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year in respect of the payment, less any increase in amounts deductible under subsection 91(5) or section 113 caused by the making of the payment, and
- the net amount included in computing the taxpayer's income under sections 94.1 and 94.2 in respect of the participating interest, less deductions for the taxpayer under subsection 94.3(2) in respect of previous payments in respect of the interest.

In the event that the participating interest is capital property, the amount deducted from income under subsection 94.3(2) in respect of the interest is also required to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base of the interest. Note that this deduction is not of relevance to property to which the mark-to-market rules in section 94.2 apply, given that such property will not be capital property as a consequence of the application of subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3) and section 94.2.

Section 94.3 also allows income inclusions in respect of amounts payable (for example, amounts payable by an FIE that is a trust) to be similarly treated.

The example below illustrates the operation of section 94.3.

Example

1. A taxpayer resident in Canada, Canco, purchases a 20% interest in Foreignco, a non-resident corporation. Foreignco is an FIE. Participating interests in Foreignco do not qualify as "exempt interests". Both Canco and Foreignco have taxation years that coincide with calendar years. Canco makes an election under subsection 94.1(4) to have section 94.1 apply.

2. Canco's income allocation in respect of its participating interest in Foreignco for 2001 is $100,000, which is added in computing Canco's income under subsection 94.1(3). This is partially offset by a specified tax allocation of $30,000. Foreignco pays a dividend of $50,000 to Canco in 2001. Canco includes the dividend in income pursuant to section 90 and claims a deduction of $20,000 in computing its taxable income pursuant to subsection 113(1).

Results

1. Canco's deduction from income under section 94.3 is equal to $35,000, being the lesser of the net income inclusion as a result of the payment (= $50,000 minus $20,000) and the amount of the net income inclusions under subsection 94.1(3) ($100,000 minus $30,000).
2. The result would generally be the same if the $50,000 dividend were instead paid in a subsequent year.

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, s. 11, will amend s. 94.1 to read as above, and add ss. 94.2 and 94.3, applicable to taxpayer's taxation years that begin after 2000, except that subsec. 94.2(10) does not apply to taxation years that begin before 2002.

Pre-RSC History [s. 94.1]: S. 94.1 added by 1984, c. 45, s. 30, generally applicable after 1984; but see subsec. 94.1(3) for exceptions.

95. (1) Definitions for this subdivision — In this subdivision,

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)

95. Definitions re foreign affiliates — (1) In this subdivision (other than sections 94 to 94.3),

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 12(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 95(1) of the Act sets out definitions that are relevant for the purposes of sections 90 to 95.

Subsection 95(1) is amended so that these definitions do not apply for the purposes of sections 94 to 94.3, except where the definition applies for the purposes of the Act as a whole because of subsection 248(1). This amendment applies to taxation years that begin after 2000.

"active business" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer means any business carried on by the affiliate other than

(a) an investment business carried on by the affiliate, or

(b) a business that is deemed by subsection (2) to be a business other than an active business carried on by the affiliate;

Related Provisions: 95(1)"income from an active business" — What income included; 248(1) — Meanings of "active business" and "business".

History: The definition "active business" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"controlled foreign affiliate", at any time, of a taxpayer resident in Canada means a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that was, at that time, controlled by

(a) the taxpayer,

(b) the taxpayer and not more than four other persons resident in Canada,

(c) not more than 4 persons resident in Canada, other than the taxpayer,

(d) a person or persons with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, or

(e) the taxpayer and a person or persons with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length;

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"controlled foreign affiliate"

"controlled foreign affiliate", at any time, of a taxpayer resident in Canada means a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that is, at that time, a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer because of subsection 94.1(12) or that is, at that time, controlled by

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 12(2), will amend the opening words of the definition "controlled foreign affiliate" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: As set out below, various definitions in subsection 95(1) are also being amended.

The income for a taxation year of a taxpayer resident in Canada includes, pursuant to subsection 91(1) of the Act, a specified percentage of the foreign accrual property income (FAPI) of any controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. In order to eliminate overlap between the FAPI rules and the rules for foreign investment entities in sections 94.1 and 94.2, the latter rules do not apply in respect of a taxpayer's interest in a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada. An election is provided under new subsection 94.1(12) under which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer can be treated as controlled foreign affiliate.

The definition "controlled foreign affiliate" is amended to make a cross-reference to foreign affiliates that are deemed by subsection 94.1(12) to be controlled foreign affiliates. Given the wording in subsection 94.1(12), this reference is not technically necessary but is meant to serve as a useful clarification of the potential application of subsection 94.1(12).

Related Provisions: 17(15)"controlled foreign affiliate" — Definition applicable to loan by corporation to non-resident; 128.1(1)(d) — Foreign affiliate becoming resident in Canada deemed to have been controlled foreign affiliate; 233.4(4) — Reporting requirements; 248(1)"controlled foreign affiliate" — Definition applies to entire Act; 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

History: Paras. (c) to (e) of "controlled foreign affiliate" in subsec. 95(1) substituted for para. (c) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(1), applicable to taxation years commencing after July 13, 1990. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) a related group of which the taxpayer was a member;

Pre-RSC History: The definition "controlled foreign affiliate" was para. 95(1)(a). See Table of Concordance.

That portion of para. 95(1)(a) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1988, c. 55, s. 65, to substitute "controlled by" for "controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by", applicable to taxation years commencing after 1988.

"excluded property" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer means any property of the foreign affiliate that is

(a) used or held by the foreign affiliate principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from an active business,

(b) shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer where all or substantially all of the property of the other foreign affiliate is excluded property, or

(c) an amount receivable the interest on which is, or would be if interest were payable thereon, income from an active business by virtue of subparagraph (2)(a)(ii), and, for the purposes of the definitions "foreign affiliate" in this subsection and "direct equity percentage" in subsection (4) as they apply to this definition, where at any time a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer has an interest in a partnership,

(d) the partnership shall be deemed to be a non-resident corporation having capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares, and

(e) the affiliate shall be deemed to own at that time that proportion of the issued shares of that class that

(i) the fair market value of the affiliate's interest in the partnership at that time

is of

(ii) the fair market value of all interests in the partnership at that time;

Related Provisions: 85.1(4) — Exception to share-for-share exchange rules where foreign affiliate's property is substantially all excluded property.

History: That portion of the definition "excluded property" following para. (c) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(2), applicable after 1989. That portion formerly read:

> and for the purpose of this definition, where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer has an interest in a partnership and the fair market value of the interest is equal to or greater than 10% of the fair market value of all interests in the partnership, the partnership shall be deemed to be another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the interest of the foreign affiliate in the partnership shall be deemed to be shares of the capital stock of that other foreign affiliate;

Pre-RSC History: The definition "excluded property" was para. 95(1)(a.1). See Table of Concordance.

All that portion of paragraph 95(1)(a.1) following subpara. (iii) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 42(1), applicable after November 12, 1981. That portion formerly read:

> and for the purpose of this paragraph, where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer has an interest in a partnership the fair market value of which is at least 10% of the fair market value of all interests in the partnership, the partnership shall be deemed to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer;

Para. 95(1)(a.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec 57(1), applicable after November 12, 1981.

"foreign accrual property income" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, for any taxation year of the affiliate, means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + A.1 + A.2 + B + C) - (D + E + F + G)$$

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"

$$(A + A.1 + A.2 + B + C) - (D + E + F + G + H)$$

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(1), will amend the formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

Technical Notes: See under 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"H.

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"

$$(A + A.1 + A.2 + B) - (D + E + F + G + H)$$

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 12(3), will amend the formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: The FAPI of a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is allocated to the taxpayer in accordance with subsection 91(1) of the Act. Under its definition in subsection 95(1), FAPI includes certain amounts that would be included in the affiliate's income under existing subsection 94.1(1) if that subsection were read in the manner specified in the description of C of the definition.

where

A is the amount that would, if section 80 did not apply to the affiliate for the year or a preceding taxation year, be the total of the affiliate's incomes for the year from property and businesses (other than active businesses) determined as if each amount described in clause (2)(a)(ii)(D) that was paid or payable, directly or indirectly, by the affiliate to another foreign affiliate of either the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length were nil where an amount in respect of the income derived by the other foreign affiliate from that amount that was paid or payable to it by the affiliate was added in computing its income from an active business, other than

(a) interest that would, by virtue of paragraph 81(1)(m), not be included in computing the income of the affiliate if it were resident in Canada,

(b) a dividend from another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer,

(c) a taxable dividend to the extent that the amount thereof would, if the dividend were received by the taxpayer, be deductible by the taxpayer under section 112, or

(d) any amount included because of subsection 80.4(2) in the affiliate's income in respect of indebtedness to another corporation that is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or of a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length,

A.1 is 4/3 of the total of all amounts included in computing the affiliate's income from property or businesses (other than active businesses) for the year because of subsection 80(13),

A.2 is the amount determined for G in respect of the affiliate for the preceding taxation year,

B is such portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property, other than dispositions of excluded property to which none of paragraphs (2)(c), (d) and (e) apply, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year,

C is where the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, the amount that would be required to be included in computing its income for the year if

(a) subsection 94.1(1) were applicable in computing that income,

(b) the words "earned directly by the taxpayer" in that subsection were replaced by the words "earned by the person resident in Canada in respect of whom the taxpayer is a foreign affiliate",

(c) the words "other than a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or a prescribed non-resident entity" in paragraph 94.1(1)(a) were replaced by the words "other than a prescribed non-resident entity or a controlled foreign affiliate of a person resident in Canada of whom the taxpayer is a controlled foreign affiliate", and

(d) the words "other than a capital gain" in paragraph 94.1(1)(g) were replaced by the words "other than any income that would not be included in the taxpayer's foreign accrual property income for the year if the value of C in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) were nil and other than a capital gain",

Proposed Repeal — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"C

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 12(4), will repeal the description of C in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Existing section 94.1 is being repealed. Accordingly, the description of C in the definition "foreign accrual property income" is also repealed. There are, however, special rules in new paragraph 95(2)(g.2) with regard to the application of sections 94.1 to 94.3 for the purposes of computing FAPI.

This amendment applies to taxation years of controlled foreign affiliates that begin after 2000.

D is the total of the affiliate's losses for the year from property and businesses (other than active businesses) determined as if there were not included in the affiliate's income any amount described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the description of A and as if each amount described in clause (2)(a)(ii)(D) that was paid or payable, directly or indirectly, by the affiliate to another foreign affiliate of either the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length were nil where an amount in respect of the income derived by the other foreign affiliate from that amount that was paid or payable to it by the affiliate was added in computing its income from an active business,

E is such portion of the affiliate's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property, other than dispositions of excluded property to which none of paragraphs (2)(c), (d) and (e) apply, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year,

F is the amount prescribed to be the deductible loss of the affiliate for the year and the five immediately preceding taxation years, and

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"F

F is the amount prescribed to be the deductible loss of the affiliate for the year, and Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(2), will amend the description of F in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to foreign affiliates' taxation years that begin after November 1999.

Technical Notes: The description of F in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act and section 5903 of the Regulations establish the extent to which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is permitted to deduct amounts in computing its foreign accrual property income for the year in respect of foreign accrual property losses of other taxation years. Under the existing provisions such losses may be carried forward for five years.

The amendments to the description of F in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act and section 5903 of the Regulations provide that foreign accrual property losses may be carried back three years and forward seven years. The amendments apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin after November 30, 1999.

G is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of amounts determined for A.1 and A.2 in respect of the affiliate for the year

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts determined for D to F in respect of the affiliate for the year;

Proposed Addition — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"H

H is

(a) where the affiliate was a member of a partnership at the end of the fiscal period of the partnership that ended in the year and the partnership received a dividend at a particular time in that fiscal period from a corporation that was, for the purposes of sections 93 and 113, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer at that particular time, the portion of the amount of that dividend that is included in the value of A in respect of the affiliate for the year and that is deemed by paragraph 93.1(2)(a) to have been received by the affiliate for the purposes of sections 93 and 113, and

(b) in any other case, nil;

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(3), will add the description of H to the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1), applicable after November 1999.

Technical Notes: The amendment to the definition of "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) of the Act adds new description H to the formula in that definition. The description of H applies where the affiliate was a member of a partnership that received a dividend from another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. In such a case, the amount for the description of H is equal to the portion of such dividend received by the partnership that is included in the description of A in the formula in respect of the affiliate for the year that is deemed by paragraph 93.1(2)(a) of the Act to have been a dividend received by the member affiliate from another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. New description H ensures that inter-affiliate dividends are not included in foreign accrual property income of an affiliate of the taxpayer.

History: Paras. (c) and (d) added to the description of C in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 122(2), para. (c) applicable to taxation years that end after November 1991, para. (d) applicable to taxation years that begin after June 19, 1996.

The formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) amended, and the descriptions of A.1 and A.2 added, by 1995, c. 21, subsecs. 32(1), (2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The formula formerly read:

The opening words of the description of A in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 78(2), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22,

1994, the amended description of A applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of such foreign affiliate.

In these instances, for taxation years that end after February 21, 1994, the opening words of the description of A should be read as follows (1995, c. 21, subsec. 78(1)):

A is the amount that would, if section 80 did not apply to the affiliate for the year or a preceding taxation year, be the total of the affiliate's incomes for the year from property and businesses (other than active businesses), other than Para. (d) of the description of A in "foreign accrual property income" added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(3), applicable to 1987 et seq.

The description of D in "foreign accrual property income" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(4), to parenthesize "other than active businesses" and to substitute "paragraphs (a) to (d)" for "paragraphs (a), (b) or (c)", applicable to 1987 et seq.

Pre-RSC History: The definition "foreign accrual property income" was para. 95(1)(b). It contained descriptive subparagraphs instead of the present formula. The pre-R.S.C. version read:

(b) "foreign accrual property income"— "foreign accrual property income" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, for any taxation year of the affiliate, means the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of

(i) the affiliate's incomes for the year from property and businesses other than active businesses, other than

(A) interest that would, by virtue of paragraph 81(1)(m), not be included in computing the income of the affiliate if it were resident in Canada,

(B) a dividend from another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, or

(C) a taxable dividend to the extent that the amount thereof would, if the dividend were received by the taxpayer, be deductible by him under section 112, and

(ii) such portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property, other than dispositions of excluded property to which none of paragraphs (2)(c), (d) and (e) apply, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year, and

(ii.1) where the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, the amount that would be required to be included in computing its income for the year if

(A) subsection 94.1(1) were applicable in computing such income, and

exceeds the aggregate of

(iii) the affiliate's losses for the year from property and businesses other than active businesses determined as if there were not included in the affiliate's income any amount described in clause (i)(A), (B) or (C),

(iv) such portion of the affiliate's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property, other than dispositions of excluded property to which none of paragraphs (2)(c), (d) and (e) apply, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year, and

(v) the amount prescribed to be the deductible loss of the affiliate for the year and the five immediately preceding taxation years;

"foreign accrual tax" applicable to any amount included in computing a taxpayer's income by virtue of subsection 91(1) for a taxation year in respect of a particular foreign affiliate of the taxpayer means

(a) the portion of any income or profits tax that was paid by

(i) the particular affiliate, or

(ii) any other foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of a dividend received from the particular affiliate and that may reasonably be regarded as applicable to that amount, and

(b) any amount prescribed in respect of the particular affiliate to be foreign accrual tax applicable to that amount;

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign affiliate"

Letter from Department of Finance, July 29, 1997:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter of July 21, 1997, requesting confirmation that our Department intends to recommend an amendment to the Income Tax Act (the "Act") to accommodate the holding of foreign affiliates through partnerships. You have noted that Revenue Canada has expressed the view that a foreign corporation ("FA") is not a foreign affiliate of a Canadian corporation ("Canco") where FA's shares are property of a partnership in which Canco is a partner. As a result, dividends paid by FA to the partnership and distributed by the partnership to Canco do not qualify for deductions under section 113 of the Act.

Our Department is prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that amendments to the Act be made in a future technical bill to accommodate the holding of shares of foreign corporations in a partnership. Such amendments to the Act would ensure that, in the appropriate circumstances, dividends paid by a foreign corporation to a partnership and distributed by the partnership to a Canadian corporation would qualify for deductions under section 113 of the Act. The appropriate circumstances would encompass the circumstances set out in the example in your letter.

I trust that you will find these comments helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

History: The definition "foreign affiliate" in subsec. 95(1) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(1), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the amended legislation applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

>
> (b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

The definition formerly read:

> "foreign affiliate", at any time, of a taxpayer (other than a non-resident-owned investment corporation) resident in Canada means a corporation (other than a corporation resident in Canada), in which, at that time, the taxpayer's equity percentage was not less than 10%;

> (a) that definition were read without reference to the portion thereof after paragraph (g) thereof, and
> (b) the entity had not been exempt under section 12 of that Act from being a foreign bank;

Related Provisions: 94.1(1)"foreign bank" — Definition applies to foreign investment entity rules.

History: The definition "foreign bank" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

> (b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"income from an active business" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer for a taxation year includes, for greater certainty, any income of the affiliate for the year that pertains to or is incident to that business but does not include

> (a) other income that is its income from property for the year, or
> (b) its income for the year from a business that is deemed by subsection (2) to be a business other than an active business carried on by the affiliate;

Related Provisions: 95(1)"active business" — Businesses excluded; 95(1)"income from property" — Extended meaning of income from property.

History: The definition "income from an active business" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"income from property" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer for a taxation year includes its income for the year from an investment business and its income for the year from an adventure or concern in the nature of trade, but, for greater certainty, does not include its income for the year that is because of subsection (2) included in its income from an active business or in its income from a business other than an active business;

Related Provisions: 9(1) — Determination of income from property; 95(1)"investment business" — Meaning of investment business; 95(2)(l) — Income from trading or dealing in indebtedness.

History: The definition "income from property" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"investment business" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer means a business carried on by the affiliate in a taxation year (other than a business deemed by subsection (2) to be a business other than an active business carried on by the affiliate) the principal purpose of which is to derive income from property (including interest, dividends, rents, royalties or any similar returns or substitutes therefor), income from the insurance or reinsurance of risks, income from the factoring of trade accounts receivable, or profits from the disposition of investment property, unless it is established by the taxpayer or the affiliate that, throughout the period in the year during which the business was carried on by the affiliate,

(a) the business (other than any business conducted principally with persons with whom the affiliate does not deal at arm's length) is

(i) a business carried on by it as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities, the activities of which are regulated in the country in which the business is principally carried on, or

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"investment business"(a)(i)

(i) a business carried on by it as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities, the activities of which are regulated under the laws of the country in which the business is principally carried on, or

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 12(5), will amend subpara. (a)(i) of the definition "investment business" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: "Investment business" of a foreign affiliate means a business carried on by the foreign affiliate the principal purpose of which is to derive income from property. However, an arm's length business carried on by a foreign bank, trust company, credit union, insurance corporation or securities trader is excluded from the definition "investment business" where the business is regulated in the country in which the business is principally carried on and a 5-employee test is satisfied.

The definition is amended to clarify that the regulation of the business must be under the laws of the country. This language corresponds to a similar definition of the same expression in new subsection 94.1(1).

(ii) the development of real estate for sale, the lending of money, the leasing or licensing of property or the insurance or reinsurance of risks, and

(b) the affiliate or, where the affiliate carries on the business as a member of a partnership (except where the affiliate is a specified member of the partnership in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year), the partnership employs

(i) more than 5 employees full time in the active conduct of the business, or

(ii) the equivalent of more than 5 employees full time in the active conduct of the business taking into consideration only the services provided by its employees and the services provided outside Canada to the affiliate or the partnership by the employees of

(A) a corporation related to the affiliate (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), or

(B) members of the partnership (other than a member of the partnership that was a specified member of the partnership in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year)

where the corporation or members referred to in clause (A) or (B) receive compensation from the affiliate or the partnership for the services provided to the affiliate or the partnership by those employees the value of which is not less than the cost to such corporation or members of the compensation paid or accruing to the benefit of those employees that performed the services during the time the services were performed by those employees;

Related Provisions: 95(1)"active business"(a) — Investment business excluded from active business; 95(2)(a.2) — Income from insurance business; 95(2.1) — Whether dealing with foreign affiliate at arm's length; 125(7) — Analogous definition of "specified investment business" for small business deduction purposes.

History: The definition "investment business" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"investment property" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer includes

(a) a share of the capital stock of a corporation other than a share of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that is excluded property of the affiliate,

(b) an interest in a partnership other than an interest in a partnership that is excluded property of the affiliate,

(c) an interest in a trust other than an interest in a trust that is excluded property of the affiliate,

(d) indebtedness or annuities,

(e) commodities or commodities futures purchased or sold, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, on a commodities or commodities futures exchange (except commodities manufactured, produced, grown, extracted or processed by the affiliate or a person to whom the affiliate is related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) or commodities futures in respect of such commodities),

(f) currency,

(g) real estate,

(h) Canadian and foreign resource properties,

(i) interests in funds or entities other than corporations, partnerships and trusts, and

(j) interests or options in respect of property that is included in any of paragraphs (a) to (i);

History: The definition "investment property" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"lease obligation" of a person includes an obligation under an agreement that authorizes the use of or the production or reproduction of property including information or any other thing;

History: The definition "lease obligation" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"lending of money" by a person (for the purpose of this definition referred to as the "lender") includes

(a) the acquisition by the lender of trade accounts receivable (other than trade accounts receivable owing by a person with whom the lender does not deal at arm's length) from another person or the acquisition by the lender of any interest in any such accounts receivable,

(b) the acquisition by the lender of loans made by and lending assets (other than loans or lending assets owing by a person with whom the lender does not deal at arm's length) of another person or the acquisition by the lender of any interest in such a loan or lending asset,

(c) the acquisition by the lender of a foreign resource property (other than a foreign resource property that is a rental or royalty payable by a person with whom the lender does not deal at arm's length) of another person, and

(d) the sale by the lender of loans or lending assets (other than loans or lending assets owing by a person with whom the lender does not deal at arm's length) or the sale by the lender of any interest in such loans or lending assets;

and for the purpose of this definition, the definition "lending asset" in subsection 248(1) shall be read without the words "but does not include a prescribed property";

History: Closing words added to the definition "lending of money" in subsec. 95(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 122(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994, but where there was a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the amendment applies to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end after 1994 unless

(a) the foreign affiliate had requested the change in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which the foreign affiliate was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(b) the foreign affiliate's first taxation year that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if the change had not occurred, except that, for taxation years of a foreign affiliate that ended before October 1997, the closing words of the definition "lending of money" shall be read as follows:

and for the purpose of this definition, the definition "lending asset" in subsection 248(1) shall be read without the words "but does not include a prescribed security";

The definition "lending of money" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"licensing of property" includes authorizing the use of or the production or reproduction of property including information or any other thing;

History: The definition "licensing of property" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(3), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new definition applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

"participating percentage" of a particular share owned by a taxpayer of the capital stock of a corporation in respect of any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that was, at the end of its taxation year, a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer is

(a) where the foreign accrual property income of the affiliate for that year is $5,000 or less, nil, and

(b) where the foreign accrual property income of the affiliate for that year exceeds $5,000,

(i) where the affiliate and each corporation that is relevant to the determination of the taxpayer's equity percentage in the affiliate has only one class of issued shares at the end of that taxation year of the affiliate, the percentage that would be the taxpayer's equity percentage in the affiliate at that time on the assumption that the taxpayer owned no shares other than the particular share (but in no case shall that assumption be made for the purpose of determining whether or not a corporation is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer), and

(ii) in any other case, the percentage determined in prescribed manner;

Related Provisions: 95(1) — Foreign accrual property income; 95(1) — Foreign affiliate; 95(4) — Equity percentage.

Pre-RSC History: The definition "participating percentage" was para. 95(1)(e).

Regulations: 5904 (prescribed manner).

"relevant tax factor" means

(a) where the taxpayer is an individual, 2, or

(b) where the taxpayer is a corporation, the quotient obtained when one is divided by the percentage set out in paragraph 123(1)(a);

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"relevant tax factor"

"relevant tax factor" of a person or partnership for a taxation year means

(a) in the case of a corporation (or a partnership all the members of which, other than non-resident persons, are corporations), the quotient obtained when 1 is divided by the percentage set out in paragraph 123(1)(a) in respect of the year, and

(b) in any other case, 2.

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 12(6), will amend the definition "relevant tax factor" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable after 2000.

Technical Notes: The existing definition "relevant tax factor" provides that the "relevant tax factor" for an individual is 2 and for a corporation is the reciprocal of the basic corporate tax rate (i.e., 1/.38, or 2.63).

Under new section 94.1, the "relevant tax factor" is relevant in determining the extent to which relief is provided for investors in foreign investment entities in respect of income or profits taxes payable by those entities. (See, in this regard, subsection 94.1(8).) Partnerships may hold interests in such entities, in which case it may become necessary to compute a relevant tax factor in respect of a partnership.

The definition "relevant tax factor" is amended so that the relevant tax factor for a partnership is 2, except where its members consist entirely of corporations resident in Canada and non-resident persons. In the latter case, the "relevant tax factor" is 2.63.

This amendment applies after 2000.

Pre-RSC History: The definition "relevant tax factor" was para. 95(1)(f).

Subpara. 95(1)(f)(ii) substituted by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 47(1), applicable to taxation years commencing after June 22, 1984. Subpara. 95(1)(f)(ii) formerly read:

(ii) where the taxpayer is a corporation, the factor obtained when one is divided by the percentage referred to in section 123 for the taxation year;

"surplus entitlement percentage", at any time, of a taxpayer in respect of a foreign affiliate has the meaning assigned by regulation; and

Pre-RSC History: The definition "surplus entitlement percentage" was para. 95(1)(f.1).

Para. 95(1)(f.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 57(5), applicable after November 12, 1981.

Regulations: 5905(13).

"taxation year" in relation to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer means the period for which the accounts of the foreign affiliate have been ordinarily made up, but no such period may exceed 53 weeks,

Related Provisions: 95(1) — Foreign affiliate; 249 — Taxation year.

Pre-RSC History: The definition "taxation year" was para. 95(1)(g).

"trust company" includes a corporation that is resident in Canada and that is a loan company as defined in subsection 2(1) of the Canadian Payments Association Act.

History: The definition "trust company" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 122(4), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there was a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the amendment applies to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end after 1994 unless

(a) the foreign affiliate had requested the change in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which the foreign affiliate was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the foreign affiliate's first taxation year that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if the change had not occurred.

(2) Determination of certain components of foreign accrual property income — For the purposes of this subdivision,

(a) [income related to active business] — in computing the income from an active business for a taxation year of a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year there shall be included any income of the affiliate for that year from sources in a country other than Canada that would otherwise be income from property of the affiliate for the year to the extent that

(i) the income

(A) is derived by the particular affiliate from activities that can reasonably be considered to be directly related to the active business activities carried on in a country other than Canada by

(I) any other non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year, or

(II) the taxpayer, where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada throughout the year, and

(B) would be included in computing the amount prescribed to be the earnings or loss from an active business carried on in a country other than Canada of

(I) the non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year, or

(II) the taxpayer, where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada throughout the year

if it were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the income were earned by it,

(ii) the income is derived from amounts that were paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to the particular affiliate or a partnership of which the particular affiliate was a member

(A) by

(I) a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year, or

(II) a partnership of which a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year is a member and of which that non-resident corporation is not a specified member at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable are for expenditures that would, if the non-resident corporation or the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, be deductible by it in the year or a subsequent year in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss from an active business, other than an active business carried on in Canada,

(B) by

(I) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year, or

(II) a partnership of which another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year is a member and of which that other affiliate is not a specified member at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable are for expenditures that were or would be, if the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year by the other affiliate or the partnership in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss from an active business, other than an active business carried on in Canada,

(C) by a partnership of which the particular affiliate is a member and of which the particular affiliate is not a specified member at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable were for expenditures that would be, if the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, deductible in the year or a subsequent year in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss from an active business carried on by it outside Canada,

(D) by another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this clause referred to as the "second affiliate") to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year to the extent that the amounts are paid or payable by the second affiliate

(I) under a legal obligation to pay interest on borrowed money used for the purpose of earning income from property, or

(II) on an amount payable for property acquired for the purpose of gaining or producing income from property

where

(III) the property is excluded property of the second affiliate that is shares of a foreign affiliate (other than the particular affiliate) of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year (in this clause referred to as the "third affiliate"),

(IV) the second and third affiliates are resident in and subject to income taxation in the same country, and

(V) the amounts paid or payable are relevant in computing the liability for income taxes in that country of the members of a group of corporations composed of the second affiliate and one or more other foreign affiliates of the taxpayer (the shares of which are excluded property) that are resident and subject to income taxation in that country and in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year, or

(E) by the taxpayer, where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada (in this clause referred to as the "insurer"), to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable were for expenditures that are deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year by the insurer in computing its income or loss from carrying on its life insurance business outside Canada and are not deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its income or loss from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada,

(iii) the income is derived by the particular affiliate from the factoring of trade accounts receivable acquired by the particular affiliate or a partnership of which the particular affiliate was a member from a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year to the extent that the accounts receivable arose in the course of an active business carried on in a country other than Canada by the non-resident corporation, or

(iv) the income is derived by the particular affiliate from loans or lending assets acquired by the particular affiliate or a partnership of which the particular affiliate was a member from a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year to the extent that the loans or lending assets arose in the course of an active business carried on in a country other than Canada by the non-resident corporation;

(a.1) [income from sale of property] — in computing the income from a business other than an active business for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer there shall be included the income of the affiliate for the year from the sale of property (which, for the purposes of this paragraph, includes the income of the affiliate for the year from the performance of services as an agent in relation to a purchase or sale of property) where

(i) it is reasonable to conclude that the cost to any person of the property (other than property that was manufactured, produced, grown, extracted or processed in Canada by the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length in the course of carrying on a business in Canada and that was sold to non-resident persons other than the affiliate or sold to the affiliate for sale to non-resident persons) is relevant in computing the income from a business carried on by the taxpayer or a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length or is relevant in computing the income from a business carried on in Canada by a non-resident person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, and

(ii) the property was not manufactured, produced, grown, extracted or processed in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the affiliate's business is principally carried on,

unless more than 90% of the gross revenue of the affiliate for the year from the sale of property is derived from the sale of such property (other than a property described in subparagraph (ii) the cost of which to any person is a cost referred to in subparagraph (i)) to persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length (which, for this purpose, includes a sale of property to a non-resident corporation with which the affiliate does not deal at arm's length for sale to persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length) and, where this paragraph applies to include income of the affiliate from the sale of property in the income of the affiliate from a business other than an active business,

(iii) the sale of such property shall be deemed to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, and

(iv) any income of the affiliate that pertains to or is incident to that business shall be deemed to be income from a business other than an active business;

(a.2) [income from insurance] — in computing the income from a business other than an active business for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer there shall be included the income of the affiliate for the year from the insurance of a risk (which, for the purposes of this paragraph, includes income of the affiliate for the year from the reinsurance of a risk) where the risk was in respect of

(i) a person resident in Canada,

(ii) a property situated in Canada, or

(iii) a business carried on in Canada

unless more than 90% of the gross premium revenue of the affiliate for the year from the insurance of risks (net of reinsurance ceded) was in respect of the insurance of risks (other than risks in respect of a person, a property or a business described in subparagraphs (i) to (iii)) of persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length and, where this paragraph applies to include income of the affiliate from the insurance of risks in the income of the affiliate from a business other than an active business,

(iv) the insurance of those risks shall be deemed to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, and

(v) any income of the affiliate that pertains to or is incident to that business shall be deemed to be income from a business other than an active business;

(a.3) [income from Canadian debt and lease obligations] — in computing the income from a business other than an active business for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer there shall be included the income of the affiliate for the year derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness (other than a specified deposit with a prescribed financial institution) and lease obligations (which, for the purposes of this paragraph, includes the income of the affiliate for the year from the purchase and sale of indebtedness and lease obligations on its own account)

(i) of persons resident in Canada, or

(ii) in respect of businesses carried on in Canada

unless more than 90% of the gross revenue of the affiliate derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness (other than a specified deposit with a prescribed financial institution) and lease obligations was derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness and lease obligations of non-resident persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length and, where this paragraph applies to include income of the affiliate for the year in the income of the affiliate from a business other than an active business,

(iii) those activities carried out to earn such income shall be deemed to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, and

(iv) any income of the affiliate that pertains to or is incident to that business shall be deemed to be income from a business other than an active business;

(a.4) [income from partnership debt and lease obligations] — in computing the income from a business other than an active business for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer there shall be included (to the extent not included under paragraph (a.3) in such income of the affiliate for the year) that proportion of the income of the affiliate for the year derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness and lease obligations (which, for the purposes of this paragraph, includes the income of the affiliate for the year from the purchase and sale of indebtedness and lease obligations on its own account) in respect of a business carried on outside Canada by a partnership (any portion of the income or loss of which for fiscal periods of the partnership that end in the year is included or would, if the partnership had an income or loss for such fiscal periods, be included directly or indirectly in computing the income or loss of the taxpayer or a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length) that

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the income or loss of the partnership for fiscal periods of the partnership that end in the year that are included directly or indirectly in computing the income or loss of the taxpayer or a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the income or loss of the partnership for fiscal periods of the partnership that end in the year

unless more than 90% of the gross revenue of the affiliate derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness and lease obligations was derived directly or indirectly

from indebtedness and lease obligations of non-resident persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length (other than indebtedness and lease obligations of a partnership described in this paragraph) and where this paragraph applies to include a proportion of the income of the affiliate for the year in the income of the affiliate from a business other than an active business

(iii) those activities carried out to earn such income of the affiliate for the year shall be deemed to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, and

(iv) any income of the affiliate that pertains to or is incident to that business shall be deemed to be income from a business other than an active business

and for the purpose of this paragraph, where the income or loss of a partnership for a fiscal period that ends in the year is nil, the proportion of the income of the affiliate that is to be included in the income of the affiliate for the year from a business other than an active business shall be determined as if the partnership had income of $1,000,000 for that fiscal period;

(b) [services deemed not active business] — where a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer provides services or an undertaking to provide services and

(i) the amount paid or payable in consideration therefor

(A) is deductible in computing the income from a business carried on in Canada by any person in relation to whom the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate or by a person related to that person, or

(B) was paid or payable by a person other than the taxpayer and can reasonably be considered to relate to an amount that was deductible by the taxpayer or a person related to the taxpayer in computing the income of that taxpayer or person from a business carried on in Canada, or

the provision of those services or the undertaking to provide those services shall be deemed to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, and any income from that business or that pertains to or is incident to that business shall be deemed to be income from a business other than an active business;

(c) [rollover of FA shares to another FA] — where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer (in this paragraph referred to as the "disposing affiliate") has disposed of capital property that was shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this paragraph referred to as the "shares disposed of") to any corporation that was, immediately following the disposition, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this paragraph referred to as the "acquiring affiliate") for consideration including shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate,

(i) the cost to the disposing affiliate of any property (other than shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate) receivable by the disposing affiliate as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition,

(ii) the cost to the disposing affiliate of any shares of any class of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate receivable by the disposing affiliate as consideration for the disposition shall be deemed to be that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the total of the relevant cost bases to it, immediately before the disposition, of the shares disposed of exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration receivable for the disposition (other than shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate) that

(A) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of those shares of the acquiring affiliate of that class

is of

(B) the fair market value, immediately after the disposition, of all shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate receivable by the disposing affiliate as consideration for the disposition,

(iii) the disposing affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the shares shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the cost to it of all shares and other property receivable by it from the acquiring affiliate as consideration for the disposition, and

(iv) the cost to the acquiring affiliate of the shares acquired from the disposing affiliate shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the disposing affiliate's proceeds of disposition referred to in subparagraph (iii);

(d) [foreign merger] — where there has been a foreign merger in which the shares owned by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer of the capital stock of a corporation that was a predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger were exchanged for or became shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation or the foreign parent corporation, subsection 87(4) applies to the foreign affiliate as if the references in that subsection to

(i) "amalgamation" were read as "foreign merger",

(ii) "predecessor corporation" were read as "predecessor foreign corporation",

(iii) "new corporation" were read as "new foreign corporation or the foreign parent corporation", and

(iv) "adjusted cost base" were read as "relevant cost base";

(d.1) [foreign merger] — where there has been a foreign merger of two or more predecessor foreign corporations, in respect of each of which a taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90% immediately before the merger, to form a new foreign corporation in respect of which the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage immediately after the merger was not less than 90%, other than a foreign merger where, under the income tax law of the country in which the predecessor foreign corporations were resident immediately before the merger, a gain or loss was recognized in respect of any capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation that became capital property of the new foreign corporation in the course of the merger,

(i) each capital property of the new foreign corporation that was a capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger

shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the property to the predecessor foreign corporation at that time; and

(ii) for the purposes of this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the new foreign corporation shall, with respect to any disposition by it of any capital property to which subparagraph (i) applied, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor foreign corporation that owned the property immediately before the merger,

but for greater certainty nothing in this paragraph shall affect the determination of whether any property of a predecessor foreign corporation is disposed of on a foreign merger other than one to which this paragraph applies;

(e) [windup of foreign affiliate] — except as otherwise provided in paragraph (e.1), where on the dissolution of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer (in this paragraph referred to as the "disposing affiliate") one or more shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer have been disposed of to a shareholder that is another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer,

(i) the disposing affiliate's proceeds of disposition of each such share and the cost thereof to the shareholder shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the relevant cost base to the disposing affiliate of the share immediately before the dissolution, and

(ii) the shareholder's proceeds of disposition of the shares of the disposing affiliate shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the total of

(A) the cost to the shareholder of the shares of the other foreign affiliate, as determined in subparagraph (i), and

(B) the fair market value of any property (other than the shares referred to in clause (A)) disposed of by the disposing affiliate to the shareholder on the dissolution,

exceeds

(C) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any debt owing by the disposing affiliate, or of any other obligation of the disposing affiliate to pay any amount, that was outstanding immediately before the dissolution and that was assumed or cancelled by the shareholder on the dissolution;

(e.1) [windup of foreign affiliate] — where there has been a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate (in this paragraph referred to as the "disposing affiliate") of a taxpayer in respect of which, immediately before the liquidation, the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90%, other than a liquidation and a dissolution where, under the income tax law of the country in which the disposing affiliate was resident immediately before the liquidation, a gain or loss was recognized by the disposing affiliate in respect of any capital property distributed by it in the course of the liquidation to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in that country, the following rules apply:

(i) each capital property of the disposing affiliate that was so distributed to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the disposing affiliate for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the property to the disposing affiliate immediately before the distribution,

(ii) for the purposes of this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the other affiliate shall, with respect to any disposition by it of capital property to which subparagraph (i) applied, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the disposing affiliate, and

(iii) the other affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the shares of the capital stock of the disposing affiliate disposed of in the course of the liquidation shall be deemed to be the adjusted cost base of those shares to the other affiliate immediately before the disposition;

(f) [capital gains and losses of foreign affiliate] — except as otherwise provided in this subsection, each taxable capital gain and each allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from the disposition of property shall be computed in accordance with Part I, read without reference to section 26 of the Income Tax Application Rules, as though the affiliate were resident in Canada

(i) where that gain or loss is the gain or loss of a controlled foreign affiliate from the disposition of property to which paragraph (c), (d) or (e) or 88(3)(a) applies or from any other disposition of property (other than excluded property), in Canadian currency, and

(ii) in any other case, on the assumption that the currency of the country in which the affiliate is resident or such other currency as is reasonable in the circumstances (in this subparagraph referred to as the "calculating currency") were the currency of Canada and, where subsection 39(2) is applicable, on the further assumptions that

(A) the reference in that subsection to "the currency or currencies of one or more countries other than Canada relative to Canadian currency" were read as a reference to "one or more currencies other than the calculating currency relative to the calculating currency", and

(B) the references therein to "of a country other than Canada" were read as references to "of a country other than the country of the calculating currency", except that in computing any such gain or loss from the disposition of property owned by the affiliate at the time it last became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer there shall not be included such portion of the gain or loss, as the case may be, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of

(iii) the taxpayer,

(iv) any person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length,

(v) any person with whom the taxpayer would not have been dealing at arm's length if the person had been in existence after the taxpayer came into existence,

(vi) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (iv) or (v), or

(vii) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 87(2)(l.2)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (iv) or (v);

(g) [debt settlement — currency fluctuation] — where, by virtue of a fluctuation in the value of the currency of a country other than Canada relative to the value of the Canadian dollar, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer has realized a taxable capital gain or an allowable capital loss in a taxation year on the settlement of a debt that was owing to

(i) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or any other non-resident corporation with which the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, or

(ii) the affiliate by another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or any other non-resident corporation with which the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, such gain or loss, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be nil;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(g)

(g) [currency fluctuation] — where, because of a fluctuation in the value of the currency of a country other than Canada relative to the value of the Canadian currency, a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout a taxation year of the particular affiliate has earned income or incurred a loss or realized a capital gain or a capital loss in the year, on

(i) the settlement of a debt obligation (other than a "specified debt obligation" as defined in subsection 142.2(1)), that was owing to

(A) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year or any other non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year (referred to in this paragraph as a "qualified foreign corporation"), or

(B) the particular affiliate by a qualified foreign corporation,

(ii) the redemption, cancellation or acquisition of a share of the capital stock of, or the reduction of the capital of, the particular affiliate or another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year (other than a "mark-to-market property" as defined in subsection 142.2(1)), or

(iii) the disposition to a qualified foreign corporation of a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year (other than a "mark-to-market property" as defined in subsection 142.2(1)), that income, gain or loss, as the case may be, is deemed to be nil;

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(4), will amend para. 95(2)(g) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999 except that, where the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before 2002, the amendment applies to taxation years, of all of its foreign affiliates, that began after 1994 and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any of those taxation years shall be made that is necessary to take into account the application of the amendment.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(g) provides that foreign currency gains or losses realized on the settlement of debts owing between foreign affiliates or between a foreign affiliate and a non-arm's length non-resident corporation are ignored for the purpose of determining foreign accrual property income ("FAPI"). Similarly, paragraph 95(2)(h) allows foreign currency gains or losses to be ignored for the purpose of determining FAPI when realized by a foreign affiliate as a result of the redemption, cancellation or acquisition of shares of, or on the reduction of capital of, another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. Paragraph 95(2)(h) also allows foreign currency gains or losses to be ignored when realized on a non-arm's length sale of shares of another affiliate.

The amendment to paragraph 95(2)(g) incorporates the provisions of paragraphs 95(2)(g) and (h) into one paragraph. Also, the amendment allows paragraph 95(2)(g) to apply regardless of whether the foreign currency gains or losses are incurred on income or capital account. As well, paragraph 95(2)(g) applies in circumstances where the foreign affiliate redeems, cancels or acquires its own shares. Paragraph 95(2)(g) will not apply where the gain or loss is incurred on a "mark-to-market property" or a "specified debt obligation" as defined in subsection 142.2(1). In light of the foreign corporate group concept adopted in paragraph 95(2)(a) as part of the 1994 budget amendments, the relief in paragraph 95(2)(g) is restricted to circumstances where the taxpayer resident in Canada has a qualifying interest in each relevant foreign affiliate. In addition, each qualified non-resident corporation must be a corporation that is related to the taxpayer and the affiliate benefiting from the relief of paragraph 95(2)(g).

Amended paragraph 95(2)(g) applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin after November 30, 1999. However, if the taxpayer so elects and notifies the Minister of National Revenue in writing before 2001 of its election, paragraph 95(2)(g) applies to of all its foreign affiliates' taxation years that begin after 1994.

(g.1) [debt forgiveness rules] — in computing the foreign accrual property income of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer the Act shall be read

(i) as if the expression "income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada, as the case may be" in the definition "commercial debt obligation" in subsection 80(1) were read as "foreign accrual property income (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1))", and

(ii) without reference to subsections 80(3) to (12) and (15) and 80.01(5) to (11) and sections 80.02 to 80.04;

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(g.2)

(g.2) [application of foreign investment entity rules] — in computing the foreign accrual property income of a particular foreign affiliate of a particular taxpayer for a particular taxation year of the particular affiliate, sections 94.1 to 94.3 shall apply as if

(i) the words "controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer" in paragraph (a) of the definition "exempt interest" in subsection 94.1(1) referred to a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer and not to a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular affiliate,

(ii) subsection 94.1(3) were read without reference to the words "except where the taxpayer is non-resident at the end of the entity's year",

(iii) the form referred to in paragraph (c) of the description of A in subsection 94.1(5) in respect of participating interests in a foreign investment entity for a taxation year of the entity that ends in the particular year were required to be filed with, and only with, the particular taxpayer's return of income for the particular taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular year ends,

(iv) designations made by the particular taxpayer in the form referred to in subparagraph (iii) were made by the particular affiliate,

(v) the words "the particular taxpayer" in paragraph (g) of the description of A in subsection 94.1(5) referred to the particular taxpayer rather than to the particular affiliate,

(vi) each reference to "foreign affiliate" and "affiliate" in paragraph (g) of the description of A in subsection 94.1(5) were a reference to a foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer and not to a foreign affiliate of the particular affiliate,

(vii) subsection 94.1(5) were read without reference to paragraph (i) of the description of A in subsection 94.1(5),

(viii) for the purpose of applying sections 94.1 and 94.2 in computing the income of a foreign investment entity in which the particular affiliate holds a participating interest,

(A) the words "controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer" in paragraph (a) of the definition "exempt interest" in subsection 94.1(1) referred to a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer and not to a controlled foreign affiliate of the entity, and

(B) the fresh start year of the entity in respect of the particular affiliate were the first taxation year of the entity

(I) that ends in a taxation year of the particular affiliate that begins after 2000, and

(II) at any time in which both the particular affiliate holds a participating interest in the entity and the particular affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the particular taxpayer,

(ix) an election under paragraph 94.1(4)(a) or clause (i)(C) of the description of D in paragraph 94.2(4)(a) for the particular year were required to be filed under that provision in respect of the particular affiliate, by, and only by, the particular taxpayer, with the Minister on or before the filing-due date of the particular taxpayer for the particular taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular year ends,

(x) section 94.2 were read without reference to subsection 94.2(5),

(xi) paragraph 94.2(1)(b) were read without reference to the words "at which the taxpayer was resident in Canada" and to clause (i)(B) of the description of B in that paragraph, and

(xii) the amount determined under paragraph 94.2(1)(b) did not include the portion of that amount that can reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the particular affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of any person described in any of subparagraphs (f)(iii) to (vii);

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 12(7), will add para. 95(2)(g.2), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 95(2) of the Act provides rules for determining the income of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada. These rules apply for the purposes of sections 90 to 95.

The rules in new paragraph 95(2)(g.2) set out the manner in which sections 94.1 to 94.3 apply for the purpose of computing the FAPI of a particular foreign affiliate of a Canadian taxpayer for a particular taxation year of the affiliate:

- The exemption in the definition "exempt interest" for controlled foreign affiliates is treated as if it referred only to controlled foreign affiliates of the Canadian taxpayer (not of the particular affiliate). [Subparagraph 95(2)(g.2)(i).]
- The measures in sections 94.1 and 94.2 that would otherwise restrict their application to residents in Canada are ignored. [Subparagraph 95(2)(g.2)(ii), (x) and (xi).]
- The Canadian taxpayer, rather than the particular affiliate, claims deductions relevant in determining the particular affiliate's income allocation or loss allocation in respect of a participating interest in a foreign investment entity held by the particular affiliate. [Subparagraphs 95(2)(g.2)(iii) and (iv).] These claims are only relevant for taxation years of the particular affiliate that begin after 2000, once the particular affiliate holds an interest in the foreign investment entity and is a controlled foreign affiliate of the Canadian taxpayer. [Clause 95(2)(g.2)(viii)(B).]
- The exclusion of dividends under paragraph 94.1(5)A(g) applies only where the Canadian taxpayer is resident in Canada, in connection with dividends received by the particular affiliate from foreign affiliates of the Canadian taxpayer (not of the particular affiliate) in which the Canadian taxpayer (not the particular affiliate) has a qualifying interest (determined under paragraph 95(2)(m)). [Subparagraphs 95(2)(g.2)(v) and (vi).]
- In the event that the particular affiliate has a participating interest in a particular foreign investment entity and the particular entity has a participating interest in another non-resident entity, the application of sections 94.1 and 94.2 to the particular entity is determined as if the exclusion from the application of those sections for controlled foreign affiliates referred to in paragraph (a) of the definition "exempt interest" in subsection 94.1(1) were for controlled foreign affiliates of the Canadian taxpayer (not controlled foreign affiliates of the particular entity). [Clause 95(2)(g.2)(viii)(A).] This rule applies instead of the rule in paragraph 94.1(5)A(i). [Subparagraph 95(2)(g.2)(vii).]
- The Canadian taxpayer (rather than the particular affiliate) is permitted to make an election under subsection 94.1(4) or subparagraph 94.2(4)(a)D(i) in connection with the particular affiliate's participating interests in foreign investment entities. [Subparagraph 95(2)(g.2)(ix).]
- The particular affiliate's deferral amount determined under paragraph 94.2(1)(b) does not include the portion of the amount that can reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the particular affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of the Canadian taxpayer and certain other specified persons. [Subparagraph 95(2)(g.2)(xii).]

This amendment applies to taxation years that begin after 2000.

(h) [share transactions — currency fluctuation] — where, by virtue of a fluctuation in the value of the currency of a country other than Canada relative to the value of the Canadian dollar, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer has realized a taxable capital gain or an allowable capital loss in a taxation year on

(i) the redemption, cancellation or acquisition of a share of the capital stock of, or the reduction of the capital of, another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, or

(ii) the disposition to a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length of a share of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, that gain or loss, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be nil;

Proposed Repeal — 95(2)(h)

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(5), will repeal para. 95(2)(h), applicable on the same basis as the amendment to 95(2)(g) above.

Technical Notes: See under 95(2)(g).

(i) [settlement of debt relating to excluded property] — any gain or loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from the settlement or extinguishment of a debt that related at all times to the acquisition of excluded property shall be deemed to be a gain or loss from the disposition of excluded property;

(j) [ACB of partnership interest] — the adjusted cost base to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer of an interest in a partnership at any time shall be such amount as is prescribed by regulation;

(k) [change in business — fresh start rule] — where, in a particular taxation year, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer

(i) carries on an investment business outside Canada and, in the preceding taxation year, that business was not an investment business of the affiliate (or the definition "investment business" in subsection (1) did not apply in respect of the business in the preceding taxation year), or

(ii) is deemed by paragraph (a.1), (a.2), (a.3) or (a.4) to carry on a separate business, other than an active business, and, in the preceding taxation year, that paragraph did not apply to deem the affiliate to be carrying on that separate business, for the purpose of computing the income of the affiliate from the investment business or the separate business as the case may be (in this subsection referred to as the "foreign business") for the particular year and each subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business is carried on,

(iii) the affiliate shall be deemed

(A) to have begun to carry on the foreign business in Canada at the later of the time the particular year began or the time that it began to carry on the foreign business, and

(B) to have carried on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the particular year and each such subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business was carried on by it,

(iv) where the foreign business of the affiliate is a business in respect of which, if the foreign business were carried on in Canada, the affiliate would be required by law to report to a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, the affiliate shall be deemed to have been required by law to report to and to have been subject to the supervision of such regulating authority, and

(v) paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (f) apply to the affiliate for the particular year in respect of the foreign business as if

(A) the affiliate were the insurer referred to in subsection 138(11.91),

(B) the particular year of the affiliate were the particular year of the insurer referred to in that subsection, and

(C) the foreign business of the affiliate were the business of the insurer referred to in that subsection;

(l) [trading or dealing in debt] — in computing the income from property for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer there shall be included the income of the affiliate for the year from a business (other than an investment business of the affiliate) the principal purpose of which is to derive income from trading or dealing in indebtedness (which for the purpose of this paragraph includes the earning of interest on indebtedness) other than

(i) indebtedness owing by persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length who are resident in the country in which the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on, or

(ii) trade accounts receivable owing by persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length, unless

(iii) the business is carried on by the affiliate as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities, the activities of which are regulated in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on, and

(iv) the taxpayer is

(A) a bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of a regulating authority such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province,

(B) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation described in clause (A), or

(C) a corporation of which a corporation described in clause (A) is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation; and

(m) ["qualifying interest"] — a taxpayer has a qualifying interest in respect of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer at any time if, at that time, the taxpayer owned

(i) not less than 10% of the issued and outstanding shares (having full voting rights under all circumstances) of the affiliate, and

(ii) shares of the affiliate having a fair market value of not less than 10% of the fair market value of all the issued and outstanding shares of the affiliate and for the purpose of this paragraph

(iii) where, at any time, shares of a corporation are owned or are deemed for the purposes of this paragraph to be owned by another corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "holding corporation"), those shares shall be deemed to be owned at that time by each shareholder of the holding corporation in a proportion equal to the proportion of all such shares that

(A) the fair market value of the shares of the holding corporation owned at that time by the shareholder

is of

(B) the fair market value of all the issued shares of the holding corporation outstanding at that time,

(iv) where, at any time, shares of a corporation are property of a partnership or are deemed for the purposes of this paragraph to be property of a partnership, those shares shall be deemed to be owned at that time by each member of the partnership in a proportion equal to the proportion of all such shares that

(A) the member's share of the income or loss of the partnership for its fiscal period that includes that time

is of

(B) the income or loss of the partnership for its fiscal period that includes that time and for the purpose of this subparagraph, where the income and loss of the partnership for its fiscal period that includes that time are nil, that proportion shall be computed as if the partnership had income for the period in the amount of $1,000,000, and

(v) where, at any time, a person is a holder of convertible property issued by the affiliate before June 23, 1994 the terms of which confer on the holder the right to exchange the convertible property for shares of the affiliate and the taxpayer elects in its return of income for its first taxation year that ends after 1994 to have the provisions of this subparagraph apply to the taxpayer in respect of all the convertible property issued by the affiliate and outstanding at that time, each holder shall, in respect of the convertible property held by it at that time, be deemed to have, immediately before that time,

(A) exchanged the convertible property for shares of the affiliate, and

(B) acquired shares of the affiliate in accordance with the terms and conditions of the convertible property.

Related Provisions: 20(3) — Purpose for which borrowed money deemed to have been used; 53(1)(c) — Addition to ACB of share; 87(8.1) — Foreign merger; 94(1)(d) — Application of certain provisions to trusts not resident in Canada; 95(2.2)–(2.5) — Interpretation rules for 95(2)(a) to (a.3) and (g); 95(3) — "Services" defined; 95(6) — Anti-avoidance rules; 96(3) — Election under 95(2)(g.2) by members of partnership; 253 — Whether business carried on in Canada.

History: Para. 95(2)(d) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 25(1), applicable to a taxpayer in respect of a merger or combination of foreign corporations

(a) that occurs after February 24, 1998, or

(b) that occurred

(i) before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer for which the taxpayer's normal reassessment period, as defined in subsec. 152(3.1), has not ended before 1999, or

(ii) after 1994 and before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer in which the taxpayer was exempt from tax under s. 149,

unless the taxpayer elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing, before January 1, 2000, that the amendment not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the merger or combination.

The para. formerly read:

(d) where there has been a foreign merger in which the shares owned by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer of the capital stock of a corporation that was a predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger were exchanged for or became shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation, subsection 87(4) applies to the foreign affiliate as if the references in that subsection to

(i) "amalgamation" were read as "foreign merger",

(ii) "predecessor corporation" were read as "predecessor foreign corporation",

(iii) "new corporation" were read as "new foreign corporation",

(iv) "adjusted cost base" were read as "relevant cost base", and

(v) "May 6, 1974" were read as "November 12, 1981";

Subpara. 95(2)(g.1)(ii) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 122(5), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. The subpara. formerly read:

(ii) without reference to subsections 80(3) to (12), (15) and (17) and 80.01(5) to (11) and sections 80.02 to 80.04;

Para. 95(2)(a) amended, paras. 95(2)(a.1) to (a.4) added, by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(4), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the amended legislation applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) in computing the income from an active business of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer there shall be included

(i) any income from sources in a country other than Canada that would otherwise be income from property or a business other than an active business, to the extent that it pertains to or is incident to an active business carried on in a country other than Canada by the affiliate or any other non-resident corporation with which the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, and

(ii) any amount paid or payable to the affiliate by, and, where the affiliate is a member of a partnership, the affiliate's share of any amount paid or payable to the partnership by,

(A) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, or

(B) any other non-resident corporation with which the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length to the extent that, in computing the amount prescribed to be its earnings from an active business other than a business carried on by it in Canada, that amount is deductible or would be deductible if the non-resident corporation were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer;

Para. 95(2)(g.1) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 32(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994.

Paras. 95(2)(k) to (m) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(5), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new paragraphs apply to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of such foreign affiliate.

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

Subpara. 95(2)(h)(i) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 43, applicable to redemptions, cancellations, acquisitions and reductions occurring after December 21, 1992. That subpara. formerly read:

(i) the redemption, cancellation or acquisition of shares of the capital stock of, or the reduction of the capital of, the affiliate or another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, or

That portion of subpara. 95(2)(a)(ii) preceding cl. (A) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(5), applicable to 1987 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(ii) any amount paid or payable to the affiliate by

Para. 95(2)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(6), applicable to taxation years beginning after July 13, 1990. Para. 95(2)(b) formerly read:

(b) the income of a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from services or an undertaking to provide services shall be deemed to be income from a business other than an active business if

(i) the amount paid or payable in consideration therefor

(A) is deductible in computing the income from a business carried on in Canada by any person in relation to which the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate or by a person related to that person, or

(B) was paid or payable by a person other than the taxpayer and may reasonably be considered to relate to an amount that was deductible by the taxpayer or a person related to the taxpayer in computing the income of that taxpayer or person from a business carried on in Canada, or

(ii) the services are performed or are to be performed by any person referred to in subparagraph (i) who is an individual resident in Canada;

That portion of para. 95(2)(d.1) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(7), applicable to foreign mergers occurring after 1989. That portion formerly read:

(d.1) where there has been a foreign merger of two or more predecessor foreign corporations in respect of each of which a taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90% immediately before the merger to form a new foreign corporation in respect of which the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage immediately after the merger was not less than 90% and, under the income tax law of the country in which the predecessor foreign corporations were resident immediately before the merger, no gain or loss was recognized in respect of any capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation that became capital property of the new foreign corporation in the course of the merger, the following rules apply:

That portion of para. 95(2)(e.1) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(8), applicable to liquidations commencing after 1989. That portion formerly read:

(e.1) where there has been a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate (in this paragraph referred to as the "disposing affiliate") of a taxpayer in respect of which, immediately before the liquidation, the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90% and, under the income tax law of the country in which the disposing affiliate was resident immediately before the liquidation, no gain or loss was recognized by the disposing affiliate in respect of any capital property distributed by it in the course of the liquidation to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in that country, the following rules apply:

Subpara. 95(2)(f)(i) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(9), applicable to dispositions after July 13, 1990. Subpara. (f)(i) formerly read:

(i) where that gain or loss is the gain or loss of a controlled foreign affiliate from the disposition of property other than excluded property, in Canadian currency, and

Pre-RSC History: Subpara. 95(2)(b)(i) substituted applicable with respect to amounts paid or payable after November 12, 1981; para. (d) substituted and (d.1) added applicable with respect to foreign mergers occurring after that date; that portion of para. (e) preceding subpara. (i) substituted applicable with respect to dissolutions occurring after that date; para. (e.1) added applicable with respect to liquidations commencing after that date; para. (f) and that portion of para. (g) and of para. (h) following subpara. (ii) substituted applicable after that date; and paras. (i), (j) added applicable with respect to dispositions occurring after that date, by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsecs. 56(6) to (13). The substituted portions formerly read:

(i) the amount paid or payable in consideration therefor is deductible in computing the income from a business carried on in Canada by any person in relation to which the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate or by a person related to that person, or

. . . . .

(d) where there has been a merger of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer (in this paragraph referred to as a "predecessor affiliate") and one or more other corporations to form one corporate entity that immediately after the merger is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this paragraph referred to as a "new affiliate") and such merger is not as a result of the acquisition of property of one corporation by another corporation pursuant to the purchase of such property by the other corporation, or as a result of the distribution of such property to another corporation upon the winding-up of the predecessor affiliate, subsection 87(4) applies to the taxpayer as if the references therein to

(i) "amalgamation" were read as "merger",

(ii) "predecessor corporation" were read as "predecessor affiliate",

(iii) "new corporation" were read as "new affiliate",

(iv) "adjusted cost base" were read as "relevant cost base", and

(v) "May 6, 1974" were read as "1971";

(e) where on the dissolution of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer (in this paragraph referred to as the "disposing affiliate") one or more shares of the capital stock of another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer have been disposed of to a shareholder that is another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer,

. . . . .

(f) except as provided in paragraphs (c), (d), (e), (g) and (h), each taxable capital gain and each allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall be computed as though the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada, except that in computing any such gain or loss from the disposition of property owned by the affiliate at the time it last became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer there shall not be included such portion of the gain or loss, as the case may be, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of

(i) the taxpayer,

(ii) any person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length,

(iii) any person with whom the taxpayer would not have been dealing at arm's length if the person had been in existence after the taxpayer came into existence,

(iv) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (ii) or (iii), or

(v) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 87(2)(l.2)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (ii) or (iii);

. . . . .

[(g)] such gain or loss, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of paragraph (1)(b), be deemed to be nil; and

. . . . .

[(h)] such gain or loss, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of paragraph (1)(b), be deemed to be nil.

Para. 95(2)(f) substituted and para. (h) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsecs. 51(1), (2), para. (f) applicable with respect to any gain or loss on the disposition of property after December 11, 1979, except that the reference in the para. to para. 95(2)(h) is applicable to 1976 et seq., and para. 95(2)(h) applicable to 1976 et seq. except that a taxpayer could elect in his return of income under Part I of the Act for his 1980 or 1981 taxation year not to have para. (h) apply to taxable capital gains realized or allowable capital losses incurred by him before December 12, 1979. Para. 95(2)(f) formerly read:

(f) except as provided in paragraphs (c), (d), (e) and (g), each taxable capital gain of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and each allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall be computed in accordance with subdivision c as though the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada, except that in computing any such gain or loss from the disposition of property owned by the affiliate at the time it last became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer there shall not be included such portion of the gain or loss, as the case may be, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued before that time; and

Paras. 95(2)(f) substituted, (g) added by 1979, c. 5, s. 32, applicable to 1976 et seq. Para. 95(2)(f) formerly read:

(f) except as provided in paragraphs (c), (d) and (e), each taxable capital gain of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and each allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall be computed in accordance with subdivision c as though the foreign affiliate were resident in Canada, except that in computing any such gain or loss from the disposition of property owned by the affiliate at the time it last became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer there shall not be included such portion of the gain or loss, as the case may be, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued before that time.

(2.1) Rule for definition "investment business" — For the purposes of the definition "investment business" in subsection (1), a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, the taxpayer and, where the taxpayer is a corporation all the issued shares of which are owned by a corporation described in subparagraph (a)(i), such corporation described in subparagraph (a)(i) shall be considered to be dealing with each other at arm's length in respect of the entering into of agreements that provide for the purchase, sale or exchange of currency and the execution of such agreements where

(a) the taxpayer is

(i) a bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of a regulating authority such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, or

(ii) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation described in subparagraph (i);

(b) the agreements are swap agreements, forward purchase or sale agreements, forward rate agreements, futures agreements, options or rights agreements or similar agreements;

(c) the agreements are entered in the course of a business carried on by the affiliate principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on; and

(d) the terms and conditions of such agreements are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar agreements made by persons dealing at arm's length.

History: Subsec. 95(2.1) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

(2.2) Rule for para. (2)(a) — For the purpose of paragraph (2)(a),

Proposed Amendment — 95(2.2)

(2.2) Rule for subsec. (2) — For the purpose of subsection (2),

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(6), will amend the opening words of subsec. 95(2.2) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999 except that, where the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before 2002, the amendment applies to taxation years, of all of its foreign affiliates, that began after 1994 and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any of those taxation years shall be made that is necessary to take into account the application of the amendment.

Technical Notes: Subsection 95(2.2) of the Act provides rules for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(a) of the Act. The subsection provides that in certain circumstances a non-resident corporation that was not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer will be considered to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer. It also provides that in certain circumstances a non-resident corporation that was not related to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer will be considered to be related to the foreign affiliate and the taxpayer.

Subsection 95(2.2) is amended to apply to all of subsection 95(2), rather than merely paragraph 95(2)(a). This amendment ensures that subsection 95(2.2) will apply to the changes in paragraph 95(2)(g) of the Act and has the same effective date as those changes.

(a) a non-resident corporation that was not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year shall be deemed to be a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout that year where

(i) a person has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of that non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation became or ceased to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest; and

(b) a non-resident corporation that was not related to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and the taxpayer throughout a particular taxation year shall be deemed to be related to the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and that taxpayer throughout that year where

(i) a person has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of that non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation became or ceased to be a non-resident corporation that was related to the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the taxpayer, and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was related to the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the taxpayer.

History: Subsec. 95(2.2) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

(2.3) Application of para. (2)(a.1) — Paragraph (2)(a.1) does not apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of a sale or exchange of property that is currency or a right to purchase, sell or exchange currency where

(a) the taxpayer is

(i) a bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of a regulating authority such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, or

(ii) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation described in subparagraph (i);

(b) the sale or exchange was made in the course of a business carried on by the affiliate principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on by it; and

(c) the terms and conditions of the sale or exchange of such property are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar sales or exchanges of such property by persons dealing at arm's length.

History: Subsec. 95(2.3) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

(2.4) Application of para. (2)(a.3) — Paragraph (2)(a.3) does not apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of its income derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness to the extent that

(a) the income is derived by the affiliate in the course of a business conducted principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length carried on by it as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities, the activities of which are regulated in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on, and

(b) the income is derived by the affiliate from trading or dealing in the indebtedness (which, for this purpose, consists of income from the actual trading or dealing in the indebtedness and interest earned by the affiliate during a short term holding period on indebtedness acquired by it for the purpose of the trading or dealing) with persons (in this subsection referred to as "regular customers") with whom it deals at arm's length who were resident in a country other than Canada in which it and any competitor (which is resident in the country in which the affiliate is resident and regulated in the same manner the affiliate is regulated in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which its business is principally carried on) compete and have a substantial market presence, and, for the purpose of this subsection, an acquisition of indebtedness from the taxpayer shall be deemed to be part of the trading or dealing in indebtedness described in paragraph (b) where the indebtedness is acquired by the affiliate and sold to regular customers and the terms and conditions of the acquisition and the sale are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar acquisitions and sales made by the affiliate in transactions with persons with whom it deals at arm's length.

History: Subsec. 95(2.4) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

(2.5) Definitions for para. (2)(a.3) — For the purpose of paragraph (2)(a.3),

"indebtedness" does not include obligations of a person under agreements with non-resident corporations providing for the purchase, sale or exchange of currency where

(a) the agreements are swap agreements, forward purchase or sale agreements, forward rate agreements, futures agreements, options or rights agreements, or similar agreements,

(b) the person is a bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province,

(c) the agreements are entered into by the non-resident corporation in the course of a business carried on by it principally with persons with which it deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the non-resident corporation was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on by it, and

(d) the terms and conditions of such agreements are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar agreements made by persons dealing at arm's length;

"specified deposit" means a deposit of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada with a prescribed financial institution resident in Canada where

(a) the income from the deposit is income of the affiliate for the year that would, but for paragraph (2)(a.3), be income from an active business carried on by it in a country other than Canada (other than a business the principal purpose of which is to derive income from property including interest, dividends, rents, royalties or similar returns or substitutes therefor or profits from the disposition of investment property), or

(b) the income from the deposit is income of the affiliate for the year that would, but for paragraph (2)(a.3), be income from an active business carried on by the affiliate principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on by it and the deposit was held by the affiliate in the course of carrying on that part of the business conducted with non-resident persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length or that part of the business conducted with a person with whom the affiliate was related where it can be demonstrated that the related person used or held the funds deposited in the course of a business carried on by the related person with non-resident persons with whom the related person and the affiliate deal at arm's length.

History: Subsec. 95(2.5) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

Regulations: 7900 (prescribed financial institution).

(3) Definition of "services" — For the purposes of paragraph (2)(b), "services" includes the insurance of Canadian risks but does not include

(a) the transportation of persons or goods; or

(b) services performed in connection with the purchase or sale of goods.

(4) Definitions — In this section,

"direct equity percentage" at any time of any person in a corporation is the percentage determined by the following rules:

(a) for each class of the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation, determine the proportion of 100 that the number of shares of that class owned by that person at that time is of the total number of issued shares of that class at that time, and

(b) select the proportion determined under paragraph (a) for that person in respect of the corporation that is not less than any other proportion so determined for that person in respect of the corporation at that time, and the proportion selected under paragraph (b), when expressed as a percentage, is that person's direct equity percentage in the corporation at that time;

Pre-RSC History: The definition "direct equity percentage" was para. 95(4)(a).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of term "share".

"equity percentage" at any time of a person, in any particular corporation, is the total of

(a) the person's direct equity percentage at that time in the particular corporation, and

(b) all percentages each of which is the product obtained when the person's equity percentage at that time in any corporation is multiplied by that corporation's direct equity percentage at that time in the particular corporation except that for the purposes of the definition "participating percentage" in subsection (1), paragraph (b) shall be read as if the reference to "any corporation" were a reference to "any corporation other than a corporation resident in Canada";

Related Provisions: 94(1)(d) — Deemed ownership in trust deemed to be corporation for FAPI purposes.

Pre-RSC History: The definition "equity percentage" was para. 95(4)(b).

Para. 95(4)(b) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 35, applicable to 1972 et seq.

"relevant cost base" to a foreign affiliate of property at any time means the adjusted cost base to the affiliate of the property at that time or such greater amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the fair market value of the property at that time.

Pre-RSC History: The definition "relevant cost base" was para. 95(4)(c).

(4.1) Application of subsec. 87(8.1) — In this section, the expressions "foreign merger", "predecessor foreign corporation", "new foreign corporation" and "foreign parent corporation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 87(8.1).

Origin of subsec. 95(4.1): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words of subsec. 87(8.1)).

History: Subsec. 95(4.1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 25(2), applicable to a taxpayer in respect of a merger or combination of foreign corporations

(a) that occurs after February 24, 1998, or

(b) that occurred

(i) before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer for which the taxpayer's normal reassessment period, as defined in subsec. 152(3.1), has not ended before 1999, or

(ii) after 1994 and before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer in which the taxpayer was exempt from tax under s. 149,

unless the taxpayer elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing, before January 1, 2000, that the amendment not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the merger or combination.

The subsec. formerly read:

(4.1) In this section, the expressions "foreign merger", "predecessor foreign corporation" and "new foreign corporation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 87(8.1).

(5) Income bonds or debentures issued by foreign affiliates — For the purposes of this subdivision, an income bond or income debenture issued by a corporation (other than a corporation resident in Canada) shall be deemed to be a share of the capital stock of the corporation unless any interest or other similar periodic amount paid by the corporation on or in respect of the bond or debenture was, under the laws of the country in which the corporation was resident, deductible in computing the amount for the year on which the corporation was liable to pay income or profits tax imposed by the government of that country.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-388: Income bonds issued by foreign corporations.

(6) Where rights or shares issued, acquired or disposed of to avoid tax — For the purposes of this subdivision (other than section 90),

(a) where any person or partnership has a right under a contract, in equity or otherwise, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to, or to acquire, shares of the capital stock of a corporation and

Proposed Amendment — 95(6)(a) opening words

(a) where any person or partnership has a right under a contract, in equity or otherwise, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to, or to acquire, shares of the capital stock of a corporation or interests in a partnership and

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(7), will amend the opening words of para. 95(6)(a) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 95(6) of the Act is an anti-avoidance rule that prevents the avoidance of tax through the use of rights to acquire shares or the issuance of shares. The amendments to this subsection clarify that the subsection is intended to prevent the avoidance of tax through the use of rights to acquire partnership interests or the issuance of partnership interests. Where applicable, paragraph 95(6)(b) treats an acquisition or disposition of shares or partnership interests to have not taken place. Where the shares or partnership interests were previously unissued, the paragraph deems the shares or partnership interests to have not been issued.

(i) it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the existence of the right is to cause 2 or more corporations to be related for the purpose of paragraph (2)(a), those corporations shall be deemed not to be related for that purpose, or

(ii) it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the existence of the right is to permit any person to avoid, reduce or defer the payment of tax or any other amount that would otherwise be payable under this Act, those shares shall be deemed to be owned by that person or partnership; and

Proposed Amendment — 95(6)(a)(ii)

(ii) it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the existence of the right is to permit any person to avoid, reduce or defer the payment of tax or any other amount that would otherwise be payable under this Act, those shares or partnership interests, as the case may be, are deemed to be owned by that person or partnership; and

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(8), will amend subpara. 95(6)(a)(ii) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

Technical Notes: See under 95(6)(a).

(b) where a person or partnership acquires or disposes of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, either directly or indirectly, and it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the acquisition or disposition of the shares is to permit a person to avoid, reduce or defer the payment of tax or any other amount that would otherwise be payable under this Act, those shares shall be deemed not to have been acquired or disposed of, as the case may be, and where the shares were unissued by the corporation immediately prior to the acquisition, those shares shall be deemed not to have been issued.

Proposed Amendment — 95(6)(b)

(b) where a person or partnership acquires or disposes of shares of the capital stock of a corporation or interests in a partnership, either directly or indirectly, and it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the acquisition or disposition is to permit a person to avoid, reduce or defer the payment of tax or any other amount that would otherwise be payable under this Act, that acquisition or disposition is deemed not to have taken place, and where the shares or partnership interests were unissued by the corporation or partnership immediately before the acquisition, those shares or partnership interests, as the case may be, are deemed not to have been issued.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 46(9), will amend para. 95(6)(b) to read as above, applicable after November 1999.

Technical Notes: See under 95(6)(a).

Related Provisions: 17(14) — Similar rule re loans to non-residents; 256(5.1) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact.

History: Subsec. 95(6) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(7), applicable (as amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 305(1), deemed to have come into force on June 22, 1995) to rights acquired and shares acquired or disposed of in taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the amendment applies to rights acquired and shares acquired or disposed of in taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end after 1994, unless

(a) the foreign affiliate had requested the change in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which the foreign affiliate was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the foreign affiliate's first taxation year that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time at which that taxation year would have begun if the change had not occurred.

Subsec. (6) formerly read:

(6) Where rights or shares issued to avoid tax — For the purposes of this subdivision,

(a) where any person has a right under a contract, in equity or otherwise, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to, or to acquire, shares of the capital stock of a corporation, those shares shall, if one of the main reasons for the existence of the right may reasonably be considered to be the reduction or postponement of the amount of taxes that would otherwise be payable under this Act, be deemed to be owned by that person; and

(b) where any foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or any non-resident corporation controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by the taxpayer or by a related group of which the taxpayer was a member has issued shares of a class of its capital stock and one of the main reasons for the existence or issuance of one or more of the shares of that class may reasonably be considered to be the reduction or postponement of the amount of taxes that would otherwise be payable under this Act, those shares shall be deemed not to have been issued.

(7) Stock dividends from foreign affiliates — For the purposes of this subdivision and subsection 52(3), the amount of any stock dividend paid by a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada shall, in respect of the corporation, be deemed to be nil.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-278R2: Death of a partner or of a retired partner; IT-338R2: Partnership interests — effects on adjusted cost base resulting from the admission or retirement of a partner. See also list at end of s. 96.

(1.2) Disposal of right to share in income, etc — Where in a taxation year a taxpayer who has a right to a share of the income or loss of a partnership under an agreement referred to in subsection (1.1) disposes of that right,

(a) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the proceeds of the disposition; and

(b) for greater certainty, the cost to the taxpayer of each property received by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition is the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition.

Related Provisions: 96(1.3) — Deductions.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 96.

(1.3) Deductions — Where, by virtue of subsection (1.1) or (1.2), an amount has been included in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year, there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the lesser of

(a) the amount so included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the cost to the taxpayer of the right to a share of the income or loss of a partnership under an agreement referred to in subsection (1.1) exceeds the total of all amounts in respect of that right that were deductible by virtue of this subsection in computing the taxpayer's income for previous taxation years.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-278R2: Death of a partner or of a retired partner; IT-338R2: Partnership interests — effects on adjusted cost base resulting from the admission or retirement of a partner. See also list at end of s. 96.

(1.4) Right deemed not to be capital property — For the purposes of this Act, a right to a share of the income or loss of a partnership under an agreement referred to in subsection (1.1) shall be deemed not to be capital property.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-338R2: Partnership interests — effects on adjusted cost base resulting from the admission or retirement of a partner.

(1.5) Disposition by virtue of death of taxpayer — Where, at the time of a taxpayer's death, the taxpayer has a right to a share of the income or loss of a partnership under an agreement referred to in subsection (1.1), subsections 70(2) to (4) apply.

Related Provisions: 53(1)(e)(v) — Adjustments to cost base.

(1.6) Members of partnership deemed to be carrying on business in Canada — Where a partnership carries on a business in Canada at any time, each taxpayer who is deemed by paragraph (1.1)(a) to be a member of the partnership at that time is deemed to carry on the business in Canada at that time for the purposes of subsection 2(3), sections 34.1 and 150 and (subject to subsection 34.2(7)) section 34.2.

History: Subsec. 96(1.6) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 17(3), applicable after 1993. The subsec. formerly read:

> (1.6) Members of partnership deemed to be carrying on business in Canada — Where a partnership carries on a business in Canada in a taxation year, each taxpayer who is deemed by paragraph (1.1)(a) to be a member of the partnership shall, for the purposes of subsection 2(3), be deemed to carry on that business in Canada in that year.

Pre-RSC History: Subsecs. 96(1.1)–(1.6) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 60(2), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 96.

(1.7) Gains and losses — Notwithstanding subsection (1) or section 38, where in a particular taxation year of a taxpayer (other than an individual who is not a testamentary trust) commencing before 1990, the taxpayer is a member of a partnership with a fiscal period ending in the particular year, the amount of its taxable capital gain (other than that part of the amount that can be attributed to an amount deemed under subsection 14(1) to be a taxable capital gain of the partnership), allowable capital loss or allowable business investment loss for the particular year determined in respect of the partnership shall be the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount of the taxpayer's taxable capital gain (other than that part of the amount that can be attributed to an amount deemed under subsection 14(1) to be a taxable capital gain of the partnership) allowable capital loss or allowable business investment loss, as the case may be, for the particular year otherwise determined under this section in respect of the partnership;

B is the fraction that would be used under section 38 for the particular year in respect of the taxpayer if the taxpayer had a capital gain for the particular year; and

C is the fraction that was used under section 38 for the fiscal period of the partnership.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 96(1.7) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 66(3), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 96.

(1.8) Loan of property — For the purposes of subsection 56(4.1) and sections 74.1 and 74.3, where an individual has transferred or lent property, either directly or indirectly, by means of a trust or by any other means whatever, to a person and the property or property substituted therefor is an interest in a partnership, the person's share of the amount of any income or loss of the partnership for a fiscal period in which the person was a specified member of the partnership shall be deemed to be income or loss, as the case may be, from the property or substituted property.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 96(1.8) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 66(3), applicable to 1989 et seq., otherwise than with respect to income of a partnership that may reasonably be considered to relate to a period before 1989.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-511R: Interspousal and certain other transfers and loans of property. See also list at end of s. 96.

Proposed Addition — 96(1.9)

(1.9) Application of sections 94.1 and 94.2 — Where an exempt taxpayer (as defined in subsection 94.1(1)) for a taxation year is a member of a partnership at any time in the year, for the purposes of applying paragraphs (1)(f) and (g) and 53(1)(e) and 2(c) to the taxpayer for a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year this Act shall be read without reference to sections 94.1 and 94.2.

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 13(1), will add subsec. 96(1.9), applicable to fiscal periods that begin after June 22, 2000.

Technical Notes: New subsection 96(1.9) of the Act is relevant where an "exempt taxpayer" (in general, an individual who has been resident in Canada for fewer than 60 months) is a member of a partnership and the partnership invests in a foreign investment entity. In these circumstances, the exempt taxpayer's share of the partnership's income or loss is computed without regard to new sections 94.1 and 94.2. For further details on the application of section 94.2 to partnerships, see the commentary on new subsections 94.2(6) to (8).

(2) Construction — The provisions of this subdivision shall be read and construed as if each of the assumptions in paragraphs (1)(a) to (g) were made.

(2.1) Limited partnership losses [at-risk rule] — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where a taxpayer is, at any time in a taxation year, a limited partner of a partnership, the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's share of the amount of any loss of the partnership, determined in accordance with subsection (1), for a fiscal period of the partnership ending in the taxation year from a business (other than a farming business) or from property

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the taxpayer's at-risk amount in respect of the partnership at the end of the fiscal period

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount required by subsection 127(8) in respect of the partnership to be added in computing the investment tax credit of the taxpayer for the taxation year,

(iii) the taxpayer's share of any losses of the partnership for the fiscal period from a farming business, and

(iv) the taxpayer's share of

(A) the foreign exploration and development expenses, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period,

(B) the Canadian exploration expense, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period,

(C) the Canadian development expense, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period, and

(D) the Canadian oil and gas property expense, if any, incurred by the partnership in the fiscal period, shall

(c) not be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year,

(d) not be included in computing the taxpayer's non-capital loss for the year, and

(e) be deemed to be the taxpayer's limited partnership loss in respect of the partnership for the year.

Related Provisions: 66.8(1) — Resource expenses of limited partner; 87(2.1)(a) — Amalgamation — limited partnership loss carried forward; 96(2.2) — At-risk amount; 111(1)(e) — Carryforward of non-deductible limited partnership losses; 111(9) — Limited partnership loss where taxpayer not resident in Canada; 127.52(1)(i)(ii)(B) — Calculation of previous year's limited partnership loss for minimum tax purposes; 128.1(4)(f) — Limited partnership loss limitation on becoming non-resident; 152(1.1)–(1.3) — Determination of losses; 248(1)"limited partnership loss" — Definition applies to entire Act.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 96(2.1)(a) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 66(4), to add ", determined in accordance with subsection (1)," applicable after December 15, 1987.

Subsec. 96(2.1) added by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 25(1), applicable after February 25, 1986.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-51: Limited partner at-risk rules; ATR-59: Financing exploration and development through limited partnerships.

(2.2) At-risk amount — For the purposes of this section and sections 111 and 127, the at-risk amount of a taxpayer, in respect of a partnership of which the taxpayer is a limited partner, at any particular time is the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's partnership interest at that time, computed in accordance with subsection (2.3) where applicable,

(b) where the particular time is the end of the fiscal period of the partnership, the taxpayer's share of the income of the partnership from a source for that fiscal period computed under the method described in subparagraph 53(1)(e)(i), and

(b.1) where the particular time is the end of the fiscal period of the partnership, the amount referred to in subparagraph 53(1)(e)(viii) in respect of the taxpayer for that fiscal period

exceeds the total of

(c) all amounts each of which is an amount owing at that time to the partnership, or to a person or partnership not dealing at arm's length with the partnership, by the taxpayer or by a person or partnership not dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer, other than any amount deducted under subparagraph 53(2)(c)(i.3) in computing the adjusted cost base, or under section 143.2 in computing the cost, to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's partnership interest at that time, and

(d) any amount or benefit that the taxpayer or a person not dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer is entitled, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to receive or to obtain, whether by way of reimbursement, compensation, revenue guarantee, proceeds of disposition, loan or any other form of indebtedness or in any other form or manner whatever, granted or to be granted for the purpose of reducing the impact, in whole or in part, of any loss that the taxpayer may sustain because the taxpayer is a member of the partnership or holds or disposes of an interest in the partnership, except to the extent that the amount or benefit is included in the determination of the value of J in the definition "cumulative Canadian exploration expense" in subsection 66.1(6), of M in the definition "cumulative Canadian development expense" in subsection 66.2(5) or of I in the definition "cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense" in subsection 66.4(5) in respect of the taxpayer, or the entitlement arises

(i) by virtue of a contract of insurance with an insurance corporation dealing at arm's length with each member of the partnership under which the taxpayer is insured against any claim arising as a result of a liability incurred in the ordinary course of carrying on the partnership business,

(ii) [Repealed]

(iii) as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer,

(iv), (v) [Repealed]

(vi) in respect of an amount not included in the at-risk amount of the taxpayer determined without reference to this paragraph, or

(vii) because of an excluded obligation (as defined in subsection 6202.1(5) of the Income Tax Regulations) in relation to a share issued to the partnership by a corporation, and, for the purposes of this subsection,

(e) where the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer or the person is entitled at any time is provided by way of an agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer or the person has a right, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently (otherwise than as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer), to acquire other property in exchange for all or any part of the partnership interest, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer or the person is entitled under the agreement or arrangement is considered to be not less than the fair market value of the other property at that time, and

(f) where the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer or the person is entitled at any time is provided by way of a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of any loan or other obligation of the taxpayer or the person, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer or the person is entitled under the guarantee or indemnity at any particular time is considered to be not less than the total of the unpaid amount of the loan or obligation at that time and all other amounts outstanding in respect of the loan or obligation at that time.

Related Provisions: 40(3.14)(b) — Meaning of "limited partner" re negative ACB of partnership interest; 66.8 — Resource expenses of limited partner; 96(2.3) — Computation of at-risk amount; 96(2.6) — Artificial transactions; 96(2.7) — Non-arm's length contribution of capital to partnership; 143.2(2), (6) — At-risk adjustment to tax shelter investment; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

Subparas. 96(2.2)(d)(iv) and (v) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 123(3), applicable to partnership interests acquired by a taxpayer after April 26, 1995, other than where

(a) the interest in the partnership is acquired by the taxpayer under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995, or the interest was acquired by the taxpayer

(i) before 1996 where

(A) all or substantially all of the property of the partnership is

(I) a film production prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii), or

(II) an interest in one or more partnerships all or substantially all of the property of which is a film production prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii),

(B) the principal photography of the production began before 1996, or, in the case of a production that is a television series, the principal photography of one episode of the series began before 1996, and

(C) the principal photography of the production was completed before March 1996,

(ii) before 1996 where it can reasonably be considered that the funds raised by the partnership through the issue of the interest were used by the partnership to acquire before 1996 property included in Class 24, 27 or 34 in Schedule II to the Income Tax Regulations and the property was

(A) acquired under an agreement in writing entered into by the partnership before April 27, 1995, or

(B) under construction by or on behalf of the partnership on April 26, 1995,

(iii) before July 1995 under the terms of a document that is a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before April 27, 1995 with a public authority in Canada under and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province and, where required by law, accepted for filing by the public authority, and the funds so raised were expended before 1996 on expenditures contemplated by the document, or

(iv) before July 1995 under the terms of an offering memorandum distributed as part of an offering of securities where

(A) the memorandum contained a complete or substantially complete description of the securities contemplated in the offering as well as the terms and conditions of the offering,

(B) the memorandum was distributed before April 27, 1995,

(C) solicitations in respect of the sale of the securities contemplated by the memorandum were made before April 27, 1995,

(D) the sale of the securities was substantially in accordance with the memorandum, and

(E) the funds were spent before 1996 in accordance with the memorandum; and

(b) the following conditions are met:

(i) in the case of an interest

(A) acquired by the taxpayer under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995, or

(B) to which subparagraph (a)(iii) or (iv) applies that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number to be obtained, an identification number was obtained before April 27, 1995, and

(ii) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations with respect to the interest can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act.

The subparas. formerly read:

(iv) by virtue of an agreement under which the taxpayer may dispose of the partnership interest for an amount not exceeding its fair market value, determined without reference to the agreement, at the time of the disposition,

(v) by virtue of a revenue guarantee or other agreement in respect of which gross revenue is earned by the partnership except to the extent that the revenue guarantee or other agreement may reasonably be considered to ensure that the taxpayer or person will receive a return of a portion of the taxpayer's investment,

The portion of subsec. 96(2.2) after para. (d) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 123(4), applicable to partnership interests acquired by a taxpayer after April 26, 1995, except that it does not apply where

(a) the interest was acquired by the taxpayer

(i) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995,

(ii) before July 1995 under the terms of a document that is a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before April 27, 1995 with a public authority in Canada under and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province and, where required by law, accepted for filing by the public authority, and the funds so raised were expended before 1996 on expenditures contemplated by the document, or

(iii) before July 1995 under the terms of an offering memorandum distributed as part of an offering of securities where

(A) the memorandum contained a complete or substantially complete description of the securities contemplated in the offering as well as the terms and conditions of the offering,

(B) the memorandum was distributed before April 27, 1995,

(C) solicitations in respect of the sale of the securities contemplated by the memorandum were made before April 27, 1995,

(D) the sale of the securities was substantially in accordance with the memorandum, and

(E) the funds were spent before 1996 in accordance with the memorandum; and

(b) the following conditions are met:

(i) in the case of an interest that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number to be obtained, an identification number was obtained before April 27, 1995, and

(ii) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations with respect to the interest can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act.

That portion formerly read:

and, for the purposes of this subsection, where the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer is at any time entitled is provided

(e) by way of an agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer has a right, either absolutely or contingently (otherwise than as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer), to acquire other property in exchange for all or any part of the partnership interest, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer is entitled under the agreement or arrangement shall be not less than the fair market value of that other property at that time, or

(f) by way of a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of any loan or other obligation of the taxpayer, by the partnership or a person or partnership with whom or which the partnership does not deal at arm's length, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer is entitled under the guarantee or indemnity at any particular time shall not be less than the total of the unpaid amount of the loan or obligation at that time and all other amounts outstanding in respect of the loan or obligation at that time.

Subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 17(4), applicable to revenue guarantees granted after 1995. The subpara. formerly read:

(ii) by virtue of a prescribed revenue guarantee in respect of a prescribed film production,

Para. 96(2.2)(c) amended by 1995, c. 3, s. 25, applicable after September 26, 1994. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount owing at that time to the partnership or to a person or partnership with whom or which the partnership does not deal at arm's length by the taxpayer or by a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, and

That portion of para. 96(2.2)(d) preceding subpara. (i) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 72(1), applicable to taxation years ending after June 17, 1987. That portion formerly read:

(d) where the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length is entitled, either immediately or in the future, either absolutely or contingently, to receive or obtain any amount or benefit, whether by way of reimbursement, compensation, revenue guarantee or proceeds of disposition or in any other form or manner whatever, granted or to be granted for the purpose of reducing the impact, in whole or in part, of any loss that the taxpayer may sustain by virtue of the taxpayer's being a member of the partnership or by virtue of the taxpayer's holding or disposing of the taxpayer's partnership interest, the amount or benefit, as the case may be, that the taxpayer or the person is or will be so entitled to receive or obtain, except to the extent that the entitlement arises

Subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(vii) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 72(2), applicable to taxation years ending after June 17, 1987.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 96(2.2)(b.1) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 66(5), applicable after June 17, 1987.

Subsec. 96(2.2) added by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 25(1), applicable after February 25, 1986 except that, in its application to partnership interests acquired before 1987 pursuant to

(a) a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, registration statement or offering memorandum filed before June 12, 1986 and, where required by law, accepted for filing by a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province,

(b) an offering memorandum or similar offering material in respect of which solicitations were made to prospective purchasers after February 25, 1986 and before June 12, 1986 and which was, where required by law, filed with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province,

(c) an issue of partnership interests, in a partnership formed for the purpose of producing a film production, that is prescribed for the purposes of subparagraph 96(2.2)(d)(ii), where the partnership is obliged to make expenditures in respect of the production of the film pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into by it or on its behalf before June 12, 1986, or

(d) an issue of interests in a partnership formed before June 12, 1986 for the purpose of acquiring a film production, that is prescribed for the purposes of subparagraph 96(2.2)(d)(ii), from a producer who produced the film for the purpose, as evidenced in writing before June 12, 1986, of its sale to the partnership, where the producer is obliged to make expenditures in respect of the film pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into by him before June 12, 1986, the words "for the purpose of reducing the impact, in whole or in part, of any loss that the taxpayer may sustain" in paragraph 96(2.2)(d) shall be read as "pursuant to an undertaking, made by any person or partnership, to indemnify the taxpayer with respect to any liability that the taxpayer may incur".

(2.3) Idem — For the purposes of subsection (2.2), where a taxpayer has acquired the taxpayer's partnership interest at any time from a transferor other than the partnership, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest shall be computed as if the cost to the taxpayer of the interest were the lesser of

(a) the taxpayer's cost otherwise determined, and

(b) the greater of

(i) the adjusted cost base of that interest to the transferor immediately before that time, and

(ii) nil,

and where the adjusted cost base of the transferor cannot be determined, it shall be deemed to be equal to the total of the amounts determined in respect of the taxpayer under paragraphs (2.2)(c) and (d) immediately after that time.

(2.4) Limited partner — For the purposes of this section and sections 111 and 127, a taxpayer who is a member of a partnership at a particular time is a limited partner of the partnership at that time if the member's partnership interest is not an exempt interest (within the meaning assigned by subsection (2.5)) at that time and if, at that time or within 3 years after that time,

(a) by operation of any law governing the partnership arrangement, the liability of the member as a member of the partnership is limited;

Proposed Amendment — 96(2.4)(a)

(a) by operation of any law governing the partnership arrangement, the liability of the member as a member of the partnership is limited (except by operation of a provision of a statute of Canada or a province that limits the member's liability only for debts, obligations and liabilities of the partnership, or any member of the partnership, arising from negligent acts or omissions or misconduct that another member of the partnership or an employee, agent or representative of the partnership commits in the course of the partnership business while the partnership is a limited liability partnership);

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, s. 47, will amend para. 96(2.4)(a) to read as above, applicable after 1997.

Technical Notes: Subsection 96(2.4) of the Act provides an extended definition of "limited partner" that is relevant for the purpose of applying the restrictions on partnership tax credits and losses.

Paragraph 96(2.4)(a) provides that a member of a partnership is a "limited partner" if, by operation of any law governing the partnership arrangement, the liability of the member as a member of the partnership is limited. Concern has been expressed that paragraph 96(2.4)(a) applies to a partner of a "limited liability partnership" in addition to a limited partner of a limited partnership. A limited liability partnership is a new type of partnership the form of which has only recently been permitted under some provincial statutes.

Unlike a limited partner of a limited partnership, a member of limited liability partnership can be liable for the general debts and obligations of a limited liability partnership. However, a member of a limited liability partnership is not liable for the debts, obligations and liabilities of the partnership, or any member of the partnership, arising from negligent acts or omissions that another member of the partnership or an employee, agent or representative of the partnership commits in the course of the partnership business while the partnership is a limited liability partnership [e.g., lawyers and chartered accountants in Ontario — ed.].

Paragraph 96(2.4)(a) is amended to exclude from its application cases where a member's liability is limited by operation of a statutory provision of Canada or a province that limits the member's liability only for the debts, obligations and liabilities of a limited liability partnership, or any member of the partnership, arising from negligent acts or omissions that another member of the partnership or an employee, agent or representative of the partnership commits in the course of the partnership business while the partnership is a limited liability partnership.

Letter from Department of Finance re Limited Liability Partnerships:

Mr. Joel Shafer
Blake, Cassels & Graydon
Toronto, Ontario

Dear Mr. Shafer:

Thank you for your facsimile transmission of July 14, 1998, in which you brought to my attention the introduction in the Ontario Legislature of Bill 6, An Act to amend the law with respect to Partnerships. You are concerned that the definition of "limited partner" in subsection 96(2.4) of the Income Tax Act might apply to a partner described in new subsection 10(2) of the Partnerships Act of Ontario.

It is my understanding that the amendments are intended to limit the liability of a member of a professional accounting partnership only in respect of obligations arising from negligent acts or omissions of another partner, employee, agent or other representative of the partnership. Moreover, this legislation only applies to a partnership for which the sole business is a professional accounting practice governed by statute.

From a tax policy perspective it would not be appropriate for such a partner to be subject to the Income Tax Act definition by reason only of a limitation of this nature. Accordingly, we will recommend to the Minister of Finance an amendment to the Income Tax Act to preclude a member of a partnership from being considered a limited partner by reason only of a law such as the new Ontario legislation. Further, we will recommend that the amendments be effective as of the date of coming into force of the Ontario legislation.

Thank you for bringing this matter to my attention.

Sincerely,
Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

Letter from Department of Finance, November 4, 1998:

Dear [xxx]

Re: Limited Liability Partnerships

Thank you for your facsimile transmission of September 15, 1998, in which you brought to my attention the introduction in the Ontario Legislature of Bill 53, An Act to amend the Law Society Act.

As you are aware, we propose to recommend amendments to the Income Tax Act to preclude a member of a partnership that carries on an accounting practice from being considered a limited partner by reason only of amendments to the Ontario Chartered Accountants Act, 1956 that have recently been enacted. We are aware that subsection 10(2) of the Ontario Partnerships Act is not restricted to professional accounting practices governed by statute: indeed, it was that lack of restriction that prompted us to limit the scope of our September 8th correspondence with [xxx] to the particular profession with which that firm's submission was concerned. Your letter is the first to raise the issue of the application of the Ontario Partnership Act raised in relation to the legal profession.

While Ontario Bill 53 (1998) has received only second reading at this time, this is to confirm our intention to propose similar amendments concerning the legal profession to our Minister in the event that section 28 of Ontario Bill 53 (1998) is enacted by the Ontario legislature. Further, we will recommend that the amendments be effective as of the date of coming into force of the Ontario legislation.

Thank you for bringing this matter to my attention.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

(b) the member or a person not dealing at arm's length with the member is entitled, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to receive an amount or to obtain a benefit that would be described in paragraph (2.2)(d) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraphs (ii) and (vi);

(c) one of the reasons for the existence of the member who owns the interest

(i) can reasonably be considered to be to limit the liability of any person with respect to that interest, and

(ii) cannot reasonably be considered to be to permit any person who has an interest in the member to carry on that person's business (other than an investment business) in the most effective manner; or

(d) there is an agreement or other arrangement for the disposition of an interest in the partnership and one of the main reasons for the agreement or arrangement can reasonably be considered to be to attempt to avoid the application of this subsection to the member.

History: Subsec. 96(2.4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 123(5), applicable to fiscal periods that end after November 1994. The subsec. formerly read:

(2.4) For the purposes of this section and sections 111 and 127, a taxpayer who is a member of a partnership at a particular time is a limited partner of that partnership at that time if the taxpayer's partnership interest is not an exempt interest at that time (within the meaning assigned by subsection (2.5)) and if, at that time or within three years after that time,

(a) by operation of any law which governs the partnership arrangement, the liability of the taxpayer in the taxpayer's capacity as a member of the partnership, is limited;

(b) the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length is entitled to receive an amount or obtain a benefit that would be described in paragraph (2.2)(d) if it were read without reference to subparagraphs (2.2)(d)(ii) and (vi);

(c) one of the reasons for the existence of the taxpayer who owns the interest

(i) may reasonably be considered to be to limit the liability of any other person with respect to that interest, and

(ii) may not reasonably be considered to be to permit any person who has an interest in the taxpayer to carry on that person's business (other than an investment business) in the most effective manner; or

(d) there is an agreement or other arrangement for the disposition of an interest in the partnership and one of the main reasons for the agreement or arrangement may reasonably be considered to be to attempt to avoid the application of this subsection to the taxpayer.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-232R3: Losses — their deductibility in the loss year or in other years. See also list at end of s. 96.

(2.5) Exempt interest — For the purposes of subsection (2.4), an exempt interest in a partnership at any time means a prescribed partnership interest or an interest in a partnership that was actively carrying on business on a regular and a continuous basis immediately before February 26, 1986 and continuously thereafter until that time or that was earning income from the rental or leasing of property immediately before February 26, 1986 and continuously thereafter until that time, where there has not after February 25, 1986 and before that time been a substantial contribution of capital to the partnership or a substantial increase in the indebtedness of the partnership and, for this purpose, an amount will not be considered to be substantial where

(a) the amount was used by the partnership to make an expenditure required to be made pursuant to the terms of a written agreement entered into by it before February 26, 1986, or to repay a loan, debt or contribution of capital that had been received or incurred in respect of any such expenditure,

(b) the amount was raised pursuant to the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before February 26, 1986 with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province, and, where required by law, accepted for filing by that public authority, or

(c) the amount was used for the activity that was carried on by the partnership on February 25, 1986 but was not used for a significant expansion of the activity

and, for the purposes of this subsection,

(d) a partnership in respect of which paragraph (b) applies shall be considered to have been actively carrying on a business on a regular and a continuous basis immediately before February 26, 1986 and continuously thereafter until the earlier of the closing date, if any, stipulated in the document referred to that paragraph and January 1, 1987, and

(e) an expenditure shall not be considered to have been required to be made pursuant to the terms of an agreement where the obligation to make the expenditure is conditional in any way on the consequences under this Act relating to the expenditure and the condition has not been satisfied or waived before June 12, 1986.

Selected Cases [subsec. 96(2.5)]: Goren v. R., [1997] 3 C.T.C. 2025 (TCC) (At-risk rules applied where no commercial activity whatsoever).

Regulations: No prescribed partnership interests to date.

(2.6) Artificial transactions — For the purposes of paragraph (2.2)(c), where at any time an amount owing by a taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length is repaid and it is established, by subsequent events or otherwise, that the repayment was made as part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments, the amount owing shall be deemed not to have been repaid.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions.

(2.7) Idem — For the purposes of paragraph (2.2)(a), where at any time a taxpayer makes a contribution of capital to a partnership and the partnership or a person or partnership with whom or which the partnership does not deal at arm's length makes a loan to the taxpayer or to a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length or repays the contribution of capital, and it is established, by subsequent events or otherwise, that the loan or repayment, as the case may be, was made as part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments, the contribution of capital shall be deemed not to have been made to the extent of the loan or repayment, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions.

Pre-RSC History: Subsecs. 96(2.3) to (2.7) added by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 25(1), applicable after February 25, 1986.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 96.

(3) Agreement or election of partnership members — Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an agreement, designation or an election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16) and 14(6), section 15.2, subsections 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34, clause 37(8)(a)(ii)(B), subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 80(5), (9), (10) and (11), section 80.04 and subsections 97(2), 139.1(16) and (17) and 249.1(4) and (6) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid agreement, designation or election,

Proposed Amendment — 96(3)

(3) Agreement or election of partnership members — Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership at any time in a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an agreement, designation or election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4) and (16) and 14(6), section 15.2, subsections 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34, clause 37(8)(a)(ii)(B), subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 80(5), (9), (10) and (11), section 80.04, subsections 94.1(4), (5) and (12), clause (i)(C) of the description of D in paragraph 94.2(4)(a), paragraph 95(2)(g.2) and subsections 97(2), 139.1(16) and (17) and 249.1(4) and (6) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid agreement, designation or election,

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 13(2), will amend the opening words of subsec. 96(3) to read as above, applicable to fiscal periods that begin after June 22, 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 96(3) of the Act provides rules that apply if a member of a partnership makes an election under certain provisions of the Act for a purpose that is relevant to the computation of the member's income from the partnership. In such a case, the election will be valid only if it is made on behalf of all the members of the partnership and the member had authority to act for the partnership.

Subsection 96(3) is amended so that it applies for the purposes of elections under

- new paragraph 94.1(5)A(c) (election by taxpayer to use discretionary deductions on behalf of FIE);
- new subsection 94.1(12) (election to treat foreign affiliate as controlled foreign affiliate);
- new subsection 94.1(4) (election to have accrual regime for foreign investment entities apply);
- new subparagraph 94.2(4)(a)D(i) (election to recognize positive deferral amount before year of disposition); and
- new paragraph 95(2)(g.2) (elections and designations for the purposes of computing foreign accrual property income).

(a) the agreement, designation or election is not valid unless

(i) it was made or executed on behalf of the taxpayer and each other person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period, and

(ii) the taxpayer had authority to act for the partnership;

(b) unless the agreement, designation or election is invalid because of paragraph (a), each other person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period shall be deemed to have made or executed the agreement, designation or election; and

(c) notwithstanding paragraph (a), any agreement, designation or election deemed by paragraph (b) to have been made or executed by any person shall be deemed to be a valid agreement, designation or election made or executed by that person.

Related Provisions: 244(20) — Members of partnerships.

History: The opening words of subsec. 96(3) amended by 2000, c. 19, s. 15, applicable to fiscal periods that end after December 15, 1998. The opening words formerly read:

> (3) Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an agreement, designation or an election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16) and 14(6), section 15.2, subsections 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34, clause 37(8)(a)(ii)(B), subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 80(5), (9), (10) and (11), section 80.04 and subsections 97(2) and 249.1(4) and (6) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid agreement, designation or election,

The opening words of subsec. 96(3) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 123(6), applicable to fiscal periods that end after December 2, 1992, except that

>
> (b) before 1995, the opening words shall be read without reference to subsections 249.1(4) and (6) of the Act.

The opening words formerly read:

> (3) Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership in a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an agreement, a designation or an election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16), 14(6) [section 15.2, subsections], 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34, clause 37(8)(a)(ii)(B), subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 80(5), (9), (10) and (11), section 80.04 and subsections 97(2) and 249.1(4) and (6) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid agreement, designation or election,

The opening words of subsec. 96(3) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 17(5), applicable after 1994. The opening words formerly read:

> (3) Agreement or election of partnership members — Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an agreement, a designation or an election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16), 14(6), [section 15.2, subsections] 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34, clause 37(8)(a)(ii)(B), subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 80(5), (9), (10) and (11), section 80.04 and subsection 97(2) and that, but for this subsection, would be a valid agreement, designation or election,

Subsec. 96(3) amended by 1995, c. 21, s. 33, applicable to fiscal periods that end after February 21, 1994. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

> (3) Election by members — Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16), 14(6), [section 15.2, subsections] 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34, clause 37(8)(a)(ii)(B) and subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 97(2) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid election,
> (a) the election is not valid unless

>
> > (ii) the taxpayer had authority to act for the partnership;
>
> (b) unless the election is invalid by virtue of paragraph (a), each other person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period shall be deemed to have made or executed the election; and
> (c) notwithstanding paragraph (a), any election deemed by paragraph (b) to have been made or executed by any person shall be deemed to be a valid election made or executed by that person.

The opening words of subsec. 96(3) amended by 1994, c. 8, s. 11, applicable to fiscal periods ending after December 2, 1992. [However, 1994, c. 8 unintentionally deleted the reference to 15.2. Officials at the Department of Finance have confirmed that the reference to section 15.2 will be retroactively reinstated in a future bill, and therefore that the subsec. should be read as if it were present.] They formerly read:

> (3) Election by members — Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16) and 14(6), section 15.2, subsections 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34 and subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 97(2) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid election,

That portion of subsec. 96(3) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 40(2), applicable after February 25, 1992. That portion formerly read:

> (3) Election by members — Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an election under or in respect of the application of any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16), 14(6), 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34 and subsections 44(1) and (6), 50(1) and 97(2) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid election, the following rules apply:

That portion of subsec. 96(3) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 72(3), applicable to dispositions occurring after July 13, 1990 and with respect to elections made in respect of the application of subsec. 50(1), as amended, to the 1985 to 1989 taxation years and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties payable for the 1985 to 1989 taxation years shall be made as are necessary to give effect to those elections. That portion of subsec. 96(3) formerly read:

> (3) Election by members — Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period thereof that ended after 1971 has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of the taxpayer's income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an election under any of subsections 13(4), (15) and (16), 14(6), 20(9) and 21(1) to (4), section 22, subsection 29(1), section 34 and subsections 39(4), 44(1) and (6) and 97(2) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid election, the following rules apply:

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 96(3) preceding para. (a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 13(2), applicable to 1985 et seq., to substitute heading "Election by members" for "Validity of election by member of partnership" and to substitute "and 29(1), section 34, subsections 39(4), 44(1) and (6) and 97(2)" for "29(1), 39(4), 44(1) and (6) and 97(2) and paragraph 34(1)(d)".

All that portion of subsec. 96(3) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 52(2), applicable to elections made after March 31, 1977. That portion formerly read:

> (3) Where a taxpayer who was a member of a partnership during a fiscal period thereof that ended after 1971 has, for any purpose relevant to the computation of his income from the partnership for the fiscal period, made or executed an election under any of section 22, subsections 13(15) and (16), 20(9), 21(1) to (4), 29(1), 97(2) and paragraph 34(1)(d) that, but for this subsection, would be a valid election, the following rules apply:

All that portion of subsec. 96(3) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 60(3), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Subsec. 96(3) added by 1973-74, c. 14, s. 30.

(4) Election — Any election under subsection 97(2) or 98(3) shall be made on or before the day that is the earliest of the days on or before which any taxpayer making the election is required to file a return of income pursuant to section 150 for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the transaction to which the election relates occurred.

Related Provisions: 96(5) — Late filing; 96(6) — Penalty for late filing; 96(7) — Unpaid balance of penalty.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 96(4) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 60(4), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-413R: Election by members of a partnership under subsection 97(2). See also list at end of s. 96.

Forms: T2060: Election for disposition of property upon cessation of partnership.

(5) Late filing — Where an election referred to in subsection (4) was not made on or before the day on or before which the election was required by that subsection to be made and that day was after May 6, 1974, the election shall be deemed to have been made on that day if, on or before the day that is 3 years after that day,

(a) the election is made in prescribed form; and

(b) an estimate of the penalty in respect of that election is paid by the taxpayer referred to in subsection 97(2) or by the persons referred to in subsection 98(3), as the case may be, when that election is made.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 96(5) preceding para. (b) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 52(3), applicable to elections required by subsec. 96(4) to be made on or before a day that is after 1977. Subsec. 96(5) formerly read:

(5) Where an election referred to in subsection (4) was not made on or before the day on or before which the election was required by that subsection to be made and that day was after May 6, 1974, the election shall be deemed to have been made on that day if, on or before the day that is one year after that day,

(a) the election is made in prescribed form and prescribed manner; and

Subsec. 96(5) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 60(4), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-413R: Election by members of a partnership under subsection 97(2). See also list at end of s. 96.

(5.1) Special cases — Where, in the opinion of the Minister, the circumstances of a case are such that it would be just and equitable

(a) to permit an election under subsection 97(2) or 98(3) to be made after the day that is 3 years after the day on or before which the election was required by subsection (4) to be made, or

(b) to permit an election made under subsection 97(2) to be amended,

the election or amended election shall be deemed to have been made on the day on or before which the election was so required to be made if

(c) the election or amended election is made in prescribed form, and

(d) an estimate of the penalty in respect of the election or amended election is paid by the taxpayer referred to in subsection 97(2) or by the persons referred to in subsection 98(3), as the case may be, when the election or amended election is made,

and where this subsection applies to the amendment of an election, that election shall be deemed not to have been effective.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 96(5.1) added by 1984, c. 45, s. 32, applicable after February 15, 1984.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-413R: Election by members of a partnership under subsection 97(2). See also list at end of s. 96.

(6) Penalty for late-filed election — For the purposes of this section, the penalty in respect of an election or an amended election referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or (5.1)(c) is

(a) where the election or amended election is made under subsection 97(2), an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) ¼ of 1% of the amount by which the fair market value of the property disposed of by the taxpayer referred to therein at the time of disposition exceeds the amount agreed on by the taxpayer and the members of the partnership in the election or amended election, for each month or part of a month during the period commencing with the day on or before which the election is required by subsection (4) to be made and ending on the day the election or amended election is made, and

(ii) an amount, not exceeding $8,000, equal to the product obtained by multiplying $100 by the number of months each of which is a month all or part of which is during the period referred to in subparagraph (i); and

(b) where the election is made under subsection 98(3), an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) ¼ of 1% of the amount by which

(A) the total of all amounts of money and the fair market value of partnership property received by the persons referred to therein as consideration for their interests in the partnership at the time that the partnership ceased to exist

exceeds

(B) the total of each such person's proceeds of disposition of that person's interest in the partnership as determined under paragraph 98(3)(a),

for each month or part of a month during the period commencing with the day on or before which the election is required by subsection (4) to be made and ending on the day the election or amended election is made, and

(ii) an amount, not exceeding $8,000, equal to the product obtained by multiplying $100 by the number of months each of which is a month all or part of which is during the period referred to in subparagraph (i).

Related Provisions: 96(7) — Assessment of penalty; 220(3.1) — Waiver of penalty by CCRA.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 96(6) substituted by 1984, c. 45, s. 32, to add "or amended election", to add reference to para. (5.1)(c) and to substitute subparas. (a)(ii) and (b)(ii) in their entirety, applicable after February 15, 1984. Subparas. 96(6)(a)(ii), (b)(ii) formerly read:

(a)(ii) $4,000, or

(b)(ii) $4,000.

Subparas. 96(6)(a)(ii), (b)(ii) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 52(4), applicable with respect to elections made after October 28, 1980. Subparas. 96(6)(a)(ii), (b)(ii) formerly read:

(a)(ii) $2,500, or

. . . . .

(b)(ii) $2,500.

Subsec. 96(6) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 36, applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-413R: Election by members of a partnership under subsection 97(2). See also list at end of s. 96.

(7) Unpaid balance of penalty — The Minister shall, with all due dispatch, examine each election and amended election referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or (5.1)(c), assess the penalty payable and send a notice of assessment to the taxpayer or persons, as the case may be, and the taxpayer or persons, as the case may be, shall pay forthwith to the Receiver General the amount, if any, by which the penalty so assessed exceeds the total of all amounts previously paid on account of that penalty.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 96(7) substituted by 1984, c. 45, s. 32, to add "and amended election" and to add reference to para. (5.1)(c), applicable after February 15, 1984.

Subsec. 96(7) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 52(5), to substitute "Receiver General" for "Receiver General of Canada".

Subsec. 96(7) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 60(4), applicable to 1972 et seq.

(8) Foreign partnerships — For the purposes of this Act, where at a particular time a person resident in Canada becomes a member of a partnership, or a person who is a member of a partnership becomes resident in Canada, and immediately before the particular time no member of the partnership is resident in Canada, the following rules apply for the purpose of computing the partnership's income for fiscal periods ending after the particular time:

(a) where, at or before the particular time, the partnership held depreciable property of a prescribed class (other than taxable Canadian property),

(i) no amount shall be included in determining the amounts for any of A, C, D and F to I in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) in respect of the acquisition or disposition before the particular time of the property, and

(ii) where the property is the partnership's property at the particular time, the property shall be deemed to have been acquired, immediately after the particular time, by the partnership at a capital cost equal to the lesser of its fair market value and its capital cost to the partnership otherwise determined;

(b) in the case of the partnership's property that is inventory (other than inventory of a business carried on in Canada) or non-depreciable capital property (other than taxable Canadian property) of the partnership at the particular time, its cost to the partnership shall be deemed to be, immediately after the particular time, equal to the lesser of its fair market value and its cost to the partnership otherwise determined;

(c) any loss in respect of the disposition of a property (other than inventory of a business carried on in Canada or taxable Canadian property) by the partnership before the particular time shall be deemed to be nil; and

(d) where 4/3 of the cumulative eligible capital in respect of a business carried on at the particular time outside Canada by the partnership exceeds the total of the fair market value of each eligible capital property in respect of the business at that time, the partnership shall be deemed to have, immediately after that time, disposed of an eligible capital property in respect of the business for proceeds equal to the excess and to have received those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 96(9) — Anti-avoidance.

History: Subsec. 96(8) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 44, applicable to a particular partnership where a person or partnership becomes a member of the particular partnership after December 21, 1992, or where a member of the particular partnership becomes resident in Canada after August 30, 1993, except that before May 1994, the subsec. shall be read without reference to para. (d).

(9) Idem — For the purpose of applying subsection (8), where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that there is a member of the partnership who is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of that subsection, the member shall be deemed not to be resident in Canada.

Proposed Amendment — 96(9)

(9) Application of foreign partnership rule — For the purposes of applying subsection (8) and this subsection,

(a) where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that a member of a partnership is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of subsection (8), the member is deemed not to be resident in Canada; and

(b) where at any time a particular partnership is a member of another partnership,

(i) each person or partnership that is, at that time, a member of the particular partnership is deemed to be a member of the other partnership at that time,

(ii) each person or partnership that becomes a member of the particular partnership at that time is deemed to become a member of the other partnership at that time, and

(iii) each person or partnership that ceases to be a member of the particular partnership at that time is deemed to cease to be a member of the other partnership at that time.

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 13(3), will amend subsec. 96(9) to read as above, applicable to fiscal periods that begin after June 22, 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 96(8) of the Act provides rules that apply where, at a particular time, a Canadian resident becomes a member of a partnership, or a person who is a member of such a partnership becomes a resident of Canada. Where, immediately before the particular time no member of the partnership was resident in Canada, these rules apply in computing the income of the partnership for fiscal periods ending after the particular time. In general terms, the rules in subsection 96(8) are designed to prevent losses accrued while a partnership had no Canadian resident partners from being used to reduce Canadian income tax liabilities.

Subsection 96(9) provides that, where one of the main reasons that there is a member of the partnership who is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of subsection 96(8), that member will, for the purpose of applying subsection 96(8), be considered not to be resident in Canada.

Subsection 96(9) is amended to provide an explicit look-through rule for the purposes of subsection 96(8) so that members of partnerships may be identified through one or more tiers of partnerships which are members of other partnerships. Amended subsection 96(9) is consistent with new subsection 94.2(8).

This amendment applies to partnership fiscal periods that begin after June 22, 2000.

Related Provisions: 94.2(8) — Parallel rule for foreign investment entities.

History: Subsec. 96(9) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 44, applicable to a particular partnership where a person or partnership becomes a member of the particular partnership after December 21, 1992, or where a member of the particular partnership becomes resident in Canada after August 30, 1993.

History: The opening words of subsec. 97(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 124(1), applicable, subject to s. 247 of 1998, c. 19 (grandfathering rule reproduced after s. 260), to dispositions of property that occur after April 26, 1995. The opening words formerly read:

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, other than subsection 85(5.1), where at any time after November 12, 1981 a taxpayer has disposed of any capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property, an eligible capital property or an inventory to a partnership that immediately after that time was a Canadian partnership of which the taxpayer was a member, if the taxpayer and all the other members of the partnership have jointly so elected in prescribed form and within the time referred to in subsection 96(4), the following rules apply:

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 97(2) preceding para. (a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 49(1), applicable to taxation years commencing after 1984, to substitute heading "Rules where election by partners" for "Rules applicable where election by partners", and "any capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property" for "any of his capital property, a property referred to in subsection 59(2)".

Subsec. 97(2) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, s. 58, applicable to dispositions occurring after November 12, 1981, other than dispositions occurring before 1983 if the arrangements therefor were substantially advanced and evidenced in writing on November 12, 1981. Subsec. 97(2) formerly read:

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where at any time after 1971 a Canadian partnership has acquired property from a taxpayer who was, immediately after that time, a member of the partnership, if all the persons who immediately after that time were members of the partnership have jointly so elected in respect of the property in prescribed form and within the time referred to in subsection 96(4), the following rules apply:

(a) the amount that all of those persons have agreed upon in their election in respect of the property shall be deemed to be the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the property and the amount for which the partnership acquired the property;

(b) the amount, if any, by which the amount so elected in respect of the property exceeds the amount of the consideration (other than an interest in the partnership) received by the taxpayer for the property shall

(i) if immediately before that time the taxpayer was a member of the partnership, be included in computing the adjusted cost base to him of his interest in the partnership, and

(ii) in any other case, be included in computing the cost to him of his interest in the partnership;

(c) where the amount that all of those persons have agreed upon in their election in respect of the property is greater than the fair market value, at the time of the disposition, of the property so disposed of, the amount so agreed upon shall, irrespective of the amount actually so agreed upon, be deemed to be an amount equal to that fair market value; and

(d) notwithstanding paragraph (c), where the amount that all of those persons have agreed upon in their election in respect of the property is less than the amount of the consideration (other than an interest in the partnership) received by the taxpayer for the property, the amount so agreed upon shall, irrespective of the amount so agreed upon, be deemed to be an amount equal to the amount of that consideration.

(a) the taxpayer's share, as a member of the partnership, of the income of the partnership from any source for the taxation year of the partnership in which the property was acquired exceeds ½ of the income of the partnership from that source for the year, or

(b) the amount that would, if the partnership were wound up immediately after the acquisition, be paid to the taxpayer as a member of the partnership (otherwise than as his share of any income of the partnership) exceeds ½ of the aggregate of all such amounts that would be so paid to all persons as members of the partnership, the loss, if any, of the taxpayer arising from the acquisition of the property by the partnership

(c) is, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, not deductible in computing the income, net capital loss, non-capital loss or restricted farm loss, if any, of the taxpayer for any taxation year, and

(d) shall,

(i) where immediately before that time the taxpayer was a member of the partnership, be included in computing the adjusted cost base to him of his interest in the partnership, and

(ii) in any other case, be included in computing the cost to him of his interest in the partnership.

(4) Where capital cost to partner exceeds proceeds of disposition — Where subsection (2) has been applicable in respect of the acquisition of any depreciable property by a partnership from a taxpayer who was, immediately after the taxpayer disposed of the property, a member of the partnership and the capital cost to the taxpayer of the property exceeds the taxpayer's proceeds of the disposition, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

(a) the capital cost to the partnership of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost thereof to the taxpayer; and

(b) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the partnership in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the partnership of the property.

98. (1) Disposition of partnership property — For the purposes of this Act, where, but for this subsection, at any time after 1971 a partnership would be regarded as having ceased to exist, the following rules apply:

(a) until such time as all the partnership property and any property substituted therefor has been distributed to the persons entitled by law to receive it, the partnership shall be deemed not to have ceased to exist, and each person who was a partner shall be deemed not to have ceased to be a partner,

(b) the right of each such person to share in that property shall be deemed to be an interest in the partnership, and

(c) notwithstanding subsection 40(3), where at the end of a fiscal period of the partnership, in respect of an interest in the partnership,

(i) the total of all amounts required by subsection 53(2) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest at that time

exceeds

(ii) the total of the cost to the taxpayer of the interest determined for the purpose of computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time and all amounts required by subsection 53(1) to be added to the cost to the taxpayer of the interest in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time, the amount of the excess shall be deemed to be a gain of the taxpayer for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes that time from a disposition at that time of that interest.

(3) Rules applicable where partnership ceases to exist [rollout] — Where at any particular time after 1971 a Canadian partnership has ceased to exist and all of the partnership property has been distributed to persons who were members of the partnership immediately before that time so that immediately after that time each such person has, in each such property, an undivided interest that, when expressed as a percentage (in this subsection referred to as that person's "percentage") of all undivided interests in the property, is equal to the person's undivided interest, when so expressed, in each other such property, if each such person has jointly so elected in respect of the property in prescribed form and within the time referred to in subsection 96(4), the following rules apply:

(a) each such person's proceeds of the disposition of the person's interest in the partnership shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the greater of

(i) the adjusted cost base to the person, immediately before the particular time, of the person's interest in the partnership, and

(ii) the amount of any money received by the person on the cessation of the partnership's existence, plus the person's percentage of the total of amounts each of which is the cost amount to the partnership of each such property immediately before its distribution;

(b) the cost to each such person of that person's undivided interest in each such property shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the total of

(i) that person's percentage of the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before its distribution,

(i.1) where the property is eligible capital property, that person's percentage of 4/3 of the amount, if any, determined for F in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) in respect of the partnership's business immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) where the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(ii), the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the person's undivided interest in the property;

(c) the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of each such person's undivided interest in each such property that was a capital property (other than depreciable property) of the partnership is such portion of the excess, if any, described in subparagraph (b)(ii) as is designated by the person in respect of the property, except that

(i) in no case shall the amount so designated in respect of the person's undivided interest in any such property exceed the amount, if any, by which the person's percentage of the fair market value of the property immediately after its distribution exceeds the person's percentage of the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before its distribution, and

(ii) in no case shall the total of amounts so designated in respect of the person's undivided interests in all such capital properties (other than depreciable property) exceed the excess, if any, described in subparagraph (b)(ii);

(d) [Repealed under former Act]

(e) where the property so distributed by the partnership was depreciable property of the partnership of a prescribed class and any such person's percentage of the amount that was the capital cost to the partnership of that property exceeds the amount determined under paragraph (b) to be the cost to the person of the person's undivided interest in the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

(i) the capital cost to the person of the person's undivided interest in the property shall be deemed to be the person's percentage of the amount that was the capital cost to the partnership of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the person in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the person of the undivided interest;

(f) the partnership shall be deemed to have disposed of each such property for proceeds equal to the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before its distribution; and

(g) where the property so distributed by the partnership was eligible capital property in respect of the business,

(i) for the purposes of determining under this Act any amount relating to cumulative eligible capital, an eligible capital amount, an eligible capital expenditure or eligible capital property, each such person shall be deemed to have continued to carry on the business, in respect of which the property was eligible capital property and that was previously carried on by the partnership, until the time that the person disposes of the person's undivided interest in the property,

(ii) for the purposes of determining the person's cumulative eligible capital in respect of the business, an amount equal to 3/4 of the amount determined under subparagraph (b)(i.1) in respect of the business shall be added to the amount otherwise determined in respect thereof for P in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5), and

(iii) for the purposes of determining after the particular time

(A) the amount deemed under subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) to be the person's taxable capital gain, and

(B) the amount to be included under subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) or paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the person's income in respect of any subsequent disposition of the property of the business, the amount determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, of that person's percentage of the amount determined under that clause in respect of the partnership's business immediately before the particular time.

Pre-RSC History: Subpara. 98(3)(b)(ii) amended to substitute "under paragraph (c)" for "under paragraph (c) or (d), as the case may be," and para. 98(3)(d) repealed, by 1986, c. 55, subsecs. 26(1), (2), applicable by subsec. 26(5) (as amended by 1988, c. 55, s. 199 and 1991, c. 49, s. 236, the latter deemed to have come into force December 19, 1986) with respect to property received by a member of a partnership where

(a) the property was acquired by the partnership after December 4, 1985, otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into [on or] before that date;

(b) the property is received in satisfaction of an interest in the partnership acquired by the member after December 4, 1985, otherwise than

(i) pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date, or

(ii) from a person with whom the member was not dealing at arm's length, where the interest in the partnership has not been acquired in an arm's length transaction after December 4, 1985, otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date and, for the purposes of this subparagraph, "arm's length" has the meaning it would have for the purposes of the Act if it were read without reference to para. 251(5)(b), or

(c) the property is received in satisfaction of an interest in the partnership that was owned by a corporation at a time when control thereof was acquired (otherwise than by reason of an acquisition described in para. 256(7)(a)) after December 4, 1985, otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date,

(d) in respect of properties to which the repeal of para. 98(3)(d) does not apply, subpara. 98(3)(d)(iii) shall, subject to paragraphs (f), (g) and (h) (below), in its application to taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987, be read as follows:

(iii) in no case shall the aggregate of amounts so designated in respect of his undivided interests in all such properties that are depreciable property or properties other than capital properties, exceed ¾ of the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of him,

(e) in respect of properties to which the repeal of para. 98(5)(d) does not apply, subpara. 98(5)(d)(iii) shall, subject to paragraphs (f), (g) and (h) (below), in its application to taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987, be read as follows:

(iii) in no case shall the aggregate of amounts so designated in respect of all such properties of the proprietor that are depreciable property or properties other than capital properties, exceed ¾ of the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the proprietor,

(f) where the member is an individual, for taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987 and before 1990, the references in subparas. 98(3)(d)(iii) and (5)(d)(iii) to "¾" shall, in respect of the member for those years and fiscal periods, be read as references to "⅔",

(g) where the member is a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout a taxation year ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990, the references to "¾" in subparas. 98(3)(d)(iii) and (5)(d)(iii) shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as references to the fraction determined as the aggregate of

(i) that proportion of ½ that the number of days in the year that are before 1988 is of the number of days in the year,

(ii) that proportion of ⅔ that the number of days in the year that are after 1987 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and

(iii) that proportion of ¾ that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year, and

(h) where the member is at any time in a taxation year ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990 a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, the references to "¾" in subparas. 98(3)(d)(iii) and (5)(d)(iii) shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as references to the fraction determined as the aggregate of

(i) that proportion of ½ that the number of days in the year that are before July 1988 is of the number of days in the year,

(ii) that proportion of ⅔ that the number of days in the year that are after June 1988 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and

(iii) that proportion of ¾ that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year.

Para. 98(3)(d) formerly read:

(d) the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of each such person's undivided interest in each such property that was depreciable property or a property other than a capital property of the partnership is such portion of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the excess, if any, described in subparagraph (b)(ii) exceeds the aggregate of amounts designated by him under paragraph (c) in respect of his undivided interests in all such capital properties (other than depreciable property)

as is designated by him in respect of the property, except that

(ii) in no case shall the amount so designated in respect of his undivided interest in any such property exceed the amount, if any, by which his percentage of the fair market value of the property immediately after its distribution exceeds his percentage of the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before its distribution, and

(iii) in no case shall the aggregate of amounts so designated in respect of his undivided interests in all such properties that are depreciable property or properties other than capital properties, exceed ½ of the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of him;

(4) Where subsec. (3) does not apply — Subsection (3) is not applicable in any case in which subsection (5) or 85(3) is applicable.

(5) Where partnership business carried on as sole proprietorship — Where at any particular time after 1971 a Canadian partnership has ceased to exist and within 3 months after the particular time one, but not more than one, of the persons who were, immediately before the particular time, members of the partnership (which person is in this subsection referred to as the "proprietor", whether an individual, a trust or a corporation) carries on alone the business that was the business of the partnership and continues to use, in the course of the business, any property that was, immediately before the particular time, partnership property and that was received by the proprietor as proceeds of disposition of the proprietor's interest in the partnership, the following rules apply:

(a) the proprietor's proceeds of disposition of the proprietor's interest in the partnership shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the greater of

(i) the total of the adjusted cost base to the proprietor, immediately before the particular time, of the proprietor's interest in the partnership, and the adjusted cost base to the proprietor of each other interest in the partnership deemed by paragraph (g) to have been acquired by the proprietor at the particular time, and

(ii) the total of

(A) the cost amount to the partnership, immediately before the particular time, of each such property so received by the proprietor, and

(B) the amount of any other proceeds of the disposition of the proprietor's interest in the partnership received by the proprietor;

(b) the cost to the proprietor of each such property shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the total of

(i) the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before that time,

(i.1) where the property is eligible capital property, 4/3 of the amount, if any, determined for F in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) in respect of the partnership's business immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) where the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(ii), the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the property;

(c) the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of each such property so received by the proprietor that is a capital property (other than depreciable property) of the proprietor is such portion of the excess, if any, described in subparagraph (b)(ii) as is designated by the proprietor in respect of the property, except that

(i) in no case shall the amount so designated in respect of any such property exceed the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property immediately after the particular time exceeds the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before that time, and

(ii) in no case shall the total of amounts so designated in respect of all such capital properties (other than depreciable property) exceed the excess, if any, described in subparagraph (b)(ii);

(d) [Repealed under former Act]

(e) where any such property so received by the proprietor was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the partnership and the amount that was the capital cost to the partnership of that property exceeds the amount determined under paragraph (b) to be the cost to the proprietor of the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

(i) the capital cost to the proprietor of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost to the partnership of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the proprietor in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the proprietor of the property;

(f) the partnership shall be deemed to have disposed of each such property for proceeds equal to the cost amount to the partnership of the property immediately before the particular time;

(g) where, at the particular time, all other persons who were members of the partnership immediately before that time have disposed of their interests in the partnership to the proprietor, the proprietor shall be deemed at that time to have acquired partnership interests from those other persons and not to have acquired any property that was property of the partnership; and

(h) where the property so received by the proprietor is eligible capital property in respect of the business,

(i) for the purpose of determining the proprietor's cumulative eligible capital in respect of the business, an amount equal to 3/4 of the amount determined under subparagraph (b)(i.1) in respect of the business shall be added to the amount otherwise determined in respect thereof for P in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5), and

(ii) for the purposes of determining after the particular time

(A) the amount deemed under subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) to be the proprietor's taxable capital gain, and

(B) the amount to be included under subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) or paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the proprietor's income in respect of any subsequent disposition of property of the business, the amount determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the partnership's business immediately before the particular time.

98.1 (1) Residual interest in partnership — Where, but for this subsection, at any time after 1971 a taxpayer has ceased to be a member of a partnership of which the taxpayer was a member immediately before that time, the following rules apply:

(a) until such time as all the taxpayer's rights (other than a right to a share of the income or loss of the partnership under an agreement referred to in subsection 96(1.1)) to receive any property of or from the partnership in satisfaction of the taxpayer's interest in the partnership immediately before the time at which the taxpayer ceased to be a member of the partnership are satisfied in full, that interest (in this section referred to as a "residual interest") is, subject to sections 70, 110.6 and 128.1 but notwithstanding any other section of this Act, deemed not to have been disposed of by the taxpayer and to continue to be an interest in the partnership;

(b) where all of the taxpayer's rights described in paragraph (a) are satisfied in full before the end of the fiscal period of the partnership in which the taxpayer ceased to be a member thereof, the taxpayer shall, notwithstanding paragraph (a), be deemed not to have disposed of the taxpayer's residual interest until the end of that fiscal period;

(c) notwithstanding subsection 40(3), where at the end of a fiscal period of the partnership, in respect of a residual interest in the partnership,

(i) the total of all amounts required by subsection 53(2) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the residual interest at that time

exceeds

(ii) the total of the cost to the taxpayer of the residual interest determined for the purpose of computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time and all amounts required by subsection 53(1) to be added to the cost to the taxpayer of the residual interest in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time the amount of the excess shall be deemed to be a gain of the taxpayer, for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes that time, from a disposition at that time of that residual interest; and

(d) where a taxpayer has a residual interest

(i) by reason of paragraph (b), the taxpayer shall, except for the purposes of subsections 110.1(4), 118.1(8) and 127(4.2), be deemed not to be a member of the partnership, and

(ii) in any other case, the taxpayer shall, except for the purposes of subsection 85(3), be deemed not to be a member of the partnership.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-242R: Retired partners; IT-278R2: Death of a partner or of a retired partner.

(2) Continuation of original partnership — Where a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "original partnership") has or would but for subsection 98(1) have ceased to exist at a time when a taxpayer had rights described in paragraph (1)(a) in respect of that partnership and the members of another partnership agree to satisfy all or part of those rights, that other partnership shall, for the purposes of that paragraph, be deemed to be a continuation of the original partnership.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-278R2: Death of a partner or of a retired partner.

Pre-RSC History [s. 98.1]: S. 98.1 added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 63, applicable to 1972 et seq.

Definitions [s. 98.1]: "amount" — 248(1); "property" — 248(1); "residual interest" — 98.1(1)(a); "taxpayer" — 248(1).

98.2 Transfer of interest on death — Where by virtue of the death of an individual a taxpayer has acquired a property that was an interest in a partnership to which, immediately before the individual's death, section 98.1 applied,

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired a right to receive partnership property and not to have acquired an interest in a partnership;

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the right referred to in paragraph (a) at a cost equal to the amount determined to be the proceeds of disposition of the interest in the partnership to the deceased individual by virtue of paragraph 70(5)(a) or (6)(d), as the case may be; and

(c) section 43 is not applicable to the right.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(o) — Deductions from ACB; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

Pre-RSC History: S. 98.2 added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 63, applicable to 1972 et seq.

99. (1) Fiscal period of terminated partnership — Except as provided in subsection (2), where, at any time in a fiscal period of a partnership, the partnership would, but for subsection 98(1), have ceased to exist, the fiscal period shall be deemed to have ended immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 127.52(1)(c.1), (c.2) — Exclusion from triggering minimum tax.

(2) Fiscal period of terminated partnership for individual member — Where an individual was a member of a partnership that, at any time in a fiscal period of a partnership, has or would have, but for subsection 98(1), ceased to exist, for the purposes of computing the individual's income for a taxation year the partnership's fiscal period may, if the individual so elects and subsection 249.1(4) does not apply in respect of the partnership, be deemed to have ended immediately before the time when the fiscal period of the partnership would have ended if the partnership had not so ceased to exist.

Related Provisions: 25(1) — Parallel rule for individuals; 99(3), (4) — Validity of election.

History: Subsec. 99(2) amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 17.1, applicable to fiscal periods that begin after 1994. The subsec. formerly read:

> (2) Fiscal period for individual member of terminated partnership — Where an individual was a member of a partnership that, at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership, has or would have, but for subsection 98(1), ceased to exist, for the purposes of computing the individual's income for a taxation year the partnership's fiscal period may, if the individual so elects, be deemed to have ended immediately before the time when the fiscal period of the partnership would have ended if the partnership had not so ceased to exist.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 99(2) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, s. 48, applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-179R: Change of fiscal period.

Information Circulars: 76-19R3: Transfer of property to a corporation under section 85.

(3) Validity of election — An election under subsection (2) is not valid unless the individual was resident in Canada at the time when the fiscal period of the partnership would, if the election were valid, be deemed to have ended.

Related Provisions: 96(4)-(7) — Elections.

(4) Idem — An election under subsection (2) is not valid if, for the individual's taxation year in which a fiscal period of the partnership would not, if the election were valid, be deemed to have ended but in which it would otherwise have ended, the individual elects to have applicable the rules set out in the Income Tax Application Rules that apply when two or more fiscal periods of a partnership end in the same taxation year.

Definitions [s. 99]: "Canada" — 255; "fiscal period" — 99(1), (2), 249.1; "individual" — 248(1); "member" — 102(2); "resident in Canada" — 250; "taxation year" — 11(2), 249; "taxpayer" — 248(1).

Interpretation Bulletins [s. 99]: IT-138R: Computation and flow-through of partnership income; IT-358: Partnerships — deferment of fiscal year-end.

100. (1) Disposition of an interest in a partnership — Notwithstanding paragraph 38(a), a taxpayer's taxable capital gain for a taxation year from the disposition of an interest in a partnership to any person exempt from tax under section 149 shall be deemed to be

> (a) ¾ of such portion of the taxpayer's capital gain for the year therefrom as may reasonably be regarded as attributable to increases in the value of any partnership property of the partnership that is capital property other than depreciable property,

plus

> (b) the whole of the remaining portion of that capital gain.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 100(1)(a) amended by 1988, c. 55, s. 69, to substitute "¾" for "½", applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987, except that

> (a) where the taxpayer is an individual or a partnership, for taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987 and before 1990, the reference to "¾" shall be read as a reference to "⅔";
>
> (b) where the taxpayer is a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout its taxation year, for taxation years ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990, the reference to "¾" shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as a reference to the fraction determined as the aggregate of
>
> > (i) that proportion of ½ that the number of days in the year that are before 1988 is of the number of days in the year,
> >
> > (ii) that proportion of ⅔ that the number of days in the year that are after 1987 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and
> >
> > (iii) that proportion of ¾ that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year; and
>
> (c) where the taxpayer is a corporation that was not a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout its taxation year, for taxation years ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990, the reference to "¾" shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as a reference to the fraction determined as the aggregate of
>
> > (i) that proportion of ½ that the number of days in the year that are before July 1988 is of the number of days in the year,
> >
> > (ii) that proportion of ⅔ that the number of days in the year that are after June 1988 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and
> > (iii) that proportion of ¾ that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year.

(2) Gain from disposition of interest in partnership — In computing a taxpayer's gain for a taxation year from the disposition of an interest in a partnership, there shall be included, in addition to the amount thereof determined under subsection 40(1), the amount, if any, by which

> (a) the total of all amounts required by subsection 53(2) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the interest in the partnership,

exceeds

> (b) the total of
>
> > (i) the cost to the taxpayer of the interest in the partnership determined for the purpose of computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time, and
> >
> > (ii) all amounts required by subsection 53(1) to be added to the cost to the taxpayer of that interest in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 100(2)(b) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, s. 64, applicable to 1972 et seq.

Selected Cases [subsec. 100(2)]: Stursberg (R.K.G.) v. MNR, [1993] 2 C.T.C. 76 (FCA) (Transactions resulting in reduction of partner's share and corresponding increase of another partner's share was disposition of part of first partner's interest, not distribution of capital).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-268R4: Inter vivos transfer of farm property to child; IT-278R2: Death of a partner or of a retired partner; IT-358: Deferment of fiscal year end.

(2.1) Idem — Where, as a result of an amalgamation or merger, an interest in a partnership owned by a predecessor corporation has become property of the new corporation formed as a result of the amalgamation or merger and the predecessor corporation was not related to the new corporation, the predecessor corporation shall be deemed to have disposed of the interest in the partnership to the new corporation immediately before the amalgamation or merger for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the predecessor corporation of the interest in the partnership at the time of the disposition and the new corporation shall be deemed to have acquired the interest in the partnership from the predecessor corporation immediately after that time at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(e.1) — Partnership interest.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 100(2.1) added by 1987, c. 46, s. 34, applicable with respect to amalgamations and mergers occurring after January 15, 1987.

(3) Transfer of interest on death — Where by virtue of the death of an individual a taxpayer has acquired a property that was an interest in a partnership immediately before the individual's death (other than an interest to which, immediately before the individual's death, section 98.1 applied) and the taxpayer is not a member of the partnership and does not become a member of the partnership by reason of that acquisition,

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired a right to receive partnership property and not to have acquired an interest in a partnership;

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the right referred to in paragraph (a) at a cost equal to the amount determined to be the proceeds of disposition of the interest in the partnership to the deceased individual by virtue of paragraph 70(5)(a) or (6)(d), as the case may be; and

(c) section 43 is not applicable to the right.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(o) — Deduction from ACB; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 100(3) added by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 39, applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-278R2: Death of a partner or of a retired partner; IT-349R3: Intergenerational transfers of farm property on death.

(4) Loss re interest in partnership — Notwithstanding paragraph 39(1)(b), the capital loss of a taxpayer from the disposition at any time of an interest in a partnership is deemed to be the amount of the loss otherwise determined minus the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the taxpayer's share of the partnership's loss, in respect of a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was property of a particular partnership at that time, would have been reduced under subsection 112(3.1) if the fiscal period of every partnership that includes that time had ended immediately before that time and the particular partnership had disposed of the share immediately before the end of that fiscal period for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time.

Related Provisions: 40(3.7) — Application to non-resident individual; 53(2)(c)(i)(C) — Reduction in ACB; 107.4(3)(b)(ii) — Application of stop-loss rule to qualifying disposition.

History: Subsec. 100(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 126, applicable to dispositions that occur after April 26, 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Notwithstanding paragraph 39(1)(b), the capital loss of a corporation from the disposition at any time of an interest in a partnership shall be deemed to be the amount of the loss otherwise determined minus the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the corporation's share of the partnership's loss, in respect of a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was property of the partnership at that time, would have been reduced pursuant to subsection 112(3.1) or (4.2) had the fiscal period of the partnership ended immediately before that time and had the partnership disposed of the share immediately before the end of that fiscal period for its fair market value at that time.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 100(4) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, s. 59, applicable to dispositions occurring after November 12, 1981.

101. Disposition of farmland by partnership — Where a taxpayer was a member of a partnership at the end of a taxation year of the partnership in which the partnership disposed of land used in a farming business of the partnership, there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the taxation year of the partnership ended, ¾ of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of that taxation year of the taxpayer or any preceding taxation year of the taxpayer ending after 1971, equal to the taxpayer's loss, if any, for the year from the farming business, to the extent that the loss

(a) was, by virtue of section 31, not deductible in computing the taxpayer's income for the year;

(b) was not deducted for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the partnership's taxation year in which the land was disposed of ended, or for any preceding taxation year of the taxpayer;

(c) did not exceed that proportion of the total of

(i) taxes (other than income or profits taxes or taxes imposed by reference to the transfer of the property) paid by the partnership in its taxation year ending in the year or payable by it in respect of that taxation year to a province or a Canadian municipality in respect of the property, and

(ii) interest paid by the partnership in its taxation year ending in the year or payable by it in respect of that taxation year, pursuant to a legal obligation to pay interest on borrowed money used to acquire the property or on any amount as consideration payable for the property,

(to the extent that the taxes and interest were included in computing the loss of the partnership for that taxation year from the farming business), that

(iii) the taxpayer's loss from the farming business for the year

is of

(iv) the partnership's loss from the farming business for its taxation year ending in the year; and

(d) did not exceed the remainder obtained when

(i) the total of each of the taxpayer's losses from the farming business for taxation years preceding the year (to the extent that those losses are included in computing the amount determined under this section in respect of the taxpayer) is deducted from

(ii) 4/3 of the amount of the taxpayer's taxable capital gain from the disposition of the land.

Related Provisions: 53(1)(i) — Corresponding rule for non-partnerships — addition to ACB; 96(1.1) — Allocation of share of income to retiring partner; 111(7) — Limitation.

Pre-RSC History: That portion of s. 101 preceding para. (a) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 70(1), to substitute "Disposition of farmland by" for "Disposition of land used in farming business of" in the heading, "3/4 of the aggregate of" for "1/2 of the aggregate of", and "any preceding taxation year" for "any previous taxation year", applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987, except that

(a) where the taxpayer is an individual or a partnership, for taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987 and before 1990, the reference to "3/4" shall be read as a reference to "2/3";

(b) where the taxpayer is a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout its taxation year, for taxation years ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990, the reference to "3/4" shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as a reference to the fraction determined as the aggregate of

(i) that proportion of 1/2 that the number of days in the year that are before 1988 is of the number of days in the year,

(ii) that proportion of 2/3 that the number of days in the year that are after 1987 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and

(iii) that proportion of 3/4 that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year; and

(c) where the taxpayer is a corporation that was not a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout its taxation year, for taxation years ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990, the reference to "3/4" shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as a reference to the fraction determined as the aggregate of

(i) that proportion of 1/2 that the number of days in the year that are before July 1988 is of the number of days in the year,

(ii) that proportion of 2/3 that the number of days in the year that are after June 1988 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and

(iii) that proportion of 3/4 that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year.

Subpara. 101(d)(ii) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 70(2), to substitute "4/3 of" for "2 times", applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987, except that

(a) where the taxpayer is an individual or a partnership, for taxation years and fiscal periods ending after 1987 and before 1990, the reference to "4/3" shall be read as a reference to "3/2";

(b) where the taxpayer is a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout its taxation year, for taxation years ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990, the reference to "4/3" shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as a reference to the aggregate of

(i) that proportion of 2 that the number of days in the year that are before 1988 is of the number of days in the year,

(ii) that proportion of 3/2 that the number of days in the year that are after 1987 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and

(iii) that proportion of 4/3 that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year; and

(c) where the taxpayer is a corporation that was not a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout its taxation year, for taxation years ending after 1987 and commencing before 1990, the reference to "4/3" shall, in respect of the corporation for the year, be read as a reference to the fraction determined as the aggregate of

(i) that proportion of 2 that the number of days in the year that are before July 1988 is of the number of days in the year,

(ii) that proportion of 3/2 that the number of days in the year that are after June 1988 and before 1990 is of the number of days in the year, and

(iii) that proportion of 4/3 that the number of days in the year that are after 1989 is of the number of days in the year.

Subdivision k — Trusts and Their Beneficiaries

104. (1) Reference to trust or estate — In this Act, a reference to a trust or estate (in this subdivision referred to as a "trust") shall be read as a reference to the trustee or the executor, administrator, heir or other legal representative having ownership or control of the trust property.

Proposed Amendment — 104(1)

104. (1) Reference to trust or estate — In this Act, a reference to a trust or estate (in this subdivision referred to as a "trust") shall, unless the context otherwise requires, be read to include a reference to the trustee, executor, administrator, liquidator of the succession, heir or other legal representative having ownership or control of the trust property, but, except for the purposes of this subsection, subsection (1.1) and paragraph (k) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), a trust is deemed to not include an arrangement under which the trust can reasonably be considered to act as agent for all the beneficiaries under the trust with respect to all dealings with all of the trust's property unless the trust is described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1).

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(1), will amend subsec. 104(1) to read as above, applicable to 1998 et seq., except that in connection with transfers of property that occur before December 24, 1998, subsec. 104(1) shall be read as follows:

> 104. (1) Reference to trust or estate — In this Act, a reference to a trust or estate (in this subdivision referred to as a "trust") shall, unless the context otherwise requires, be read to include a reference to the trustee, executor, administrator, liquidator of the succession, heir or other legal representative having ownership or control of the trust property.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(1) of the Act provides a rule under which a reference to a trust or estate is read in the Act as a reference to the trustee or the executor, administrator, heir or other legal representative having ownership or control over trust property.

Subsection 104(1) is amended to include a "liquidator of the succession" to the list of persons to which a trust or estate refers for the purposes of the Act. This amendment is made to ensure that the Act appropriately reflects both the civil law of the province of Quebec and the law of other provinces.

Subsection 104(1) is amended so that this rule does not apply where the context otherwise requires and to clarify that this rule is merely meant to be a convenient way of linking the trustees and others described in the subsection with a trust for the purposes of the Act. This amendment recognizes that there are references to "trust" in the Act that are meant to indicate a trust arrangement, rather than the persons who are responsible for the operation of the arrangement. The latter references include those found in subsections 74.4(4), 104(5.3) and (5.5), 108(6) and 127(7).

Subsection 104(1) is amended, in conjunction with 104(1.1), so that, except for the purposes of those two subsections and paragraph (k) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), references in the Act to trusts are not considered to include an arrangement where a trust can reasonably be considered to act as agent for its beneficiaries with respect to all dealings in all of the trust's property. These arrangements are generally known as "bare trusts". Trusts described in paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1) are expressly not affected by this amendment.

Related Provisions: 75(2) — Revocable or reversionary trust; 94(3) — Non-resident trust deemed resident in Canada; 104(1.1) — Restricted meaning of "beneficiary"; 108(1) — Meaning of "trust"; 122(1) — High rate of tax for inter vivos trusts; 128(1)(b), 128(2)(b) — Estate of bankrupt deemed not to be a trust or estate; 146.1(1)"trust" — RESPs — meaning of "trust"; 233.2(4) — Reporting requirement re transfers to foreign trust; 233.6(1) — Reporting requirement re distributions from foreign trust; 248(1)"estate" — Definition applies to entire Act; 248(1)"trust" — Definition applies to entire Act; 248(3) — Deemed trusts in Quebec; 248(5.2) — Trust-to-trust transfers — deemed same trust; 248(25.1) — Trust-to-trust transfer — deemed continuation of trust; 251(1)(b) — Personal trust and beneficiary deemed not to deal at arm's length.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-447: Residence of a trust or estate.

I.T. Technical News: No. 7 (revocable living trusts, protective trusts, bare trusts).

Proposed Addition — 104(1.1)

(1.1) Restricted meaning of "beneficiary" — For the purposes of subsection (1), subparagraph 73(1.02)(b)(ii) and paragraph 107.4(1)(e), a person or partnership is deemed not to be a beneficiary under a trust at a particular time where the person or partnership is beneficially interested in the trust at the particular time solely because of

(a) a right that may arise as a consequence of the terms of the will or other testamentary instrument of an individual who, at the particular time, is a beneficiary under the trust;

(b) a right that may arise as a consequence of the law governing the intestacy of an individual;

(c) a right as a shareholder under the terms of the shares of the capital stock of a corporation that, at the particular time, is a beneficiary under the trust;

(d) a right as a member of a partnership under the terms of the partnership agreement, where, at the particular time, the partnership is a beneficiary under the trust; or

(e) any combination of rights described in paragraphs (a) to (d).

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(1), will add subsec. 104(1.1), applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes: New subsection 104(1.1) applies for the purpose of identifying beneficiaries under a trust for the purpose of subsection 104(1), as well as for the purposes of subparagraph 73(1.02)(b)(ii) and paragraph 107.4(1)(e). A person or partnership is deemed not to be a beneficiary under a trust at a particular time for these purposes where the person or partnership is beneficially interested in the trust at the particular time solely because of any one, or a combination of, the following:

- a right that may arise as a consequence of the terms of the will or other testamentary instrument of an individual who, at the particular time, is a beneficiary under the trust;
- a right that may arise as a consequence of the law governing the intestacy of an individual;
- a right as a shareholder under the terms of the shares of the capital stock of a corporation that, at the particular time, is a beneficiary under the trust; or
- a right as a member of a partnership under the terms of the partnership agreement, where, at the particular time, the partnership is a beneficiary under the trust.

These amendments generally apply to the 1998 and subsequent taxation years. However, in order to co-ordinate this amendment with changes to the replacement of the definition "disposition" in section 54 with the new definition of the same expression in subsection 248(1), it does not apply in connection with transfers of property that occurred before December 24, 1998.

Proposed Amendment — 104(1.1)

(1.1) Restricted meaning of beneficiary — For the purposes of subsection (1), subparagraph 73(1.02)(b)(ii), paragraph (b) of the definition "resident beneficiary" in subsection 94(1), and paragraph 107.4(1)(e), a person or partnership is deemed not to be a beneficiary under a trust at a particular time where the person or partnership is beneficially interested in the trust at the particular time solely because of

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 14(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(1.1) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Proposed subsection 104(1.1) of the Act was one of the measures contained in a detailed Notice of Ways and Means Motion tabled on June 5, 2000.

Proposed subsection 104(1.1) of the Act applies for the purpose of identifying beneficiaries under a trust for the purpose of subsection 104(1), as well as for the purposes of proposed subparagraph 73(1.02)(b)(ii) and proposed paragraph 107.4(1)(e). Those provisions use the expression "beneficiary". Proposed subsection 104(1.1) deems a person or partnership not to be a "beneficiary" under a trust at a particular time for the purposes of those various provisions where the person or partnership is beneficially interested in the trust at the particular time solely because of a contingent right described in subsection 104(1.1).

It is proposed that subsection 104(1.1) be amended to also apply for the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "resident beneficiary" in new subsection 94(1), so that contingent rights described in subsection 104(1.1) will not result in a person being treated as a "resident beneficiary". For more detail on the implications of status as a resident beneficiary, see new subsection 94(3).

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

(2) Taxed as individual — A trust shall, for the purposes of this Act, and without affecting the liability of the trustee or legal representative for that person's own income tax, be deemed to be in respect of the trust property an individual, but where there is more than one trust and

(a) substantially all of the property of the various trusts has been received from one person, and

(b) the various trusts are conditioned so that the income thereof accrues or will ultimately accrue to the same beneficiary, or group or class of beneficiaries, such of the trustees as the Minister may designate shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be in respect of all the trusts an individual whose property is the property of all the trusts and whose income is the income of all the trusts.

Related Provisions: 127.53(2), (3) — Multiple trusts must share minimum tax exemption; 248(1)"individual" — Trust is an individual.

(3) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(3) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(1), applicable to 1988 et seq. (See subsec. 122(1.1).) Subsec. 104(3) formerly read:

> (3) Deduction not permitted — No deduction may be made under section 109 from the income of a trust.

Subsec. 104(3) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 45(1), applicable to 1984 et seq. Subsec. 104(3) formerly read:

> (3) Deductions not permitted — No deduction may be made under section 109 or paragraph 110(1)(d) from the income of a trust.

(4) Deemed disposition by trust — Every trust shall, at the end of each of the following days, be deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust that was capital property (other than excluded property or depreciable property) or land included in the inventory of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately thereafter for an amount equal to that fair market value, and for the purposes of this Act those days are

Proposed Amendment — 104(4) opening words

(4) Deemed disposition by trust — Every trust is, at the end of each of the following days, deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust (other than exempt property) that was capital property (other than excluded property or depreciable property) or land included in the inventory of a business of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value (determined with reference to subsection 70(5.3)) at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately after for an amount equal to that fair market value, and for the purposes of this Act those days are

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(2), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(4) to read as above, applicable to days after December 23, 1998 that are determined in respect of a trust under subsec. 104(4), as amended, and for the purpose of determining the cost amount to a trust after December 23, 1998 of property to days after 1992 that are determined in respect of the trust under subsec. 104(4), as amended.

Technical Notes: Subsections 104(4) to (5.2) of the Act set out what is generally referred to as the "21-year deemed realization rule" for trusts. The purpose of the rule is to prevent the use of trusts to defer indefinitely the recognition for tax purposes of gains accruing on capital properties, resource properties and land inventories. These subsections generally treat such properties as having been disposed of and reacquired by trusts (other than spousal trusts) every 21 years at the properties' fair market value. The first deemed disposition day for post-1971 spousal trusts, as provided under paragraph 104(4)(a), is the day on which the spouse beneficiary dies. The fair market value of property that is deemed to be disposed of on a day determined under paragraph 104(4)(a) or (a.1), is determined with reference to the valuation rule for insurance policies in amended subsection 70(5.3) (see the commentary above on that provision).

Subsections 104(4) to (5.2) are amended so that the deemed realization rules do not apply to "exempt property" of a non-resident trust, as the expression is now defined in subsection 108(1). "Exempt property" is defined as property the income or gain from the disposition of which by a taxpayer is exempt from Canadian taxation for the taxpayer either because the taxpayer is not resident in Canada or because of a tax treaty. The purpose of this amendment is to prevent the deemed realization rules from being used to increase the cost of such property. The increased cost might be relevant in the event that a non-resident trust distributes such property to Canadian beneficiaries. These amendments apply to deemed disposition days that are after December 23, 1998. In the case of capital property (other than depreciable property), the amendments also apply to deemed disposition days that are after 1992, but only for the purpose of determining after December 23, 1998 the cost amount to a trust of property.

These amendments also reflect changes proposed under Bill C-23, the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act.

(a) where the trust

(i) is a trust that was created by the will of a taxpayer who died after 1971 and that, at the time it was created, was a trust,

(i.1) is a trust that was created by the will of a taxpayer who died after 1971 to which property was transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(b) or (d) or (6)(d) applied and that, immediately after any such property vested indefeasibly in the trust as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer, was a trust, or

(ii) is a trust that was created after June 17, 1971 by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime that, at any time after 1971, was a trust

under which

(iv) no person except the spouse could, before the spouse's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust,

the day on which the spouse dies;

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner" and by Sch. 2, s. 7, will replace "spouse's" with "spouse's or common-law partner's", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

Proposed Amendment — 104(4)(a)

(ii.1) is a trust (other than a trust the terms of which are described in clause (iv)(A) that elects in its return of income under this Part for its first taxation year that this subparagraph not apply) that was created after 1999 by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime that, at any time after 1999, was a trust

under which

(iii) the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the spouse's or common-law partner's death and no person except the spouse or common-law partner could, before the spouse's or common-law partner's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, or

(iv) in the case of a trust described in subparagraph (ii.1) created by a taxpayer who had attained 65 years of age at the time the trust was created,

(A) the taxpayer was entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the taxpayer's death and no person except the taxpayer could, before the taxpayer's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, or

(B) the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse was, in combination with the spouse or the taxpayer, as the case may be, entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the later of the death of the taxpayer and the death of the spouse and no other person could, before the later of those deaths, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust,

(C) the taxpayer or the taxpayer's common-law partner was, in combination with the common-law partner or the taxpayer, as the case may be, entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the later of the death of the taxpayer and the death of the common-law partner and no other person could, before the later of those deaths, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, the day on which the death or the later death, as the case may be, occurs;

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(3), will amend the portion of para. 104(4)(a) after subpara. (ii) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, with regard to a trust created by a taxpayer at a particular time in 2000 for the benefit of another individual, subparas. 104(4)(a)(iii) and (iv) of the Act shall be read without reference to the words "or common-law partner" and "or common-law partner's" and to cl. 104(4)(a)(iv)(C), unless, because of an election under s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act, c. 12 of S.C. 2000, ss. 130 to 142 of that Act applied at the particular time to the taxpayer and the other individual.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(4)(a) is amended to provide the first deemed disposition day in respect of an inter vivos trust created after 1999 that at any time after 1999 was a trust for the exclusive benefit of the settlor during the settlor's lifetime (i.e., an "alter ego trust", as newly defined in subsection 248(1)) or a trust for the joint benefit of the settlor and the settlor's spouse during their lifetimes (i.e., a "joint partner trust", as newly defined in subsection 248(1)). The first deemed disposition date in these circumstances, in the event that the settlor was at least 65 years of age at the time of the settlement, is generally the day on which the settlor dies (or, in the case of a trust for the joint benefit of the settlor and spouse, the day on which the survivor dies). However, where a trust that would otherwise be an alter ego trust so elects under subparagraph 104(4)(a)(ii.1), the first deemed disposition date of the trust will generally be the 21st anniversary of the creation of the trust, as determined under paragraph 104(4)(b). This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years. For an explanation of the age 65 restriction, see the commentary on new subsection 73(1.02).

(a.1) where the trust is a pre-1972 spousal trust on January 1, 1993 and the spouse referred to in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) in respect of the trust was

(i) in the case of a trust created by the will of a taxpayer, alive on January 1, 1976, and

(ii) in the case of a trust created by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime, alive on May 26, 1976, the day that is the later of

(iii) the day on which that spouse dies, and

(iv) January 1, 1993;

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

Proposed Addition — 104(4)(a.2), (a.3)

(a.2) where the trust makes a distribution to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust, it is reasonable to conclude that the distribution was financed by a liability of the trust and one of the purposes of incurring the liability was to avoid taxes otherwise payable under this Part as a consequence of the death of any individual, the day on which the distribution is made (determined as if a day ends for the trust immediately after the time at which each distribution is made by the trust to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust);

(a.3) where property (other than property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) has been transferred by a taxpayer after December 17, 1999 to the trust in circumstances to which subsection 73(1) applies, it is reasonable to conclude that the property was so transferred in anticipation that the taxpayer would subsequently cease to reside in Canada and the taxpayer subsequently ceases to reside in Canada, the first day after that transfer during which the taxpayer ceases to reside in Canada (determined as if a day ends for the trust immediately after each time at which the taxpayer ceases to be resident in Canada);

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(4), will add paras. 104(4)(a.2) and (a.3), applicable to days after December 17, 1999 that are determined under subsection 104(4), as amended.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(4)(a.2) is introduced to provide for a deemed disposition day for a trust that distributes property financed by a liability of the trust. This measure only applies, however, if one of the purposes of the transaction was to avoid taxes otherwise payable as a consequence of the death of an individual. The deemed disposition under this paragraph occurs immediately after the distribution of the property (as the determination is made as if a day had ended immediately after each distribution). This amendment applies to deemed disposition days determined after December 17, 1999.

Paragraph 104(4)(a.3) is introduced to provide for a deemed disposition day for a trust in the event that an individual, after December 17, 1999, has transferred property to the trust in circumstances to which subsection 73(1) applies, it is reasonable to conclude that the property was so transferred in anticipation that the taxpayer would subsequently cease to reside in Canada and the individual subsequently ceases to reside in Canada. This measure does not apply, however, to property transferred that is exempt under amended subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii) from a deemed disposition on the transferor's emigration. The deemed disposition under paragraph 104(4)(a.3) occurs immediately after the individual ceases to be resident in Canada.

(b) the day that is 21 years after the latest of

(i) January 1, 1972,

(ii) the day on which the trust was created, and

(iii) where applicable, the day determined under paragraph (a) or (a.1) as those paragraphs applied from time to time after 1971; and

(c) the day that is 21 years after any day (other than a day determined under paragraph (a) or (a.1)) that is, because of this subsection, a day on which the trust is deemed to have disposed of each such property.

Proposed Amendment — 104(4)(c)

(c) the day that is 21 years after any day (other than a day determined under paragraph (a), (a.1), (a.2) or (a.3)) that is, because of this subsection, a day on which the trust is deemed to have disposed of each such property.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(5), will amend para. 104(4)(c) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(4)(c) is amended so that there is not a deemed disposition day for a trust 21 years after any day determined under new paragraph 104(4)(a.2) or (a.3). This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(1), applicable to taxation years of trusts ending after February 11, 1991 except that para. 104(4)(a) as amended does not apply in respect of any trust described therein because of subpara. (i.1) thereof where the spouse who was the beneficiary of that trust died before December 21, 1991. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Deemed disposition by a trust — Every trust shall, on each of the following days, be deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust that was capital property (other than depreciable property) or land included in the inventory of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value on that day and to have reacquired the property immediately thereafter for an amount equal to that fair market value, and for the purposes of this Act those days are

(a) where the trust

(i) is a trust created by the will of a taxpayer who died after December 31, 1971 and that, at the time it was created, was a trust, or

(ii) is a trust created by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime, other than a trust described in subsection 122(2), that, at any time after 1971, was a trust

under which

(iv) no person except the spouse could, before the spouse's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust,

the day on which the spouse dies;

(b) the day that is 21 years after the latest of

(i) January 1, 1972,

(ii) the day on which the trust was created, and

(iii) where applicable, the day referred to in paragraph (a); and

(c) the day that is 21 years after any day that is, by virtue of this subsection, a day on which the trust is deemed to have disposed of each such property.

Pre-RSC History: That portion of subsec. 104(4) preceding (a) substituted by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 50(1), applicable to taxation years of a trust commencing after 1984. That portion formerly read:

(4) Deemed disposition of property by a trust — Every trust shall, on each of the following days, be deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust that was capital property (other than depreciable property), property referred to in any of paragraphs 59(2)(a) to (e) or land included in the inventory of a business of the trust, for proceeds equal to its fair market value on that day, and to have reacquired the property immediately thereafter for an amount equal to that fair market value; and for the purposes of this Act those days are:

(4) Every trust shall, on each of the following days, be deemed to have disposed of each capital property of the trust, other than depreciable property, for proceeds equal to its fair market value on that day, and to have reacquired such property immediately thereafter for an amount equal to that fair market value; and for the purposes of this Act those days are:

Para. 104(4)(a) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, subsec. 40(1), applicable with respect to any trust the spouse who was the beneficiary of which died after May 25, 1976; and with respect to any trust the spouse who was the beneficiary of which died after December 31, 1975 and before May 26, 1976, paragraph 104(4)(a) shall be deemed to have read as follows:

(a) where the trust is a trust created by the will of a taxpayer who died after December 31, 1971 or a trust created by a taxpayer during his lifetime, under which

(i) his spouse is entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arises before the spouse's death, and

(ii) no person except the spouse may, before the spouse's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust,

the day on which the spouse dies;

Para. 104(4)(a) formerly read:

(a) where the trust is a trust created by a taxpayer, whether during his lifetime or by his will, under which

(i) his spouse is entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arises before the spouse's death, and

Proposed Addition — 104(4.1)

(4.1) Mark-to-market property — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the determination of whether property is capital property for the purpose of subsection (4) shall be made without reference to subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3) and section 94.2.

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 14(2), will add subsec. 104(4.1), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: New subsection 104(4.1) of the Act provides that, for the purposes of the 21-year deemed disposition rule in subsection 104(4), a property's status as capital property is determined without reference to new subparagraph 39(1)(a)(ii.3) and new section 94.2. The latter provisions have the effect of providing that interests in foreign investment entities to which subsection 94.2 applies are not classified as capital property. In the event that such an interest is deemed to have been disposed of because of the application of subsection 104(4), there is a recognition of the "deferral amount" pursuant to subsection 94.2(4).

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

(5) Idem [depreciable property] — Every trust shall, at the end of each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, be deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust that was a depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately thereafter at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that fair market value, except that

Proposed Amendment — 104(5)

(5) Depreciable property [deemed disposition] — Every trust is, at the end of each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust (other than exempt property) that was a depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately after that day at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that fair market value, except that

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(6), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(5) to read as above, applicable to days after December 23, 1998 that are determined under subsection 104(4), as amended.

Technical Notes: See under 104(4) opening words.

(a) where the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of the property immediately before the end of the day (in this paragraph referred to as the "actual capital cost") exceeds the deemed capital cost to the trust of the property, for the purpose of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a) as they apply in respect of the property at any subsequent time,

(i) the capital cost to the trust of the property on its reacquisition shall be deemed to be the amount that was the actual capital cost to the trust of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed under paragraph 20(1)(a) to the trust in respect of the property in computing its income for taxation years that ended before the trust reacquired the property;

(b) for the purposes of this subsection, the reference to "at the end of a taxation year" in subsection 13(1) shall be read as a reference to "at the particular time a trust is deemed by subsection 104(5) to have disposed of depreciable property of a prescribed class"; and

(c) for the purpose of computing the excess, if any, referred to in subsection 13(1) at the end of the taxation year of a trust that included a day on which the trust is deemed by this subsection to have disposed of a depreciable property of a prescribed class, any amount that, on that day, was included in the trust's income for the year under subsection 13(1) as it reads because of paragraph (b), shall be deemed to be an amount included under section 13 in the trust's income for a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 70(9.1) — Transfer of farm property from spouse's trust to settlor's children; 73(1.02)(c)(ii) — Anti-avoidance rule; 104(5.3) — Election by trust to postpone deemed disposition; 104(5.8) — Trust transfers; 104(6) — Deduction in computing income of trust; 108(1) — "accumulating income"; 108(1)"cost amount"(a.1) — Cost amount before death of taxpayer; 108(1)"trust" — Exclusions to meaning of "trust"; 108(6) — Where terms of trust are varied.

History: Subparas. 104(5)(a)(i) and (ii) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 46(1), applicable to days determined under subsec. 104(4) that are after 1992. Those subparas. formerly read:

(i) the capital cost to the trust of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the actual capital cost to the trust of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the trust in respect of the property under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the reacquisition by the trust of the property, and any other amount allowed to the trust in respect of the property under that paragraph in computing income for those years shall be deemed to be nil;

Subsec. 104(5) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(1), applicable to taxation years of trusts ending after February 11, 1991 except that with respect to those days determined under subsec. 104(4) (as amended) that are before 1993, subsec. 104(5) shall be read without reference to the amendments made by subsection (1), and the portion of subsec. 104(5) preceding para. (c) shall be read as follows:

(5) Every trust shall, at the end of each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, be deemed to have disposed of all depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to

(a) where the fair market value of that property at the end of the day exceeds the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust at the end of the day, the amount of that undepreciated capital cost plus ½ of the excess, and

(b) in any other case, the fair market value of that property at the end of that day plus ½ of the amount, if any, by which the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust at the end of that day exceeds that fair market value, and to have reacquired each such depreciable property of that class immediately thereafter at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that proportion of the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) or (b), as the case may be, that the amount that was the fair market value of that property is of the total of the amounts that were the fair market values of all properties of that class at the end of that day, except that

Subsec. 104(5) formerly read:

(5) Idem — Every trust shall, on each day determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust, be deemed to have disposed of all depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust for proceeds equal to,

(a) where the fair market value of that property on that day exceeds the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust on that day, the amount of that undepreciated capital cost plus ½ of the amount of the excess, and

(b) in any other case, the fair market value of that property on that day plus ½ of the amount, if any, by which the undepreciated capital cost thereof to the trust on that day exceeds that fair market value,

and to have reacquired each such depreciable property of that class immediately thereafter at a capital cost (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed capital cost") equal to that proportion of the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) or (b), as the case may be, that the amount that was the fair market value of that property on that day is of the total of the amounts that were the fair market values of all properties of that class on that day, except that

(c) where the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of any particular property of that class exceeds the deemed capital cost to the trust of the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as they apply in respect of the property at any subsequent time,

(i) the capital cost to the trust of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of the property, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the trust in respect of the property under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the reacquisition by the trust of the property, and any other amount allowed to the trust in respect of the property under that paragraph in computing income for those years shall be deemed to be nil,

(d) for the purposes of this subsection, the words "at the end of a taxation year," in subsection 13(1) shall be deemed to read "at the particular time a trust is deemed by subsection 104(5) to have disposed of depreciable property of a prescribed class," and

(e) for the purpose of computing the excess, if any, referred to in subsection 13(1) at the end of the taxation year of a trust that included a day on which the trust is deemed by this subsection to have disposed of all depreciable property of a prescribed class, any amount that, on that day, was included in the trust's income for the year by virtue of subsection 13(1) as it reads by virtue of paragraph (d), shall be deemed to be an amount included in the taxpayer's income by virtue of section 13 for a prior taxation year.

Pre-RSC History: All that portion of subsec. 104(5) preceding para. (a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 50(2), applicable to taxation years of a trust commencing after 1984, to substitute "determined under subsection (4) in respect of the trust" for "described in subsection (4)".

Paras. 104(5)(d) substituted, (e) added by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 49(1), applicable to taxation years commencing after May 25, 1976. Para. 104(5)(d) formerly read:

(d) subsection 13(2) is not applicable in respect of any such reacquisition.

(5.1) Idem [NISA Fund No. 2] — Every trust that holds an interest in a NISA Fund No. 2 that was transferred to it in circumstances to which paragraph 70(6.1)(b) applied shall be deemed, at the end of the day on which the spouse referred to in that paragraph dies (in this subsection referred to as the "spouse"), to have been paid an amount out of the fund equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the balance at the end of that day in the fund so transferred

exceeds

(b) such portion of the amount described in paragraph (a) as is deemed by subsection (14.1) to have been paid to the spouse.

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

Related Provisions: 104(5.8) — Trust transfers; 104(6) — Deduction in computing income of trust; 252(3), (4)(a) — Extended meaning of "spouse" and "former spouse".

History: Subsec. 104(5.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(2), applicable to 1991 et seq.

Pre-RSC History [former subsec. 104(5.1)]: Former subsec. 104(5.1) repealed by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 51(1), applicable to 1986 et seq. Subsec. 104(5.1) formerly read:

(5.1) Idem — Every trust shall, where subsection (4) is applicable to the trust on a day, be deemed

(a) where the trust was a participant under an indexed security investment plan on that day,

(i) to have (for the purposes of computing any capital gain or capital loss of the trust from the plan for the taxation year in which the day occurred) a taxation year that ended on, and a new taxation year that commenced immediately after, that day

(ii) to have disposed, immediately before the end of the taxation year deemed by subparagraph (i) to have ended, of all indexed securities owned under the plan for proceeds equal to their fair market value (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 47.1(1)(d)) at that time and to have reacquired under the plan, at the beginning of the taxation year deemed by subparagraph (i) to have commenced, all such securities at a cost equal to such fair market value,

(iii) to have closed out, immediately before the end of the taxation year deemed by subparagraph (i) to have ended, each put or call option referred to in clause 47.1(4)(a)(iv)(B) or (C) outstanding under the plan at that time at a cost equal to the amount the trust would have had to pay at that time if the option had actually been closed out and to have written under the plan, at the beginning of the taxation year deemed by subparagraph (i) to have commenced, the option for proceeds equal to such cost, and

(iv) notwithstanding subsection 47.1(9), to have a capital gain or capital loss from the plan for the taxation year deemed by subparagraph (i) to have ended equal to the amount of the trust's gain or loss, as the case may be, for that year from the plan; and

(b) where paragraph 47.1(10)(f) was applicable to the trust in respect of an indexed security investment plan in the taxation year in which the day occurred, to have, notwithstanding that paragraph, a capital loss from the plan for the year equal to the aggregate of all amounts that are obtained by determining every amount that, but for this paragraph, would have been a capital loss of the trust from the plan for the year or any subsequent taxation year and not to have a capital loss from the plan for any subsequent taxation year.

Subsec. 104(5.1) added by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 45(2), applicable after September 30, 1983.

(5.2) Rules for trusts [resource property] — Where on a day determined under subsection (4) in respect of a trust the trust owns a Canadian resource property or a foreign resource property, the following rules apply:

(a) for the purpose of determining the amounts under subsection 59(1), paragraph 59(3.2)(c), subsections 66(4) and 66.2(1), the definition "cumulative Canadian development expense" in subsection 66.2(5), subsection 66.4(1) and the definition "cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense" in subsection 66.4(5), the trust shall be deemed

(i) to have a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "old taxation year") that ended on that day and a new taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "new taxation year") that commenced immediately after that day, and

(ii) to have disposed, immediately before the end of the old taxation year, of each of its Canadian resource properties and foreign resource properties for proceeds that become receivable at that time equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired, at the beginning of the new taxation year, each such property for an amount equal to that fair market value; and

(5.2) Resource property — Where at the end of a day determined under subsection (4) in respect of a trust the trust owns a Canadian resource property (other than an exempt property) or a foreign resource property (other than an exempt property),

(a) for the purpose of determining the amounts under subsection 59(1), paragraph 59(3.2)(c), subsections 66(4) and 66.2(1), the definition "cumulative Canadian development expense" in subsection 66.2(5), subsection 66.4(1) and the definition "cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense" in subsection 66.4(5), the trust is deemed

(i) to have a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "old taxation year") that ended at the end of that day and a new taxation year that begins immediately after that day, and

(ii) to have disposed, immediately before the end of the old taxation year, of each of those properties for proceeds that became receivable at that time equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired, at the beginning of the new taxation year, each such property for an amount equal to that fair market value; and

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(7), will amend the portion of subsec. 104(5.2) before para. (b) to read as above, applicable to days after December 23, 1998 that are determined under subsec. 104(4), as amended.

Technical Notes: See under 104(4) opening words.

(b) for the particular taxation year of the trust that included that day, the trust shall

(i) include in computing its income for the particular taxation year the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 59(3.2)(c) in respect of the old taxation year and the amount so included shall, for the purposes of the determination of B in the definition "cumulative Canadian development expense" in subsection 66.2(5), be deemed to have been included in computing its income for a preceding taxation year, and

(ii) deduct in computing its income for the particular taxation year the amount, if any, determined under subsection 66(4) in respect of the old taxation year and the amount so deducted shall, for the purposes of paragraph 66(4)(a), be deemed to have been deducted for a preceding taxation year.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(5.2) added by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 50(3), applicable to taxation years of a trust commencing after 1984.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-394R2: Preferred beneficiary election.

(5.3) Election — Where a trust files an election under this subsection in prescribed form with the Minister within 6 months after the end of a taxation year of the trust that includes a day before 1999 (in this subsection referred to as the "disposition day") that would, but for this subsection, be determined in respect of the trust under paragraph (4)(a.1) in the case of a trust described in that paragraph, or under paragraph (4)(b) in any other case, and there is an exempt beneficiary under the trust on the disposition day,

(a) for the purposes of subsections (4) to (5.2), paragraph (6)(b) and subsection 159(6.1), the day determined under paragraph (4)(a.1) or (b), as the case may be, in respect of the trust is deemed to be the earlier of

(i) January 1, 1999, and

(ii) the first day of the trust's first taxation year that begins after the first day after the disposition day throughout which there is no exempt beneficiary under the trust;

(b) subsection 107(2) does not apply to a distribution made by the trust during the period

(i) beginning immediately after the disposition day, and

(ii) ending at the end of the first day after the disposition day that is determined in respect of the trust under subsection (4)

to any beneficiary (other than an individual who is an exempt beneficiary under the trust immediately before the time of the distribution);

(b.1) where the trust filed the form before March 1995, paragraph (b) does not apply to distributions made by the trust after February 1995;

(c) subject to paragraph (d), paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54 does not apply to a transfer by the trust after the disposition day during the period

Proposed Amendment — 104(5.3)(c)

(c) subsection 107.4(3) does not apply to a disposition by the trust during the period

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(8), will amend the opening words of para. 104(5.3)(c) to read as above, applicable to transfers made after December 23, 1998.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(5.3) of the Act allowed the deferral of the 21-year deemed disposition date (determined under paragraph 104(4)(a.1) or (b)) for certain family trusts. The measure has already been terminated under the existing rules, so that the deferred disposition date was no later than January 1, 1999.

Subject to paragraph 104(5.3)(d), paragraph 104(5.3)(c) ensures that the deemed disposition date cannot be deferred beyond January 1, 1999 (or an earlier date, where applicable) through a transfer of property from one trust to another that does not constitute a "disposition" because of existing paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54.

Any trust-to-trust transfer in the period (referred to below as the "relevant period") that is after the original date of the deemed disposition and before the date of the deferred deemed disposition is considered to be a "disposition" (i.e., a taxable event) for a trust that has made an election under subsection 104(5.3). Paragraph 104(5.3)(d) provides for relief from paragraph 104(5.3)(c) where, essentially, one trust is replaced by another trust with the same terms and beneficiaries. In this case, the new trust is deemed to be the same trust as, and a continuation of, the original trust.

Paragraph 104(5.3)(c) is amended to eliminate the reference to the existing definition of "disposition" in section 54, as a consequence of the repeal of that definition and its replacement by a new definition of "disposition" in subsection 248(1).

Paragraph 104(5.3)(c) is also amended so that it only applies where there is a "disposition" of property (as now defined in subsection 248(1)). The only relevant "trust-to-trust" transfer where there is no "disposition" is one to which paragraph (f) of the new definition "disposition" applies. Where paragraph (f) of that definition applies, the transferee trust is considered under subsection 248(25.1) to be the same as and a continuation of the transferor trust.

(i) beginning immediately after the disposition day, and

(ii) ending at the end of the first day after the disposition day that is determined in respect of the trust under subsection (4); and

(d) where

(i) property is transferred from the trust to another trust in circumstances to which paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54 would, but for paragraph (c), apply,

(ii) the other trust held no property immediately before the transfer, and

(iii) the terms of the trust immediately before the transfer are identical to the terms of the other trust immediately after the transfer, paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54 applies to the transfer and the other trust shall be deemed to be the same trust as, and a continuation of, the trust.

Proposed Repeal — 104(5.3)(d)

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(9), will repeal para. 104(5.3)(d), applicable to transfers made after December 23, 1998.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(5.3)(d) is repealed, consequential on the introduction of paragraph (f) of the new definition "disposition" and new subsection 248(25.1).

History: The portion of subsec. 104(5.3) before para. (b) amended and para. (b.1) added by 1996, c. 21, subsecs. 18(3) and (4), applicable after February 11, 1991. That portion before para. (b) formerly read:

(5.3) Election — Where a trust so elects in prescribed form filed with the Minister within 6 months after the end of a taxation year of the trust that includes a day (in this subsection referred to as the "disposition day") that would, but for this subsection, be determined in respect of the trust under paragraph (4)(a.1) in the case of a trust described in that paragraph, or under paragraph (4)(b) in any other case, and there is an exempt beneficiary under the trust on the disposition day,

(a) for the purposes of subsections (4) to (5.2), paragraph (6)(b) and subsection 159(6.1), the day determined under paragraph (4)(a.1) or (b), as the case may be, in respect of the trust shall be deemed to be the first day of the first taxation year of the trust beginning after the first day after the disposition day throughout which there is no exempt beneficiary under the trust;

Subsec. 104(5.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(3), applicable after February 11, 1991.

Forms: T1015: Election by a trust to defer the deemed realization day.

(5.31) Revocation of election — Where a trust that has filed an election under subsection (5.3) before July 1995 applies before 1997 to the Minister in writing for permission to revoke the election and the Minister grants permission to revoke the election,

(a) the election is deemed, otherwise than for the purposes of this subsection, never to have been made;

(b) the trust is not liable to any penalty under this Act to the extent that the liability would, but for this paragraph, have increased because of the revocation of the election; and

(c) notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties under this Act shall be made as are necessary to take into account the consequences of the revocation of the election.

History: Subsec. 104(5.31) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(5), applicable on June 20, 1996.

(5.4) Exempt beneficiary — For the purpose of subsection (5.3), an "exempt beneficiary" under a trust at a particular time is an individual who is alive and a beneficiary under the trust at the particular time, where

(a) in the case of a trust that was created after February 11, 1991, the individual, or an individual who, otherwise than because of subsection 252(2), is the brother or sister of the individual, was alive at the earlier of

(i) the time the trust was created, and

(ii) the earliest of all times each of which is the time that another trust was created that, before the particular time and the end of the day that would, but for subsection (5.3), be determined in respect of the trust under paragraph (4)(a.1) or (b), transferred property to the trust either

(A) directly, or

(B) indirectly through one or more trusts, in circumstances in which subsection (5.8) applies; and

(b) the individual or the individual's spouse or former spouse was

(i) the designated contributor in respect of the trust, or

(ii) a grandparent, parent, brother, sister, child, niece or nephew

(A) of the designated contributor in respect of the trust, or

(B) of the spouse or former spouse of the designated contributor in respect of the trust.

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 2, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

(5.5) Beneficiary — For the purpose of subsection (5.4), a beneficiary under a trust is an individual who is beneficially interested in the trust, except that an individual shall be deemed not to be a beneficiary under a trust at a particular time

(a) where

(i) the interests in the trust at the particular time of all individuals who would, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, be exempt beneficiaries under the trust are conditional on or subject to the exercise of a discretionary power by a person,

(ii) by the exercise of (or the failure to exercise) such power under the terms of the trust after the particular time, all interests in the trust of

(A) those individuals, and

(B) other individuals who are children of deceased individuals who, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, would have been exempt beneficiaries under the trust at any time before the particular time may terminate before the time at which the last of those individuals and the other individuals dies and without any of those individuals or the other individuals enjoying any benefit under the trust after the particular time, and

(iii) the trust was created after February 11, 1991 or subparagraph (ii) applies in respect of the trust because of a variation of the terms of the trust occurring after February 11, 1991; or

(b) where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main purposes for the creation of the interest of the individual in the trust was to defer the day determined under paragraph (4)(a.1) or (b) in respect of the trust.

Related Provisions: 248(25) — Beneficially interested.

History: Subsec. 104(5.5) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(3), applicable after February 11, 1991.

(5.6) Designated contributor — For the purpose of subsection (5.4), a designated contributor in respect of a trust is

(a) where the trust is described in paragraph (4)(a) or was, on December 20, 1991, a pre-1972 spousal trust, the individual who created (or whose will created) the trust;

(b) where paragraph (a) does not apply and the trust is a testamentary trust at the end of the taxation year for which it makes an election under subsection (5.3), the individual as a consequence of whose death the trust was created; and

(c) in the case of any other trust, the individual who was, or who was related to, an individual beneficially interested in the trust and who is designated by the trust in its election under subsection (5.3)

(i) where, at each time in the relevant period, the total amount of property transferred or loaned before that time by the designated individual (either directly or through another trust) to the trust

(A) exceeded the total amount of property so transferred or loaned before that time by each other individual who was born before the designated individual and who, at any time, was related to any individual beneficially interested in the trust, and

(B) was not less than the total amount of property so transferred or loaned before that time by each other individual who was born after the designated individual and who, at any time, was related to any individual beneficially interested in the trust,

(ii) where

(A) no individual may be designated in respect of the trust because of subparagraph (i),

(B) the designated individual transferred or loaned property (either directly or through another trust) to the trust at any time before the end of the relevant period, and

(C) the designated individual was born before all other individuals who

(I) at any time were related to any individual beneficially interested in the trust or to any individual who transferred or loaned property to the trust before the end of the relevant period, and

(II) transferred or loaned property (either directly or through another trust) to the trust at any time before the end of the relevant period, or

(iii) where throughout the relevant period the property of the trust consisted primarily of

(A) shares of the capital stock of a corporation

(I) controlled, on the day that the trust was created or at the beginning of the relevant period, by the designated individual or by the designated individual and one or more other individuals born after, and related to, the designated individual, or

(II) all or substantially all of the value of which throughout the relevant period derived from property transferred to the corporation by the designated individual or by the designated individual and one or more other individuals born after, and related to, the designated individual,

(B) shares of the capital stock of a corporation all or substantially all of the value of which, throughout the part of the relevant period throughout which the shares were held by the trust, derived from shares described in clause (A),

(C) property substituted for the shares described in clause (A) or (B),

(D) property attributable to profits, gains or distributions in respect of property described in clause (A), (B) or (C), or

(E) any combination of the properties described in clauses (A) to (D).

(5.7) Idem — For the purposes of subsection (5.6),

(a) the relevant period in respect of a trust is the period that begins one year after the day on which the trust was created and ends at the end of the day that would, but for the election of the trust under subsection (5.3), be determined in respect of the trust under paragraph (4)(a.1) or (b), as the case may be;

(b) 2 individuals shall be deemed to be related to each other where one of them is the aunt, great aunt, uncle or great uncle of the other individual;

(c) an individual shall be deemed not to be a designated contributor in respect of a trust where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main purposes of a series of transactions or events that includes

(i) an individual becoming a trustee in respect of trust property, or

(ii) an acquisition of property or a borrowing by any individual was to defer the day determined under paragraph (4)(b) in respect of the trust; and

(d) in determining whether all or substantially all of the value of shares of the capital stock of a corporation is derived from other property, the other property shall be deemed to include property substituted for the other property and property attributable to profits, gains or distributions in respect of the other property and the substituted property.

(5.8) Trust transfers — Where capital property (other than excluded property), land included in inventory, Canadian resource property or foreign resource property is transferred at a particular time by a trust (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor trust") to another trust (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee trust") in circumstances in which subsection 107(2) or 107.4(3) or paragraph (f) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies,

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(10), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(5.8) to read as above, applicable to transfers made after February 11, 1991 except that, for transfers made before December 24, 1998, the opening words shall be read as follows:

(5.8) Where capital property (other than excluded property), land included in inventory, Canadian resource property or foreign resource property is transferred at a particular time by a trust (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor trust") to another trust (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee trust") in circumstances in which paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54 or subsection 107(2) applies and the transferee trust is not described in paragraph (g) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1),

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(5.8) of the Act is a special rule designed to prevent the avoidance of the 21-year rule through the use of trust-to-trust transfers that do not involve dispositions of property at fair market value. Subsection 104(5.8) generally provides for a transferee trust to assume the next deemed disposition day of the transferor, if that day is earlier than the transferee's next deemed disposition day. In the case of spousal trusts under which the beneficiary spouse is still alive, subsection 104(5.8) provides a deemed disposition as soon as the transfer is completed unless relief is provided under paragraph 104(5.8)(b). Paragraph 104(5.8)(b) provides relief where both the transferor and transferee trusts are spousal trusts to which paragraph 104(4)(a) or (a.1) applies and under which the spouse beneficiary is alive.

Subsection 104(5.8) is amended to eliminate a reference to trust transfers under paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54, as a consequence of the repeal of that definition. Subsection 104(5.8) is also amended so that it now covers transfers under new paragraph (f) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) and under new subsection 107.4(3). These amendments apply to transfers made after December 23, 1998.

Subsection 104(5.8) is amended so that it does not apply to transfers between trusts, if the transferee trust was, at the time of the transfer, described in paragraph (g) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1). This amendment, which is made as a consequence of the introduction of subparagraph (g)(iv) of that definition, applies only to transfers made after February 11, 1991 and before December 24, 1998. Subparagraph (g)(iv) of that definition has the effect of limiting an exemption from the 21-year deemed disposition rule for a trust in which interests are vested indefeasibly, in the event that non-resident beneficiaries own more than 20% of the interests in the trust.

These amendments also reflect changes proposed under Bill C-23, the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act.

(a) for the purposes of applying subsections (4) to (5.2) after the particular time,

(i) subject to paragraphs (b) to (b.2), the first day (in this subsection referred to as the "disposition day") that ends at or after the particular time that would, if this section were read without reference to paragraph (4)(a.2) and (a.3), be determined in respect of the transferee trust is deemed to be the earliest of

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(11), will amend the opening words of subpara. 104(5.8)(a)(i) to read as above, applicable to transfers made after December 17, 1999.

Technical Notes: Subparagraph 104(5.8)(a)(i) is amended to ensure that the determination of a deemed disposition day for a transferee trust will not preclude any earlier deemed disposition day under new paragraph 104(4)(a.2) or (a.3). This amendment applies to transfers made after December 17, 1999.

(A) the first day ending at or after the particular time that would be determined under subsection (4) in respect of the transferor trust without regard to the transfer and any transaction or event occurring after the particular time,

(B) the first day ending at or after the particular time that would otherwise be determined under subsection (4) in respect of the transferee trust without regard to any transaction or event occurring after the particular time,

(C) where the transferor trust is a trust that is described in paragraph (4)(a) or the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) and the spouse referred to in that paragraph or definition is alive at the particular time, the first day ending at or after the particular time, and

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

Proposed Amendment — 104(5.8)(a)(i)(C)

(C) the first day that ends at or after the particular time, where

(I) the transferor trust is a joint partner trust, a post-1971 partner trust or a trust described in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1), and

(II) the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph (4)(a) or in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) is alive at the particular time,

(C.1) the first day that ends at or after the particular time, where

(I) the transferor trust is an alter ego trust or joint partner trust; and

(II) the taxpayer referred to in paragraph (4)(a) is alive at the particular time, and

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(12), will amend cl. 104(5.8)(a)(i)(C) to read as above, and add cl. (C.1), applicable to transfers made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(5.8) is further amended to extend its existing rules for transfers from spousal trusts to transfers from other specified trusts. The additional trusts so specified are those created after 1999 by a settlor (aged 65 years or more) for the exclusive benefit of the settlor during the settlor's lifetime (i.e., an "alter ego trust", as newly defined in subsection 248(1)) or for the joint benefit of the settlor and the settlor's spouse during their joint lifetimes (i.e., a "joint partner trust", as newly defined in subsection 248(1)). Where the settlor of an alter ego trust is still alive (or, in the case of a joint partner trust, where the settlor or the spouse is still alive), a deemed disposition day for the trust may occur once a transfer from the trust is completed. However, amended paragraph 104(5.8)(b) and new paragraphs 104(5.8)(b.1) and (b.2) provide for no deemed disposition day in the case of a transfer from one of the additional specified trusts where the transferee trust is also a specified trust to which paragraph 104(4)(a) applies and the settlor (or, in the case of a joint partner trust, either the settlor or that spouse) is alive. These amendments apply to transfers made after 1999. For further detail on new rules for alter ego trusts and joint partner trusts, see the commentary on amended subsection 73(1) and paragraph 104(4)(a).

(D) where

(I) the disposition day would, but for the application of this subsection to the transfer, be determined under paragraph (5.3)(a) in respect of the transferee trust, and

(II) the particular time is after the day that would, but for subsection (5.3), be determined under paragraph (4)(b) in respect of the transferee trust, the first day ending at or after the particular time, and

(ii) where the disposition day determined in respect of the transferee trust under subparagraph (i) is earlier than the day referred to in clause (i)(B) in respect of the transferee trust, subsections (4) to (5.2) do not apply to the transferee trust on the day referred to in clause (i)(B) in respect of the transferee trust;

(b) where the transferor trust is a trust (in this paragraph referred to as an "eligible trust") that is described in paragraph (4)(a) or the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) and the spouse referred to in that paragraph or definition is alive at the particular time, paragraph (a) does not apply in respect of the transfer where the transferee trust is an eligible trust; and

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

Proposed Amendment — 104(5.8)(b)–(b.2)

(b) paragraph (a) does not apply in respect of the transfer where

(i) the transferor trust is a post-1971 partner trust or a trust described in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1),

(ii) the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph (4)(a) or in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) is alive at the particular time, and

(iii) the transferee trust is a post-1971 partner trust or a trust described in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1);

(b.1) paragraph (a) does not apply in respect of the transfer where

(i) the transferor trust is an alter ego trust,

(ii) the taxpayer referred to in paragraph (4)(a) is alive at the particular time, and

(iii) the transferee trust is an alter ego trust;

(b.2) paragraph (a) does not apply in respect of the transfer where

(i) the transferor trust is a joint partner trust,

(ii) either the taxpayer referred to in paragraph (4)(a), or the spouse or common-law partner referred to in that paragraph, is alive at the particular time, and

(iii) the transferee trust is a joint partner trust; and Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(13), will amend para. 104(5.8)(b) to read as above, and add paras. (b.1) and (b.2), applicable to transfers made after 1999.

Technical Notes: See under 104(5.8)(a)(i)(C).

(c) for the purposes of subsection (5.3), unless a day ending before the particular time has been determined under paragraph (4)(a.1) or (b) or would, but for subsection (5.3), have been so determined, a day determined under subparagraph (a)(i) shall be deemed to be a day determined under paragraph (4)(a.1) or (b), as the case may be, in respect of the transferee trust.

Related Provisions: 248(5.2) — Trust-to-trust transfers.

History: Subsec. 104(5.8) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(3), applicable to property transferred after February 11, 1991 except that para. 104(5.8)(b) as it applies to property transferred before December 21, 1991 shall be read as follows:

(b) where the transferor trust or the transferee trust is a trust that is described in paragraph (4)(a) or the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) and the spouse referred to therein is alive at the particular time, paragraph (a) does not apply in respect of the transfer; and

(6) Deduction in computing income of trust — For the purposes of this Part, there may be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year

Proposed Amendment — 104(6)

(6) Deduction in computing income of trust — Subject to subsections (7) and (7.01), for the purposes of this Part, there may be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 14(3), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(6) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(6) of the Act generally permits a trust to deduct, in computing income for a taxation year, any income payable to a beneficiary under the trust.

Subsection 104(6) is amended so that it is expressly subject to subsection 104(7) and new subsection 104(7.01).

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

(a) in the case of an employee trust, the amount by which the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its income for the year exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is its income for the year from a business

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is its loss for the year from a business;

(a.1) in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan, such part of the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its income for the year as was paid in the year to a beneficiary;

(a.2) where the taxable income of the trust for the year is subject to tax under this Part because of paragraph 146(4)(c) or subsection 146.3(3.1), the part of the amount that, but for this subsection, would be the income of the trust for the year that was paid in the year to a beneficiary; and

Proposed Addition — 104(6)(a.3)

(a.3) in the case of an inter vivos trust deemed by subsection 143(1) to exist in respect of a congregation that is a constituent part of a religious organization, such part of its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary; and Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(14), will add para. 104(6)(a.3), applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(6) of the Act generally allows a trust to deduct an amount for a taxation year not exceeding its income for the year that became payable to its beneficiaries. However, in the case of spousal trusts there are restrictions designed to ensure that a spousal trust cannot claim a deduction under subsection 104(6) in respect of income allocated to non-spouse beneficiaries to the extent the income accrues during the lifetime of the spouse beneficiary. (With regard to income for the year in which a spouse beneficiary dies, this restriction only applies in connection with income from dispositions of capital property, land inventory and Canadian and foreign resource property that occur before the end of the deemed disposition day caused by the spouse's death.) There is also a restriction in subsection 104(6) designed to limit the extent to which a trust can claim a deduction in respect of distributions by the trust of amounts paid to the trust from the trust's NISA Fund No. 2 (as defined in subsection 248(1)).

Paragraph 104(6)(a.3) is introduced so that the restrictions with regard to a trust's NISA Fund No. 2 do not apply to any trust deemed to exist because of the special rules for communal organizations in section 143. This amendment applies to the 1998 and subsequent taxation years.

(b) in any other case, such amount as the trust claims not exceeding the amount, if any, by which

(i) such part of the amount that, but for

(A) this subsection,

(B) subsections (5.1), (12), and 107(4),

(C) the application of subsections (4), (5) and (5.2) in respect of a day determined under paragraph (4)(a), and

(D) subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to amounts paid to a trust described in paragraph 70(6.1)(b) and before the death of the spouse referred to in that paragraph, would be its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary or was included under subsection 105(2) in computing the income of a beneficiary

exceeds

(ii) where the trust

(A) is described in paragraph (4)(a) and was created after December 20, 1991, or

(B) would be described in paragraph (4)(a) if the reference therein to "at the time it was created" were read as "on December 20, 1991"

Proposed Amendment — 104(6)(b)(ii)(A), (B)

(A) is a post-1971 partner trust that was created after December 20, 1991, or

(B) would be a post-1971 partner trust if the reference in paragraph (4)(a) to "at the time it was created" were read as "on December 20, 1991",

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(15), will amend cls. 104(6)(b)(ii)(A) and (B) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 104(6)(b) is amended to extend the restrictions for spousal trusts to other specified trusts created after 1999. The trusts so specified are those created after 1999 by a settlor (aged 65 years or more) for the exclusive benefit of the settlor during the settlor's lifetime (i.e., an "alter ego trust", as newly defined in subsection 248(1)) or for the joint benefit of the settlor and the settlor's spouse during their joint lifetimes (i.e., a "joint partner trust", as newly defined in subsection 248(1)). The restrictions for alter ego trusts apply until the death of the settlor. The restrictions for joint partner trusts apply until the later of the death of the settlor and the death of the spouse. For further detail on new rules for these specified trusts, see the commentary on amended subsection 73(1) and paragraph 104(4)(a). This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

Clauses 104(6)(b)(ii)(A) and (B) are amended to refer to a post-1971 partner trust, strictly as a consequence of the new definition of this term contained in subsection 248(1). For further detail, see the commentary on amended subsection 248(1). This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

and the spouse referred to in paragraph (4)(a) in respect of the trust is alive throughout the year, such part of the amount that, but for

(C) this subsection,

(D) subsections (12) and 107(4), and

(E) subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to an amount paid to a trust described in paragraph 70(6.1)(b) and before the death of the spouse referred to in that paragraph, would be its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary (other than the spouse) or was included under subsection 105(2) in computing the income of a beneficiary (other than the spouse) and

Proposed Addition — 104(6)(b)(ii.1)

(ii.1) where the trust is an alter ego trust or a joint partner trust and the death or later death, as the case may be, referred to in subparagraph (4)(a)(iv) has not occurred before the end of the year, such part of the amount that, but for this subsection and subsections (12), 12(10.2) and 107(4), would be its income as became payable in the year to a beneficiary (other than a taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in clause (4)(a)(iv)(A), (B) or (C)) or was included under subsection 105(2) in computing the income of a beneficiary (other than such a taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner), and Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(16), will add subpara. 104(6)(b)(ii.1), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: See under 104(6)(b)(iii).

(iii) where the trust is described in paragraph (4)(a) and the spouse referred to in paragraph (4)(a) in respect of the trust died on a day in the year, the part of the amount that, but for

(A) this subsection, and

(B) subsections (12) and 107(4)

would be the part of its income for the year that became payable in the year to a beneficiary (other than the spouse) and as is attributable to one or more dispositions by the trust before the end of that day of capital properties (other than excluded properties), land described in an inventory of the trust, Canadian resource properties or foreign resource properties.

Proposed Amendment — 104(6)(b)(iii)

(iii) where the trust is an alter ego trust, a joint partner trust or a post-1971 partner trust and the death or the later death, as the case may be, referred to in paragraph (4)(a) in respect of the trust occurred on a day in the year, the amount, if any, by which

(A) the maximum amount that would be deductible under this subsection in computing the trust's income for the year if this subsection were read without reference to this subparagraph

exceeds the total of

(B) the amount that, but for this subsection and subsections (12), 12(10.2) and 107(4), would be its income as became payable in the year to the taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in subparagraph (4)(a)(iii) or clause (4)(a)(iv)(A), (B) or (C), as the case may be, and

(C) the amount that would be the trust's income for the year if that income were computed without reference to this subsection and subsection (12) and as if the year began immediately after the end of the day,

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(16), will amend subpara. 104(6)(b)(iii) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subparagraph 104(6)(b)(iii) is amended to extend the restrictions for deductions under subsection 104(6) in the taxation year in which the relevant beneficiary dies. The intended effect of the new restrictions is that post-1971 partner trusts, alter ego trusts and joint partner trusts cannot deduct an amount under subsection 104(6) in respect of income accrued up to the end of the deemed disposition day caused by the death of the spouse or other relevant beneficiary. This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

These amendments also reflect changes proposed under Bill C-23, the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act.

EXAMPLE

The spouse beneficiary of a post-1971 partner trust dies in the 2001 taxation year of the trust. Before distribution to beneficiaries, the trust's total income for the year (determined without reference to any deemed disposition under subsection 104(4) and any deduction under subsection 104(6)) is $100, of which $20 is payable to the spouse prior to the spouse's death and of which the remaining $80 is payable to the surviving beneficiaries. $40 of the $100 income accrued before the spouse's death.

Results:

1. Under subparagraph 104(6)(b)(i) the trust's income for the year that became payable in the year to beneficiaries is $100.

2. The amount determined under subparagraph 104(6)(b)(iii) is $20 (i.e., [$100 – ($20 + $60)]).

3. The total amount deductible by the trust cannot exceed the amount by which the amount determined under subparagraph 104(6)(b)(i) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph 104(6)(b)(iii).

4. Consequently, the trust's maximum deduction for the year is $80 (i.e., $100 – $20). The trust is not allowed a deduction in respect of the $20 portion of trust income accrued to the end of the deemed disposition day caused by the spouse's death but payable only after the death.

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

Related Provisions: 4(3)(b) — Whether deductions under 104(6) are applicable to a particular source; 104(5.3) — Election by trust to postpone deemed disposition; 104(7) — Non-resident beneficiary; 104(7.1) — Deduction denied — capital interest greater than income interest; 104(10) — Property owned for non-resident; 104(13) — Income inclusion to beneficiary; 104(13.1), (13.2) — Designation of income distributed to beneficiary; 104(18) — Trust for minor; 104(24) — Whether amount payable; 104(29) — Amounts deemed to be payable to beneficiaries; 107(2.11) — Election to not flow out gain on distribution to beneficiaries; 107.1 — Distribution by employee trust or benefit plan; 108(5) — Restriction on deduction for beneficiary; 132.11(6) — Additional income of mutual fund trust electing for December 15 year-end; 138.1(1) — Rules re segregated funds; 149.1(12) — Rules — charities; 210.2 — Tax on income of trust.

History: Para. 104(6)(a.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 127(2), applicable to 1996 et seq.

Subpara. 104(6)(b)(iii) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(6), applicable to trust taxation years that end after July 19, 1995.

Para. 104(6)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(4), applicable to 1991 et seq., except that for taxation years of trusts ending after 1990 and before December 21, 1991, the para. shall be read as follows:

(b) in any other case, such amount as the trust claims not exceeding such part of the amount that, but for

(i) this subsection,

(ii) subsections (5.1) and (12),

(iii) subsections (4), (5) and (5.2) and 107(4), where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a), and

(iv) subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to amounts paid to a trust described in paragraph 70(6.1)(b) and before the death of the spouse referred to in that paragraph,

would be its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary or was included under subsection 105(2) in computing the income of a beneficiary.

Para. 104(6)(b) formerly read:

(b) in any other case, such amount as the trust may claim not exceeding such part of the amount that, but for this subsection, subsection (12) and, where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a), subsections (4), (5), (5.2) and 107(4), would be its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary or was included in computing the income of a beneficiary for the year by reason of subsection 105(2).

Pre-RSC History: Para. 104(6)(b) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(2), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Para. 104(6)(b) formerly read:

(b) in any other case, such part of the amount that would, but for this subsection, subsection (12) and, where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a), subsections (4), (5) and 107(4), be its income for the year as was payable in the year to a beneficiary or was included in computing the income of a beneficiary for the year by virtue of subsection 105(2).

Para. 104(6)(b) amended by 1986, c. 6, subsec. 51(2), applicable to 1986 et seq., to substitute "subsections (4), (5) and 107(4)" for "subsections (4), (5), (5.1) and 107(4)".

Para. 104(6)(b) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 45(3), to add "(5.1)", applicable after September 30, 1983.

Paras. 104(6)(a.1) added, (b) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 60(2), para. (a.1) applicable to 1981 et seq., para. 104(6)(b) applicable by 1984, c. 45, s. 101 (deemed in force March 30, 1983), with respect to dispositions occurring after November 12, 1981 other than dispositions by a trust created before November 13, 1981 to a person referred to in any of subparagraphs 110(1)(a)(i) to (vii) or to Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province. Para. 104(6)(b) formerly read:

(b) in any other case, such part of the amount that would, but for this subsection and subsection (12), be its income for the year as was payable in the year to a beneficiary or was included in computing the income of a beneficiary for the year by virtue of subsection 105(2).

Subsec. 104(6) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 54(1), applicable to 1980 et seq. Subsec. 104(6) formerly read:

(6) For the purposes of this Part, there may be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year such part of the amount that would, but for this subsection and subsection (12), be its income for the year as was payable in the year to a beneficiary or was included in computing the income of a beneficiary for the year by virtue of subsection 105(2).

Subsec. 104(6) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 31(2), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Proposed Addition — 104(7.01)

(7.01) Trusts deemed to be resident in Canada — Where a trust is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for a taxation year for the purpose of computing the trust's income for the year, the maximum amount deductible under subsection (6) in computing its income for the year is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 14(4), will add subsec. 104(7.01), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: New subsection 104(7.01) of the Act restricts the amount that a trust, that is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada, can deduct in computing its income in the event that the trust has Canadian-source income and makes distributions to beneficiaries not resident in Canada.

Subsection 104(7.01) effectively acts as a proxy for taxes under Parts XII.2 and XIII. Trusts to which new subsection 94(3) applies are not subject to Part XII.2 because of an existing exemption for non-resident trusts in Part XII.2. They are also exempt from collecting Part XIII tax because they are not treated as resident in Canada for this purpose. Further, because of new subparagraph 94(3)(a)(iii), they are exempt from Part XIII tax on payments made to them. (The latter Part XIII exemption is new. Existing subparagraph 94(1)(c)(ii) allows a tax credit to be claimed under section 126 in connection with Part XIII tax.)

More specifically, the amount by which the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) for a taxation year is reduced under subsection 104(7.01) is equal to the lesser of two amounts:

- the total of
  - the trust's "designated income" for the year (as defined in Part XII.2), which essentially consists of taxable capital gains from taxable Canadian property and income from businesses carried on in Canada, and
  - 50% of all amounts paid or credited in the year to the trust that would, disregarding express provisions to the contrary in the Act, be subject to Part XIII tax; and
- the portion of the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) that is attributable to amounts that become payable in the year (determined with reference to subsection 104(24)) to non-resident persons and to partnerships (other than Canadian partnerships, referred to in section 102).

The example below illustrates the operation of new subsection 104(7.01).

Example

1. Trust X is an offshore trust established by Stefan, a long-term resident of Canada. The primary beneficiaries under the trust are Linda (a resident of Canada) and Bart (a resident of the United States).
2. Trust X receives $400 of dividends from a taxable Canadian corporation and has $1,200 of other income.
3. Trust income of $1,250 for 2001 is made payable to Bart. The remaining $350 is made payable to Linda.
4. Trust X is assumed to have designated $400 of dividends under subsection 104(19).

Results

1. Trust X is deemed by new subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for the purposes of computing its income.
2. Before taking into account subsection 104(6), Trust X's income is $1,600. Note, in this regard, that the dividends are included in computing the trust's income because of a proposed amendment to subsection 104(19).[45]{{{This refers to an amendment to subsection 104(19) contained in a detailed Notice of Ways and Means Motion tabled on June 5, 2000.}}}}

3. Before taking into account new subsection 104(7.01), the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) is also $1,600.
4. Because of subsection 104(7.01), the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) is reduced to $1,400 (i.e., $1,600 minus the lesser of: (50% × $400) and ($1,600 - $1,250)).
5. Assuming that the trust claims a deduction of $1,400, the trust would consequently have income of $200. If a tax rate of 50% were assumed, the trust would be liable for Canadian income tax of $100. (Note: The trust is expressly exempted from a Part XIII tax liability under new subparagraph 94(3)(a)(iii).) Disregarding this exemption, Part XIII tax liability would also have been $100 (i.e., 25% of $400).

New subsection 104(7.01) applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Related Provisions: 104(24) — Whether amount payable.

(7.1) Capital interest greater than income interest — Where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main purposes for the existence of any term, condition, right or other attribute of an interest in a trust (other than a personal trust) is to give a beneficiary a percentage interest in the property of the trust that is greater than the beneficiary's percentage interest in the income of the trust, no amount may be deducted under paragraph (6)(b) in computing the income of the trust.

Related Provisions: 104(7.2) — Anti-avoidance rule.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(7.1) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(3), to substitute "(other than a personal trust)" for "(other than a testamentary trust or a trust no beneficial interest in which was acquired for consideration payable directly or indirectly to the trust or to any person who has made a contribution to the trust by way of transfer, assignment or other disposition of property)", applicable to the 1986 and subsequent taxation years of a trust, other than a trust created before November 27, 1985 in which no beneficial interest is issued after 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on November 26, 1985 (unless the trust is issued on account of a distribution of the income of the trust in accordance with the terms of the trust in effect on November 26, 1985).

Subsec. 104(7.1) added by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 28(1), applicable to the 1986 and subsequent taxation years of a trust, other than a trust created before November 27, 1985, in which no beneficial interest is issued after 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on November 26, 1985 (unless the interest is issued on account of a distribution of the income of the trust in accordance with the terms of the trust in effect on November 26, 1985).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-381R3: Trusts — capital gains and losses and the flow-through of taxable capital gains to beneficiaries.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-65: Reduction to management fees for large investments in a mutual fund.

(7.2) Avoidance of subsec. (7.1) — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where

(a) a taxpayer has acquired a right to or to acquire an interest in a trust, or a right to or to acquire a property of a trust, and

(b) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main purposes of the acquisition was to avoid the application of subsection (7.1) in respect of the trust, on a disposition of the right (other than pursuant to the exercise thereof), the interest or the property, there shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs the amount, if any, by which

(c) the proceeds of disposition of the right, interest or property, as the case may be,

exceed

(d) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the right, interest or property, as the case may be.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(7.2) added by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 28(1).

(8) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(8) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(4), applicable to 1988 et seq. (See Part XII.2.) Subsec. 104(8) formerly read:

(8) Limitation on deduction — Notwithstanding subsection (6), where an amount in respect of the income for a taxation year of a trust (other than a mutual fund trust) is payable to a beneficiary (in this section referred to as a "designated beneficiary") under the trust who, at the time the amount became so payable, was

(a) a non-resident person,

(b) a non-resident-owned investment corporation, or

(c) a trust resident in Canada, other than

(i) a trust referred to in subsection 149(1), or

(ii) a trust all of the beneficiaries under which, throughout the period beginning on May 6, 1974 and ending at the time the amount became so payable, were resident in Canada, the amount deductible under subsection (6) shall not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(d) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is

(i) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as is payable in the taxation year to a beneficiary under the trust, or

(ii) an amount paid by the trust in the taxation year to the extent it was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection 105(2)

exceeds the aggregate of

(e) where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a), that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount included in computing the income of the trust for the taxation year by virtue of a deemed disposition after November 12, 1981 under subsection (4), (5) or 107(4)

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

exceeds

(B) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is

(I) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as is payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust,

(II) an amount in respect of the accumulating income of the trust for the taxation year that is included in computing the income of a preferred beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection (14), or

(III) an amount paid by the trust in the taxation year to the extent it was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection 105(2),

that

(iii) the amount determined under subclause (ii)(B)(I)

is of

(iv) the amount determined under clause (ii)(B), and

(f) that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the designated income of the trust for the taxation year (other than any designated income that arose by virtue of a deemed disposition after November 12, 1981 under subsection (4), (5) or 107(4) where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a), or any designated income that arose by virtue of a disposition before November 13, 1981 where the trust is a testamentary trust)

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount determined under subparagraph (e)(ii)

exceeds

(B) the amount determined under subparagraph (e)(i)

that

(iii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is such part of the amount that would be income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as is payable in the year to a designated beneficiary under the trust

is of

(iv) the amount determined under clause (e)(ii)(B).

Subparas. 104(8)(e)(i) and (f)(i) amended by 1986, c. 6, subsecs. 51(3), (4), applicable to 1986 et seq., to substitute "subsection (4), (5) or 107(4)" for "subsection (4), (5) or (5.1) or 107(4)" in both paras. and to substitute "trust described in paragraph (4)(a)" for "trust described in paragraph (4)(a) of this section" in para. (f)(i).

Subsec. 104(8) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 45(4), applicable after November 12, 1981, except that in respect of a testamentary trust it is applicable only to taxation years commencing after November 12, 1981. Subsec. 104(8) formerly read:

(8) Limitation on deduction — Notwithstanding subsection (6), where

(a) an amount is included in computing the income for a taxation year of a trust described in paragraph (4)(a) by virtue of a deemed disposition after November 12, 1981 under subsection (4) or (5) or 107(4) and the trust and a preferred beneficiary have made an election under subsection (14) in respect of the year, or

(b) an amount in respect of the income for a taxation year of a trust (other than a mutual fund trust) is payable to a beneficiary (in this section referred to as a "designated beneficiary") under the trust who, at the time the amount became so payable, was

(i) a non-resident person,

(ii) a non-resident-owned investment corporation, or

(iii) a trust resident in Canada other than

(A) a trust referred to in subsection 149(1), or

(B) a trust all of the beneficiaries under which, throughout the period commencing on May 6, 1974 and ending at the time the amount became so payable, were resident in Canada, the amount deductible under subsection (6) shall not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(c) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is

(i) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the taxation year to a beneficiary under the trust, or

(ii) an amount paid by the trust in the taxation year to the extent it was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection 105(2)

exceeds the aggregate of

(d) where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a), that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount included in computing the income of the trust for the taxation year by virtue of a deemed disposition after November 12, 1981 under subsection (4) or (5) or 107(4)

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

exceeds

(B) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is

(I) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust,

(II) an amount in respect of the accumulating income of the trust for the taxation year that would, but for this subsection, be included in computing the income of a preferred beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection (14), or

that

(iii) the amount determined under subclause (ii)(B)(I)

is of

(iv) the amount determined under clause (ii)(B), and

(e) that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the designated income of the trust for the taxation year (other than any designated income that arose by virtue of a deemed disposition after November 12, 1981 under subsection (4) or (5) or 107(4) where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a) of this section, or any designated income that arose by virtue of a disposition before November 13, 1981, where the trust is a testamentary trust)

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount determined under subparagraph (d)(ii)

exceeds

(B) the amount determined under subparagraph (d)(i)

that

(iii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the year to a designated beneficiary under the trust

is of

(iv) the amount determined under clause (d)(ii)(B).

Subsec. 104(8) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 60(3), applicable after November 12, 1981 except where subsec. 60(3) is applicable to a testamentary trust it shall only be applicable for taxation years commencing after November 12, 1981. Subsec. 104(8) formerly read:

(8) Notwithstanding subsection (6), where an amount in respect of the income for a taxation year of an inter vivos trust (other than a mutual fund trust) is payable to a beneficiary under the trust who, at the time the amount became so payable, was

(a) a non-resident person,

(b) a non-resident-owned investment corporation, or

(c) a trust resident in Canada other than

(i) a testamentary trust, or

(ii) a trust all of the beneficiaries under which, throughout the period commencing on May 6, 1974 and ending at the time the amount became so payable, were resident in Canada,

(in this section referred to as a "designated beneficiary"), the amount deductible under subsection (6) shall not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(d) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is

(i) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the taxation year to a beneficiary under the trust, or

(ii) an amount paid by the trust in the taxation year to the extent it was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection 105(2)

exceeds

(e) that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the designated income of the trust for the taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the amount by which

(A) the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

exceeds

(B) the aggregate of amounts each of which is

(I) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust,

(II) an amount in respect of the accumulating income of the trust for the taxation year that would, but for this subsection, be included in computing the income of a preferred beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection (14), or

that

(iii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the year to a designated beneficiary under the trust

is of

(iv) the amount determined under clause (ii)(B).

Subpara. 104(8)(d)(i) substituted by 1977-78, c. 32, s. 24, applicable to taxation years commencing after May 25, 1976 and ending after March 31, 1977.

Subpara. 104(8)(d)(i), all that portion of para. 104(8)(e) following subpara. (i) and preceding subpara. (iv) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsecs. 49(2), (3), applicable to taxation years commencing after May 25, 1976 and ending after March 31, 1977, to add references to subsec. 20(16).

Subsec. 104(8) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, subsec. 40(2), applicable to 1976 et seq. Subsec. 104(8) formerly read:

(8) Notwithstanding subsection (6), where an amount in respect of the income for a taxation year of an inter vivos trust (other than a mutual fund trust) is payable to a beneficiary under the trust who, at the time the amount became so payable, was

(a) a non-resident person,

(b) a non-resident-owned investment corporation, or

(c) a trust resident in Canada other than

(i) a testamentary trust, or

(ii) a trust all of the beneficiaries under which, throughout the period commencing on May 6, 1974 and ending at the time the amount became so payable, were resident in Canada,

(in this section referred to as a "designated beneficiary"), the amount deductible under subsection (6) shall not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(d) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is

(i) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6) or (12) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust,

(ii) an amount in respect of the accumulating income of the trust for the year that was included in computing the income of a preferred beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection (14), or

(iii) an amount paid by the trust in the year to the extent it was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection 105(2)

exceeds

(e) that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the designated income of the trust for the year

exceeds

(ii) the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6) or (12) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a), minus the amount determined under paragraph (d),

that

(iii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the income of the trust for the year that would, but for this subsection, be payable in the year to a designated beneficiary

is of

(iv) the amount determined under paragraph (d).

Subsec. 104(8) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 65(1), applicable to 1974 et seq. Subsec. 104(8) formerly read:

(8) No deduction may be made under subsection (6) in computing the income for a taxation year of an inter vivos trust that had income for the year from a business carried on by it in Canada, in respect of such part of an amount that would, but for subsections (6) and (12), be its income for the year as was payable in the year to a person who, at the time the amount became so payable, was

(a) a non-resident person;

(b) a non-resident-owned investment corporation; or

(c) a trust resident in Canada other than

(i) a testamentary trust, or

(ii) a trust that throughout the period commencing on April 26, 1965 and ending at the time the amount became so payable, was a beneficiary under the trust by whom the amount became so payable, which latter-mentioned trust was throughout such period carrying on a business in Canada.

(9) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(9) repealed by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 65(1), applicable to 1974 et seq. Subsec. 104(9) formerly read:

(9) Idem — No deduction may be made under subsection (6) in computing the income for a taxation year of a trust other than a mutual fund trust, in respect of any amount that is deemed by subsection (21) to be a taxable capital gain for the year of a non-resident person or of a non-resident-owned investment corporation from the disposition of capital property.

(10) Where property owned for non-residents — Where all the property of a trust is owned by the trustee for the benefit of non-resident persons or their unborn issue, in addition to the amount that may be deducted under subsection (6), there may be deducted in computing the income of the trust for a taxation year for the purposes of this Part, such part of the dividends and interest received by the trust in a year from a non-resident-owned investment corporation as are not deductible under that subsection in computing the income of the trust for the year.

Related Provisions: 104(11) — Dividend received from non-resident-owned investment corporation; 212(9) — Exemptions from withholding tax.

(11) Dividend received from non-resident-owned investment corporation — Where any part of the dividends received in a taxation year by a trust described in subsection (10) from a non-resident-owned investment corporation are deductible under that subsection in computing the income of the trust for the year, for the purposes of Part XIII the trust shall be deemed to have paid to a non-resident person on the last day of the year an amount equal to that part, as income of the non-resident person from the trust.

Related Provisions: 212(1)(c) — Estate or trust income; 212(9) — Exemptions from non-resident withholding tax.

(12) Deduction of amounts included in preferred beneficiaries' incomes — There may be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts designated under subsection (14) by the trust in respect of the year, and

(b) the accumulating income of the trust for the year.

Related Provisions: 4(3)(b) — Whether deductions under 104(12) are applicable to a particular source; 104(6) — Deduction in computing trust income; 104(13) — Income payable to beneficiary; 108(1) — Accumulating income defined; 108(5) — Restriction on deduction for beneficiary; 149.1(12) — Rules — charities.

History: Subsec. 104(12) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(7), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(12) Deduction of part of accumulating income included in preferred beneficiary's income — For the purposes of this Part, there may be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year such part of its accumulating income for the year as was required by subsection (14) to be included in computing the income of a preferred beneficiary.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-34: Preferred beneficiary's election.

(13) Income of beneficiary — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a beneficiary under a trust such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(a) in the case of a trust (other than a trust referred to in paragraph (a) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)) that was resident in Canada throughout its particular taxation year that ended in the year, such part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the trust's income for the particular year as became payable in the particular year to the beneficiary;

(b) in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan to which the beneficiary has contributed as an employer, such part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the income of the trust for its particular taxation year that ended in the year as was paid in the particular year to the beneficiary; and

(c) in the case of a trust (other than a trust referred to in paragraph (a) or paragraph (a) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)), all amounts that became payable in the year by the trust to the beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's interest in the trust, otherwise than

(i) as proceeds of disposition of the beneficiary's interest or part thereof, or

(ii) an amount paid as a distribution of capital by a personal trust.

Proposed Amendment — 104(13)

(13) Income of beneficiary — There shall be included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a beneficiary under a trust such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(a) in the case of a trust (other than a trust referred to in paragraph (a) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)), such part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the trust's income for the trust's taxation year that ended in the particular year as became payable in the trust's year to the beneficiary; and

(b) in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan to which the beneficiary has contributed as an employer, such part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the trust's income for the trust's taxation year that ended in the particular year as was paid in the trust's year to the beneficiary.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(17), will amend subsec. 104(13) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(13) of the Act sets out amounts included in computing the income of a beneficiary under a trust. Where a trust is not resident in Canada, paragraph 104(13)(c) provides that the beneficiary must include in computing income all amounts payable in respect of the beneficiary's interest in the trust, otherwise than as proceeds of disposition or amounts paid in satisfaction of the distribution of capital by a personal trust. There is uncertainty in this regard under the existing law, given that different types of distributions from a trust to a beneficiary might arguably be viewed as resulting in proceeds of disposition with respect to all or part of a beneficiary's interest in the trust.

Subsection 104(13) is amended so that it requires a beneficiary to include in income under that subsection only current income payable from a non-resident trust. For this purpose, a non-resident trust's income is intended to be determined in accordance with Canadian income tax rules. See also, in this regard, the commentary on new section 250.1.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(13) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(5), applicable with respect to amounts that become payable in taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(13) formerly read:

(13) Income payable to beneficiary — Such part of the amount that would be the income of a trust for a taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

(a) as was paid in the year to a person who has contributed to the plan as an employer, shall, in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan, be included in computing the income of that person; and

(b) as was payable in the year to a beneficiary shall, in any case other than that of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan, be included in computing the income of the person to whom it so became payable whether or not it was paid to him in that year and shall not be included in computing his income for a subsequent year in which it was paid.

Para. 104(13)(b) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 45(5), to substitute "in any case other than that of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan" for "in any other case", applicable to 1980 et seq.

Subsec. 104(13) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 60(4), applicable to 1980 et seq. Subsec. 140(13) formerly read:

> (13) Such part of the amount that would be the income of a trust (other than a trust governed by an employee benefit plan) for a taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as was payable in the year to a beneficiary shall be included in computing the income of the person to whom it so became payable whether or not it was paid to him in that year and shall not be included in computing his income for a subsequent year in which it was paid.

Subsec. 104(13) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, subsec. 54(2), to add "(other than a trust governed by an employee benefit plan)", applicable to 1980 et seq.

Subsec. 104(13) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 49(4), applicable to taxation years commencing after May 25, 1976 and ending after March 1977, to add reference to subsec. 20(16).

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(18), will amend paras. 104(15)(a) and (b) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(14) of the Act provides a mechanism under which a preferred beneficiary of a trust and the trust can elect to have a designated amount taxed in the hands of the beneficiary rather than at the trust level. Under the definition "preferred beneficiary" in subsection 108(1), a preferred beneficiary of a trust is generally a disabled person resident in Canada who is, or is closely related to, the settlor of the trust. Under paragraph 104(15)(a), if the preferred beneficiary is the living spouse beneficiary under a spousal trust, an "allocable amount" in respect of the beneficiary for a taxation year is the trust's "accumulating income" for the year (which, in general terms, is defined in subsection 108(1) as undistributed trust income).

Subsection 104(15) is amended so that the preferred beneficiary election in connection with allocations of income from an alter ego trust, a joint partner trust, a post-1971 partner trust or a trust described in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) is available to the spouse or other beneficiary (i.e., the settlor) identified in paragraph 104(4)(a), only while the spouse or the other beneficiary is alive.

This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

This amendment also reflects changes proposed under Bill C-23, the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act.

(c) in any other case, nil.

(15) Preferred beneficiary's share — The share of a particular preferred beneficiary under a trust in the accumulating income of the trust for a taxation year is,

(a) where the trust is a trust described in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) at the end of the year or a trust described in paragraph (4)(a) and the taxpayer's spouse referred to in that definition or paragraph is alive at the end of the year, an amount equal to

(i) if the particular preferred beneficiary is the taxpayer's spouse, the trust's accumulating income for the year, and

(ii) in any other case, nil;

(b) in any case not referred to in paragraph (a), where the shares in which the accumulating income of the trust would be payable to the beneficiaries thereunder do not depend on the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, any discretionary power,

(i) if at the end of the year the particular beneficiary was a member of a class of beneficiaries under the trust each of whom was entitled, as a member of that class, to share equally in any income of the trust, the portion of the trust's accumulating income for the year that may reasonably be regarded as having been earned for the benefit of beneficiaries of that class, divided by the number of beneficiaries (other than registered charities) of that class in existence at the end of the year, and

(ii) in any other case, the portion of the trust's accumulating income for the year that may reasonably be regarded as having been earned for the benefit of the particular preferred beneficiary;

(c) in any case not referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), where each beneficiary under the trust whose share of the accumulating income of the trust depends on the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, any discretionary power, is a preferred beneficiary, or would be a preferred beneficiary if the beneficiary were resident in Canada, or is a registered charity, the portion of the trust's accumulating income for the year equal to the amount determined in prescribed manner to be the beneficiary's discretionary share of the trust's accumulating income for the year; and

(d) in any case not referred to in paragraph (a), (b) or (c), nil.

That portion of para. 104(15)(a) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(6), applicable to taxation years of trusts ending after December 20, 1991. That portion formerly read:

(a) where the trust is a trust described in paragraph (4)(a) and the taxpayer's spouse referred to in that paragraph is alive at the end of the year, an amount equal to,

Pre-RSC History: "Registered charity(ies)" substituted for "registered Canadian charitable organization(s)" in paras. 104(15)(b), (c) by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 87 and Schedule II, applicable to 1977 et seq.

Para. 104(15)(c) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 65(2), applicable to 1973 et seq. Para. 104(15)(c) formerly read:

(c) in any case not referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), where each beneficiary under the trust whose share of the accumulating income of the trust depends upon the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, any discretionary power, is a preferred beneficiary, or would be a preferred beneficiary if he were resident in Canada, or is a registered Canadian charitable organization, the portion of the trust's accumulating income for the year that may reasonably be regarded as having been earned for the benefit of the particular beneficiary, not exceeding the amount determined in prescribed manner to be his discretionary share of the trust's accumulating income for the year; and

Para. 104(15)(c) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 31(4), applicable to 1972 et seq.

(16) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(16) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(6), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(16) formerly read:

(16) Capital cost allowance deduction — A beneficiary under a trust may deduct from the amount that would otherwise be his income from the trust by virtue of subsection (13) or (14), as the case may be, such part of the amount that would otherwise be deductible from the income of the trust for the year under subsection 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as the trust may determine; and any amount deductible under this subsection for a taxation year shall be deducted from the amount that the trust would otherwise be able to deduct under subsection 20(16) or under those regulations but shall, for the purposes of section 13, be deemed to have been allowed to the trust under those regulations in computing its income for the year.

Subsec. 104(16) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 49(5), applicable to taxation years commencing after May 25, 1976 and ending after March 31, 1977, to add references to subsec. 20(16).

(17) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(17) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(6), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(17) formerly read:

(17) Depletion allowance — Where an amount is payable in a taxation year by a trust to a beneficiary under the trust, no part of that amount shall be deemed, for the purpose of subsections (6) and (13), to be payable out of an amount deductible in computing the income of the trust for the year under regulations made under subsection 65(1) except such part thereof as the trust designates as being so payable.

(17.1) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(17.1) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(6), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(17.1) formerly read:

(17.1) Determination, etc., ineffective — No effect shall be given to a determination or designation under subsection (16) or (17) or 127(7) or (15) by a testamentary trust or a trust no beneficial interest in which was acquired for consideration payable directly or indirectly to the trust or to any person who has made a contribution to the trust by way of transfer, assignment or other disposition of property in respect of a taxation year of the trust if, as a result of such determination or designation, the amount that any beneficiary of the trust is entitled to deduct in computing his income under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) or subsection 65(1) or to add in computing his investment tax credit or employment tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 127(16)) for any period during which he is beneficially interested in the trust is greater than the proportion of the aggregate of amounts available to be so determined or designated by the trust in respect of the period that

(a) the beneficiary's share of the amount that would be the total income of the trust for the period if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under subsection 65(1) or paragraph 20(1)(a) for any taxation year of the trust ending in or coinciding with the period

(b) the amount that would be the total income of the trust for the period if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under subsection 65(1) or paragraph 20(1)(a) for any taxation year of the trust ending in or coinciding with the period.

All that portion of subsec. 104(17.1) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 28(2), applicable with respect to determinations and designations made by a trust in respect of 1987 et seq. That portion of subsec. 104(17.1) formerly read:

(17.1) Determination or designation ineffective — Notwithstanding subsections (16) and (17), no effect shall be given to a determination by a trust in a taxation year under subsection (16) or to a designation by a trust in a taxation year under subsection (17) if the determination or designation results in a person who is beneficially interested in the trust being able to deduct in computing his income for any period while he is so beneficially interested a portion of an amount that, but for subsection (16) or (17), would be deductible by the trust in such period that is greater than the proportion of such amount that Subsec. 104(17.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 60(5), applicable to taxation years commencing after November 12, 1981.

(17.2) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(17.2) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(6), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(17.2) formerly read:

(17.2) Idem — No effect shall be given to a determination or designation under subsection (16) or (17) by a trust (other than a trust described in subsection (17.1)) in respect of a taxation year of the trust unless an amount is so determined or designated in respect of the year for each beneficiary of the trust and the amount in respect of each such beneficiary is equal to the proportion of the aggregate of amounts that the trust so determines or designates for all beneficiaries in respect of the year, that

(a) the beneficiary's share of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) or subsection 65(1) for the taxation year

(b) the amount that would be the income of the trust for the year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) or subsection 65(1) for the taxation year.

Subsec. 104(17.2) added by 1986, c. 55, subsec. 28(3), applicable (a) with respect to determinations and designations made in respect of 1987 et seq. by a trust created after November 26, 1985; and (b) where a trust created before November 27, 1985 issues a beneficial interest after 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on November 26, 1985 (other than an interest issued on account of a distribution of income of the trust in accordance with the terms of the trust in effect on November 26, 1985), with respect to determinations and designations made in respect of any taxation year that is after the 1986 taxation year and that is a taxation year in which or after which it issued such a beneficial interest.

(18) Trust for minor — Where any part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the income of a trust for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada

(a) has not become payable in the year,

(b) was held in trust for an individual who did not attain 21 years of age before the end of the year,

(c) the right to which vested at or before the end of the year otherwise than because of the exercise by any person of, or the failure of any person to exercise, any discretionary power, and

(d) the right to which is not subject to any future condition (other than a condition that the individual survive to an age not exceeding 40 years), notwithstanding subsection (24), that part of the amount is, for the purposes of subsections (6) and (13), deemed to have become payable to the individual in the year.

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year.

History: Subsec. 104(18) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(10), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(18) Trust for minor — Where all or any part of the income of a trust for a taxation year has not become payable in the year and was held in trust for a minor whose right thereto has vested and the only reason that it has not become payable in the year was that the beneficiary was a minor, it shall, for the purposes of subsections (6) and (13) be deemed to have become payable to the minor in the year.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(18) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(7), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(18) formerly read:

(18) Trust for minor — Where all or any part of the income of a trust for a taxation year was not payable in the year and was held in trust for a minor whose right thereto had vested and the only reason that it was not payable in the year was that the beneficiary was a minor, it shall, for the purposes of subsections (6) and (13), be considered to have been payable to the minor in the year.

Subsec. 104(18) substituted by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 50(4), applicable to 1985 et seq. Subsec. 104(18) formerly read:

(18) Trust for infant — Where the income of a trust for a taxation year or any part thereof was not payable in the year but was held in trust for an infant or minor whose right thereto had vested and the only reason that it was not payable in the year was that the beneficiary was an infant or minor, it shall, for the purpose of subsections (6) and (13), be considered to have been payable.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-286R2: Trusts — amount payable; IT-342R: Trusts — income payable to beneficiaries; IT-381R3: Trusts — capital gains and losses and the flow-through of taxable capital gains to beneficiaries; IT-394R2: Preferred beneficiary election.

I.T. Technical News: No. 11 (payments made by a trust for the benefit of a minor beneficiary).

(19) Taxable dividends — Such portion of a taxable dividend received by a trust in a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation as

(a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection (13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under the trust

shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, other than Part XIII, not to have been received by the trust and to be a taxable dividend on the share received by the beneficiary in the particular year from the corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 104(19) closing words

if so designated by the trust in respect of the beneficiary in its return of income for the year, is deemed, for the purposes of paragraphs 82(1)(b) and 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, not to have been received by the trust, and for the purposes of this Act (other than Part XIII), to be a taxable dividend on the share received by the beneficiary in the particular year from the corporation.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(19), will amend the closing words of subsec. 104(19) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(19) of the Act permits a trust to designate dividends received by it in a taxation year on shares of a taxable Canadian corporation to be taxable dividends received by a beneficiary of the trust, rather than by the trust itself, in the year from the corporation.

Subsection 104(19) of the Act is amended so that a trust will, except for the purposes of the dividend gross-up in paragraph 82(1)(b) and stop-loss rules in paragraphs 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, still be treated as having received the dividend even if it is designated in favour of a beneficiary. In most cases, the trust will be allowed a corresponding deduction under subsection 104(6) to offset the resulting income inclusion. However, as described in the commentary on amendments to subsection 104(6), there are certain restrictions under amended subsection 104(6) on the deduction of amounts made payable from alter ego trusts, joint partner trusts and post-1971 partner trusts.

This amendment applies to taxation years that end after 2000.

Related Provisions: 82(1) — Taxable dividends received; 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 107(1)(c), (d) — Loss on disposition of capital interest in trust; 112(3.12) — Exclusion from stop-loss rule where beneficiary is partnership or trust; 112(3.2) — Stop-loss rule; 112(5.2)B(b)(iii) — Adjustment for dividends received on mark-to-market property; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(19) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(8), applicable to 1988 et seq., except that in its application to taxation years of trusts commencing before 1988, subsec. 104(19) shall be read without reference to the words "throughout which it was resident in Canada". Subsec. 104(19) formerly read:

> (19) Portion of taxable dividends deemed to be dividends received by beneficiary — Such portion of the aggregate of taxable dividends received by a trust in a taxation year on shares of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation as

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-328R3: Losses on shares on which dividends have been received.

(21) Taxable capital gains — Such portion of the net taxable capital gains of a trust for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada as

(a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by virtue of subsection (13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for the taxation year of

(i) a particular beneficiary under the trust, if the trust is a mutual fund trust, or

(ii) a particular beneficiary under the trust who is resident in Canada, if the trust is not a mutual fund trust, and shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of sections 3 and 111 except as they apply for the purposes of section 110.6, to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the particular beneficiary from the disposition by that beneficiary of capital property.

Related Provisions: 39.1(2)B(a), 39.1(3) — Reduction in gain to reflect capital gains exemption election; 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 104(13.2) — Designation of amount by trust; 104(21.01), (21.02) — Late, amended or revoked designation made with capital gains exemption election; 104(21.1) — Beneficiary's taxable capital gain; 104(21.2) — Beneficiary's taxable capital gain from trust; 104(21.3) — Determination of net taxable capital gains; 110.6(19), (20) — Election to trigger capital gains exemption; 127.52(1)(d)(ii), 127.52(1)(g)(ii) — Adjusted taxable income (for minimum tax); 212(1)(c) — Estate or trust income — non-residents; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year.

(21.2) Beneficiaries' taxable capital gains — Where, for the purposes of subsection (21), a personal trust designates an amount in respect of a beneficiary in respect of its net taxable capital gains for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "designation year"),

Proposed Amendment — 104(21.2) opening words

(21.2) Beneficiaries' taxable capital gain — Where, for the purposes of subsection (21), a personal trust or a trust referred to in subsection 7(2) designates an amount in respect of a beneficiary in respect of its net taxable capital gains for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "designation year"),

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 48(20), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(21.2) to read as above, applicable to trusts' taxation years that begin after February 22, 1994.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(21.2) of the Act sets out the rules for allocating the net taxable capital gains of a trust to its beneficiaries for the purpose of section 110.6 of the Act. Personal trusts are the only trusts that can make designations of net taxable capital gains to beneficiaries. Subsection 104(21.2) is amended to provide that such designations can also be made by a trust described in subsection 7(2) of the Act. In general, those are trusts of which the trustee holds shares in trust for an employee and the employee is treated for the purposes of paragraphs 110(1)(d) and (d.1) of the Act as having acquired and disposed of the shares at the time that the trust acquired and disposed of them. This amendment ensures that a trust described in subsection 7(2) will be able to designate its net taxable capital gains arising from a disposition of "qualified farm property" or "qualified small business corporation shares" to its beneficiaries.

Letter from Department of Finance, September 30, 1997:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letter of September 23, 1997 regarding the interaction of subsection 104(21.2) and section 110.6 of the Income Tax Act. In particular, you indicate that subsection 104(21.2) is technically deficient in that it does not apply to a trust described in paragraph 4800.1(a) of the Income Tax Regulations (an "employee trust").

As you indicate, subsection 104(21.2) of the Income Tax Act treats the net taxable capital gains realized by a personal trust and flowed through to its beneficiaries under subsection 104(21) of the Income Tax Act as a taxable capital gain of the beneficiaries for the purposes of the lifetime capital gains exemption under section 110.6 of the Income Tax Act. It also treats the beneficiaries as having disposed of the particular property that gave rise to that gain for the purposes of subsection 110.6. A personal trust may not necessarily include an employee trust. From a tax policy perspective, it would be appropriate for subsection 104(21.2) to apply to such net taxable capital gains realized by an employee trust and flowed through to its beneficiaries under subsection 104(21).

We are prepared therefore to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 104(21.2) of the Income Tax Act be amended to ensure that it applies in respect of net taxable gains realized by a employee trust from the disposition of the particular property described in subsection 104(21.2). [The reference to "a trust referred to in subsection 7(2)" is intended to accomplish this — ed.] It will be recommended that such an amendment be effective for taxation years that end after 1996. If the recommendation is acted upon, I would anticipate that such an amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
Director General
Tax Legislation Division

(a) the trust shall in its return of income under this Part for the designation year designate an amount in respect of its eligible taxable capital gains, if any, for the designation year in respect of the beneficiary equal to the amount determined in respect of the beneficiary under each of subparagraphs (b)(i) and (ii); and

(b) the beneficiary shall, for the purposes of sections 3, 74.3 and 111 as they apply for the purposes of section 110.6, be deemed to have a taxable capital gain for the beneficiary's taxation year in which the designation year ends

(i) from a disposition of capital property that is qualified farm property of the beneficiary equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A \times B \times C}{D \times E}$$

and

(ii) from a disposition of capital property that is a qualified small business corporation share of the beneficiary equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A \times B \times F}{D \times E}$$

where

A is the lesser of

(iii) the amount determined by the formula

$$G - H$$

where

G is the total of amounts designated under subsection (21) for the designation year by the trust, and

H is the total of amounts designated under subsection (13.2) for the designation year by the trust, and

(iv) the trust's eligible taxable capital gains for the designation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which the amount designated under subsection (21) for the designation year by the trust in respect of the beneficiary exceeds the amount designated under subsection (13.2) for the year by the trust in respect of the beneficiary,

C is the amount, if any, that would be determined under paragraph 3(b) for the designation year in respect of the trust's capital gains and capital losses if the only properties referred to in that paragraph were qualified farm properties of the trust disposed of by it after 1984,

D is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount determined for B for the designation year in respect of a beneficiary under the trust,

E is the total of the amounts determined for C and F for the designation year in respect of the beneficiary, and

F is the amount, if any, that would be determined under paragraph 3(b) for the designation year in respect of the trust's capital gains and capital losses if the only properties referred to in that paragraph were qualified small business corporation shares of the trust, other than qualified farm property, disposed of by it after June 17, 1987, and for the purposes of section 110.6, those capital properties shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the beneficiary in that taxation year of the beneficiary.

History: Subsec. 104(21.2) amended by 1995, c. 3, s. 28, applicable to trusts' taxation years that begin after February 22, 1994; and, in applying subsec. 104(21.2) to a trust's taxation year that includes that day,

(a) the opening words of subsec. 104(21.2) shall be read as follows:

(21.2) Where, for the purposes of subsection (21), a trust (other than a mutual fund trust) designates an amount in respect of a beneficiary in respect of its net taxable capital gains for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "designation year"),

(b) the descriptions of A, B and C in para. 104(21.2)(b) shall be read as follows:

A is the lesser of

(i) the amount determined by the formula

$$H - I$$

where

H is the total of amounts designated under subsection (21) for the designation year by the trust, and

I is the total of amounts designated under subsection (13.2) for the designation year by the trust, and

(ii) the trust's eligible taxable capital gains for the designation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which the amount designated under subsection (21) for the designation year by the trust in respect of the beneficiary exceeds the amount designated under subsection (13.2) for the year by the trust in respect of the beneficiary,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount determined for B for the designation year in respect of a beneficiary under the trust,

and

(c) the closing words of subsec. 104(21.2) shall be read as follows:

and for the purposes of section 110.6, each such taxable capital gain of a beneficiary shall be deemed to be a taxable capital gain of the beneficiary for the beneficiary's taxation year in which the designation year ends from the disposition of a property that occurred on February 22, 1994.

Subsec. 104(21.2) formerly read:

(21.2) Beneficiary's taxable capital gain from trust — Where a trust has, for the purposes of subsection (21), designated an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "designated amount") in respect of a beneficiary of the trust in respect of its net taxable capital gains for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "designation year") and by virtue thereof the designated amount is deemed, for the purposes described in that subsection, to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the beneficiary from the disposition by the beneficiary of capital property,

(a) the trust shall in its return of income for the designation year designate an amount in respect of its eligible taxable capital gains for the designation year in respect of the beneficiary equal to the amount determined in respect of the beneficiary under each of subparagraphs (b)(i), (ii) and (iii), and

(b) the beneficiary shall, for the purposes of sections 3, 74.3 and 111 as they apply for the purposes of section 110.6, be deemed to have a taxable capital gain for the year

(i) from the disposition of capital property that is qualified farm property of the beneficiary equal to the amount determined by the formula

and

(iii) from the disposition of capital property, other than properties referred to in subparagraphs (i) or (ii), equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$\left(A \times \frac{B}{C}\right) \times \frac{F}{G}$$

where

A is the eligible taxable capital gains of the trust for the designation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which the designated amount exceeds the amount designated in respect of the beneficiary for the designation year under subsection (13.2),

C is the greater of

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount used for B under this paragraph in respect of a beneficiary of the trust for the designation year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the net taxable capital gains of the trust for the designation year exceed the amount, if any, by which

(A) the investment expense (within the meaning assigned by subsection 110.6(1)) of the trust for the designation year

exceeds

(B) the investment income (within the meaning assigned by subsection 110.6(1)) of the trust for the designation year,

D is the amount, if any, that would be determined in respect of the trust for the designation year under paragraph 3(b) in respect of capital gains and capital losses if the only properties referred to in that paragraph were qualified farm properties of the trust disposed of by it after 1984,

E is the amount, if any, that would be determined in respect of the trust for the designation year under paragraph 3(b) in respect of capital gains and capital losses if the only properties referred to in that paragraph were qualified small business corporation shares of the trust, other than qualified farm property, disposed of by it after June 17, 1987,

F is the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, that would be determined under paragraph 3(b) in respect of capital gains and capital losses in respect of the trust for the designation year if

(A) the only properties referred to in that paragraph were properties disposed of by it after 1984, other than qualified farm properties and other than qualified small business corporation shares disposed of by it after June 17, 1987, and

(B) the trust's capital gains and capital losses for the year from dispositions of non-qualifying real property of the trust were equal to its eligible real property gains and eligible real property losses, respectively, for the year from those dispositions, and

(ii) the amount that would be determined under subparagraph (i) if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause (i)(B), and

G is the total of the amounts used for D, E and F under this paragraph in respect of the beneficiary for the year, and for the purposes of section 110.6, those capital properties shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the beneficiary in the year.

The description of F in para. 104(21.2)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(7), applicable to 1992 et seq. That description formerly read:

(b) the beneficiary shall, for the purposes of sections 3, 74.3 and 111 as they apply for the purposes of section 110.6, be deemed to have a taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition by him in the year of capital property equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the eligible taxable capital gains of the trust for the designation year,

B is the designated amount, and

C is the net taxable capital gains of the trust for the designation year, and for the purposes of section 110.6, those capital properties shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the beneficiary in the year.

Paras. 104(21.2)(a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) the trust shall in its return of income for the designation year designate an amount in respect of its eligible taxable capital gains for the designation year in respect of the beneficiary equal to the amount determined in respect of the beneficiary under paragraph (b); and

(b) the beneficiary shall, for the purposes of sections 3, 74.3 and 111 as they apply for the purposes of section 110.6, be deemed to have a taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition by him in the year of capital property equal to the amount determined by the formula

(21.3) Net taxable capital gains of trust determined — For the purposes of this section, the net taxable capital gains of a trust for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which the total of the taxable capital gains of the trust for the year exceeds the total of

(a) its allowable capital losses for the year, and

Proposed Amendment — 104(21.3)(a)

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an allowable capital loss (other than an allowable business investment loss) of the trust for the year from the disposition of a capital property, and

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 14(5), will amend para. 104(21.3)(a) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(21.3) of the Act defines the expression "net taxable capital gains". The expression is used in subsections 104(21) and (21.2), which permit a trust to flow its taxable capital gains realized in a year through to a beneficiary who has received a portion of the trust's income for the year. The trust can flow through its taxable capital gains to beneficiaries only to the extent of its net taxable capital gains for the year.

Under subsection 104(21.3), the net taxable capital gains of a trust for a taxation year equals the amount, if any, by which its total taxable capital gains for the year exceeds the total of two amounts:

- its total allowable capital losses for the year, and

- the amount deducted by it under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year (i.e., deduction of carried-over net capital losses for years preceding and the 3 years immediately following the year).

Subsection 104(21.3) is amended so that allowable business investment losses (ABILs) are disregarded for the purpose of the first of the two amounts. Accordingly, ABILs will not result in a reduction of taxable capital gains that may be flowed through to beneficiaries under trusts and against which allowable capital losses can be claimed.

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

(b) the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year.

(22) Designation of foreign source income by trust — For the purposes of this subsection, subsection (22.1) and section 126, such portion of a trust's income for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as "that year") throughout which it is resident in Canada from a source in a country other than Canada as

(a) can reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the income that, because of subsection (13) or (14), was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a particular beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) is not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary thereunder shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in its return of income under this Part for that year, be deemed to be the particular beneficiary's income for the particular year from that source.

Related Provisions: 4(3) — Whether deductions are applicable to a particular source; 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 104(22.2), (22.3) — Recalculation of trust's foreign-source income and foreign tax; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year.

History: Subsec. 104(22) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 46(2), applicable to taxation years ending after November 12, 1981 except that, with respect to taxation years of trusts that began before 1988, the opening words of subsec. 104(22) shall be read as follows:

(22) For the purposes of this subsection, subsection (22.1) and section 126, such portion of a trust's income for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as "that year") from a source in a country other than Canada as

Subsec. 104(22) formerly read:

(22) Deduction for foreign taxes — For the purposes of this subsection and section 126, the following rules apply:

(a) such portion of the income of a trust for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada (before making any deduction under subsection (6) or (12)) from sources in a foreign country as

(i) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the income that, by virtue of subsection (13) or (14), as the case may be, was included in computing the income for a taxation year of a particular beneficiary under the trust, and

(ii) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary thereunder,

shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in its return of income for the year under this Part, be deemed to be income of the particular beneficiary for the taxation year from sources in that country;

(b) a beneficiary under a trust shall be deemed to have paid as income tax for a taxation year, on the income that the beneficiary is deemed by paragraph (a) to have for the year from sources in a foreign country, to the government of that country an amount equal to that proportion of the income or profits tax paid by the trust for the year to the government of that country or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country (except such portion of that tax as was deductible under subsection 20(11) or deducted under subsection 20(12) in computing its income for the year) that

(i) such portion of the amount included in computing the beneficiary's income for the year by virtue of subsection (13) or (14), as the case may be, as is deemed by paragraph (a) to be income for the year from sources in that country,

is of

(ii) the income of the trust for the year from sources in that country (before making any deduction under subsection (6) or (12));

(c) the income of a trust from sources in a foreign country for a taxation year shall be deemed to be its actual income from those sources for the year minus the total of the amounts deemed by paragraph (a) to be the income therefrom for the year of all beneficiaries under the trust; and

(d) a trust shall be deemed to have paid as income tax to the government of a foreign country for a taxation year an amount equal to the income or profits tax actually paid by it for the year to the government of that country, or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country (except such portion of that tax as was deductible under subsection 20(11) or deducted under subsection 20(12) in computing its income for the year), minus the total of amounts deemed by paragraph (b) to have been paid to the government of that country for the year by all beneficiaries under the trust.

Pre-RSC History: That portion of para. 104(22)(a) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(13), to substitute "for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada" for "for a taxation year", applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987.

All that portion of subsec. 104(22) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 60(7), to substitute "For the purposes of of this subsection and section 126" for "For the purpose of section 126", applicable to taxation years ending after November 12, 1981. Paras. 104(22)(b) and (d) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsecs. 60(8) and 60(9), to add the words "or deducted under subsection 20(12)", applicable to taxation years ending after November 12, 1981.

All that portion of para. 104(22)(b) preceding subpara. (i) and para. 104(22)(d) substituted by 1973-74, c. 30, subsecs. 10(1), (2) applicable to 1973 et seq. That portion of para. 104(22)(b) and para. 104(22)(d) formerly read:

(b) a beneficiary under a trust shall be deemed to have paid as income tax for a taxation year, on the income that he is deemed by paragraph (a) to have for the year from sources in a foreign country, to the government of that country an amount equal to that proportion of the income or profits tax paid by the trust for the year to the government of that country or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country (except such portion of that tax as was deductible under subsection 20(11) or (12) in computing its income for the year) that

. . . . .

(d) a trust shall be deemed to have paid as income tax to the government of a foreign country for a taxation year an amount equal to the income or profits tax actually paid by it for the year to the government of that country, or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country (except such portion of that tax as was deductible under subsection 20(11) or (12) in computing its income for the year), minus the aggregate of the amounts deemed by paragraph (b) to have been paid to the government of that country for the year by all beneficiaries under the trust.

(22.4) Definitions — For the purposes of subsections (22) to (22.3), the expressions "business-income tax" and "non-business-income tax" have the meanings assigned by subsection 126(7).

History: Subsec. 104(22.4) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 46(2), applicable to taxation years ending after November 12, 1981.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-201R2: Foreign tax credit — trust and beneficiaries.

(23) Testamentary trusts — In the case of a testamentary trust, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules apply:

(a) the taxation year of the trust is the period for which the accounts of the trust are made up for purposes of assessment under this Act, but no such period may exceed 12 months and no change in the time when such a period ends may be made for the purposes of this Act without the concurrence of the Minister;

(b) when a taxation year is referred to by reference to a calendar year, the reference is to the taxation year or years coinciding with, or ending in, that year;

(c) the income of a person for a taxation year from the trust shall be deemed to be the person's benefits from or under the trust for the taxation year or years of the trust that ended in the year determined as provided by this section and section 105;

(d) where an individual having income from the trust died after the end of a taxation year of the trust but before the end of the calendar year in which the taxation year ended, the individual's income from the trust for the period commencing immediately after the end of the taxation year and ending at the time of death shall be included in computing the individual's income for the individual's taxation year in which the individual died unless the individual's legal representative has elected otherwise, in which case the legal representative shall file a separate return of income for the period under this Part and pay the tax for the period under this Part as if

(i) the individual were another person,

(ii) the period were a taxation year,

(iii) that other person's only income for the period were the individual's income from the trust for that period, and

(iv) subject to sections 114.2 and 118.93, that other person were entitled to the deductions to which the individual was entitled under sections 110, 118 to 118.7 and 118.9 for the period in computing the individual's taxable income or tax payable under this Part, as the case may be, for the period; and

(e) in lieu of making the payments required by sections 155, 156 and 156.1, the trust shall pay to the Receiver General within 90 days after the end of each taxation year, the tax payable under this Part by it for the year.

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 114.2 — Deductions in separate returns; 118.93 — Credits in separate returns; 120.2(4)(a) — No minimum tax carryover on special return under 104(23)(d); 127.1(1)(a) — No refundable investment tax credit on special return; 127.55 — Minimum tax not applicable.

History: Para. 104(23)(a) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(11), applicable after 1994. The para. formerly read:

(a) the taxation year of the trust is the period for which the accounts of the trust have been ordinarily made up and accepted for purposes of assessment under this Act and, in the absence of an established practice, the period adopted by the trust for that purpose (but no such period may exceed 12 months and a change in a usual and accepted period may not be made for the purpose of this Act without the concurrence of the Minister);

Para. 104(23)(e) amended by 1994, c. 8, s. 12, applicable to 1994 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) in lieu of making the payments required by section 156, the trust shall pay to the Receiver General within 90 days from the end of each taxation year, the tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

Pre-RSC History: Subpara. 104(23)(d)(iv) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(14), applicable to 1988 et seq. Subpara. 104(23)(d)(iv) formerly read:

> (iv) subject to section 114.2, that other person were entitled to the deductions to which the individual was entitled under sections 109 to 110.2 for the period in computing his taxable income for the period; and

Para. 104(23)(d) substituted by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 50(6), applicable to 1985 et seq. Para. 104(23)(d) formerly read:

> (d) where an individual having income from the trust died after the end of a taxation year of the trust but before the end of the calendar year in which the taxation year ended, a separate return of his income from the trust after the end of the trust's taxation year to the time of death may be filed and, if such a separate return is filed, the tax under this Part shall be paid on that income as if it were the income of another person; and

"Receiver General" substituted for "Receiver General of Canada" by 1980-81-82-83, c. 48, s. 115.

Para. 104(23)(d) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 31(5), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-179R: Change of fiscal period; IT-326R3: Returns of deceased persons as "another person".

(24) Amount payable — For the purposes of subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) and subsections (6), (7), (13) and (20), an amount shall be deemed not to have become payable to a beneficiary in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of the amount.

Proposed Amendment — 104(24)

(24) Amount payable — For the purposes of subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) and subsections (6), (7), (7.01), (13) and (20), an amount is deemed not to have become payable to a beneficiary in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of it.

Application: The June 22, 2000 draft legislation, subsec. 14(6), will amend subsec. 104(24) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes: The determination of when an amount becomes payable in a taxation year is relevant for a number of purposes, including the determination of the amount deductible under subsection 104(6) of the Act. Under subsection 104(24), an amount (e.g., income payable to a beneficiary) is deemed not to have become payable in the year to a beneficiary unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of the amount.

Subsection 104(24) is amended so that it also applies for the purpose of new subsection 104(7.01), which is described in the commentary above.

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 94(4) — FAPI does not include "amount payable" to beneficiary; 104(18) — Trust for person under age 21.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(24) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(15), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(24) formerly read:

> (24) "Amount payable" — For the purposes of subsections (6), (7), (8), (13), (20), (25) and 212(11.1), an amount shall not be considered to be payable in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the person to whom it was payable or he was entitled in that year to enforce payment thereof.

Subsec. 104(24) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 65(4), applicable to 1974 et seq., to add references to subsecs. (25) and 212(11.1).

Selected Cases [subsec. 104(24)]: Langer Family Trust v. MNR, [1992] 1 C.T.C. 2119 (TCC); appealed to FCTD (April 16, 1992), File T-907-92 (No deduction where income not "paid in the year to the person").

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-286R2: Trusts — amount payable; IT-342R: Trusts — income payable to beneficiaries; IT-381R3: Trusts — capital gains and losses and the flow-through of taxable capital gains to beneficiaries.

I.T. Technical News: No. 11 (payments made by a trust for the benefit of a minor beneficiary).

(25) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(25) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(15), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(25) formerly read:

> (25) Excess amount — Such portion of
>
> (a) where subsection (8) is applicable with respect to a particular trust, the amount, if any, referred to in paragraph (e) thereof, or
>
> (b) where subsection (8) is not applicable with respect to a particular trust, the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of all amounts each of which is an amount described in subsection (13) exceeds the amount deductible pursuant to subsection (6)
>
> as
> (c) may reasonably be considered to be part of the amount that by virtue of subsection (13) was included in computing the income for a taxation year of a particular beneficiary under the particular trust, and
>
> (d) was not designated by the particular trust in respect of any other beneficiary
> shall, if so designated by the particular trust in respect of the particular beneficiary, in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of subsection (13), not to have been payable in the year to the particular beneficiary.

Para. 104(25)(a) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 45(7), to substitute "(e)" for "(d)", applicable to taxation years ending after November 12, 1981.

Subsec. 104(25) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 60(10), applicable after November 12, 1981. Subsec. 104(25) formerly read:

> (25) Such portion of the amount, if any, by which
>
> (a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is
>
> (i) such part of the amount that would be the income of a trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6), (12) or 20(16) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) that is payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust, or
> (ii) an amount paid by the trust in the taxation year to the extent it was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection 105(2)

> as may reasonably be considered to be part of the amount that by virtue of subsection (13) was included in computing the income for the taxation year of a particular designated beneficiary under the trust, and as was not designated by the trust in respect of any other designated beneficiary thereunder, shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular designated beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of subsection (13), not to have been payable in the year to the designated beneficiary.

Subpara. 104(25)(a)(i) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 49(6), applicable to taxation years commencing after May 25, 1976 and ending after March 31, 1977, to add reference to subsec. 20(16).

Subsec. 104(25) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, subsec. 40(4), applicable to 1976 et seq. Subsec. 104(25) formerly read:

> (25) In any case where
>
> (a) the amount that would, but for subsection 104(8), be deductible by virtue of subsection 104(6) in computing the income for a taxation year of a trust
>
> exceeds
> (b) the amount deductible by virtue of subsection 104(6) in computing the trust's income for that year

(in this subsection referred to as the "excess amount"), for the purpose of subsection (13), an amount equal to that proportion of the excess amount that

(c) the amount payable to a particular designated beneficiary under a trust in respect of the trust's income for the year that would but for this subsection, be included in computing his income by virtue of subsection (13)

is of

(d) the aggregate of amounts each of which is

(i) such part of the amount that would be the income of the trust for the taxation year if no deduction were made under subsection (6) or (12) or under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) as would, but for this subsection, be payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust,

(ii) an amount in respect of the accumulating income of the trust for the year that was included in computing the income of a preferred beneficiary under the trust by virtue of subsection (14), or shall be deemed not to have been payable in the year to the particular beneficiary.

Subsec. 104(25) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 65(4), applicable to 1974 et seq.

(25.1) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(25.1) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(15), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. Subsec. 104(25.1) formerly read:

(25.1) Idem — Such portion of the amount referred to in paragraph (8)(f)

(a) as may reasonably be considered to be part of the amount that by virtue of subsection (13) was included in computing the income for a taxation year of a particular designated beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) as was not designated by the trust in respect of any other designated beneficiary under the trust shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular designated beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of subsection (13), not to have been payable in the year to the particular designated beneficiary.

That portion of subsec. 104(25.1) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1984, c. 1, subsec. 45(8), to substitute "(f)" for "(e)", applicable to taxation years ending after November 12, 1981.

Subsec. 104(25.1) added by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 60(10), applicable after November 12, 1981.

(26) [Repealed under former Act]

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(26) repealed by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(16), applicable to 1988 et seq. Subsec. 104(26) formerly read:

(26) Portion of interest deemed interest of beneficiary — Such portion of the amount, if any, determined in respect of a trust for a taxation year under paragraph 110.1(1)(b) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraphs (ii) to (iii.2) and clause (iv)(B) thereof and if subsection 110.1(1) were read without reference to the words "(other than a trust that is not a testamentary trust within the meaning assigned by paragraph 108(1)(i))" as

(a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by virtue of subsection (13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for the taxation year of a particular beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary thereunder

shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed to be interest for the year of the particular beneficiary and not to be interest of the trust.

Subsec. 104(26) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 50(7), applicable to 1985 et seq., to substitute heading "Portion of interest deemed interest of beneficiary" for "Portion of interest deemed to be interest of beneficiary", and to substitute "to (iii.2)" for "and (iii)".

All that portion of subsec. 104(26) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1977-78, c. 1, subsec. 49(7), applicable to 1977 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(26) Such portion of the amount, if any, determined in respect of a trust for a taxation year under paragraph 110.1(1)(b) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraph (ii) thereof and if subsection 110.1(1) were read without reference to the words "(other than a trust that is not a testamentary trust within the meaning assigned by paragraph 108(1)(i))" as

Subsec. 104(26) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 65(4), applicable to 1974 et seq., and, for the 1974 taxation year is to be read without reference to the words "(if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraph (ii) thereof)".

(27) Pension benefits — Where a testamentary trust has, in a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada, received a superannuation or pension benefit or a benefit out of or under a foreign retirement arrangement and has designated, in the return of its income for the year under this Part, an amount in respect of a beneficiary under the trust equal to such portion (in this subsection referred to as the "beneficiary's share") of the benefit as

(a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection (13), was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of the beneficiary, and the following rules apply:

(b) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under the trust,

(c) where

(i) the benefit is an amount described in subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" in subsection 118(7), and

(ii) the beneficiary was a spouse of the settlor of the trust,

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

the beneficiary's share of the benefit shall be deemed, for the purposes of subsections 118(3) and (7), to be a payment described in subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" in subsection 118(7) that is included in computing the beneficiary's income for the particular year,

(d) where the benefit

(i) is a single amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)), other than an amount that relates to an actuarial surplus, paid by a registered pension plan to the trust as a consequence of the death of the settlor of the trust who was, at the time of death, a spouse of the beneficiary, or

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

(ii) would be an amount included in the total determined under paragraph 60(j) in respect of the beneficiary for the taxation year of the beneficiary in which the benefit was received by the trust if the benefit had been received by the beneficiary at the time it was received by the trust, the beneficiary's share of the benefit is, for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), an eligible amount in respect of the beneficiary for the particular year, and

(e) where the benefit is a single amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) paid by a registered pension plan to the trust as a consequence of the death of the settlor of the trust and the beneficiary was, at the time of the settlor's death, under 18 years of age and a child or grandchild of the settlor, the beneficiary's share of the benefit (other than any portion thereof that relates to an actuarial surplus) shall be deemed, for the purposes of paragraph 60(l), to be an amount from a registered pension plan included in computing the beneficiary's income for the particular year as a payment described in subclause 60(l)(v)(B.1)(II).

Related Provisions: 60(l)(v)(B.1) — Rollover of RRSP/RRIF designated benefits to child or grandchild on death; 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year; 252(4) — Extended meaning of "spouse".

History: Paras. 104(27)(c) and (d) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(8), applicable after 1992. Paras. (c) and (d) formerly read:

(c) where

(i) the benefit is an amount described in subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" in subsection 118(7), and

(ii) the beneficiary was a spouse (in this subsection having the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1.1)) of the settlor of the trust, the beneficiary's share of the benefit shall be deemed, for the purposes of subsections 118(3) and (7), to be a payment described in subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" in subsection 118(7) that is included in computing the beneficiary's income for the particular year,

(d) where the benefit

(i) is a single amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)), other than an amount that relates to an actuarial surplus, paid by a registered pension plan to the trust as a consequence of the death of the settlor of the trust who was, at the time of the settlor's death, a spouse of the beneficiary, or

(ii) would be an amount included in the total determined under paragraph 60(j) in respect of the beneficiary for the taxation year of the beneficiary in which the benefit was received by the trust if the benefit had been received by the beneficiary at the time it was received by the trust, the beneficiary's share of the benefit is, for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), an eligible amount in respect of the beneficiary for the particular year, and

That portion of subsec. 104(27) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 75(2), applicable to 1990 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(27) Pension benefits — Where a testamentary trust has received a superannuation or pension benefit in a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada and has designated, in the return of its income for the year under this Part, an amount in respect of a beneficiary under the trust equal to such portion (in this subsection referred to as the "beneficiary's share") of the benefit as

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(27) substituted by 1990, c. 35, s. 9, applicable to 1988 et seq., except that

(a) for the 1988 and 1989 taxation years, the reference to "paragraph 60(j)" in subpara. 104(27)(d)(ii) shall read as a reference to "paragraph 60(j) or (j.01)"; and

(b) for the 1988 taxation year, subsec. 104(27) shall be read without reference to para. (e) thereof.

Subsec. 104(27) formerly read:

(27) Part of income included in beneficiary's income — Such portion of any amount that would otherwise be included under subparagraph 56(1)(a)(i) in computing the income of a testamentary trust for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada

(a) as may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that by virtue of subsection (13) was included in computing the income for the taxation year of a particular beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) as was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under the trust

shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of subsections 118(3) and (7) (where the particular beneficiary was the spouse of the individual upon and in consequence of whose death the trust arose), this subsection and paragraph 60(j), to be included in computing the income for the year of the particular beneficiary by reason of subparagraph 56(1)(a)(i) and not to be included in computing the income of the trust for the year.

That portion of subsec. 104(27) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(17), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987. That portion formerly read:

(27) Portion of income deemed to be included in income of beneficiary — Such portion of any amount that would otherwise be included in computing the income of a testamentary trust for a taxation year by virtue of subparagraph 56(1)(a)(i)

That portion of subsec. 104(27) following para. (b) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(18), to substitute "subsections 118(3) and (7)" for "section 110.2", "by reason of" for "by virtue of" and "not to be included in" for "not to be so included in", applicable to 1988 et seq.

(29) Amounts deemed payable to beneficiaries [resource income] — Where a trust, in its return of income under this Part for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada, designates an amount not exceeding the proportion of the amount, if any, by which

> (a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would, but for paragraph 18(1)(l.1) or (m), be deductible in computing the income of the trust for the year or that is required to be included in computing its income for the year by reason of paragraph 12(1)(o) or subsection 69(6) or (7)

exceeds

> (b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that is deductible (otherwise than because of the membership of the trust in a partnership) under paragraph 20(1)(v.1) in computing the income of the trust for the year or that would, but for section 80.2, be included in computing its income for the year,

that

> (c) the total of all amounts each of which is a part of the income of the trust for the year computed without reference to the provisions of this Act (in this subsection referred to as the "trust-purpose income" for the year) that was payable in the year to a beneficiary of the trust or was included in computing the income of a beneficiary of the trust for the year by virtue of subsection 105(2)

is of

> (d) the trust-purpose income of the trust for the year, that designated amount shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to have become payable by the trust to particular beneficiaries of the trust in the year in such proportions as are designated by the trust in that return of income, provided that those proportions are reasonable having regard to the shares of the trust-purpose income of the trust for the year included in computing their incomes for the year.

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 250(6.1) — Trust that ceases to exist deemed resident throughout year.

History: Para. 104(29)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(10), applicable to taxation years ending after December 20, 1991. Para. (b) formerly read:

> (b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible in computing the income of the trust for the year under paragraph 20(1)(v.1) or that would, but for section 80.2, be included in computing its income for the year,

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 104(29) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 71(19), to substitute "a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada" for "a taxation year" in that portion preceding para. (a), "by reason of" for "by virtue of" in para. (a), "income of the trust" for "income" in para. (d), and "become payable" for "been payable" in that portion following para. (d), applicable to taxation years of trusts commencing after 1987.

Para. 104(29)(b) amended by 1986, c. 2, s. 23, applicable to 1986 et seq., to substitute "that would, but for section 80.2" for "that would, but for section 80.2 or paragraph 81(1)(r) or (s)".

Subsec. 104(29) added by 1984, c. 45, s. 33, applicable to 1982 et seq., except that with respect to a designation by a trust of an amount in respect of the 1982 or 1983 taxation year under subsection 104(29),

> (a) the trust shall not deduct any amount in computing its income pursuant to subsection 104(6) to the extent that such amount exceeds the aggregate of all proportions designated in respect of beneficiaries who have concurred in writing to the designation, and a beneficiary who has not so concurred shall not be required to include any amount in computing his income under subsection 104(13) as a result of the designation; and
> (b) the designation may be made in the trust's return of income under Part I for its 1984 taxation year.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-342R: Trusts — income payable to beneficiaries.

(30) Tax under Part XII.2 — For the purposes of this Part, there shall be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year the tax paid by the trust for the year under Part XII.2.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax under Part XII.2 is deductible.

(31) Idem — The amount in respect of a taxation year of a trust that is deemed under subsection 210.2(3) to have been paid by a beneficiary under the trust on account of the beneficiary's tax under this Part shall, for the purposes of subsection (13), be deemed to be an amount in respect of the income of the trust for the year that has become payable by the trust to the beneficiary at the end of the year.

105. (1) Benefits under trust — The value of all benefits to a taxpayer during a taxation year from or under a trust, irrespective of when created, shall, subject to subsection (2), be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year except to the extent that the value

(a) is otherwise required to be included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year; or

(b) has been deducted under paragraph 53(2)(h) in computing the adjusted cost base of the taxpayer's interest in the trust or would be so deducted if that paragraph

106. (1) Income interest in trust — Where an amount in respect of a taxpayer's income interest in a trust has been included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year by reason of subsection (2) or 104(13), except to the extent that an amount in respect of that income interest has been deducted in computing the taxpayer's taxable income pursuant to subsection 112(1) or 138(6), there may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the lesser of

(a) the amount so included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the cost to the taxpayer of the income interest exceeds the total of all amounts in respect of the interest that were deductible under this subsection in computing the taxpayer's income for previous taxation years.

(1.1) Cost of income interest in a trust — For the purposes of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of an income interest in a trust, other than an interest acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before the acquisition thereof by the taxpayer, shall be deemed to be nil.

Proposed Amendment — 106(1.1)

(1.1) Cost of income interest in a trust — The cost to a taxpayer of an income interest of the taxpayer in a trust is deemed to be nil unless

(a) any part of the interest was acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before that acquisition; or

(b) the cost of any part of the interest would otherwise be determined not to be nil under paragraph 128.1(1)(c) or (4)(c).

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 49(1), will amend subsec. 106(1.1) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 106(1.1) of the Act provides that, for the purposes of determining the deduction available under subsection 106(1) in respect of a beneficiary's income interest in a trust, the cost to the beneficiary of the interest is nil except where the interest was acquired from a beneficiary under the trust.

Subsection 106(1.1) is amended so that the deemed nil cost also does not apply to a beneficiary's income interest in a trust where:

- any part of the interest was acquired from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before that acquisition, or
- the cost of any part of the interest was ever determined not to be nil under the taxpayer migration rules in section 128.1.

Subsection 106(1.1) is also amended to ensure that it applies for the purposes of the Act, and not simply subsection 106(1).

Related Provisions: 108(1) — Exclusions from definition of "trust".

(2) Disposition by taxpayer of income interest — Where in a taxation year a taxpayer disposes of an income interest in a trust,

(a) except where subsection (3) is applicable, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the proceeds of the disposition;

Proposed Amendment — 106(2)(a)

(a) except where subsection (3) applies to the disposition, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the amount, if any, by which

(i) the proceeds of disposition

exceed

(ii) where that interest includes a right to enforce payment of an amount by the trust, the amount in respect of that right that has been included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year because of subsection 104(13);

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 49(2), will amend para. 106(2)(a) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 106(2) of the Act applies where a taxpayer disposes of an income interest (as defined in subsection 108(1)) in a trust. Paragraph 106(2)(a) provides that unless the disposition results from a distribution of property by the trust, the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition are included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year that includes the disposition.

Paragraph 106(2)(a) is amended to ensure that where a taxpayer disposes of an income interest in a trust that includes a right to enforce payment by the trust, the proceeds of disposition of the income interest are offset by the amount that has been included in the taxpayer's income under subsection 104(13) because of that right. This measure is meant to ensure that there is no double taxation where such rights are disposed of.

This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

(b) any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of the taxpayer from the disposition shall be deemed to be nil; and

(c) for greater certainty, the cost to the taxpayer of each property received by the taxpayer as consideration for the disposition is the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition.

Related Provisions: 107.3(4) — No application to qualifying environmental trusts; 107.4(3)(n) — No disposition of income interest in trust on qualifying disposition; 108(1) — Exclusions from definition of "trust"; 115(1)(a)(iv) — Non-residents' taxable income earned in Canada.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-3: Winding-up of an estate.

(3) Proceeds of disposition of income interest — For greater certainty, where at any time any property of a trust has been distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's income interest in the trust, the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property at that time.

(a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable capital gain, if any, from the disposition, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest, or the part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before the disposition shall be deemed to be the greater of

Proposed Amendment — 107(1)(a) opening words

(a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's capital gain, if any, from the disposition, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or the part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before the disposition is, unless any part of the interest has ever been acquired for consideration and, at the time of the disposition, the trust is non-resident, deemed to be the greater of

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(1), will amend the opening words of para. 107(1)(a) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, in respect of transfers in 2000, for the purposes of subsec. 107(1), the residence of a transferee trust shall be determined without reference to s. 94, as it read before 2001.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(1) of the Act contains special rules that apply to the disposition of a capital interest in a trust.

Paragraph 107(1)(a) applies for the purpose of computing a taxpayer's taxable capital gain from the disposition of a capital interest in a personal trust (or a prescribed trust described in section 4800.1 of the Regulations), except where the interest was an interest in a non-resident inter vivos trust purchased by the taxpayer and the disposition was not by way of a distribution to which subsection 107(2) applies. For this purpose the residency of the trust is to be determined without reference to section 94 as it read before 2001.

Where paragraph 107(1)(a) applies, the adjusted cost base (ACB) to the taxpayer of a trust capital interest for capital gains purposes is generally equal to the greater of the ACB otherwise determined and the "cost amount" of the interest. Subsection 108(1) provides that, for this purpose, the "cost amount" of a capital interest at any time is based on the amount of the trust's money and the cost amount of the trust's other property. The "cost amount" mechanism in paragraph 107(1)(a) generally allows the flow-out from a personal or prescribed trust to a beneficiary of trust capital without adverse tax consequences. However, the concluding words in subsection 107(1) provide that paragraph 107(1)(a) generally does not apply with regard to certain purchased interests in non-resident trusts.

Paragraph 107(1)(a) is amended, in conjunction with the repeal of the concluding wording in subsection 107(1), to ensure that paragraph 107(1)(a) never applies to dispositions of any capital interests in non?resident trusts acquired for consideration. New paragraph 108(6)(c) and new subsection 108(7) are relevant in determining where an interest in a trust has been acquired for consideration. Amended paragraph 107(1)(a) also provides that, for this purpose, a non-resident trust includes a trust deemed by subparagraph 94(1)(c)(i) to be resident in Canada.

(i) its adjusted cost base, otherwise determined, to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) its cost amount to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition;

(b) for greater certainty, for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's allowable capital loss, if any, from the disposition of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or part thereof immediately before the disposition is the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof immediately before that time as determined under this Act without reference to paragraph (a),

Proposed Repeal — 107(1)(b)

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(2), will repeal para. 107(1)(b), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 107(1)(b) is repealed because it is unnecessary. Since paragraph 107(1)(a) applies only for the purposes of computing a taxpayer's capital gain, it is clear without paragraph 107(1)(b) that the ACB calculation in paragraph 107(1)(a) is not relevant for the purposes of computing a taxpayer's allowable capital loss.

(c) where the taxpayer is not a mutual fund trust, the taxpayer's loss from the disposition is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of that loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which was received or would, but for subsection 104(19), have been received by the trust on a share of the capital stock of a corporation before the disposition (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and

(A) where the taxpayer is a corporation,

(I) was a taxable dividend designated under subsection 104(19) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, to the extent of the amount of the dividend that was deductible under section 112 or subsection 115(1) or 138(6) in computing the taxpayer's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year, or

(II) was an amount designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer,

(B) where the taxpayer is another trust, was an amount designated under subsection 104(19) or (20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, and

(C) where the taxpayer is not a corporation, trust or partnership, was an amount designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the total determined under subparagraph (i) that can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction, under this paragraph, of the taxpayer's loss otherwise determined from a previous disposition of an interest in the trust, and

(d) where the taxpayer is a partnership, the share of a person (other than another partnership or a mutual fund trust) of any loss of the partnership from the disposition is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which that loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is a dividend that was received or would, but for subsection 104(19), have been received by the trust on a share of the capital stock of a corporation before the disposition (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and

(A) where the person is a corporation,

(I) was a taxable dividend that was designated under subsection 104(19) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, to the extent of the amount of the dividend that was deductible under section 112 or subsection 115(1) or 138(6) in computing the person's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year, or

(II) was a dividend designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person,

(B) where the person is an individual other than a trust, was a dividend designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person, and

(C) where the person is another trust, was a dividend designated under subsection 104(19) or (20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person (or that would have been received by the person if this Act were read without reference to subsection 104(19)),

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the total determined under subparagraph (i) that can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction, under this paragraph, of the person's loss otherwise determined from a previous disposition of an interest in the trust, except that where the interest was an interest in an inter vivos trust not resident in Canada that was purchased by the taxpayer, paragraph (a) does not apply in respect of the disposition of all or any part thereof except where subsection (2) is applicable in respect of any distribution of property by the trust to the taxpayer in satisfaction of that interest or that part thereof, as the case may be.

Proposed Repeal — 107(1) closing words

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(3), will repeal the portion of subsec. 107(1) after para. (d), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: See under 107(1)(a).

Related Provisions: 40(3.7) — Application to non-resident individual; 104(19) — Taxable dividends flowed through trust; 107(1.1) — Cost of capital interest; 107.3(4) — No application to qualifying environmental trusts; 107.4(3)(b)(ii) — Application of stop-loss rule to qualifying disposition; 108(6) — Where terms of trust are varied; 108(7) — Meaning of "acquired for consideration"; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(j), (k) — Emigration — whether a deemed disposition of capital interest; 248(1)"disposition"(d), (h) — Whether transfer by trust is a disposition of capital interest; 248(25.4) — Addition to cost of capital interest in trust.

History: Para. 107(1)(c) amended, and para. (d) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(1), applicable to dispositions that occur after April 26, 1995 except that, for dispositions that occur before 1998, the first reference to "loss" in para. 107(1)(c) shall be read as "capital loss". Para. 107(1)(c) formerly read:

(c) where the taxpayer is a corporation and the interest is not an interest in a prescribed trust, its capital loss from the disposition at any time of the interest or part thereof shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of its loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which was received by the trust before that time (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and designated by it under subsection 104(19) or (20) in respect of the corporation

exceeds

(ii) such portion of the total referred to in subparagraph (i) as can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction under this paragraph of its capital loss otherwise determined from the disposition before that time of an interest in the trust,

Para. 107(1)(a) amended by 1995, c. 21, s. 35, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's taxable capital gain, if any, from the disposition of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof immediately before the disposition shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the greater of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof otherwise determined immediately before that time and the cost amount to the taxpayer thereof immediately before that time,

Para. 107(1)(c) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 47, applicable to 1988 et seq. That para. formerly read:

(c) where the taxpayer is a corporation and the interest is not an interest in a prescribed trust, its capital loss from the disposition at any time of the interest or part thereof shall be deemed to be the amount of its loss otherwise determined minus the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the trust before that time and designated by it in respect of the corporation under subsection 104(19) or (20),

Para. 107(1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 76(1), to add "or a prescribed trust", applicable to dispositions occurring after 1987, other than a disposition of an interest in a trust, the units of which were listed on October 1, 1987 on a prescribed stock exchange, occurring before the earlier of

(a) January 1, 1991, and

(b) any date after October 1, 1987 on which a beneficial interest in the trust was or is issued.

Pre-RSC History: Para. 107(1)(a) amended by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 74(1), to add "where the trust is a personal trust", applicable in respect of dispositions after 1987 other than a disposition of an interest in a trust, the units of which were listed on October 1, 1987 on a prescribed stock exchange, before the earlier of

(a) January 1, 1991, and

(b) any date after October 1, 1987 on which a beneficial interest in the trust was or is issued.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-38: Distribution of all of the property of an estate.

(1.1) Cost of capital interest in a trust — For the purpose of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a trust, other than an interest acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before its acquisition by the taxpayer or an interest issued to the taxpayer for consideration paid by the taxpayer that is equal to the fair market value of the interest at the time of issuance, is deemed to be

(a) where the taxpayer elects under subsection 110.6(19) in respect of the interest and the trust does not elect under that subsection in respect of any property of the trust, the taxpayer's cost of the interest determined under paragraph 110.6(19)(a); and

(b) in any other case, nil.

Proposed Amendment — 107(1.1)

(1.1) Cost of capital interest in a trust — The cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest of the taxpayer in a personal trust or a prescribed trust is deemed to be,

(a) where the taxpayer elected under subsection 110.6(19) in respect of the interest and the trust does not elect under that subsection in respect of any property of the trust, the taxpayer's cost of the interest determined under paragraph 110.6(19)(a); and

(b) in any other case, nil, unless

(i) any part of the interest was acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before that acquisition, or

(ii) the cost of any part of the interest would otherwise be determined not to be nil under section 48 as it read in its application before 1993 or under paragraph 111(4)(e) or 128.1(1)(c) or (4)(c).

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(4), will amend subsec. 107(1.1) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(1.1) of the Act provides, for the purposes of subsection 107(1), that the cost of a capital interest in a trust is nil except where the interest is acquired from a previous capital beneficiary in the trust or where the interest is issued to the beneficiary for consideration equal to the fair market value of the interest at the time of issuance.

Subsection 107(1.1) is amended so that it applies only to trusts that are personal trusts or prescribed trusts. It is intended that trusts described in section 4800.1 of the Regulations be prescribed for this purpose.

Paragraph 107(1.1)(b) is amended to provide that the cost of the interest will not be deemed nil where:

- the cost of any part of the interest would otherwise be determined not to be nil under the taxpayer migration rules in section 128.1 or former section 48 or under paragraph 111(4)(e) (acquisition of control), or
- any part of the interest was acquired from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before that acquisition.

Subsection 107(1.1) is also amended to ensure that it applies for the purposes of the Act, and not simply subsection 107(1).

Related Provisions: 107.4(3)(k)–(m) — Cost of capital interest in trust following qualifying disposition; 107.4(4) — Fair market value of capital interest in trust; 248(25.4) — Addition to cost of capital interest in trust.

History: Subsec. 107(1.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(2), applicable to 1994 et seq. Subsec. 107(1.1) formerly read:

> (1.1) Cost of capital interest in a trust — For the purposes of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a trust, other than an interest acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before the acquisition thereof by the taxpayer or an interest issued to the taxpayer for consideration paid by the taxpayer that is equal to the fair market value thereof at the time of issuance, shall be deemed to be nil.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 107(1.1) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 62(2), applicable after November 12, 1981. Subsec. 107(1.1) formerly read:

> (1.1) Cost of capital interest in a testamentary trust — For the purposes of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a testamentary trust shall be deemed to be
>
> (a) where the interest was purchased, the cost otherwise determined;
>
> (b) where paragraph 70(5)(c) applies, the cost therein determined; and
> (c) in any other case, nil.

Subsec. 107(1.1) added by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 66(1), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust; to be amended to apply to 107(1.1)).

(2) Capital interest distribution by personal or prescribed trust — Where at any time any property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust has been distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust, the following rules apply:

Proposed Amendment — 107(2) opening words [temporary]

(2) Distribution by personal trust — Subject to subsection (2.001), where at any time a property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust,

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(5), will amend the opening words of subsec. 107(2) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996 and before 2000 (see further amendment below).

Technical Notes: See under 107(2) below.

Proposed Amendment — 107(2) opening words

(2) Distribution by personal trust — Subject to subsections (2.001), (2.002) and (4) to (5), where at any time a property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust and there is a resulting disposition of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust,

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(6), will amend the opening words of subsec. 107(2) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(2) of the Act applies where a personal trust or a trust described in section 4800.1 of the Regulations distributes property to a beneficiary in satisfaction of all or part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust. Under paragraphs 107(2)(a) and (b), the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to the property's cost amount and the property is deemed to have been acquired by the beneficiary for the same amount plus a "bump" equal to the specified percentage of any excess of the adjusted cost base to the beneficiary of the capital interest over its "cost amount" (as defined by subsection 108(1)) to the beneficiary of the interest. Under paragraph 107(2)(c), the beneficiary is deemed to have disposed of the capital interest for proceeds equal to the deemed acquisition cost (determined as if the specified percentage referred to above were 100 per cent) less a reduction equal to the amount of debt assumed by the beneficiary that is conditional upon the distribution of the property. Under subsection 107(3), the specified percentage is 100 per cent in the case of non-depreciable capital property (e.g., land and shares) and 50 per cent in any other case.

Subsection 107(2) is amended to clarify that it applies in connection with distributions in respect of a capital interest in a personal or prescribed trust only if the distribution results in a disposition of all or part of the capital interest. Where the distribution does not constitute a disposition of a capital interest in a trust because of new paragraph (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), the rules in amended subsection 107(2.1) apply.

Subsection 107(2) is amended so that it is expressly subject to amended subsections 107(4) to (5). This amendment is made for technical clarity and does not represent any change in policy. Amended subsections 107(4) to (5) describe trust distributions to which subsection 107(2.1) is to apply.

Subsection 107(2) also is amended so that it is subject to new subsections 107(2.001) and (2.002). New subsection 107(2.001) allows a trust to elect out of the rules in subsection 107(2) in respect of a distribution of property to a beneficiary in satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust where

- the trust is resident in Canada at the time of the distribution,
- the property is taxable Canadian property, or
- the property is capital property used in, eligible capital property in respect of, or property described in the inventory of, a business carried on by the trust through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in Canada immediately before the time of the distribution.

If this election is made, the distribution is subject to the rules in amended subsection 107(2.1). An electing trust is generally required to file a prescribed form with the Minister with its tax return for the taxation year that includes the time of the distribution. This amendment applies to distributions made after October 1, 1996. For distributions made before the date of Royal Assent, the election is considered to have been made on a timely basis if it is filed by the filing-due date for the trust's taxation year that includes the date of Royal Assent.

New subsection 107(2.002) applies where a non-resident trust makes a distribution, after 1999, of a property (other than taxable Canadian property or business property connected with a Canadian permanent establishment) to a beneficiary of the trust in satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust. The beneficiary in these circumstances may elect out of the rules in subsection 107(2) in respect of the distribution, with the result that subsection 107(2.1) applies in respect of the distribution. The election is made by filing a prescribed form with the beneficiary's income tax return. Where the election is made, the cost amount of the beneficiary's interest also is deemed to be nil for the purposes of subparagraph 107(1)(a)(ii). This amendment applies to distributions made after 1999. For distributions made before the date of Royal Assent, the election is considered to have been made on a timely basis if it is filed by the filing-due date for the beneficiary's taxation year that includes the date of Royal Assent.

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time;

(b) the taxpayer is, subject to subsection (2.2), deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the total of its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time and the amount, if any, by which

(i) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part thereof, as the case may be, immediately before that time as determined for the purposes of paragraph (1)(b)

exceeds

(ii) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part thereof, as the case may be, immediately before that time;

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the capital interest for proceeds equal to the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired the property, minus the amount of any debt assumed by the taxpayer or of any other legal obligation assumed by the taxpayer to pay any amount, if the distribution of the property to the taxpayer was conditional on the assumption by the taxpayer of the debt or obligation;

Proposed Amendment — 107(2)(b)–(c)

(b) subject to subsection (2.2), the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the total of its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time and the specified percentage of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, immediately before that time (determined without reference to paragraph (1)(a))

exceeds

(ii) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, immediately before that time;

(b.1) for the purpose of paragraph (b), the specified percentage is,

(i) where the property is capital property (other than depreciable property), 100%,

(ii) where the property is eligible capital property in respect of a business of the trust, 100%, and

(iii) in any other case, 75%;

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the capital interest for proceeds equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the cost at which the taxpayer would be deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired the property if the specified percentage referred to in that paragraph were 100%

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the capital interest or the part of it;

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(7), will amend paras. 107(2)(b) and (c) to read as above, and add para. (b.1), applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 107(2)(b.1) is introduced (in conjunction with consequential amendments to paragraphs 107(2)(b) and (c) and the repeal of subsection 107(3)) so that the specified percentages referred to above are explicitly provided under subsection 107(2). This amendment is intended to clarify the operation of subsection 107(2). In addition, the specified percentage for property (other than non-depreciable capital property and eligible capital property) is being increased from 50 per cent to 75 per cent. The specified percentage for eligible capital property is increased from 50 per cent to 100 per cent in recognition that only a maximum of 75 per cent of the cost of eligible capital property can ultimately be deducted for income tax purposes. This amendment is intended to reduce the differential in the tax treatment of depreciable and non-depreciable property in this context, so that this differential corresponds more closely to that which prevailed before the increase in the capital gains inclusion rate from 50 per cent to 75 per cent.

Paragraph 107(2)(c) is amended so that the reduction, because of debt assumed by the beneficiary, to a beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the beneficiary's capital interest is now provided under the new definition "eligible offset" in subsection 108(1).

(d) where the property so distributed was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust and the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of that property exceeds the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by this section to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

(i) the capital cost to the taxpayer of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost of the property to the trust, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the taxpayer in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the taxpayer of the property; and

Proposed Addition — 107(2)(d.1)

(d.1) the property is deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer where

(i) the taxpayer is non-resident at that time,

(ii) that time is before October 2, 1996, and

(iii) the property was deemed by paragraph 51(1)(f), 85(1)(i) or 85.1(1)(a), subsection 87(4) or (5) or paragraph 97(2)(c) to be taxable Canadian property of the trust; and

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(8), will add para. 107(2)(d.1), applicable in determining after October 1, 1996 whether property is taxable Canadian property.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 107(2)(d.1) is amended to clarify the tax consequences of the disposition of taxable Canadian property by a trust to non-resident beneficiaries before October 2, 1996. In the event that the property was explicitly deemed to have been taxable Canadian property under a number of specified provisions of the Act, paragraph 107(2)(d.1) ensures that it continues to be taxable Canadian property of the beneficiary.

(e) [Repealed]

(f) where the property so distributed was eligible capital property of the trust in respect of a business of the trust,

(i) where the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property exceeds the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by this subsection to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 14, 20 and 24,

(A) the eligible capital expenditure of the taxpayer in respect of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property, and

(B) 3/4 of the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed under paragraph 20(1)(b) to the taxpayer in respect of the property in computing income for taxation years ending

(I) before the acquisition by the taxpayer of the property, and

(II) after the adjustment time of the taxpayer in respect of the business, and

(ii) for the purposes of determining after that time

(A) the amount deemed under subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) to be the taxpayer's taxable capital gain, and

(B) the amount to be included under subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v) or paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of any subsequent disposition of the property of the business, there shall be added to the amount otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the business of the trust immediately before the distribution,

B is the fair market value of the property so distributed immediately before the distribution, and

C is the fair market value immediately before the distribution of all eligible capital property of the trust in respect of the business.

History: The opening words of para. 107(2)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(3), applicable to distributions made after 1993. The opening words formerly read:

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the total of its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time and the amount, if any, by which

Cl. 107(2)(f)(ii)(B) amended by 1995, c. 3, s. 29, applicable to distributions of property made after February 22, 1994. Cl. (B) formerly read:

(B) the amount to be included under paragraph 14(1)(b) in computing the income of the taxpayer

Para. 107(2)(e) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(1), applicable to distributions occurring after July 13, 1990. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) where the property so distributed was eligible capital property of the trust in respect of a business of the trust,

(i) the references to "its cost amount" in paragraphs (a) and (b) shall be read as references to "4/3 of its cost amount", and

(ii) where the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property exceeds the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by this subsection to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 14, 20 and 24,

(A) the eligible capital expenditure of the taxpayer in respect of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property, and

(B) 3/4 of the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the taxpayer in respect of the property under paragraph 20(1)(b) in computing income for taxation years ending

(I) before the acquisition by the taxpayer of the property, and

(II) after the adjustment time of the taxpayer in respect of the business.

Para. 107(2)(f) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(2), applicable to distributions occurring after 1987.

Para. 107(2)(e) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 76(2), applicable with respect to distributions made after July 13, 1990.

Pre-RSC History: That portion of subsec. 107(2) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 74(2), applicable with respect to distributions after 1987 other than a distribution by a trust, the units of which were listed on October 1, 1987 on a prescribed stock exchange, before the earlier of

(a) January 1, 1991, and

(b) any date after October 1, 1987 on which a beneficial interest in the trust is issued.

That portion formerly read:

(2) Distribution by trust in satisfaction of capital interest — Where at any time any property of a trust has been distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or part of his capital interest in the trust, the following rules apply:

Para. 107(2)(b) substituted by 1973-74, c. 14, subsec. 32(2), applicable to 1972 et seq.

Regulations: 3200 (prescribed stock exchange, for application before 1991); 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-38: Distribution of all of the property of an estate; ATR-70: Distribution of taxable Canadian property by a trust to a non-resident.

Proposed Addition — 107(2.001), (2.002)

(2.001) No rollover on election by a trust — Where a trust makes a distribution of a property to a beneficiary of the trust in full or partial satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust and so elects in prescribed form filed with the Minister with the trust's return of income for its taxation year in which the distribution occurred, subsection (2) does not apply to the distribution if

(a) the trust is resident in Canada at the time of the distribution;

(b) the property is taxable Canadian property; or

(c) the property is capital property used in, eligible capital property in respect of, or property described in the inventory of, a business carried on by the trust through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in Canada immediately before the time of the distribution.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(9), will add subsec. 107(2.001), applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996, except that for distributions made from a trust before the particular day on which the amending legislation is assented to, an election under subsec. 107(2.001) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the trust's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes the particular day.

Technical Notes: See under 107(2).

Related Provisions: 107(2.002) — Election by beneficiary; 248(1)"taxable Canadian property"(m)–(q) — Extended meaning of TCP.

(2.002) No rollover on election by a beneficiary — Where a non-resident trust makes a distribution of a property (other than a property described in paragraph (2.001)(b) or (c)) to a beneficiary of the trust in full or partial satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust and the beneficiary makes an election under this subsection in prescribed form filed with the Minister with the beneficiary's return of income for the beneficiary's taxation year in which the distribution occurred,

(a) subsection (2) does not apply to the distribution; and

(b) for the purpose of subparagraph (1)(a)(ii), the cost amount of the interest to the beneficiary is deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 107(2.001) — Election by trust.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(9), will add subsec. 107(2.002), applicable to distributions made after 1999, except that for distributions made to a beneficiary before the particular day on which the amending legislation is assented to, an election under subsec. 107(2.002) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the beneficiary's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes the particular day.

Technical Notes: See under 107(2).

(2.01) Distribution of principal residence — Where a property that would, if a personal trust had designated the property under paragraph (c.1) of the definition "principal residence" in section 54, be a principal residence (within the meaning of that definition) of the trust for a taxation year, is at any time (in this subsection referred to as "that time") distributed by the trust to a taxpayer in circumstances to which subsection (2) applies and subsection (4) does not apply and the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the taxation year that includes that time,

Proposed Amendment — 107(2.01)

(2.01) Distribution of principal residence — Where property that would, if a personal trust had designated the property under paragraph (c.1) of the definition "principal residence" in section 54, be a principal residence (within the meaning of that definition) of the trust for a taxation year, is at any time (in this subsection referred to as "that time") distributed by the trust to a taxpayer in circumstances to which subsection (2) applies and the trust so elects in its return of income for the taxation year that includes that time,

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(10), will amend the opening words of subsec. 107(2.01) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(2.01) of the Act allows a personal trust to elect to be treated as if it had disposed of, and reacquired, a principal residence at its fair market value immediately before distributing the property to one of its beneficiaries under subsection 107(2). The rule does not apply to distributions of property by a post-1971 partner trust in circumstances to which subsection 107(4) applies. (Subsection 107(4) generally applies to distributions made by such a trust to a beneficiary, other than the beneficiary spouse, before the death of the beneficiary spouse.) Subsection 107(2.01) is designed to allow a personal trust to take advantage of the principal residence exemption. In this regard, reference can be made to the definition of "principal residence" in section 54.

Subsection 107(2.01) is amended to eliminate the reference to subsection 107(4), given that subsection 107(2.1) now applies to distributions to which amended subsection 107(4) applies.

This amendment applies to distributions made after 1999.

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property immediately before the particular time that is immediately before that time for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property at that time; and

(b) the trust shall be deemed to have reacquired the property at the particular time at a cost equal to that fair market value.

History: That portion of subsec. 107(2.01) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(3), applicable to distributions occurring after 1990, except that an election by a trust (other than a trust described in subsec. 70(6) or 73(1)) to have subsec. 107(2.01), as amended, apply to a distribution by the trust occurring after 1990 and before June 11, 1993 may be made by the trust by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before December 11, 1993. That portion formerly read:

> (2.01) Principal residence distribution by spousal trust — Where at any time (in this subsection referred to as "that time") a property has been distributed by a trust described in subsection 70(6) or 73(1) to a taxpayer in circumstances in which subsection (2) applies and subsection (4) does not apply and the property would, if the trust had designated the property under paragraph 54(g), be a principal residence (within the meaning assigned by that paragraph) of the trust for a taxation year, the following rules apply where the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the taxation year that includes that time:

Subsec. 107(2.01) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 76(3), applicable to distributions occurring after May 9, 1985, except that an election to have the subsec. apply in respect of a distribution by trust occurring after May 9, 1985 and before December 18, 1991, that is made by the trust so notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before April 1992 shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with the subsec.; and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties shall be made as are necessary to give effect to the election.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-120R5: Principal residence.

(2.1) Other distributions — Where at any time any property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust or in satisfaction of a right described in subsection 52(6), and subsection (2) does not apply in respect of the distribution, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act other than section 132.2,

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the beneficiary shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the beneficiary shall be deemed to have disposed of the interest or part thereof in the trust or the right, as the case may be, for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost at which the beneficiary is deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired the property.

Proposed Amendment — 107(2.1)

(2.1) Other distributions — Where at any time a property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust, there would, if this Act were read without reference to paragraphs (h) and (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), be a resulting disposition of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust (which interest or part, as the case may be, is in this subsection referred to as the "former interest") and the rules in subsection (2) and section 132.2 do not apply in respect of the distribution,

(a) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the proceeds determined under paragraph (a);

(c) the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the proceeds determined under paragraph (a) (other than the portion, if any, of the proceeds that is a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies),

exceeds the total of

(ii) where the property is not a Canadian resource property or foreign resource property, the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value of the property at that time

exceeds the total of

(B) the cost amount to the trust of the property immediately before that time, and

(C) the portion, if any, of the excess that would be determined under this subparagraph if this subparagraph were read without reference to this clause that represents a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies, and

(iii) all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the former interest; and

(d) notwithstanding paragraphs (a) to (c), where the trust is non-resident at that time, the property is not described in paragraph (2.001)(b) or (c) and, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, there would be no income, loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of a taxpayer in respect of the property because of the application of subsection 75(2) to the disposition at that time of the property,

(i) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to the cost amount of the property,

(ii) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the fair market value of the property, and

(iii) the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value of the property

exceeds the total of

(B) the portion, if any, of the amount of the distribution that is a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies, and

(C) all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the former interest.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(11), will amend subsec. 107(2.1) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after 1999 (other than distributions made before March 2000 in satisfaction of rights described in subsec. 52(6) that were acquired before 2000).

Technical Notes: Where trust property is distributed by a trust to a beneficiary in satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust and subsection 107(2) of Act does not apply, the rules in subsection 107(2.1) apply. Subsection 107(2.1) also applies to a distribution by a trust in satisfaction of a right described in subsection 52(6). Under paragraphs 107(2.1)(a) to (c), the trust is deemed to have disposed of the distributed property for the property's fair market value and the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the property, and disposed of the capital interest or right described in subsection 52(6), for the same amount. Notwithstanding the reference to subsection 52(6) (under which a cost is ascribed to the right to enforce payment out of a trust's capital gains and income), it is unclear that there is relief from double taxation on gains associated with the dispositions of the distributed property and the relinquished capital interest.

Subsection 107(2.1) is amended so that it no longer overrides every other provision of the Act. For example, subsection 107(2.1) no longer deems there to be a disposition of property where the existing law provides that there was no disposition because of paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54. This amendment is consequential on the replacement of the existing definition "disposition" in section 54 with the new definition of the same expression in subsection 248(1) and new rules in section 107.4 to deal with acquisitions by trusts that do not involve any change in beneficial ownership.

Subsection 107(2.1) is amended so that it applies in connection with all distributions in respect of a capital interest in a trust, regardless of whether the distribution results in a disposition of all or part of the capital interest. This includes rights to which subsection 52(6) formerly applied, but which are now included as part of a capital interest in a trust under the amended definition of "capital interest" in subsection 108(1). Distributions in respect of amounts described in paragraph (h) and (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) need to be referred to in order to take into account the possibility that a distribution from a trust may consist only partly in respect of such amounts. In addition, even if a cash distribution is solely in respect of such an amount, it may not necessarily be denominated in Canadian dollars, in which case the trust may recognize a foreign currency gain or loss on the distribution. However, under amended paragraph 107(2.1)(c), proceeds of disposition are only determined with regard to the portion of a capital interest in a trust that is disposed of because of a distribution from the trust. No proceeds of disposition are determined in respect of rights to amounts to which paragraph (h) and (i) of that definition apply.

The proceeds of disposition for the portion of a capital interest in a trust that is disposed of because of a distribution (other than a distribution to which paragraph 107(2.1)(d) applies) are determined under paragraph 107(2.1)(c) as follows:

- ADD the proceeds of disposition determined in respect of the distribution (other than any portion of those proceeds that is a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies). Note: paragraph (h) or (i) of that definition apply to a payment that represents a distribution of income or capital gains or to a payment from a unit trust that does not cause a reduction of the number of issued units of the trust;
- where the property distributed is not Canadian resource property or foreign resource property, SUBTRACT the amount (if any) by which the fair market value of the property exceeds the cost amount of the property (however, disregard this excess to the extent it represents a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of that definition applies); and
- SUBTRACT the "eligible offset" in respect of the distribution, as defined in subsection 108(1). (This is essentially debt assumed by the beneficiary on the distribution.)

Where there is no disposition of a capital interest because of paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), an amount distributed from the trust to a beneficiary generally results in a reduction of the beneficiary's adjusted cost base of the capital interest pursuant to paragraph 53(2)(h).

Paragraph 107(2.1)(d) applies to distributions of property (other than taxable Canadian property or business property connected to a Canadian permanent establishment) from a non-resident trust unless subsection 75(2) would, if the Act were read without reference to that paragraph, result in the attribution to a taxpayer of an income, loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss in respect of the distribution. In these circumstances, new paragraph 107(2.1)(d) deems the beneficiary to acquire the property at its fair market value and to dispose of the corresponding portion of the capital interest in the trust for proceeds equal to the fair market value of the property less the total of two amounts. The first amount represents the portion of the distribution that is a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies (i.e., a payment that represents a distribution of income or capital gains, or a payment from a unit trust that does not cause a reduction of the number of issued units of the trust). The second amount is the "eligible offset" (as defined in subsection 108(1)) in respect of the distribution (i.e., essentially debt assumed by the beneficiary on the distribution). Paragraph 107(2.1)(d) also ensures that there are no tax consequences to the trust in respect of the distribution of the property.

These amendments apply to distributions made after 1999 (other than distributions before March 2000 in connection with rights described in subsection 52(6) of the Act that were acquired before 2000).

The examples below illustrate the operation of amended subsection 107(2.1). Except as indicated otherwise, it is assumed that the trusts referred to below are all resident in Canada.

EXAMPLE 1

In 2000, a commercial trust distributes non-depreciable capital property (shares) to its beneficiary resident in Canada in satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust. The adjusted cost base of the shares is $40. The adjusted cost base of the beneficiary's capital interest is $20. The fair market value of the property is $100.

Results:

1. Subsection 107(2.1) applies to the distribution.

2. The trust is deemed by paragraph 107(2.1)(a) to have disposed of the property for $100 proceeds, so there is a capital gain of $60 on the resulting disposition and a taxable capital gain of $45.

3. The beneficiary is deemed by paragraph 107(2)(b) to have acquired the property at a $100 cost.

4. Because the distribution gives rise to a capital gain, the amount of the capital gain ($60) reduces the proceeds of disposition of the beneficiary's capital interest under subparagraph 107(2.1)(c)(ii). The beneficiary is deemed to have disposed of the capital interest for $40 proceeds ($100 – $60). Alternatively, in the event that the payment of the gain were considered to be payment of the capital gains of the trust to which paragraph (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applied, $40 would be determined under subparagraph 107(2.1)(c)(i) and no amount would be determined under subparagraph 107(2.1)(c)(ii). Consequently, under both of the alternative analyses, the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust are $40.

5. Consequently, the capital gain from the disposition of the capital interest is $20 ($40 – $20).

EXAMPLE 2

A personal trust distributes non-depreciable capital property (shares that are not taxable Canadian property) to its non-resident beneficiary in satisfaction of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust. The adjusted cost base of the shares is $40. The adjusted cost base of the beneficiary's capital interest, determined before the application of paragraph 107(1)(a), is $0. The fair market value of the property is $100.

Results:

1. Subsection 107(2.1) applies to the distribution because of the application of amended subsection 107(5).

2. The trust is deemed by paragraph 107(2.1)(a) to have disposed of the property for $100 proceeds, so there is a capital gain of $60 from the resulting disposition and a taxable capital gain of $45.

3. The beneficiary is deemed by paragraph 107(2.1)(b) to have acquired the property at a $100 cost.

4. Because the distribution gives rise to a capital gain, the amount of the capital gain ($60) reduces the proceeds of disposition of the beneficiary's capital interest under subparagraph 107(2.1)(c)(ii). The beneficiary is deemed to have disposed of the capital interest for $40 proceeds ($100 – $60). The alternative analysis in paragraph 4 of Example 1 would likewise result in deemed proceeds of $40.

5. The capital interest in the trust constitutes taxable Canadian property for the non-resident beneficiary. For the purposes of computing capital gains, the adjusted cost base of the capital interest under subsection 107(1) is $40, being the greater of its adjusted cost base (nil) determined before the application of that subsection and the cost amount ($40) to the trust of the distributed property. Consequently, the taxable capital gain from the disposition of the capital interest is nil.

6. The allowable capital loss from the disposition of the capital interest is also nil.

Related Provisions: 43(2) — No capital loss on payment out of trust's income or gains; 53(2)(h)(i.2) — Reduction in ACB of interest in trust; 107(2.11) — Election not to flow out gains to beneficiaries; 107.4(4) — Fair market value of capital interest in trust; 248(1)"disposition"(d), (h) — Whether transfer by trust is a disposition of capital interest.

Related Provisions: 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest.

History: The opening words of subsec. 107(2.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(4), applicable to distributions made after June 1994. The opening words formerly read:

> (2.1) Other distributions — Where at any time any property of a trust has been distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust or in satisfaction of a right described in subsection 52(6) and subsection (2) is not applicable in respect of the distribution, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules apply:

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 107(2.1) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 74(3), applicable with respect to distributions of properties by trusts after 1987.

Proposed Addition — 107(2.11)

(2.11) Gains not distributed to beneficiaries — Where a trust makes one or more distributions of property in a taxation year in circumstances to which subsection (2.1) applies (or, in the case of property distributed after October 1, 1996 and before 2000, in circumstances to which subsection (5) applied)

(a) where the trust is resident in Canada at the time of each of those distributions and has so elected in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard to all of those distributions to non-resident persons (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership); and

(b) where the trust is resident in Canada at the time of each of those distributions and has so elected in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard to all of those distributions.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(11), will add subsec. 107(2.11), applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996, except that for distributions made from a trust before the particular day on which the amending legislation is assented to, an election under subsec. 107(2.11) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the trust's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes the particular day.

Technical Notes: New subsection 107(2.11) of the Act provides a special rule that, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), allows income of a trust for a taxation year (computed without reference to subsection 104(6)) to be computed without regard to the tax consequences under subsection 107(2.1) (and former subsection 107(5)) of property distributed in kind to beneficiaries. This ensures that the gains, if any, that might arguably flow-out in some circumstances to beneficiaries as a consequence of the operation of subsections 107(2.1) and (5), will instead be included in income at the trust level.

More specifically, subsection 107(2.11) applies in two cases:

- where a trust resident in Canada distributes property to a non-resident beneficiary after October 1, 1996, the result described above applies in respect of distributions to non-resident beneficiaries if the trust so elects for the taxation year of the distribution or for a taxation year preceding the distribution. The election is considered to have been made on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister before the trust's filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the date of Royal Assent; and
- where a trust resident in Canada distributes property to a beneficiary after 1999, the result described above also applies in respect of all beneficiaries (including non-resident beneficiaries) if the trust so elects for the taxation year of the distribution or a taxation year that precedes the distribution. The election is considered to have been made on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister before the trust's filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the date of Royal Assent.

Related Provisions: 43(2) — No capital loss on payment out of trust's income or gains.

(2.2) Flow-through entity — Where at any time before 2005 a beneficiary under a trust described in paragraph (h), (i) or (j) of the definition "flow-through entity" in subsection 39.1(1) received a distribution of property from the trust in satisfaction of all or a portion of the beneficiary's interests in the trust and the beneficiary files with the Minister on or before the beneficiary's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes that time an election in respect of the property in prescribed form, there shall be included in the cost to the beneficiary of a particular property (other than money) received by the beneficiary as part of the distribution of property the least of

(a) the amount, if any, by which the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance (as defined in subsection 39.1(1)) in respect of the trust for the beneficiary's taxation year that includes that time exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an amount by which a capital gain is reduced under section 39.1 in the year because of the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust,

(ii) 4/3 of an amount by which a taxable capital gain is reduced under section 39.1 in the year because of the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust, or

(iii) an amount included in the cost to the beneficiary of another property received by the beneficiary at or before that time in the year because of this subsection,

(b) the amount by which the fair market value of the particular property at that time exceeds the adjusted cost base to the trust of the particular property immediately before that time, and

(c) the amount designated in respect of the particular property in the election.

Related Provisions: 39.1(1)"exempt capital gains balance"F(a) — Exempt capital gains balance of flow-through entity.

History: Subsec. 107(2.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(5), applicable to distributions made after 1993, and a prescribed form filed under subsec. 107(2.2) before January 1999 is deemed to be filed on time.

(3) Cost of property other than non-depreciable capital property — Where the property referred to in subsection (2) that was distributed by a trust to a taxpayer was property other than capital property that was not depreciable property, for the purpose of determining the cost to the taxpayer of the property under paragraph (2)(b) (except for the purposes of that paragraph as it applies to determine the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the taxpayer's capital interest under paragraph (2)(c)), the reference in paragraph (2)(b) to "the amount" shall be read as a reference to "1/2 of the amount".

Proposed Repeal — 107(3)

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(12), will repeal subsec. 107(3), applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(3) of the Act is repealed. See the commentary above on amendments to subsection 107(2).

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 107(3) amended by 1986, c. 6, s. 52, applicable to 1986 et seq., to substitute heading "Cost of property other than non-depreciable capital property" for "Determination of cost of property other than an indexed security or a non-depreciable capital property", and "other than capital property" for "other than an indexed security or capital property".

Subsec. 107(3) substituted by 1984, c. 1, s. 46, to add "an indexed security or", applicable after September 30, 1983.

Subsec. 107(3) substituted by 1974-75-76, c. 26, subsec. 66(2), applicable to 1972 et seq.

(4) Where trust in favour of spouse — Where

(a) at any time property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary in circumstances to which subsection (2) would, but for this subsection, apply,

(a.1) the trust is described in paragraph 104(4)(a),

(a.2) the property so distributed by the trust was capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property or property that was land included in the inventory of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer to whom the property is so distributed is a person other than the spouse referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a) in respect of the trust, and

(c) that spouse is alive on the day the property is so distributed,

Proposed Amendment — Common-law partners

Application: 2000, c. 12 (Bill C-23), Sch. 2, s. 1, will replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., to come into force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

(d) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property and to have received proceeds of disposition therefor equal to its fair market value at that time,

(e) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to those proceeds, and

(f) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost at which, but for this subsection, the taxpayer would be deemed by paragraph (2)(b) to have acquired the property, minus the amount of any debt assumed by the taxpayer or of any other legal obligation assumed by the taxpayer to pay any amount, if the distribution of the property to the taxpayer was conditional on the assumption by the taxpayer of the debt or obligation.

Proposed Amendment — 107(4)

(4) Trusts in favour of spouse, common-law partner or self — Subsection (2.1) applies at any time to property distributed to a beneficiary by a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) where

(a) the beneficiary is not

(i) in the case of a post-1971 partner trust, the partner or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a),

(ii) in the case of an alter ego trust, the taxpayer referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a), and

(iii) in the case of a joint partner trust, the taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a); and

(b) a taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in subparagraph (a)(i), (ii), or (iii), as the case may be, is alive on the day of the distribution.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(13), will amend subsec. 107(4) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(4) of the Act applies where a post-1971 partner trust distributes capital property, resource property or land to a beneficiary other than the beneficiary spouse. When this occurs while the beneficiary spouse is alive, there is generally a deemed disposition of the property at its fair market value.

Subsection 107(4) is amended so that similar rules apply to alter ego trusts and joint partner trusts, as newly defined in subsection 248(1). Subsection 107(4) will apply to a distribution by these trusts where the individual (or, in the case of a joint partner trust, either the individual or the spouse) is alive on the day of the distribution and the distribution is made to a beneficiary other than the individual (or, in the case of a joint partner trust, the individual or the spouse). For more detail on these trusts, see the commentary on amended subsections 73(1) and 104(4).

Subsection 107(4) is amended so that the rules set out in amended subsection 107(2.1) apply to distributions covered by subsection 107(4).

These amendments apply to distributions made after 1999.

These amendments also reflect changes proposed under Bill C-23, the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act.

Related Provisions: 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 104(6) — Deduction in computing income of trust; 107(5) — Distribution to non-resident beneficiary; 108(1) — "accumulating income".

History: All that portion of subsec. 107(4) preceding para. (e) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(4), applicable to distributions occurring after December 20, 1991 except that para. (d) as amended does not apply to distributions occurring before 1993. That portion formerly read:

(4) Where trust in favour of spouse — Where the trust referred to in subsection (2) was a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) and

(a) the property so distributed by the trust was capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property or property that was land included in the inventory of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer to whom the property was so distributed was a person other than the spouse, and

(c) the spouse was alive at the time the property was so distributed,

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

(d) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property and to have received proceeds of disposition therefor equal to,

(i) where the property was depreciable property of the trust of a prescribed class and the fair market value of that property at that time exceeds its cost amount to the trust at that time, the amount of that cost amount plus ½ of the amount of the excess,

(ii) where the property was depreciable property of the trust of a prescribed class and the cost amount of that property to the trust at that time exceeds its fair market value at that time, the amount of that fair market value plus ½ of the amount of the excess, and

(iii) in any other case, its fair market value at that time,

Pre-RSC History: Para. 107(4)(a) amended by 1985, c. 45, subsec. 51(1), to substitute "a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property" for "property referred to in any of subparagraphs 59(2)(a) to (e)", and to substitute "of the trust" for "of a business of the trust", applicable to taxation years commencing after 1984.

Para. 107(4)(a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsec. 62(3), to add reference to the words "property referred to in any of paragraphs 59(2)(a) to (e) or property that was land included in the inventory of a business of the trust", applicable after November 12, 1981.

Subsec. 107(4) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 41, applicable in respect of distributions of property after May 25, 1976. Subsec. 107(4) formerly read:

(4) Where the trust referred to in subsection (2) was a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) and

(a) the property so distributed by the trust was capital property other than depreciable property,

(b) the taxpayer to whom the property was so distributed was a person other than the spouse, and

(c) the spouse was alive at the time the property was so distributed,

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (d), the following rules apply:

(d) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(e) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value, and

(f) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of his interest in the trust, for proceeds of disposition equal to that fair market value.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-120R5: Principal residence; IT-286R2: Trusts — amount payable; IT-381R3: Trusts — capital gains and losses and the flow-through of taxable capital gains to beneficiaries; IT-465R: Non-resident beneficiaries of trusts.

(4.1) Where subsec. 75(2) applicable to trust — Where any property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust and

(a) subsection 75(2) was applicable at any time in respect of any property of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer was a person other than

(i) the person from whom the trust directly or indirectly received the property, or property for which the property was substituted, or

(ii) an individual in respect of whom subsection 73(1) would be applicable on the transfer of capital property from the person described in subparagraph (i), and

(c) the person described in subparagraph (b)(i) was alive at the time the property was distributed, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the rules described in paragraphs (4)(d) to (f) apply.

Proposed Amendment — 107(4.1)

subsection (2.1) applies in respect of the distribution.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(14), will amend the closing words of subsec. 107(4.1) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(4.1) of the Act applies in certain cases where a reversionary trust distributes property to a specified beneficiary under the trust. When this occurs, there is a deemed disposition of the property at its fair market value.

Subsection 107(4.1) is amended so that, for distributions after 1999 in these cases, the rules set out in amended subsection 107(2.1) apply.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 107(4.1) added by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 74(4), applicable with respect to distributions of properties by trusts after 1988.

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

(5) Distribution to non-resident — Where subsection (2) applies to the distribution by a trust of any property (other than a Canadian resource property, excluded property or property that would, if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it is so distributed the trust is resident in Canada, be taxable Canadian property) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who is a beneficiary under the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c),

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's interest in the trust, for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, immediately before the property was so distributed.

Proposed Amendment — 107(5)

(5) Distribution to non-resident — Subsection (2.1) applies in respect of a distribution of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) by a trust resident in Canada to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) in satisfaction of all or part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust.

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(15), will amend subsec. 107(5) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996, except that for distributions made after October 1, 1996 and before 2000, subsec. 107(5) shall be read as follows:

(5) Where subsection (2) applies to a distribution at any time by a trust resident in Canada of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who is a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c),

(a) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust, for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest or part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before that time.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(5) of the Act applies to the distribution of property (other than taxable Canadian property, Canadian resource property and shares in non-resident-owned investment corporations), where the distribution would otherwise be made to a non-resident beneficiary on a rollover basis under subsection 107(2). With regard to such distributions, subsection 107(5) provides for a deemed disposition of the distributed property at its fair market value and an acquisition by the beneficiary for the same amount. In addition, paragraph 107(5)(c) provides for proceeds of disposition of the relinquished capital interest equal to the adjusted cost base of that interest.

Subsection 107(5) is amended to replace existing exemptions with regard to taxable Canadian property and Canadian resource property with exemptions for property described in any of new subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii). This amendment applies to distributions made after October 1, 1996. For further detail on the enumerated subparagraphs, see the commentary on amended subsection 128.1(4).

Subsection 107(5) is also amended so that it only applies with regard to distributions by trusts resident in Canada. This amendment applies to distributions made after October 1, 1996 and recognizes that, if a distribution of property is made from a non-resident trust to a non-resident beneficiary, Canada's authority to ultimately collect tax on a future disposition of the property has not been compromised because of the distribution. This amendment is consistent with the policy with regard to distributions before October 2, 1996, as the type of property deemed to be disposed of before that date under subsection 107(5) would not have resulted in a non-resident trust being subject to Canadian tax.

Subsection 107(5) is amended so that, where it applies, the amended rules in subsection 107(2.1) provide for the corresponding tax consequences. This amendment applies with regard to distributions made after 1999.

Related Provisions: 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 94(3)(a) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 107(2.11) — Election for gain not to be flowed out to beneficiary; 107(5.1) — Gain does not increase instalment requirements; 126(2.22) — Foreign tax credit to trust on disposition of property by non-resident beneficiary; 212(11) — Payment to non-resident beneficiary deemed paid as income of trust for withholding tax purposes; 220(4.6)–(4.63) — Security for tax on distribution of taxable Canadian property to non-resident beneficiary.

History: That portion of subsec. 107(5) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(5), applicable to distributions occurring after 1991. That portion formerly read:

> (5) Distribution to non-resident — Where subsection (2) is applicable in respect of the distribution by a trust of any property (other than a Canadian resource property or property that is or would, if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it was so distributed the trust had been resident in Canada, be taxable Canadian property) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who was a beneficiary under the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

Pre-RSC History: That portion of subsec. 107(5) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1988, c. 55, subsec. 74(5), applicable with respect to distributions of properties by trusts after 1987. That portion formerly read:

> (5) Distribution to non-resident beneficiary — Where subsection (2) is applicable in respect of the distribution by a trust of any property of the trust to a non-resident taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust and the property was not taxable Canadian property or property that would be taxable Canadian property if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it was so distributed the trust had been resident in Canada, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

Subsec. 107(5) substituted by 1976-77, c. 4, s. 41, applicable in respect of distributions of property after May 25, 1976. Subsec. 107(5) formerly read:

> (5) Where subsection (2) is applicable in respect of the distribution by a trust of any property of the trust to a non-resident taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust and the property was not taxable Canadian property or property that would be taxable Canadian property if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it was so distributed the trust had been resident in Canada, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c) the provisions of paragraphs (4)(d) to (f) are applicable in respect of the property as if the reference in paragraph (4)(f) to "that fair market value" were read as a reference to "the adjusted cost base to him of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, immediately before the property was so distributed".

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-70: Distribution of taxable Canadian property by a trust to a non-resident.

Proposed Addition — 107(5.1)

(5.1) Instalment interest — Where, solely because of the application of subsection (5), paragraphs (2)(a) to (c) do not apply to a distribution in a taxation year of taxable Canadian property by a trust, in applying sections 155, 156 and 156.1 and subsections 161(2), (4) and (4.01) and any regulations made for the purpose of those provisions, the trust's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year are deemed to be the lesser of

(a) the trust's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year, determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year, and

(b) the amount that would be determined under paragraph (a) if subsection (5) did not apply to each distribution in the year of taxable Canadian property to which the rules in subsection (2) do not apply solely because of the application of subsection (5).

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 50(15), will add subsec. 107(5.1), applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(5.1) of the Act is a special rule that applies for the purposes of computing instalment interest. The rule applies where

- there has been one or more distributions after October 1, 1996 of taxable Canadian property by a trust resident in Canada in a taxation year to non-resident beneficiaries, and
- paragraphs 107(2)(a) to (c) do not apply to such distributions solely because of subsection 107(5).

For the purposes of the measures pertaining to tax instalments or instalment interest in sections 155, and 156, subsections 156.1(1) to (3) and subsections 161(2), (4) and (4.01), the trust's total taxes under Part I and Part I.1 are deemed in these circumstances to be the lesser of two amounts. The first amount is the trust's total taxes payable under those Parts for the distribution year, determined without taking into consideration the carryback of losses and other consequences described in the definition "specified future tax consequence" in subsection 248(1). The second amount is computed in the same manner, except that it is assumed that subsection 107(5) does not apply to each distribution of trust property in the distribution year that is described above. The general effect of subsection 107(5.1) is to ignore a trust's income tax liabilities arising from the distribution of taxable Canadian property to a non-resident beneficiary for the purpose of computing the trust's instalment interest obligations.

Subsection 107(5.1) is similar to new subsection 128.1(5). Both of these subsections should be read in conjunction with new subsections 220(4.5) and (4.6), under which the posting of security can result in a deferral of the accrual of arrears interest on unpaid taxes.

(6) Loss reduction — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "vendor") has disposed of property and would, but for this subsection, have had a loss from the disposition, the vendor's loss otherwise determined in respect of the disposition shall be reduced by such portion of that loss as may reasonably be considered to have accrued during a period in which

(a) the property or property for which it was substituted was owned by a trust; and

(b) neither the vendor nor a person that would, if section 251.1 were read without reference to the definition "controlled" in subsection 251.1(3), be affiliated with the vendor had a capital interest in the trust.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

History: Para. 107(6)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(6), applicable after April 26, 1995. Para. 107(6)(b) formerly read:

> (b) neither
>
> (i) the vendor, nor
>
> (ii) any person related to the vendor, nor
>
> (iii) any partnership of which the vendor or a person related to the vendor was a majority interest partner (within the meaning assigned by subsection 97(3.1))
> had a capital interest in the trust.

Pre-RSC History: Subsec. 107(6) added by 1987, c. 46, s. 35, applicable with respect to property distributed to a beneficiary from a trust in satisfaction of all or part of a capital interest in the trust that was acquired by the beneficiary after January 15, 1987, except where the beneficiary acquiring the interest was obliged on that date to acquire it pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date.

Interpretation — "obliged to acquire or dispose of property or to acquire control of a corporation": 1987, c. 46, s. 72 reads as follows:

> 72. For the purposes of this Act, a person shall be considered not to be obliged either to acquire or dispose of property or to acquire control of a corporation, as the case may be, if the person may be excused from performing the obligations as a result of changes to the [Income Tax Act] affecting acquisitions or dispositions of property or acquisitions of control of corporations.

107.1 Distribution by employee trust or employee benefit plan — Where at any time any property of an employee trust or a trust governed by an employee benefit plan has been distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's interest in the trust, the following rules apply:

Proposed Amendment — 107.1

107.1 Distribution by employee trust, employee benefit plan or similar trust — Where at any time any property of an employee trust, a trust governed by an employee benefit plan or a trust described in paragraph (a.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1) has been distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's interest in the trust, the following rules apply:

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 51(1), will amend the opening words of s. 107.1 to read as above, applicable to 1999 et seq.

Technical Notes: See under 107.1(a).

(a) in the case of an employee trust,

Proposed Amendment — 107.1(a)

(a) in the case of an employee trust or a trust described in paragraph (a.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1),

Application: The June 5, 2000 Notice of Ways and Means Motion, subsec. 51(2), will amend the opening words of para. 107.1(a) to read as above, applicable to 1999 et seq.

Technical Notes: Section 107.1 of the Act provides rules to deal with a distribution to a taxpayer of a property by an employee trust or a trust governed by an employee benefit plan under which the taxpayer is a beneficiary. In the case of an employee trust, paragraph 107.1(a) requires the trust to recognize a gain or loss when it distributes trust property to a beneficiary by treating the trust as having disposed of the property at its fair market value immediately before the time of distribution. That paragraph also ensures that the beneficiary is considered to acquire the property at that fair market value.

Section 107.1 is amended so that paragraph 107.1(a) applies to a trust described in paragraph (a.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1). This is intended to ensure that, in the unusual circumstance that property other than cash is distributed by the trust, there is a recognition in the trust of any gain or loss in respect of the property. For more on new paragraph (a.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1), see the commentary on that subsection.

This amendment applies to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years.

(i) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property immediately before that time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time, and

(ii) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan,

(i) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time, and

(ii) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the greater of

(A) its fair market value at that time, and

(B) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's interest or part thereof, as the case may be, immediately before that time;
